Invasion of Kiska: We probably shall see an American amphibious operation against this Japanese occupied Aleutian island soon. While this isn't a major crisis, it's of great importance. Kiska is the last foothold the Japs have in these American islands.

Munda and Salamaua: Munda, key base of the Japs on New Georgia island in the southwest Pacific, is officially reported to be at last "in reach of capture." Violent fighting with all three arms—air, land and sea—has marked the battle for this strategic position. Our final assault may be under way even as this is written. Westward on the great island of New Guinea United States forces are driving northward against another important Japanese base — Salamaua, of bloody history.

Possession of Munda and Salamaua might provide the additional leverage to oust the Mikado's barbarians from that whole vast area of the southwest Pacific.

Inflation Trend Ominous

Suggest Control Wages And Prices

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).— A Senatorial suggestion that the present economic stabilization program in the United States be scrapped in favor of controlled wage and price increases to-day climaxed a series of rapid-fire developments on the country's anti-inflation front.

The controlled-increase system was proposed by Senator Robert Taft (Rep.-Ohio), who contended that Price Administrator Prentiss Brown faces an "impossible task" in holding the line against inflation under present conditions.

Coming in the wake of a War Labor Board warning to labor against seeking "inflationary wage increases," and a Presidential disclosure that the administration plans to reorganize the entire stabilization program, Taft's proposal assumed import as a possible straw in the wind.

He told an interviewer he believed labor leader were "asking something impossible" in demanding that prices be cut back to the levels of Sept. 15, 1942, and suggested, instead an agreement be reached under which wages and living costs would be allowed to rise not more than six per cent a year, or ½ per cent a month.

ALLIED FLEET BOMBARDING PORT OF CATANIA IN SICILY AGAIN

American Forces Occupy Marsala Port

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 24—(AP). — Marsala and Trapania in western Sicily have been occupied by American forces.

An Allied Headquarters communique said a large number of prisoners and much material had fallen into the hands of the United States troops.

The Allied fleet has resumed its bombardment of Axis held positions at Catania on the right flank of the British 8th Army, it was announced.

Two Allied destroyers one of which was Greek, fought three enemy motor torpedo boats and damaged all of them, it was stated.

"A rapidly diminishing portion of the island is all that remains to the Axis," said the communique. American troops were said to be continuing to mop up enemy resistance in the west.

Get 12 Planes

Allied torpedo planes attacking enemy vessels attempting to rush supplies and reinforcements to the island sank a merchant vessel and severely damaged two others and left an Axis destroyer in flames. Ten barges were sunk off the north coast.

Fighter planes continued their sweeps and patrols throughout the day following engagements by night fighters which shot down three enemy planes.

Allied medium bombers which resumed attacks on the Italian mainland yesterday struck at Aquino and Crotone, and heavy bombers raided Leverano. Bomb bursts were reported to have been scored on the target areas and a number of planes were destroyed on the ground.

Twelve of an enemy formation which attempted to intercept the heavy bombers were shot down, the war bulletin said.

Communications at Salerno and the airfield at Priticala were raided by Allied bombers Thursday night. Four Allied planes were lost in all the operations.

WILLIAM TROTTER.

A former Peterborough man, William Trotter, who was a C. N. R. yardman at Vickers Heights, was killed on Thursday when he fell from the top of a box car at the C. N. R. yard at Neebing, suffering serious injuries to the spine and also internally.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Shirley of Fort William, and June at home.

He was born in Peterborough, and lived here until he was about eight years old. The family then moved to Davidson, Sask., from where Mr. Trotter moved to Port Arthur. After living there for several years he moved to Fort William, in 1925, and later Vickers Heights.

Mr. Trotter went overseas in 1916 with the 52nd Battalion. After returning he entered the service of the C.N.R. August 1920, where he worked since as a yardman.

He was a member of the Masonic Order Shuniah Lodge No. 287, A.F. & A.M., Port Arthur, and also of Shuniah Chapter No. 82, Port Arthur. He belonged to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen No. 626.

The late Mr. Trotter was a councillor for the past two years for the municipality of Neebing, and was elected reeve for this present term. He was held in the highest esteem by all of his associates and was recognized as a citizen of the highest caliber whose work in municipal and other matters did much for the progres of the community.

Besides his wife and daughters, he is surivved by three brothers: Herbert of Peterborough; Howard, fireman of Port Arthur. Also surviving are six sisters. They are: Maggie, Mrs. T. Huffman, Port Arthur; Lily, Mrs. L. Bailey, Port Arthur; Pearl, Mrs. P. Williamson, Baird; Doll, Mrs. Robert Gavin, of Murillo; Agnes, Mrs. R. Weir, Buffalo; Carie, Mrs. F. Woodman, Sask. Also there are several nephews and nieces living in the district.

The funeral was held on Saturday at 3:30 o'clock. Services were conquoted by Rev. Stanley J. Flook of First Presbyterian Church, Westfort. Interment was made in the family plot, Mountain View cemetery.

FREDERICK HUTCHEON

CAMPBELLFORD, July 24 (ENS) —Funeral services were largely attended on Thursday afternoon for the late Frederick Hutcheon, a native of Seymour Township who passed away at the home of Miss M. Jordan on Tuesday.

Mr. Hutcheon, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Hutcheon, was born in Seymour East on February 16, 1880, and spent the greater part of this life in that district as a farmer. Retiring ten years ago he came to Campbellford where he has since resided. He was a faithful member of the Burnbrae Presbyterian church and later of St. John's United church at Campbellford.

Mr. Hutcheon leaves to mourn his loss one sister, Mrs. Percy Parr (Nellie) of Seymour and four brothers, William and Charles of Seymour East, Frank of Oregon and Irvine B. of Campbellford. A sister, Miss Margaret Hutcheon and four brothers, George, Rev. Robert J., Allan and John predeceased him.

The funeral service was conducted from the residence of Mr. Irvin Hutcheon, Front street by Rev. G. N. Maxwell assited by Rev. J. O. Ralston Interment was made in Burnbrae cemetery and Rev. Ralston conducted the commital service.

Many lovely floral tributes and other expressions of sympathy bespoke the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Malcolm Hutcheon, Howard Hutcheon, Arthur Collette, Douglas Cochrane and Douglas Ingram. Flower bearers were Messrs. Claire Ingram, Kenneth Milne, Kenneth Parr, and Everett Parr.

The floral tributes included those from Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parr, Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Hutcheon, Mrs. Allan Hutcheon, Mr and Mrs. Arthur Collette, Mr. and Mrs. William Hutcheon and family; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hutcheon and family; Mr. and Mrs. James Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Archer; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Third and family; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Burgar; Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Craighead; Mrs. Ernest Haig.

School-Tax Plan Feasible Drew Declares

TORONTO, July 24 — Answering criticism of his plan to reduce the school-tax load on municipalities by 50 per cent, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew last night told an informal meeting of High Park Progressive Conservatives that it was not only possible for the Provincial Government to assume responsibility for the reduction, but that transfer would stimulate building programs in each locality. the meeting was held at the West Toronto Community Hall.

"Mr. Harold Kirby has seen fit to question the possibility of reducing the municipal school tax. He said that we have not answered the question as to where the money is to come from for the reduction," Mr. Drew said.

"An editorial in the Toronto Daily Star today praises the present Government for assuming $20,000,000 of the municipal taxes for mothers' allowances and old age pensions. Yet when we propose to take over $20,000,000 they say that it can't be done," Mr. Drew asserted.

Not New and Strange

"We are not proposing something new and strange," he continued, quoting statistics showing that Governments in many other countries carry more than 50 per cent of the tax.

"Our proposal concerning the school tax is that we make the owning of home more attractive, creating an inducement to build," he said. "Building is the greatest stimulation of industry. But by so doing we are not placing an impossible burden on the public, for the amount will be distributed through general funds," Mr. Drew asserted.

Attacking the disfranchising of some members of the armed forces through transfer, Mr. Drew said: "Several Western Ontario units are being sent to Manitoba just before election time. No provision has been made for their voting. I would like to know from Mr. Ralston what his explanation of this move is."

No Reflection Intended

Referring to his objection to the disfranchising of reserve units owing to their presence in camp at the time of election, which has since been corrected, Mr. Drew explained that the statement had ment no reflection on the Department of National Defense.

"My statement referred to a decision in Toronto, not Ottawa," he said. "I do not know why Mr. Ralston feels that he should explain the actions of the Ontario Government."

At six o'clock last night, only six proxies had been received from members of the armed services, said Fred Cawthorne, who introduced Mr. Drew. "Where on earth are the proxies?" he asked. "In our church alone, 246 men are on active service. We have a complete list of the men, we have got in touch with their families — and still only six proxies have come in so far," he asserted.

Gnr. Michael Kibbins, 22, of Winnipeg, with an anti-aircraft battery, said 16 men, including himself, were injured when an explosive shell from a tank landed amidst them. The battery had taken up a position at a hair-pin turn in a road near Ragusa at the time.

Lieut. Andrew Roy of Westville, N.S., told how Pachino airdrome was captured. He said the Canadians suffered only one casualty in landing although an unexpected sandbar delayed the operation and they went ashore in broad daylight.

The Italians at the airdrome fought hard "until we got close," then they surrendered.

Two miles from the airdome the Canadians encountered a storage dump in the woods for ammunition, land mines and vehicles. It was defended by 200 men with eight machine-guns.

"It took us about two hours to silence that gang," said Roy. "Their fire was lethal but when the Italian gunners saw the three tanks we had sent for they stood up, waved and started walking toward us with their hands raised.

"It was during that engagement that I stopped a bullet."

Allies Foil Attempt To Aid Fort

Seaplane Tender Destroyed 23 Planes Bagged

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 24—(AP)—American bombers sank a 9,000-ton Japanese seaplane tender off Bougainville Island and damaged one of four escorting destroyers Thursday in disrupting another Japanese attempt to reinforce their hard-presed Central Solomons positions.

The action was announced today in an Allied headquarters communique which also told of new air battles that cost the Japanese 23 planes destroyed or damaged against loss of six American planes.

A large force of bombers provided with strong fighter cover, was sent after the seaplane tender and destroyers.

While the fighters took care of intercepting Zeros, shooting down five the Bombers pressed their attack in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire from the warships. Three fighters were lost.

The tender was one of the Nisshin class which carries about 14 planes and repair facilities.

Apparently badly hurt by the Allies' incessant bombing and strafing attacks in the Salamaua-Lae area, the Japanese in recent days have sent stronger air fleets to protect their holdings.

Yesterday a total of 60 Japanese fighters attempted to intercept heavy bombers attacking Bogadjim, 20 miles south of Madang, New Guinea. The bombers were escorted by fighters, however, and the enemy force "was decisively defeated and dispersed," the communique said. Thirteen Japanese planes were shot down, five more probably were destroyed and five others destroyed or damaged. Two Allied fighters were lost.

Nixon Program "Cockeyed"

TORONTO, July 24.—The Nixon Government has made the present campaign "the most cockeyed election campaign in history" by disfranchising practically all our soldiers, sailors and airmen and by leaving many civilians off the voters' list, E. B Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, declared last night. He addressed meetings in York Memorial Collegiate and in Bessborough Hall, Forest Hill

The C.C.F. leader predicted a coalition of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives after the August 4 election. He said the C.C.F. is campaigning for a clear majority "to carry out one program." "We want no truck or trade with either of the discredited old parties," he said. "We fully expect them to become one party within a few weeks."

"The C.C.F. is gaining ground so fast that the old parties are already talking coalition," Mr. Jolliffe said. "George Drew's only hope is to join up with the Liberals, perhaps under the leadership of his old friend Mitchell Hepburn. I am sure Mr. Drew would like to do it. On April 30, 1937, he wrote to Hon. Earl Rowe, then the Tory Leader, pleading for a coalition with Hepburn. He was willing to do anything to get into office then and he might as well join up with Mr. Nixon now."

Regarding the disfranchisement of members of the armed forces, Mr. Jolliffe termed it a "monstrous scandal for which the Government richly deserves defeat."

Sub-Lt. John H. Osler, C.C.F. candidate in St. Patrick, said one-third of all power used in Ontario is being brought from private interests in another province. The C.C.F. would develop sites in Ontario to supply the Ontario Hydro, he said.

Calvin DeNure Drowns On Holidays

Stricken as he swam with his family in Lake Couchiching near Orillia on Friday afternoon, Calvin R. DeNure, Peterborough, drowned in seven feet of water.

The oldest of a family of four boys well known as owners of DeNure Coach Lines, Mr. DeNure was the driver on the Peterborough-Campbellford-Trenton run and his sudden death comes as a shock to a wide circle of friends. He was 42 years of age.

He left last Saturday for a two weeks holiday with his wife and three children, taking a cottage on Lake Couchiching about eight miles north of Orillia. His oldest daughter, Eleanor, 12, was sitting in a boat, and called to her father when she noticed the boat drifting out into the lake. The father swam almost to the boat, then turned suddenly and started to swim to shore. He sank without a struggle and his family was powerless to aid him. The body was recovered within an hour.

The late Mr. DeNure was born at Penetang, a son of Mrs. Margaret DeNure of Hamilton and the late C. Reginald DeNure. For almost 12 years he was bus driver with the Collacutt Coach Lines on the Toronto-Gananoque run, living in Oshawa and often took the Port Hope-Peterborough trip as well. He operated a grocery store for a year in Port Hope coming to Peterborough in August 1940. Since that time he has been an active operator in the rapidly expanding DeNure Coach Lines.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Birdie Oak, and three children, Eleanor, 12; Fred, 10; and Doris, 8. Three brothers and two sisters also survive, Fred of Port Perry; Edwin of Peterborough and Ivan of Tweed; Mrs. W. Watson (Doris) of Orillia and Mrs. J. Cossey (Leila) of Hamilton. His mother also survives.

The funeral will take place Monday, July 26, at 2:30 p.m. from his late residence, 427 Mark street.

Parents Discover Missing Son Overseas 13-Year-Old Boy Disappeared In 1941

WOODSTOCK, July 24 (CP). — George T. Lucas, an employee of the Ontario Hospital here, said today he and his wife had received a letter a few days ago from their son, Paul Howard, 15, who disappeared from his Woodstock home July 30, 1941.

The letter was the first word the parents had had from the youth, who was 13 years old at the time of his disappearance.

In the letter, he said he has been with a Canadian Artillery unit overseas for some time, has gone through two air raids but has spent the past six months in military hospital recovering from injuries.

Mr. Lucas, who now lives at nearby Embro, said he has communicated with Defence Minister Ralston in an effort to arrange for the boy's discharge from the army or at least his return to Canada.

The boy told his parents he had enlisted at Calgary in November, 1941, using an assumed name.

Because He Claimed Kinship To God Christ is Condemned

REV. E. R. JAMES

The high priest said unto Him: I adjure Thee by the living God that Thou tell us whether Thou be the Christ, the Son of God. Jesus said unto Him: Thou hast said, St. Matthew 26: 63.

Over and over again you have heard this popular statement: "It is the teaching of Jesus that matters. Do not bother about creeds of a bygone age. Follow the teaching of Jesus. Be kind, helpful to the poor, visit the sick. Be the Good Samaritan and you will be fulfilling the "Teaching of Jesus" and walking in His footsteps". To many this is most appealing. They have met orthodox Christians, strong in their belief in the creeds, but hard, selfish, bitter and uncharitable in their actions.

Undoubtedly the "Teaching of Jesus" is a half truth. It is very important. But the other is equally so—"The Teaching About Jesus". Who is He? "What manner of Man is this that even the winds and waves obey Him"? is very modern.

The young carpenter of Nazareth is standing before the Sanhedrin, the highest ecclesiastical Court of His nation. The Privy Council in modern terms. The High Priest places the prisoner on oath: "I adjure Thee by the living God". The prisoner accepts the oath. He answers the official representative of His nation with the clear statement: "Thou has said". The startled highpriest, according to ancient custom, rends his outer garment, exclaiming: "He hath spoken blasphemy". The court agrees and sentence of death is passed upon Him because He claimed to be the Son of God.

It is one of the results of the careful study of the Gospels that Our Lord in the days of His ministry rarely gave a plain answer to a plain question. Why? He desired men to think.

A group of men from John the Baptist came to Him with the vital question which had been troubling the imprisoned fore-runner: "Art Thou He that should come, or do we look for another?" Does He say: "Yes"? Hearken: "Go and shew John the things which ye do hear and see". The prophet must do his own thinking and arrive at his answer.

The teacher gathers a small band of men around Him. They are to be "The Commandos" of His church. The inspired writer comments upon the Lord's purpose: "That they might be with Him". Through fellowship and thought He hopes that they would discover His great secret.

Why did He not plainly tell them? They had their own ideas of what the Christ should be like. He was to be a Redeemer of Israel. Every patriotic Jew thrilled at the thought of following such a one and helping to cast off the Roman yoke and to found the earthly Kingdom. This is plain all through the Gospels. Even towards the end of His ministry we have the demand of the Mother of Zebedee's children, James and John. She pleads that they may sit the one on the right hand and the other on the left in His kingdom. The marvel of it is that they have not grasped the horror of the Cross, which is awaiting Him at Jerusalem.

At the end of about two years with Him the Lord asks the Apostles the all important question: "Whom say ye that I am"? Simon Peter answers: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God". He has made the great discovery. No wonder the Lord with deep emotion utters the blessing: "Blessed art, thou, Simon bar Jona, flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father, which is in Heaven." Simon does not yet understand the full meaning of this confession. It means that he, a Jew, would give divine honours to Jesus of Nazareth and worship Him as God. Simon has touched the fringe of the truth. He is not yet able to bear the wider knowledge of the Master's Deity, but he is slowly, unconsciously giving Him the value of God.

To the blind beggar and the woman of Samaria. He gladly and clearly reveals Himself to be the Christ of God. To plain simple hearted men and women He is willing to reveal Himself. He knows their limitations. His invitation is: "Come unto Me all ye that labour and are heavy laden and I will give rest unto your souls".

Yet this does not release us from thinking and striving to grasp the mystery and wonder of the truth that God became Man in Christ Jesus; Who is the perfect Image of God. "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father, is His tremendous claim.

The Primitive Church passed through much tribulation. Men and women died fearful deaths because they believed "The Teaching about Jesus"— that Jesus is the Son of God.

Dr. Liddon's peroration is still of value: "Eternal Jesus, it is Thyself who has bidden us either despise or worship Thee; Thou wouldst have us despise Thee as our fellow man if we will not worship Thee our God. Thou art the King of glory, O Christ; Thou art the everlasting Son of the Father."

Thomas said unto Jesus: My Lord and My God.

Early Bible Stories Deal Sternly With Drunkenness

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 25 is Deut. 21:18-21; Proverbs 23:20, 21; I Corinthians 6:9-11, the Golden Text being I Corinthians 6:9, "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God?")

WE LEARN today some of the things our Bible says about drunkeness, its effect on the body, spirit and social condition of man.

The first reference in the lesson is Deuteronomy 21, verses 18 to 21. Here is given the old Hebrew laws concerning the treatment accorded a son who will not obey his parents, is stubborn, dissolute and rebellious, even after he has been punished by them. These instructions on the rules of conduct for Israel were given to Moses around 1405 B.C.

The father and mother were told to take hold of their rebellious son and take him before the elders of the city. They were to tell the elders that this was their son who was stubborn and rebellious: "he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton and a drunkard."

Then all the men of the city were to stone the boy with stones until he was dead. All Israel would hear of this terrible punishment so they would fear to commit the same faults. "All Israel shall hear and fear." It may have been necessary to use such extreme measures in those early days, when men were primitive and best ruled by fear.

Why Laws Are Severe

The laws that govern certain peoples must be severe to get their respect and obedience. Under certain circumstances, too, laws must be rigid and drastic. Ordinarily it is no crime for a man to fall asleep on his job, although it doesn't help him or his work. But a soldier on guard duty is shot if he falls asleep at his post, because it may mean death to many of his comrades — even the defeat of his country — if he fails to see the approach of the enemy and to notify his officers thereof.

The treatment of this young man who was a drunkard and rebel is a great contrast to the prodigal son story as told by Jesus for here the fatted calf was killed and the feast spread; his father ran to him, fell on his neck and kissed him. He, of course, was deeply humbled and repentant.

In Proverbs the command is given: "be not among wine bibbers; among riotous eaters of flesh: For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty; and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags."

Over-eating is almost as grave a fault as drunkenness. It may ruin a person's health. People think that they can control their drinking, but too, too often the habit grows and grows upon them until it becomes literally true that "they come to poverty," and rags.

Paul, in one of his letters to the Corinthians, tells also what is in store for those who live unworthy lives. "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived" —and here he names all the most revolting sins, ending, "Nor thieves nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God."

Many were the sins committed in the cities in which Paul lived. He names the many immoralities in what is probably the order of the times — the most despicable first, and so on.

"And such were some of you," he wrote, but "ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God."

One can repent of their sins. They must bear the consequences, no matter how sincere their repentance. The man who is a drunkard cannot undo the harm to his family, his own body and soul by his manner of living. He will suffer for his faults, but he can atone and be received into the Kingdom of God at last if he is earnest and sincere in his repentance.

Teachings on the Cost of Drinking • ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Deut. 21:18-21; Proverbs 23:20, 21; I Corinthians 6:9-11

If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son who will not obey his father and mother, and will not harken to them, they shall lay hold on him and take him to the elders of the city.

The rebellious boy's father and mother shall tell the elders that their son is stubborn and rebellious and will not obey their voice; that he is a glutton and a drunkard; and the men shall stone him.

"Be not among the winebibbers; among riotous eaters of flesh: for the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty: and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags."

Paul, writing to the Corinthians, tells them that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God—"nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers."

The Inarticulate Business Man

For many years we have been accustomed to hear the business man abused. His Philistinism has been attacked; his materialism and conservatism in political affairs has been attacked; the capitalist system, which is the basis of all his interests, has been attacked. In many respects these attacks were necessary; it is bad for a country to allow business men to have things all their own way. But it is expected that an attack will bring a counter-attack, and so far there has been no counter-attack of any major proportions. Indeed, it looks as though the business man does not know how to defend himself; he does not know how to speak up in his own behalf. It is high time that he did so if he is to survive.

But a defence of the business man must come from someone of unusual literary and dialectical gifts, and such men are rare. We are convinced that an excellent case can be made for the best aspects of modern business and the capitalist system upon which it rests, but that case must be made by a man who knows business through and through. It will not be satisfactory if it comes from a politician, or a professor of economics, or from a professional writer. And it will not do if it comes from a man whose notion of business is narrowly confined or who is merely making a case for the preservation of the status quo. A defence of business could only be made by a man engaged in what is called Big Business, who was also a philosopher, an economist and a researcher of talent.

For a defence of business at the present time would attract the fire of a horde of zealots who are determined to damn private enterprise at any cost. Their criticism would be of every quality, from the searchings of economists to the outraged squeals of those who cannot bear to hear a word said in favour of capitalism. The defence of business would have to be a book which would bear the closest investigation; it would have to be a book which would be as eloquent in favour of business as Veblen's Business Enterprise in Recent Times is on the opposite side.

An attempt has been made to supply such a book by Edgar M. Queeny, who is chairman of the board of the Monsanto Chemical Company. Apparently his book, which is called The Spirit of Enterprise, is an unusually competent work, but not quite of the stature to withstand determined attack. However, Mr. Queeny has made a start, and if businessmen are wise, others will follow his example. In spite of their conviction to the contrary, men of business have very little knowledge of what is really going on in any world but their own, and are inclined to undervalue the influence of the world of thought. If they wish to survive, they must make a case for themselves, and present it to the world convincingly. The powers which seek to destroy them have been at work for half a century, and their case is gaining adherents, in spite of many inconsistencies, all the time. Big Business must find its philosopher, and it must be certain that he is a true philosopher, for nothing else will do.

Are Women People?

Our contemporary in St. Thomas, the Times-Journal, comments with acerbity on the following caption which appeared in a Toronto paper under a series of photographs of a woman doctor working in a hospital: "The hearts of sailors are on double-time since Surgeon-Lieutenant —— took up her duties on the staff of a Canadian Atlantic port hospital."

We agree with the St. Thomas paper that this sort of thing is highly objectionable. If the woman in question were working as a cook or a nurse or in some other occupation recognized as appropriate to her sex there would be no photographs and no nonsense about sailor's heart-beats. Such publicity places the woman's sex above her professional attainments which, under the circumstances, is ridiculous. Physicians are not supposed to have any sex when they are at work.

Much foolish publicity of this sort has appeared since the war began, and it has its appeal for silly people. But serious women do not like it. They feel that it puts the professional woman on a par with performing dogs and other prodigies. When a woman enters a profession she does not mean to use her sexual attraction as a primary means of building a career, any more than a man does in similar circumstances. She expects to be treated impersonally, and valued on her proven merits. If her temperament is suited to the work she is doing there is no reason why this should not be so. The "tee-hee" attitude which some sections of the press and a large part of the public adopts toward professional woman is as objectionable as it is vulgar. A professional woman is a person—a human being—and not primarily a fascinating siren, using her acquired skill as a means of adding to her conquests.

Reports On Nazi Europe

When one considers that there are no official news sources in Europe, save those of Sweden and Switzerland, which give us any information about life under Axis rule, it is surprising how much we know about it. Recently, for instance, we had an opportunity to examine a digest made up of information gleaned from the press and the radio in Germany and in France, which was guaranteed to be official and authoritative. Some of the information contained in it was of curious interest, and although none of it will be of great assistance in winning the war it gives some help in understanding the enemy.

In Hamburg, for instance, schoolboys are pressed into service as airplane-spotters, fire-watchers, and night patrols. In the schools of that city there is much talk of duty and responsibility, and of the necessity of doing anything which can be done to release men for the armed forces. That is not surprising; we have the same sort of talk here. But in Hamburg many schools are closed, because the majority of the teachers have been sent to the army, and the school buildings are needed for governmental purposes. In the factories, children under sixteen work 48 hours a week; over that age they work 58 hours.

A report from Berlin tells us that there are now twelve million foreigners working in Germany, as compared with half a million before the war. Five millions are in armament plants, and four and a half millions are agricultural workers; of the latter some are prisoners of war. Every able-bodied man has been removed from civilian and non-military activities. All women between 17 and 45 must have labour registration cards in order to get food rationing books.

Feverish industrial activity has been brought about by the decision to increase the firing power of the German soldier. When the war began every tenth man had a machine-gun; the aim now is to provide every fourth man with a machine-gun. This should result in a fourfold increase in German firing power, if it can be accomplished, but it is by no means certain that German production can do the job.

In France there is compulsory Youth Labour Service for all men between 17 and 30, and when their eight months in this Service is ended they are sent to work in Germany. If one attempts to evade service in Germany a member of his family is sent instead. But malnutrition among these young men is so serious that a recent examination of eight thousand of them showed that 81 per cent. were unfit for labour service of any sort.

Reports on the ersatz products now supplied in France are interesting. Glass is no longer hard and fragile, but flexible and not unlike rubber in consistency. Chocolate is a brown substance which defies analysis. Table linen is scarce, and cannot be washed in warm water, as it melts like sugar. China is as light as cardboard, and will not break, but is highly inflammable. Soap does not lather, and sinks like stone; it also scratches when rubbed on the skin. Altogether, things could hardly be more miserable.

A Word About Frankenstein

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

LAST week there was a meeting in Toronto of 3,800 master plumbers and heating contractors, all of whom seemed to have a decided aversion from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Indeed, one irate speaker refered to it as "the rapidly growing Frankenstein of Government control and interference." Now we do not demand that master plumbers should be men of highly developed literary judgment, but we may fairly ask them not to use literary expressions which they do not understand. Frankenstein was not a monster; he was a man who made a monster. We suggest that the master plumber who made the mistake write out that sentence a hundred times.

MILLIONS of people are acquainted with Frankenstein through the movies, but we have never met anyone who had read the romance which gave rise to the horror films in which Boris Karloff plays the Monster. We have never seen the book offered for sale. We have a battered copy, published long ago in Chicago, and there must be plenty of copies on this continent, but the book does not seem to be popular reading. This is a pity, for "Frankenstein" is a good story. It was written by Mary Wollstonecraft, the second wife of Percy Shelley the poet, when she was not more than twenty-one years old, in the year 1818. The story of how it came to be written is interesting. In the summer of 1816 the Shelleys were in Switzerland with Lord Byron and Polidori, who was Byron's physician and amanuensis. To while away a wet spell Byron suggested that they should each write a story, and, as the surroundings were romantic in the extreme, he specified a ghost story. Byron himself produced something which he later incorporated with his "Mazeppa"; Shelley began a verse romance which he did not finish; Polidori, who was not a match for such distinguished company, had what Mrs. Shelley calls "some terrible idea about a skull-headed lady, who was punished for peeping through a key-hole," and Mary herself wrote "Frankenstein," the idea of which came to her one night when she had been listening to her husband and Byron talking about "the principle of life." Her husband was so pleased with it that he urged her to expand her idea, and thus the romance was born.

THE story opens with a series of letters written by Robert Walton, an English seaman, who tells his sister in England that he is in St. Petersburg, and will shortly go to Archangel, in which port he means to engage a ship and a crew, and set out to find a passage over the polar regions of the Arctic ocean to the Pacific. While on this journey his crew rescues a man from a sledge on the ice, who proves to be a foreigner, in the last stages of exhaustion. He explains that he was following someone who fled from him, and, as his health improves, the mysterious stranger writes a full account of his adventures; as you will guess, the stranger is Frankenstein, and his manuscript forms the body of the book.

FRANKENSTEIN describes himself as a Genevese of distinguished ancestry, who, in his extreme youth had become engrossed in the writings of Cornelius Agrippa, Albertus Magnus, Paracelsus, and those other medieval and early Renaissance writers who are known to us as natural scientists and alchemists. Young Frankenstein threw himself avidly into a search for the Philosopher's Stone and the Elixir of Life. But when he went to the university, at the age of seventeen, he found that he had to unlearn all that he had learned of those discredited scholars, and study what we should now call biology afresh. But he lost none of his enthusiasm to discover the secret spring of existence, and, by a lucky chance, discovered a means of imparting life to dead animal matter. To make the story short, he constructed a man from oddments collected in anatomists' laboratories. Thus he describes his creation: "His limbs were in proportion, and I had selected his features to be beautiful. Beautiful! Great God! His yellow skin scarcely covered the work of muscles and arteries beneath; his hair was of a lustrous black, and flowing; his teeth of a pearly whiteness; but these luxuriances only formed a more horrid contrast with his watery eyes, that seemed almost of the same colour as the dun white sockets in which they were set, his shrivelled complexion, and straight black lips."

BUT Frankenstein had supplied his monster with the brain of a criminal, and the poor wretch, who had many good feelings, found himself compelled to commit dreadful crimes, which he only understood in part. He terrified the family of his creator, and he brought misery wherever he went. At last he fled from the world of men, and Frankenstein pursued him. But alas, as the seaman Walton recounts, Frankenstein's monster boarded the ship, and murdered his maker; he then made a passionate speech to Walton, describing the misery of his existence, and leapt into a waiting boat, and sailed away amidst the ice-floes. Highly coloured though it is, "Frankenstein" is a great story. Some enterprising publisher should reprint it.

Post-War Dream World

In some respects it appears that the post-war world will be a native sort of place. At least, everyone seems to talk of it in negative terms—no unemployment, no Nazis, no traffic jams, no rationing, no wars, no after-dinner dishes to wash, no subway rushes (we'll all be travelling in helicopters), no static in our radios, no slums, no worries.

We'll wake up to the warble of nightingales from our radio alarm clocks; turn on the television set and get the early morning sightcast while we're dressing and eating; be wafted to work (what little work the new electronic machines leave for us to do); spend our week-ends in the South of France (the four-day work week will by that time be universal); order bouquets long distance, using television sets ingeniously tied up by the florist with a device known as a smellocast, a perfume reproducer that is certainly in the offing.

Perhaps this is the new escapist literature, this talk of the post-war world. Hollywood disciples of the Cinderella motif have been put in the shade by a dream. An occasional skeptic tries to wake us up. But what if the dream doesn't come true in all its details—or even in any of its details? That's not important. What counts is that we live in a country that sees its Golden Age ahead. Mussolini and Hitler want to turn the clock back. Over here we can't wait for it to be tomorrow.—New York Times.

A BAD DAY FOR TYRANNY

Hannah's Farm Kitchen

IN Hannah's house and in a good many rural New Hampshire houses the kitchen is where people are when they are not asleep or away; it is the center of the home, it is the home. A few generations ago that was true almost everywhere in America. Women formerly had to keep an eye on more children and more kinds of domestic activities than now. A good housekeeper is always obliged to be in a dozen places at once, and only one way was ever found of doing that efficiently, which was to put all the dozen places together, as the old-style kitchen did. The polished range was cookstove and heating plant; the big table was breakfast nook, dining room, library, sewing room, and children's study; potted plants on the window sill made a conservatory.

Hannah's kitchen is like that. It is full of good smells and comfort; full of colour, too, for she does not feel the need of having the scene of her operations all white enamel.... The walls are hung with bright wallpaper; annual papering is one way of cleaning house in New England, and a "smart" housewife can do it herself, so there is not too much outlay in having fresh paper every spring, after a coat of whitewash on the ceiling. The pine floor has been scrubbed so much that in the course of time the soft grain got scrubbed away and the hard knots stood up so high that Hannah had to have the carpenter come and adze them off.

A kitchen like Hannah's seems to be as good a greenhouse for raising plants. Any furnace-heated room is arid as the Sahara, but in Hannah's kitchen the steam from cooking and from the simmering teakettle tempers the atmosphere.... The robust geraniums exhibit pink and red blossoms, "patient Lucy" twinkles in front of the big "angel-wing" begonia, and a tawny bell always hangs from the tall abutilon; the calla never fails to bloom at the proper time, and the pink oxalis in the hanging basket. The Christmas cactus on a little bracket at the side punctually justifies its name.

House plans in a kitchen are showy, but it is the cookstove that is important. Hannah's is a good comfortable-looking affair, all the iron parts well blacked and the nickel parts so highly polished that they make the sunlight wink. Under its Queen Anne-ish legs is a wide piece of genuine zinc, and to make zinc shine like Hannah's "takes some doing." A black iron teakettle is always on the stove and seems an essential part of it. At one end of the stove, under an oblong iron cover, is a tank holding about four pails of water. If Hannah had any menfolk, it would by convention be the job of one of them to pump water and pour it into this tank from time to time, but Hannah has to do this herself and she accomplishes it without fuss....

The kerosene lamps on the narrow mantel shelf wear a paper-bag pullover, for Hannah fills and wipes off the lamps and washes and polishes the chimneys every morning and she doesn't intend to have any of her work dimmed. Near the left end of the shelf are six stout wooden rods on two of which her dish towels hang, washed three times a day and so clean they are a little crisp. In the fall, chains of apple slices threaded on string and draped with white mosquito netting are often hanging over some of the rods to dry.

The wooden clock with the battle of Lake Erie painted on its door sits on a shelf of its own. This is no intrusive alarm clock, with the hurrying clatter of a small factory. It has iron weights on cords and which have to be wound up every night, and it makes a serene and dignified ticking all the time. — From "A Sense of Humus," by Bertha Damon. Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, July 23 (CP)—One of the indirect effects of the war on Ottawa has been an increase in the work of chairmen of House of Commons committees.

The problem is that members of parliament at committee meetings have been given to bickering and disputes.

"It's been quite impossible to insist on rules of debate," one chairman said this week. He thought most of the trouble was caused by the lack of opportunity to discuss private members' resolutions on the floor of the House.

Throughout most of the session there were 18 such resolutions on the order paper — but the House has been too busy to pay any attention to them. The same thing has happened every session since the war began.

Liguori Lacombe (Cdn. Laval-Two Mountains) was making a speech in French when Douglas Abbott (Lib. Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount) interrupted in English.

"Mr. Chairman," said Mr. Lacombe, "since I'm addressing the House in my mother tongue, I would ask the parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Ilsley to be so kind as to speak French the next time he raises a point of order."

"Avec plaisir," said Mr. Abbott, himself bilingual; and then, in French, he proceeded to tell the chairman Mr. Lacombe's remarks had nothing to do with the bill before the House.

Our friends in the press censorship branch got a chuckle out of the comment in the House by their minister, Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, that "censorship is one of the arms of the services with which we cannot possibly win this war...."

It caused a laugh in the House, too, and Gen. LaFleche quickly corrected the "with which" to "without which."

To make perfectly clear what he meant he added: "Censorship is as necessary, as essential, as battleships, airplanes and cannon."

To which the usual, "some honourable members" of the Hansard report, retorted briskly: "No!"

Probably by now you've noticed the three-cent stamps have been changed from red to a mild purple." It's because Cnaada under the 1943 budget raised the basic rate on first-class mail from three to four cents and the basic-rate stamp under the international postal union rules must be a red stamp.

A Mellow Light Over The Past

All great writers have, of course, an atmosphere in which they seem most at their ease and at their best; a mood of the great general mind which they interpret and indeed almost discover, so that we come to read them rather for that than for any story or character or scene of separate excellence. For ourselves Henry James seems most entirely in his element, doing that is to say what everything favours his doing, when it is a question of recollection. The mellow light which swims over the past, the beauty which suffuses even the commonest little figures of that time, the shadow in which the detail of so many things can be discerned which the glare of day flattens out, the depth, the richness, the calm, the humour of the whole pageant—all this seems to have been his natural atmosphere and his most abiding mood.... To Americans, indeed, to Henry James and to Hawthorne, we owe the best relish of the past in our literature—not the past of romance and chivalry, but the immediate past of vanished dignity and faded fashions. The novels teem with it, but wonderful as they are, we are tempted ot say that the memories are yet more wonderful in that they are more exactly Henry James, and give more precisely his tone and his gesture. In them his benignity is warmer, his humour richer, his solicitude more exquisite, his recognition of beauty, fineness, humanity more instant and direct. He comes to his task with an indescribable air of one so charged and laden with precious stuff that he hardly knows how to divest himself of it all—where to find space to set down this and that, how to resist altogether the claims of some other gleaming object in the background; appearing so busy, so unwieldly with ponderous treasure that his dexterity in disposing of it, his consummate knowledge of how best to place each fragment, afford us the greatest delight that literature has had to offer for many a year.—From "The Death of the Moth," by Virginia Woolf. A Bible Message

And in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the Lord. And Abel, he also brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof. And the Lord had respect unto Abel and to his offering: but unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect. And Cain was very wroth, and his countenance fell....

And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him.

And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother, And he said, I know not: Am I my brother's keep? And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground. (Gen. 2: 3-5, 8-10.)

I create the fruit of the lips; Peace, peace to him that is far off, and to him that is near, saith the Lord; and I will heal him. But the wicked are like the troubled sea, when it cannot rest, whose waters cast up mire and dirt. There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked. (Isa. 57: 19-21.)

A good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and an evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil: for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh. (Luke 6: 45.)

Once more he was covered with confusion, and once more he stopped, and mopped his face, from which perspiration was literally pouring.

Then he gathered his courage in both hands, and with a mighty effort he finished triumphantly: "And for three days and three nights Jonah was in the society of the whale."

Down With Democrats

A curious record might be made of the varying fortunes of words in political life. Today a stateman who made a speech in which the words "democracy" and "democratic" were not included as evidence of good faith in about every other sentence would be in some danger of falling into disfavor. To be "a good democrat" is an essential of life for everyone within the United Nations. Yet only a short time ago, as history counts time, Queen Victoria was using the word "democrat" to mark her extreme disfavor. Thus in memoranda quoted in Lord Ponsonby's "Life" of his father we find the Queen writing in 1880 on her "determination not to acept Sir C. Dilke as a minister of any future Liberal government. It is well known that he is a democrat—a disguised Republican who is in communication with the extreme French Republicans."

Sometimes she substituted "Socialist" for "democrat," and sometimes she made Gladstone at once a democrat and a dictator—"That half-mad firebrand who will soon ruin everything and be a dictator." And she goes on to say that "others may submit to his democratic rule, but not the Queen."—Manchester Guardian.

Our Farmers Need your Help

Manpower already on the farms—the men and women of the soil—must have the help of a great number of urban residents, to cultivate and harvest this year's crops. The farmer cannot do the job alone. He simply must be aided.

Food is vital to our war needs—for our Armed Services, for the Empire, for our Allies, for our homefolk, and those who do not live on the farm must lend a hand.

The Government, under the Dominion-Provincial-Farm Labour Program, appeal to all who can do so to work on the farm, for as long a period as possible.

If you are not in essential work, and can be spared for farming, arrange to go as soon as you are needed.

Arrange to work your holidays on a farm, if that is the best you can do—vacation for victory!

This is what YOU should do! ACT NOW!

THREE TEAMS ARE TIED FOR FIRST PLACE IN MEN'S CITY LEAGUE

Generals Beat Brinton Girls By 11-5 Score

In a well-played Girls' Softball League game at the East City Bowl Friday night, Generals defeated Brintons 11 to 5 after a battle in which a lot of nice fielding was done by both outfits.

Generals opened up the scoring in the second inning with a run but Doris Walker, Brinton pitcher, evened it up in the second half of the same frame when she cut loose with a homer. The winners however really won the ball game in the third inning when they came through with a five-run rally featured by a homer from the bat of Marg. Barrie.

They added a single counter in the fourth, matched with a singleton by Brintons in their half, to make the count 7 to 2. Three scoreless innings followed and then Generals broke lose in the first of the eighth to score three more on a couple of hits and as many errors. A single in the first of the ninth made it 11 to 2 for the Generals but Brintons had enough fight left to produce a three-run rally in the last half of the final frame to close the gap.

Ralph Guldahl Is Eliminated

By The Canadian Press.

Ralphm Guldahl of San Diego was one of the big names of golfdom eliminated in the Open Field in the Tam O'Shanter All-American Tourney at Chicago yesterday. The two-time open champion earned and aggregate of -54 which was considerably off the prevailing standard.

The best markers in both the pro and amateur divisions each carded 140 to tie for their respective top honors, with Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., upholding the prestige of the simon-pures and Willie Goggin of White Plains, N. Y., going the best counting in the professional class. Al Huke of Elgin, Ill., made the best round of the tournament thus far in firing a 66 but his aggregate for 36 holes was a mere 145. Huke's showing in the one round was only one stroke shy of the course record held jointly by Byron Nelson of Toledo and Leonard Dobson of Kansas City.

Meanwhile Patty Berg of Minneapolis was showing the way in the ladies division, taking a four-stroke lead with 72 to establish a course record for women. Spar Betty Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., turned in a 74 which was two less than women's par.

American Hockey Loop To Operate Again

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 24. (AP).—Owners of teams in the American Hockey League met behind closed doors yesterday and brought the conference to a close with the announcement they expect to operate as usual next season.

Maurice Podoloff, League president, saiad the conferees would meet again in New York next month. He refused to disclose points of discussion.

Asked if Buffalo and Cleveland are seeking berths in the National Hockey League and if successful the association would be disbanded, Podoloff said he had no comment.

Nine teams were represented at the conference, Buffalo, Cleveland, Hershey, Indianapolis, New Haven, Pittsburg, Providence, Philadelphia and Washington.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Everything is set for the big exhibition game between Toronto Tip Tops and the All-Stars from the local City League at Riverside Park next Wednesday in aid of the Kinsmen's Milk for Britain Fund. Manager Sam Shefsky of the crack Toronto club is bringing his entire string of stars to Peterborough for this engagement. In a letter received by W. K. Sloane, the Tip Top pilot says that his retinue of softball experts will consist of the following: Don "Pepper Pot" MacKinnon c. Harry "Suz" Turner p, Harry Eckler 1b, Ab Box 2b, Sam Spero shortstop, Earl Surphlis 3b, Budd Harrison, utility infielder, and Pete Glen, Leo Deadey, Kitch Jeffers, Bill PeeWee Summerhill and Andy Kowalik outfielders. Deadey and Kowalik are well remembered here as haying played baseball with the Petes. Ab Box is the famous football star while Suz Turner is also noted for his outstanding ability as a football centre. The Tip Tops of course play baseball as well as they do softball. With the exception of the pitchers their lineup is the same for both games and they are stars at both. Softball at its best is played by this classy squad and their appearance here should be a treat for the sporting public.

* * * * * *

The Peterborough team will have the services as pitcher of Tommy Stewart, the crack twirler of the Dominion Bridge team and one of the best hurlers in Toronto. Otherwise the local club will be an all Peterborough affair and the following players have been selected to represent the City League on this occasion: Catchers, Eddie Starr, Battery and Holly Mowry, Genelecs; infielders Jim Ellis, Battery, Sandy Sandulak and Howie Dalton, Soldiers, George Hawks and Jack Tucker, Genelecs; outfielders, Joe Stewart and Les Burton, Battery, Frank McCormick, Combines and Tommy Parsons and Tony McIlveen, Soldiers. Harry Morgan of the Training Centre will manage this all-star squad. This lineup has been chosen for its hitting strength as well as for its defensive ability and behind the effective pitching of Tommy Stewart should give a good account of itself against the classy Toronto club. The game looms up as the sporting event of the summer season and with ten gate prizes to be drawn the crowd should be large enough to provide the Milk for Britain Fund with a real boost. The City Softball League has already raised over $100 this season for war services and this benefit game should raise the ante considerably.

Another Thriller

Another one of those thrilling Aircraft-Westclox battles looms up for Monday night when the two rivals will clash at the East City Bowl for the fifth time this season. The Big Bens won the first two games against the Aircrafters, the second one rather easily, but the third fixture was a battle from strat to finish and wound up in a draw and in the fourth meeting last Wednesday night Westclox just did manage to win with a homer in the final innings. Monday night's affair will be a hard-fought struggle all the way and the biggest crowd of the season is expected. Marg Watson who was the winner of the last game will be the Westclox pitcher and she will have to go the route for Isobel Bullock had her pitching hand hurt when struck by a bat the other night and will be out of action, so far as pitching is concerned, for some time. Norma Strickland will be the gunner for the Aircraft and both teams will field their strongest lineups for this occasion. The game is billed for 7 o'clock.

* * * * * *

The re-play of the tie game between Switch Gear and Combines scheduled for Tuesday night should be a thriller because the winner goes on into the playoffs and the loser drops out for the season. The defeat of Switch Gear by the Battery last night left Manager Chambers' team tied with Combines with four wins and five losses each so that everything is now up to the result of the coming clash between the rivals. Both teams will be battling the whole route because a loss means the end of the trail. The Switch Gear will start either Bert Harrison or Gene Reynolds against the Combines while the latter will call upon Sid Craig or Freddy Elliott for this most important battle. Both outfits have put up a good fight all season. Combines started off with three straight wins but have since fallen upon evil days while Switch Gear who came into the league late after being dropped out of the Industrial loop because they were considered too strong for that organization have an up and down career in the City League.

A Rough Night

Wrestling fans expect a wild night at Brock St. Summer Gardens Monday night when Earl McCready will tangle with the rough-riding Al Bunny Dunlop. They are all pulling for the downfall of the sturdy weight-lifter and they will not be satisfied unless the Aurora farmer hits him with everything but the ring posts. In fact he could throw those in too and the crowd would roar its approval. Mister Dunlop, in short has got the goat of local fandom and they want to see him get handed some of the medicine he has been dishing out. McCready is big enough and strong enough to meet the public's wishes, as Dunlop will discover in a hurry if he cuts loose with some of the mean tactics he has been employing against all his opponents. The Moose has been discovering that clean wrestling does not always pay and in recent bouts he has been handing a receipt for everything he got so that rampaging Bunny had better be very careful or he'll probably find himself landing in the second row of ring-side seats. He incidentally is not the only villain on the card. John Katan who meets Toar Morgan in the semi-final is another bird who is not a bit careful about the kind of stuff he hands out. He has quite a reputation as a bad man and will probably try to live up to it against the Fighting Marine. However Morgan is capable of protecting himself. Joe Maich, popular Brantford grappler and Doc Felice should have quite an argument in the opening bout.

Shutouts were a feature of big league baseball yesterday and there was a lot of smart pitching for the fans to talk about. Altogether five clubs were blanked, a condition that indicates that the pitchers had the whip hand. In the National loop Harry Gumbert and Howard Krist of the Cards combined to blank the Giants 1 to 0. Clyde Passeau of the Cubs bobbed up with a tidy four-hitter to calsomine the Boston Braves 1 to 0 and Whit Wyatt of the Brooklyn Dodgers matched the feat by whitewashing the Cincinnati Reds 2 to 0, yielding only four hits. There were two 1 to 0 games in the American League. Hank Borowy of the Yanks was the hero of one of them, allowing five hits, as the league leaders beat the Brownies by the narrowest possible margin. At that the Yanks only got three hits themselves. Mal Harder, back into action for the first time since he broke his ankle early in the season certainly staged an impressive return to the baseball wars. He held the Philadelphia A's to four hits and no runs while the Indians won the argument on the strength of Ray Mack's fourth homer of the season. Home runs by Bobby Doerr and Pete Fox enabled the Red Sox to defeat Chicago 8 to 7 in ten innings but the White Sox beat Boston 7 to 1 in the second game.

Switchgear Team Whipped 11-1 By 4th Battery

Hammering out twenty hits the 4th Battery club cleaned up on Switchgear to the tune of 11 to 1 in their City League fixture at Riverside Park Friday night and thus created a three-cornered tie for first place with Soldiers and Genelecs. An extra series will now be necessary to break the deadlock before the playoffs started.

It was the first errorless game of the entire season. Dave Wilson pitched a six-hitter for the winners, and although the Switchgear outfit managed to get runners on the bases in nearly every innings the big Gunner pitcher tightened up when runs threatened, except in the fourth when the losers got their lone marker.

Gene Reynolds went the distance for the winners and was hit hard, Eddie Starr setting the pace with four hits in five times up and the Gunners banging out a number of extra base blows, including a homer by Jim Ellis and a triple by Billy Jones who also had a double. Ned Vitarelli had three hits for the winners. Lionel Holmes who drove in the Switchgear run was the only losing player to get more than one hit, coming through with a double and single.

Both sides pulled off a smart double play. Ellis negotiated the Battery double killing unassisted, coming up with a hard roller by Jack Carpenter, tagging Luke Jamieson on the baseline and beating the hitter to first. The Switchgear twin execution was rattled off in nice style by Frank Maloney and Tic Caccavella.

Battery started the scoring in the second. Starr started it with a sharp single to second, went to second after the catch when Ellis flied to George Maloney in right, reached third on a passed ball, and after Jones had flied to Jamieson came home on Vitarelli's single between short and third. Tompkins also singled and Dave Wilson lined to right for a base, sending Vitarelli home. Heal popped to Reynolds.

The winners added three in the third. With one out Stewart doubled through short and after Eddie Starr had flied to G. Maloney trotted home ahead of Jim Ellis on the first baseman's home run drive over Robertson's head in right centre. Billy Jones poled a long triple to deep right field and scored when Vitarelli slashed a single through short. Tompkins flied to G. Maloney to end the inning.

Switchgear got their only run with two out in the fourth. After Starr had thrown out Robertson on a fast play and Caccavella fanned, G. Maloney walked, Reynolds dropped a pop single into short left and Holmes lines another into the same field to score Maloney. Jamieson struck out.

Battery got two more in the fifth. Stewart singled on a hot shot to Maloney and Starr doubled to centre, sending Stewart to third. Ellis drove a long fly to Robertson to score Stewart and Starr ran in when Jones doubled on the ground into right. Vitarelli flied to Carpenter and Bob Crowe was out on a bunt.

The winners added another pair in the sixth and might have gone more except for a fast double-play. Wilson beat out a roller to short and went to second on a wild pitch. Heal bunted safely. Burton singled to centre, scoring Wilson. Stewart rapped to Frank Maloney who stepped on third to retire Heal and then shot the pill to Caccavella in time to nip Burton at second. Starr beat out an infield hit. Ellis doubled to centre, sending Stewart in. Jones flied to Holmes.

Battery wound up the scoring with another pair in the eighth. Heal singled to left and ran to third when Burton singed to centre. Joe Stewart's long fly to Carpenter allowed Heal to score and Burton went in when Eddie Starr got his fourth hit, a line double over Maloney's head into left field. Ellis flied to G. Maloney in right and Jones rolled to Caccavella.

Wilson shut Switchgear out in the last five frames, allowing only one scratch hit after the fourth.

MOSQUITO'S CURSE

The United States normally has about 100,000 annual cases of malaria.

This Is Playing Baseball—The Hard Way

Lieutenant-Colonel Loring Pickering, commandant at the Army Air Forces training command's technical school at Pawling, New York, is a devout believer in preparedness. That is why he springs surprises on his men at the most unexpected times. During a softball game recently, for instance, the field was suddenly put under theoretical gas attack. What happened? Not a man was caught off base. Players and spectators donned gas masks and went on with the game. Wearing a mask didn't slow up this fellow's batting eye. He has just caught the apple square on the nose for a base hit.

FO. Lou Hayman To Coach '43 Toronto Hurricanes

By HAL WALKER

Canadian football's glamour boys of 1942 are going to make a determined effort to hang on to their medals during the 1943 season and they're already lining up a team which, for paper strength alone, will make them pre-season choices.

The gridiron glamour boys, of course, were R.C.A.F. Hurricanes of No. 1 Training Command, and all the Hurricanes of Hayman did was sweep to the Canadian title last year with the loss of only one game.

Strong Wingline.

It was learned last night that FO. Hayman will be the coach of the 1943 team and that eight of last year's club will be available again. In addition two former bulwarks of Balmy Beach, Bob Cosgrove and George Shields, linemen par excellence, are counted on by Wing Cmdr. Ted Kenrick and Sqdn. Ldr. Spike Jackson. There is also an American named Schumm who is said to have played Varsity ball for Fordham University who will be given a thorough trial.

Sqdn. Ldr. Jackson, team manager, intimated that Hayman would more than likely coach Hurricanes and his chief lieutenant and line coach would be the burly Cosgrove, the young California giant who has made such a fine reputation for himself since he came to Canada.

If nothing else the new edition of the Hurricanes will have a powerful wingline, spearheaded by Cosgrove and Shields. Mike Ozarko, Don Durno, Paul McGary, Jack Buckmaster, Truck Langley and Eddie Burton are again expected to don R.C.A.F. football togs. Pooch Taylor, who shared centre duties with Jake Gaudaur, has announced his retirement after taking on bruises for years with Beaches, Ottawa, and last year with the Dominion champs.

Red Heron Will Play

For backfield duties Hurricanes are counting on Fred Kijek, their star hoofer; Art West and Jack Alexander. The latter suffered an injury a few weeks ago which may, however, terminate his football career. Red Heron, ex-Leaf and New York American hockey star, is stationed at No. 1 I.T.S. and is said to be a candidate for the grid team. Red played a fine game in his high school days, but his pro hockey career didn't allow him to take part in the fall pastime.

One thing the Hurricanes' braintrusters are emphatic about. The football team wont' interfere with the training of any airman.

Sqdn. Ldr. Jackson, a veteran of the last war, particularly was concerned with aircrew aspirants. "We have no desire to interrupt the training of any member of the R.C.A.F." Jackson said. "Any player who is near at hand and whose training duties will allow him to play football will be permitted to play. Anything beyond that is definitely out," he concluded.

Jackson said that Bill Stukus, co-captain of last year's team, and Art Evans, both of whom were recently commissioned as pilots, were not being counted on for duty with the team this fall.

Wing Cmdr. Stoneham will be honorary president of the Hurricanes, replacing Group Capt. Richards, who is now at Rockcliffe. Wing Cmdr. Ted Kenrick, O.C. of No. 1 I.T.S., will again be president, and Sqdn. Ldr. Jackson team manager.

The Hurricanes, together with other teams in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, plan to play several floodlight games at Maple Leaf Stadium this year. Only single games will be carded each Saturday afternoon at Varsity Stadium.

The Cleaners Likely For Dunlop

Earl "the Moose" McCready will project his forceful way into the Arena ring here on Monday night to meet in combat that other powerful matman Al. Bunny Dunlop. Dunlop is probably the one man in wrestling ranks who is actually stronger than McCready since the Bunny has always been a strength specialist. On the other hand big Earl's power is of a different kind than that developed by the regular strongman type of training. McCready's strength is allied with a marvellous sense of balance and wrestling science and unless Dunlop gets in one of his illegal but highly effective attacks first, it is our opinion that Mr Dunlop is to do to go straight to the cleaners. However, at should be a regular "Donegal" while it lasts because the Toronto Strongman is one of the most ramunctious matmen to be ever seen in action here.

(John (The Killer) Katan makes this introduction to local fans in the semi-final and draws a difficult opponent to get past in young Toar Morgan the Fighting Marine. Morgan has a way of returning his opponent's fire with double interest and even the great (He admits it) Katan may suffer a set-back at the hands of the youthful but effective Guadalcanal veteran.

Doc. Felice will likely have the customers on their feet throughout his match with Jumping Joe Maich of Brantford but Joe can look after himself even in that company and we think the Doc. may have some of his own casualties to bind up.

TORONTO, July 24—(CP)—Earl McCready has been part of the Canadian wrestling scene long enough to rate a brief biographical accolade. Such a chronicle must include his early years in a village near Belleville, Ont., skip quickly over his reluctant toil as farmhand at Amulet, Sask., and dwell on the shining day Earl sighted a correspondence school advertisement: "Handle big men easily."

Thus his wrestling career be[illegible]n. Today, at 36 (a wrestler's prime) Earl can look back upon 15 years in which victories always outnumbered reverses, assured him an annual income of more than $5,000. The successes are too frequent to enumerate, but one is worth embellishment. Earl was in Johannesburg to wrestle one of the local boys and the police asked for the old college try because the Boers were threatening trouble. If McCready thought the cops were kidding, all doubts vanished when 300 policemen crowded round the ring. In this dime novel atmosphere, Earl went to work. "I was never to brutal with an opponent before or since," he told the Toronto Star. "The police were delighted. They said I had saved them from a most difficult and perilous situation."

The Quick and the Dead:

Cities and towns from Halifax to Vancouver have advanced claims to recognition (facetious and otherwise) as the cradle of hockey. In view of Lt.-Col. Rodolphe Larose's ban on hockey in Cornwall, what does that make Lex Cook's town?

Incidentally:

Alan (Brantford Expositor) Rose looks for big things from Frank Lovell, 18-year-old right defenceman from Saskatoon Quakers Juveniles. Plucked by Eddie Shore for future delivery to Buffalo Bisons, Lovell will likely play with Brantford Lions in the junior O.H.A. this season. He wants to be a sports writer, but Rose says he acted as stand-in for a preacher not long ago . . . Frank Boucher, the veteran hockey man of New York Rangers, was nominated as a candidate in the coming Ontario election but declined to stand. Frank, who farms near South Mountain, Ont., in the summer months, would have coached Ottawa Commandos last season if the National League had folded. As it was, Commandos won the Allan Cup and Rangers finished a straggling last . . . Neil Colville, the top Commando of them all, helped an Army soccer team hold the R.C.A.F. to a tie in Ottawa recently. Referee Percy Clark termed Colville's performance "smashing" and vowed the big guy would star in any line of sport . . . George (Toronto Telegram) Laughlin would like to see the Millar golf tournament, only major match play tournament in Canada, made Dominion-wide.

Huck Geary May Join Buffalo Of International

By The Associated Press

If Huck Geary has his way the International League will be able to boast of a baseball player who prefered to give up a major league berth to play with Buffalo Bisons.

Geary, who was suspended by Pittsburgh Pirates for leaving the club, declared yesterday he would like to join the Bisons. John Stiglmeier, general manager of the Bisons, agreed, saying "we would like to have Geary and we're willing to pay above the $7,500 waiver price for him."

The transaction now is up to Pittsburgh President Bill Benswanger who shelled out $25,000 last year to get Geary from Minneapolis of the American Association.

Following an afternoon conference between Stiglmeier and Geary, the Bisons followed through by beating Montreal Royals, 5-3, in a night game. The Bisons didn't make a hit off Barney Deforge from the first inning on, but that didn't matter since they bunched all of their three hits for five runs in the first inning. The big blow was Otto Denning's homer with two on. The Royals knocked Mike Roscoe out in the fifth, but Rufe Gentry came in and allowed only one single the rest of the way.

Jersey City snapped a four-game losing streak by taking both ends of a doubleheader from Baltimore, 1-0 and 6-1.

The first-place Toronto Maple Leafs beat Rochester, 4-2, scoring three runs in the first inning after two were out, and Southpaw Arnold Carter came up with a three-hitter for Syracuse Chiefs to shutout Newark, 3-0.

Top batsman of the American League, Guy Curtright of the Chicago White Sox, picks out the bat he'd use in an effort to keep up his consecutive game hitting streak. The husky, 30-year-old outfielder came up to the Sox this season from St. Paul, where he batted .291.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 24 — CP) —Racing folk, those people who perpetuate Britain's bloodstock, all but fell from their horses when it was proposed that Epsom Downs' history-teeped gallop be plowed up for crops.

Like everyone else in Britain, they agreed home food production holds a major place in the war effort, but they thought the Surrey War Agricultural Committee carried things much too far when it proposed to requisition 124 acres, including Middle Hill and Six Mile Gallop, for barley production.

Turfmen argued that cultivation of the gallops would cause a cessation of racing, including the classical Derby, for an indefinite period after the war and would ruin the Epsom training industry. They won their point when the Minister of Agriculture overruled the proposal.

Before the acriminous subject was settled, Sir Archibald Southby, member of parliament for the district, said "the idea of plowing up the Downs as nonsense."

"There are only about five inches of soil over the chalk on the Downs," he added. "On the other hand, if this turf is destroyed it would take about 100 years to restore it to its present springiness that makes it so valuable for training gallops."

Middle Hill forms part of the course and is trod by hundreds of people on race days. Six - Mile Gallop is the only training ground about Epsom.

British soldiers behind barbed wire in Italy kept up Derby Day with a race of their own. They had bookmakers, track stewards—and horses made out of plywood.

A tank corps sergeant told all about the "race meet" in a letter home. The prisoners threw dice to move the horese and the "bookies" paid out 57,000 cigarets on the result.

Many of the sights familiar to peacetime racing went with the strange Derby. There were side-attractions, such as skittles and darts, and the prisoners' band played.

Lady Yule, reputed to be the world's richest woman, purchased Hyperides from Lord Roseberry for an estimated $90,000 a few days before the horse ran next to last in the classic Gold Cup.

Second in the Derby last year and favorite for this season's Gold Cup, Hyperides will race no more. The son of famed sire Hyperion will go to Lady Yule's stud farm.

Widow of Sir David Yule who amassed a great fortune from the jute industry in India, Lady Yule had to reduce her string of horses during the war because of food difficulties.

Claude Passeau Blanks Boston Braves

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sport Writer

There was this story out of Buffalo, N.Y., about homesick Huck Geary asking the Pittsburg Pirates to sell him to Buffalo—and somehow, you knew it had to happen this year.

It just fits into this scrambled season—the picture of a big league ball-player pleading to be sent back to the minors.

In yesterday's nine games half-a-dozen of the losers served up good enough performances to win on practically any other day, five of the tussles were decided by one run; two went into extra innings, and 14 of the 18 elbowing jobs were eight-hitters or better.

St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees stayed 5 and 6½ games in front of the pennant parades, respectively, with a couple of 1-0 decisions. The Cards did it to New York's woeful Giants on a combination five-hit job by Harry Gumbert and Howie Krist, although Ken Chase tossed a six-hitter himself. The Yanks belted the Brownies of St. Louis back into sixth place on an error by Mike Chartak and a double by Bill Dickey.

Harder Wins

Another 1-0 job was chalked up by Mel Harder with a four-hit victory for Cleveland Indians over the Athletics. Ray Mack's sixth-inning homer won the game.

With the help of a major league record-equalling total of 18 putouts by the Dodger outfield, Whitey Wyatt hurled Brooklyn to a 2-0 decision over Cincinnati Reds with a four-hit job.

The fifth whitewashing was painted by the old Chicago Cub expert, Claude Passeau, who held the Braves to four safeties and came home with a 5-0 decision. Pittsburg Pirates nosed out the Phillies 3-2 in the National League's other game.

In fact, the only places the game thumpers knocked the roof in were Boston and Washington. In Boston, the Red Sox and Chicago White Sox split a twin bill with homers. The Red Sox, after trailing 7-2, tied up the opener on Bobby Doerr's four-bagger in the eighth and Pete Fox's three-run homer in the ninth and won out, 8-7, with a tally in the 10th. Vince Castino, the White Sox catcher, made his first big league round-tripper a grand slam by clouting one with the bags loaded in the nightcap. This gave the White Sox the verdict 5-1, as Buck Ross tossed a seven-hitter.

In Washington, meantime, the Senators and Detroit Tigers went down to the wire all tied up, but in the 10th inning, the Tigers hit the jackpot for eight runs and a 12-6 victory.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 24—(AP)—The newspapers said Capt. Charles Paddock had been killed in an airplane crash in Alaska . . . It was tragic, but somehow it seemed appropriate. Charley Paddock never did ordinary things in the ordinary way and if he had to go out, it was more like Paddock to come to an end as sudden and sensational as the famous "jump" finish he used to effect in his racing days.

The news of paddock's death started you thinking—about the days when the "fasest human" was knocking off spring records nearly time he ran; when you were a kid in college reading about him then a beginning sports writer, trying to follow his amazing career and to understand his tiffs with Amateur Athletic Union officials . . . You never saw Paddock but once; that was in the twilight of his racing career, but that one time was enough to make you realize why he attracted so much attention . . . Your first impression was that Charley didn't look like a sprinter. He was only five feet eight, chunky with heavy muscles that gave an immediate impression of power; he looked more like a speedy half-back . . . In a day when most runners still wore drab, loose-fitting pants, Paddock came out in skin-tight panties with bright-colored trimming—just another of those things that made him stand out from the crowd . . . Then you saw him run, his big legs generating power to make up for his lack of form, his body flying through the air in a tremendous leap to break the tap, and you recognized him as a champion.

That leap at the finish always caused argument among track fans . . . Some claimed it was just for show and that Paddock drove right through in a close race . . . Once he announced that he had abandoned it, except for photograph purposes, but later he insisted that it won races for him and that was why he used it . . . A picture taken in 1920 showed him in full flight to beat Morris Kirksey and Paddock once pointed out that his last stride started nearly three yards from the finish while Kirksey's final step was less than a yard away.

Charley wasn't he "fastest human" because his records have stood the test of time . . . He never even got sole possession of the coveted 100-yard mark because when he ran it in 9.5 seconds, tenth-second timing wasn't officially recognized . . . Only a few of his marks for odd distances like 110 yards still are in the books . . . But did you ever hear of another runner who held every record from 100 yards to 300 metres all at the same time?

Sicilian People Weary; Want No War

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE A. E. F. IN SICILY, July 24 — (AP). — Leaves from a war correspondent's note book:

Come for a jeep ride east of Gela along the main southern coastal road of sun-bright Sicily. This is what you see:—

The asphalt highway is good except for a few bomb and shell craters. Lines of trees throw pleasant shade but you keep a watchful eye for German raiders.

There are several small Italian two-man tankettes lying burned out in the ditch. They look like something children would love to ride in. The Yanks on landing day found them easy pickings. A big Tiger tanks down below took a lot more working over.

Carts with refugees returning to their homes dot the highway.

Houses Clean

The first city we come to is Vittoria. Its wide streets are almost deserted at midday. The houses are white and cleaner than in Gela.

To the left of the road is a pillbox cleverly concealed as a cottage. The Italians have been adept at camouflaging their coastal defences.

Peasants along the road hold up their hands in the "V" sign of victory. A few days ago they were holding up their palms in the Fascist gesture. Their hearts are in neither sign. All they really want is some food and peace and to be let alone. They are worn out with war and trouble, death and high taxes.

Across the ridge from Comiso lies Ragus. Old men sit in chairs on the sidewalk in the shadow of church walls scarred with Il Duce's slogans. Two paratroopers await their turn in the barber shop while a little Sicilian fluttered about, excited by the uniforms.

Canadians chat with a Sicilian family. The Canadians, who waited 3½ years in England before getting into this scrap, are indignant because the Italians refused to battle them and gave up so easily.

Sidewalks are the parlors of Sicily and they are crowded with dirty, half - naked children who run shouting like mad at the approach of every military vehicle.

Electrocuted

FOREST, Ont., July 24 (CP).—Pte. Alex Lunan, 19, of Gravenhurst, was electrocuted here yesterday when he sought to aid a friend who had touched a wire with his foot. The second man was not seriously hurt.

3 Kinmount Brothers In The Canadian Army

PTE. ALBERT F. ALLEN

PTE. JOE M. ALLEN

PTE. JAMES ALLEN

Three sons of Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Sr., of Kinmount, are serving in the armed forces, and a daughter, Mrs. Clare Dettman, lives at 341 George Street in Peterborough. Pte. Albert F. Allen formerly worked in the De Laval, and is overseas with the Ordnance Corps. Pte. Joe M. Allen was employed by the Peterborough Lumber Company and is with the Medical Corps at Camp Borden. The other brother, Pte. James Allen, is overseas, having enlisted with a Nova Scotia Regiment early in the war.

Loss Of Capital Is First Step In Axis Downfall

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 24—(AP). — In the hoarse roar of tanks and the crunching tread of infantry filing through Palermo yesterday, the free world can hear the opening strains of a dirge for Axis power over Europe.

Palermo was more than the sixth largest Italian city.

It was one of the queenly ports of the Tyrrhenian sea.

It was the civilized heart of Sicily.

It was shielded from attack as heavily as almost any base on the Italian peninsula itself.

The Sicilian campaign proved these things:

The Italian army fights no more bravely or skilfully at home than it did abroad.

War weariness and discouragement runs through almost all classes of the Italian nation.

Allied generals know as much about lightning war to-day as their German teachers.

British, American and Canadian divisions that never have seen battle before can be hurled into action on at least a par with experienced enemy armies—thanks to a training program that kept pace with the latest lessons of the 1943 war program.

Amphibious warfare, the most difficult and exact type of all, has become an Allied specialty.

The Allied command again has demonstrated that wherever it sends its lands spearheads it makes sure first of air cover and a secure supply line.

The Allies have all the essentials for the conquest of Europe.

Hon. J. L. Isley Boosts Estimates By 43 Millions

By C. R. BLACKBURN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 24 —(CP) — More than 10 hours of work which began at 11 am. yesterday and ended early to-day, with time out for meals, brought the House of Commons close to the end of the session but there was no certainty that adjournment would be reached to-day.

When the House rose shortly after midnight more than $105,000,000 in non-war estimates, only remaining Government business, had been passed but the Finance and Pension and Health items and some other appropriations were left for consideration to-day.

The total finance vote is $374,000,000 but only $11,601,000 of that has to be voted in committee. The remainder, much of it the cost of carrying the National debt, is authorized by statute.

More Debate.

Nevertheless, there is expected to be considerable debate when Finance Minister Ilsley starts to put through his estimates, particularly from those interested in monetary reform.

The Pensions and National Health Department estimates total $55,000,000, almost all of which must be voted, with the bulk of it— $45,000,000—for war pensions.

Total non-war estimates were swelled yesterday by the presentation of supplementary estimates of $43,000,000, of which $27,000,000 is for the wheat acreage reduction program.

This brings the total non-war estimates for the current fiscal year to more than $653,000,000, much of which has already been approved.

The Senate, which received a last - minute flood of Commons business this week, caught up with the Lower House late last evening and is expected to stand by today to complete the business of the session immediately the Commons ends its work.

Yesterday's discussion ranged over a wide field as department after department came before the committee of the whole.

During discussions, of Justice Department estimates, Justice Minister St. Laurent told the House that he had been called upon to intercede in some cases in which judgments were reserved for too long a time.

He had been able to speed up such judgments and would do so whenever litigants or their counsel brought such instances to his attention, he said.

National Scandal

Mr. St. Laurent commented on the deficiency in the British North America Act which makes it extremely difficult to remove a judge of the high courts when he is too old or infirm to properly perform his duties.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, raised the question of reserved judgments which he said was "a national scandal."

He also protested against the custom of giving high retiring allowances to judges for life at a time when it was impossible to get any consideration of increases in the old age pension rates.

Just before adjournment Clarence Gillis (C.C.F. Cape Breton South) told Labor Minister Mitchell that so important and permanent a task as building up the unemployment machinery should not be asked of temporary workers who face the prospect of having to make way for veterans when the war is over.

Mr. Mitchell said he recognized the important work being performed by this staff but the policy sinces start of the war was to appoint only temporary staff in the public service.

Urges Money For Minerals

OTTAWA, July 24.—(CP).—John R. MacNicol, Prog. Con. Toronto Davenport) to-day suggested to Resources Minister Crerar in the House of Commons that the Minister should ask next year for more money for his geological branch, with a view to branching out toward full development of Canada's national resources.

Speaking of an item of $11,158,000 in the mines and resources 1943-44 estimates, Mr. MacNichol said geologists, chemists and engineers should be better paid, to make sure they were not lured away by better salaries available to themb elsewhere.

George Fulford (Lib. Leeds) said graphite deposits in Leeds county, graphite deposits in Leedos county, "right at Ottawa's door," and they had been worked in the past. He said he wondered if they were being overlooked in present surveys with a view to re-opening some of the old mines.

Mr. Crerar, said any vrospects showing possibilities had been surveyed and Leeds county had been "very fully prospected."

There were 31 geological survey parties in the field this summer and, in view of the difficulty of getting trained personnel, that was a very creditable showing, said Mr. Crerar.

Reporter Says Whale Meat Tastes Good

By GORDON McCALLUM

JUNEAU Alaska, July 24.—Don't let any one tell you that whale meat isn't tasty. It's good.

This correspondent ate it at the mansion house of Governor Ernest Gruening. The Governor served it as one of the little nick-nacks which are proper between cocktails and dinner. And it was excellent. It tastes much like beef, perhaps a little sweeter. Governor Gruening is administrative head of a vast area. Juneau itself is a tremendously pretty little city of 8,000, a miniature edition of Vancouver. Once afraid of the Japs, the city has air-raid shelters. It still dims out at sunset.

Guest of honor at the Governor's dinner was Webster Carter of Sitka, Alaska, who had shipped by air to the Governor a seven-pound box of tomatoes grown at Sitka. Mr. Carter is a greenhouse owner at Sitka, and this spring he beat California-grown tomatoes, which are carried by boat to Alaska, by starting his plants in January and producing them by growing them in chemicals. After the war he's going to pick another spot in Alaska where there's more sunshine than at Sitka and go into chemical vegetable production in a big way and deliver the products by airplane.

Last spring he was selling fresh tomatoes at Sitka for 60 cents a pound and the citizens were taking all he could produce. Right now, his greenhouse flowers travel by air to many Alaska communities.

Juneau is lucky — no rationing. Down in the United States meat is hard to get, but in Juneau there's plenty in butchers' display cases. Most Juneau citizens don't want to go back to the United States mainland for a visit until the war is over.

Memories of Russia.

In the Governor's mansion is a big oil painting of Peter the Great, Czar of all the Russias. It was brought from Russia just before Alaska was purchased by the United States in the 1860's. Also in the Governor's house is the desk on which the deal was signed.

Opponents of the deal described Alaska as a "sucked orange." But it was one of the most important deals the United States ever made. Millions upon millions of dollars of gold came from the area. And now it's the centre of the world's aerial map.

The Governor travels by airplane to reach interior points of Alaska. He took part in the celebration at Edmonton on July 2. He was guest of honor at affairs which were designed to demonstrate the friendship of Canadians and Americans.

Governor Gruening sees the Alaska Highway doing much for Alaska. But he thinks that much of the postwar tourist travel won't be by way of Edmonto. The United States Army now is building a road from a point near Whitehorse to Haines on the Alaska coast. Mr. Gruening thinks a favorite travel route will be up the British Columbia-Alaska coast by ship, then over to the Alaska Highway, and north to Fairbanks. It's a long "grind" from Edmonton to Whitehorse by road, and most of the real mountain scenery is northwest to Whitehorse.

AFTER ALL.. IT'S RESULTS that count

THE RECORD OF ALEX ELLIOTT TELLS the CONVINCING STORY OF A GOOD JOB WELL DONE . . . So We Let the Facts Speak for Themselves!

- Sponsored Private Bill permitting Municipal Board to order surpluses of City Trust Commissions in Ontario to be used to reduce taxation. This legislation has already saved Peterborough ratepayers $59,893.10.
- Secured completion of Highway 28 to Bancroft.
- Member of Committee of 12 which studied revision of Municipal and Assessment Acts.
- Secured Fish Hatchery for Peterborough County. (In 1941 and 1942 29,948,000 fish fry, fingerlings, yearlings and adult fish from this hatchery have been placed in Peterborough waters.)
- Chairman of Private Bills Committee of Legislature.
- Member of Committee (part time as chairman) which studied timber resources of Province.
- Served as Assistant Counsel for Public Accounts Committee.
- Arranged U.S. Editors' tour through Kawartha Lakes.
- Had substantial capital expenditures made on roads which were barely passable in Galway, Cavendish, Chandos, and Methuen.
- Arranged with Ontario Travel and Tourist Bureau to have 20,000 copies of Examiner's Vacation Edition mailed in each of years 1939, 1940, 1941 and 1942 to Americans enquiring about Ontario.
- Boosted Peterborough as a great summer playground.
- Obtained annual grants to construct and maintain roads which led to development of mining properties in the county.
- In order to stimulate prospecting and mining, had mining schools held in Peterborough and Havelock in 1938.
- Enlisted with Prince of Wales Rangers in 1939, went active 1941 and went overseas in Spring of 1942.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

GETS HIS WINGS

"Al" Marshall of Peterborough, holding the Canadian championship breast stroke swimming, graduated on Friday at No. 1 Service Flying Training school at Camp Borden.

AIRMAN TRANSFERS.

LAC. Bernard Burrows, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Burrows, 158 Park Hill Road, has been tarnsferred from Toronto I.T.S. where he completed his course, to Pendleton E.F.T.S. near Ottawa. LAC. Burrows enlisted December 8, 1942 and is training as a pilot.

AN OMITED GARDEN.

The entry of H. Butler, 550 Chamberlain street, was inadvertently omitted from the report of the Horticultural Society's lawn and gardens competition. His entry in the Victory garden class included many varieties of vegetables with an outstanding display of tomatoes, showing good cultivation and care. The garden is bordered with a wealth of bloom, mostly perennials. A fine display of Creelman lilies adds an attractive touch, their massive heads of bloom contributing color to the dark green foliage of the vegetables.

FAILED TO MOVE AWAY

Pleading guilty to causing a disturbance on Charlotte street, Samuel Hillier was fined $5 and costs by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning. Sergt. G. T. Puffer told the court that if the accused had moved away when instructed to do so by the police he might have escaped the charge.

RIDERS ON BRIDGE

The police department has been receiving complaints about bicycle riders on the C.P.R. footbridge. One citizen reports being struck by a cyclist and sustaining a bruised shoulder. Police court cases will follow if the practice of riding wheels across the bridge is kept up.

PETERBORO WOMAN PASSES

Mrs. E. McKinstry and Mrs. J. Robinson, 236 Burnham street, receleved word to-day of the death of their cousin, Mrs. Fred Gill (nee Annie Gillgrass.) She passed away July 19 at her home in Hermosa Beach, California. Burial took place at the Forest Lawn cemetery. The late Mr. Gill lived for several years in Peterborough.

POOR JOE

Some petty thieving has been taking place on the city parking lot on Charlotte street in the past few days, which while not serious has become quite a nuisance to car owners. One driver came out from work and found that the valve caps had been removed from his titres and so the next day he raefused to leave his car there. His friend, however, thought lightning couldn't strike twice in one place and parked his machine only to discover in a few hours that his had been removed too.—J. S.

Bicycle Thieves Held By Police

Two young Peterborough boys have been having quite an experience with the result that both are in the police toils.

Several days ago the pair stole two bicycles here and took off for the East. They spent that night at Trenton after riding the stolen wheels that far and Thursday they moved into Belleville where they succeeded in selling the bicycles and with the $30 they received bought an old automobile.

A little later Belleville police investigated their activities and they were arrested One of the boys is being held in Belleville to face a charge there and will be brought back to Peterborough.

The other lad, a juvenile, appeared in juvenile court here this morning and was remanded. Magistrate E. A. Gee presided.

Luxury Cars Replace Coach

Scarcity of the familar common coaches compelled the C. N. R. to substitute parlor cars in making up the Toronto-Belleville train which went through here last night about half an hour late, returning this morning at eight o'clock.

If the public may sometimes be sceptical about the reports of lack of sufficient rolling stock, they should have to see one of those transferred trains like that one last night. It was all top drawer, air conditioned and generally one plus ultra or something like that, the passengers getting the benefit of the extraordinary conditions forcing the transfer of de luxe equipment to the local run.

Ed Ryan, uptown agent, informed the Examiner that this was not the first time parlor cars were included in the make-up of the Toronto-Belleville train. They have been appearing fairly often of late.

Brewery Warehouse Hours Are Changed

The brewery warehouse will be open Tuesday and Thursday evenings beginning next week, according to a report today of a sales experiment to be made here on the order of the Ontario Liquor Control Board as a result of representations made at the suggestion of the management of some of Peterborough's industries.

The warehouse will be closed all day Tuesday and Thursday until 6 p.m. when the doors will be opened, thereby conserving the day's quota for evening sale.

On the four other days of the week the hours of sale will be from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

It is understood that this change in the usual hour of vending will be observed in its results and effect of operation.

The Tuesday and Thursday hours will probably be from 6 p.m. until the day's quota is sold. The Liquor Control Board is said to be changing the hours on these two days for the purpose of trying to meet the objections of factory workers that they were prevented from buying any beer during the week because they could not get away in the morning when the allowance for the day was quickly disposed of.

Security Plan Author Described By Senator As Avowed Socialist

OTTAWA, July 24—(CP)—A brisk exchange on the capability of Dr. Leonard C. Marsh, author of a report on social security in Canada, marked a Senate debate on the War Appropriation Bill Friday.

Senator Rupert Davies (Lib., Ontario) said that in postwar planning there seemed to be a tendency "to make the pattern for the garment before we have made the arrangements to get the cloth."

Senator Davies devoted a considerable part of his remarks to Dr. Marsh, whom he described as "an avowed Socialist."

Senator A. K. Hugessen (Lib., Quebec), chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Social Security, said he had invited Dr. Marsh to appear before his committee, and he was "in no way sorry."

Senator Davies said Dr. Marsh had been one of the joint authors of the handbook of the C.C.F. Party, which had been highly critical of the Senate, describing it as "reactionary," and advocating its abolition.

In view of this, it was surprising that Dr. Marsh should consent to appear before the Senate committee, Senator Davies said.

"Dr. Marsh is a young man, but so far as I can find out all that he has done is advise other people," he added.

There was increasing concern among smaller business men about their postwar future because they wondered where the money was coming from to finance the "vast schemes" that were being considered by committees.

Charges Inexperience

"We have a lot of plans being made by men with little if any experience in business," he said.

Unless there was a downward revision of taxation after the war thousands of small business men would be forced out of business and the field left open to chain stores and trusts.

"We must plan for postwar social security on a basis that the country can afford," Senator Davies said, explaining that he favored social security schemes as far as they could be afforded.

In "an age of hitchhikers" there was a tendency to forget the ideals of thrift and economy.

Senator Davies said that while he did not hold the apparent views of Dr. Marsh on the Senate against him he considered they were evidence that he was "ignorant and ill informed" on the subject. He questioned whether Dr. Marsh was to be trusted as a guide to a postwar program.

A wave of immigration was to be expected after the war but immigrants who would be attracted by a large social security scheme were not the best type. Immigration would be better benefitted by cheap power and low taxes which would attract capital.

Hits Excess Profits Tax

Progressive income taxes now had reached a point where "new business is not worth getting" and excess profits taxation was unfair in that it kept down the man who had low profits in the base period and enabled the man with high profits then to continue to make them.

Senator Hugessen said he regretted the attack made by Senator Davies on Dr. Marsh and considered it was not proper for a Senator to attack a Government servant who had no means of replying and who had appeared as a witness before a committee which had not yet made a complete report.

"The basis of the attack seems to smack of prejudice," Senator Hugesson said.

Dr. Marsh's political beliefs, whatever they might be, were not material to his contribution to setting up a social security scheme along the lines set out in the Speech from the Throne, at the Winnipeg Progressive Conservative convention and in the British report of Sir William Beveridge.

Sir William, on his recent visit to Canada, had spoken highly to Senator Hugessen of Dr. Marsh's report.

Senator Hugessen said he thought such an attack might have a detrimental effect on the type of evidence which the committee would be able to obtain in the future.

Senator J. H. King, Government Leader, sponsored the War Appropriator Bill and reviewed statements made in the House of Commons by Defense Ministers on war expenditures.

Senator C. C. Ballantyne, Progressive Conservative Senate Leader, said there was apprehension among Canadian people as to whether sufficient reinforcements were available for the forces overseas. A statement by Senator King that 100,000 men trained and enlisted for service anywhere were available to reinforce some 190,000 men overseas was a contradiction of this apprehension.

"I can only say that with all due respect I am gratified but I am also mystified," Senator Ballantyne added.

Junior Farmers Visit C.P.C. Plant

Forty-two junior farmers of Peterborough and Durham spent most of Friday afternoon at the plant of Canada Packers Limited. They were the members of boys pig clubs in the two counties, twelve from Peterborough and twenty-eight from Durham, accompanied respectively by the agricultural representatives F. C. Paterson and Ed Summers.

The practical work of converting market hogs into Wiltshire sides for British export was displayed to the boys who spent considerable time in the coolers and in observing the details of rail grading.

The boys were the guests of G. S. Matthews at supper at the staff house on Monaghan Road. They heard a helpful talk on phases of the industry by Elgin Senn, Toronto, superintendent of the hog graders in Ontario. It was the kind of practical address, someone remarked, that would have been of deep interest also to adults.

Gordon Marshall was chairman of the after dinner program, and the guests were welcomed by James Goldie, on behalf of Mr. Matthews who was unable to attend.

Wants Planning

Andrew Brewin, C.C.F. representative from Toronto, spoke at the Co-op. Friday night, lashing out at the farm and labor policies of the Liberal government and stating that industry was not planning to successfully care for the unemployment problem which is to be expected after the war. He said that the C.C.F. was the only party which had given the matter any thought.

War—25 Years Ago

JULY 25, 1918: Allies occupied Forest of Fere, La Croix Farm, Oulchy - le - Chateau and Villemontorie; steady progress made by French-American troops in face of violent German counterattacks.

Citizens Buy 85 Bombs For Sailors

Peterborough citizens are responding in the current drive to supply the Navy with the depth charges that will spell defeat for the German U-boat menace. The money they have lent their Government through the purchase of War Savings stamps is already sufficient to pay for the delivery of 85 depth bombs, and a week yet remains before the campaign will come to a close.

Through information gathered by the National War Finance Committee it is learned that 69 of the posters which have been distributed among banks, insurance companies and stores around the town are now completely filled, and in addition the boys and girls who serve as Examiner News carriers have accounted for 16 on their own. Of the total 42 have already been sent on to Navy Headquarters, Ottawa where they will be pasted on the "ashcans" that will be given free of charge to Hitler's cohorts, whenever opportunity arises, in the deep, cold waters of the gray Atlantic.

Volunteer Work

A remarkable feat that deserves recognition is the story of the short but fruitful labors of J. W. Steinkrauss, wholesale tobacconist. Mr. Steinkrauss, whose name was not on the regular last at the National War Finance Committee office, asked that he be given a poster as he felt that he could fill one. The poster was in his hands at 9:30 Friday morning and 1½ hours later was completely filled with the stickers of customers and friends.

Canadian General Electric was not requested to sell stamps either, but the company has recently asked to be supplied with 10 posters, which it expects to fill.

Although none of them are mentioned in the list that follows, with the exception of Canadian Department Stores, several of the groceries and department stores are nearing the completion of their posters, and this applies as well to a number of other stores and offices in the city.

The list of the completed posters to date is as follows: Examiner News Carriers, 16; Bank of Montreal, 15; Bank of Nova Scotia, 8; Bank of Toronto, 7; Bank of Commerce, 7; Royal Bank, 7; Dominion Bank, 6; C.N.R. Ticket office, 4; Post Office, 3; Miss Canada Girls and Sea Scouts, 3; Stamp Out Hitler Club, 2; Bell Telephone, 2; Canada Packers, 2; Canadian Department Stores, 1; Great-West Life Assurance Co., 1; and J. W. Steinkrauss, 1.

500 Poultry Raisers To Meet In Peterboro

Five hundred producers of poultry of the Central Ontario district from Ontario county to Prince Edward will meet in Peterborough about the middle of August, probably about the eighteenth. This meeting is being arranged for the purpose of affording producers information about markets and feeding problems and other phases of their investment in the present conditions of war.

Andrew Brewin Denounces Labor Policies

"The fundamental problem confronting this country after the war will be mass unemployment, and the C.C.F. is the only party with knowledge of the necessary steps to get and keep full employment," Andrew Brewin, vice-president of the Ontario section, C.C.F. said in an address Friday night at the Cooperative Hall.

Mr. Brewin, C.C.F. candidate in St. George's riding, Toronto spoke in the interests of Bruce Johnston, who is the local C.C.F. candidate.

"Military victory is not enough," Mr. Brewin said. "That is only chopping off the top of the weed of Fascism and leaving its roots in the ground."

Hitler and Fascism, he said, could not have arrived at the monstrous and evil growth they did attain had it not been for the desperate efforts of industrialists to save their skins when they found they could not cope with the problem presented by 6,000,000 German unemployed.

Want To Go Back

"And yet the old parties are looking forward to the day when we can get back to 'normal', when wages can be reduced and workers laid off. Innumerable industrialists are pining for a return to 'the good old days' when labor was easy to handle and tractable because it was a drug on the market," the speaker said.

But this situation could get out of hand, as it had in Germany, and when this happened these very men would appear. "In the minds of these industrialists are the very roots of Fascism," Mr. Brewin declared.

"Hitler crushed everything for which the C.C.F. stands, and yet Col. George Drew can call the C.C.F. a party of national socialism. How silly of Mr. Drew!"

Mr. Brewin wondered if it were not possible that the Progressive Conservative leader was following Hitler's dictum, expressed in 'Mein Kampf', that it was better to tell a big lie than a little one, because nobody would think that a man could could go so far in making a denunciation unless it were true.

Behind Times

"I think Mr. Drew doesn't know what's going on in the world today," the speaker said. "You are probably familiar with his low opinion of the military usefulness of Russia. He has also felt called upon to draw attention to the fine job Mussolini was doing."

The leader of the Liberal party was "by all accounts an inoffensive gentleman. He is a yes-man. Without provocation, he goes in one day and goes out the next in an entirely blameless way.

"In speaking of employment we are not talking of statistics but of human lives; of using the skill to produce things that will make people healthy and happy; of giving leisure to old people and ample paid vacations for the workers. What do the old parties know about labor? When they get in labor difficulties they go to the employers and ask what the employers would have them do. Then they go and do it", Mr. Brewin said.

Don't Like Labor

"The Conservatives do not have a single trade-unionist in Ontario and the Liberals have but one. That's what they think of labor. They tried to pretend ignorance of the existence of labor unions until the unions affiliated with the C.C.F., which was growing in power. Then they got scared. They passed the First Collective Bargaining Act, which was so restrictive in its clauses and raised such a storm of protest that they were shamefacedly forced to produce another.

"This is not much of an Act either, but it might have been worse," the speaker declared. "It is a compromise and turns decisions over to the courts, where the judges—even those of the utmost fairness, honesty and integrity—simply haven't got the proper background to deal with labor problems. What good is this to labor? The legalistic approach is like giving labor a stone when it asks for bread, and you may be sure that labor always gets the subtle decisions."

Poor Management

Mr. Brewin spoke of a bill brought before the House to provide for the building of 200 houses for overcrowded workers in Toronto. "Hon. James Clarke, who recently made an unfortunate remark in another connection, got to his feet and said: 'This is ridiculous! Why should the City of Toronto go into the business of building houses?' Liberals and Conservatives applauded. And when the Government does condescend to undertake housing projects you in Peterborough know what a mess they makeof it," Mr. Brewin said.

He branded as "a ridiculous and malicious lie" the charge that the C.C.F. would take farms away from farmers. "We are for the socialization of monopolies; not of farms where monopoly does not exist, but rather victimization. The farmer is exploited on all sides. There must be middlemen, of course, but they should not be allowed to have a stranglehold on both producer and consumer. We must develop the cooperative system," Mr. Brewin stated.

"We shall make mistakes, we shall have our disappointments, that is all true; but the C.C.F. is headed in the right direction."

Veteran Dies

Stanley William McCabe, 343 George Street, who died in Montreal on Tuesday in a dentist's office, was a member of the Veterans' Guard on duty at an internment camp for prisoners of war. He served with both the 93rd Battalion and the 21st Infantry Battalion in the last war. He was buried today.

Gladiolus Show August 11 For War Victims

Something entirely new to this city and district is to take place on August 11, when the Eastern Ontario Gladiolus Society, which has its headquarters in this city, will unite with the Peterborough Aquarium Society to hold an exhibition and show in the market hall, kindly donated for the occasion by reason of the fact that the entire proceeds will go to help the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

There are several pleasing features about this, the first annual event of its kind which should commend it extensively to all classes of people, for the event is a wide open one, with no restrictions as to membership in either society being necessary before one can exhibit, and there is no entrance fee.

Then to make it still more entertaining to all those interested, the judging will be quite open with exhibitors and others invited to watch the judging. There will be an open class, a single spike class, and a novice class, the latter of which is open to all who have not won a prize in major competition. There will be prizes in all classes, and a flower bowl trophy donated by the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. will be awarded to the exhibitor winning the highest number of points in the show. Most of the prizes will be war saving stamps.

In connection with this event, tickets went on sale on Friday at 25 cents each or five for a dollar, each ticket being eligible for a chance on five different prizes kindly donated for the occasion as an assist to the cause by the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Co. Ltd., the Brinton - Peterborough Carpet Co. Ltd., T. F. Doughty, H. S. Routley, and Fred Cripps of the portrait studios, who have given a half ton of coal, a small Brinton rug, a war saving certificate, an eleven piece Pyrex set and an $8.00 framed portrait, besides giving free admission to the show.

Uptown, the tickets may be obtained at the Examiner office, Welch's Barber shop, and the Peterborough Pet Stock Store on Charlotte street.

Prize lists and further details may be had on request, G. H. Clarke, 49 Alfred street, Phone No. 6417, and H. B. Ball, 161 Park street N., Phone No. 9102, president and secretary respectively of the Gladiolus Society; or C. H. Bacon, 697 Ross street, Phone No. 9021, and Al. Warne, 421 Sheridan street, Phone 6681, president and secretary respectively of the Aquarium Society.

Beverly Totals $31.50

A remarkable example of spendid initiative on the part of a young 13-year-old girl is being unfolded through the work done by Beverly Patterson of 124 Parkmount Road, Toronto, who is holidaying with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Patterson on George street North, for since the recess from school duties began, she has already raised the sum of $31.50 to help the people of Britain through the fund.

On two previous occasions she has turned in a total of $25.00, and today's $6.50 listed in her name makes a total of $31.50, which places her very much to the forefront in an individual effort by one of so young an age. This latest contribution was made through the sale of flowers from her grandmother's garden, and the sale of tea towels and pot holders which she had made.

From the Hood and Cumming Service Station on George street comes a donation of $1.50, made possible through the sale of salvage collected by Don Perks who has charge there, and the penny box at the same station added another 60 cents to the day's receipts when collected by the secretary of the fund on Friday.

Country Makes Australians Self Reliant

Australia, like Canada, is one of the young nations of the British Empire, a nation whose possibilities of growth and future influence in world affairs are enormous and difficult to estimate, it was said Friday by Mrs. Robertson Davies in an address given the Kiwanis Club.

"It is not wise to venture very far in making predictions about the future course of events," Mrs. Davies said. "Predictions seldom come true, and when events do justify them it never happens in the manner [illegible] foresaw. The peoples of the young nations, rather than stating dogmatically what positions of eminence they intend to occupy and what means they will employ to get there, should keep clear heads and open minds. They will accomplish most in that way."

Mrs. Davies, who was born in Tasmania and brought [illegible] in Melbourne, told her audience about many of [illegible] characteristics of the land and the people of the continent "Down-Under" and dealt with some of the popular misconceptions which still linger in the minds of uninformed strangers, such as the often-expressed opinion that Australia is a country chiefly populated by descendents of convicts. "That is true of only one per cent of the 7,000,000 inhabitants," Mrs. Davies said.

Hard To Reach

"Geography explains the noted self-reliance of the average Australian," Mrs. Davies pointed out. "Before the war it would take 10 days to reach Australia by plane from England and five weeks by ship [illegible] the Red Sea." Australia's nearest neighbors were not the Anglo - Saxon, English - speaking peoples with whom she would feel kinship, but the tremendous nations of Eastern Asia of one of whom she had a natural and genuine dread. "The fortress of Singapore was Australia's bulwark against invasion, and she lived in fear of the day when that bulwark would fall and she would have to face a Japanese invasion, perhaps alone and unaided."

Mrs. Davies described the essential features of the country, and emphasized the great differences which exist between the fertile, well-populated coastal areas and the vast desert territories which make up the whole interior, the "dead-heart" of the continent. Here, where rainfall was extremely low and serious droughts occurred where there were few rivers to irrigate the soil and terrible bush fires could sweep for hundreds of miles round, few white men lived. The interior of Australia contained the great sheep stations, the flora, the fauna and the very primitive natives — all the peculiarities of the continent.

The natives — called "black fellows" — Mrs. Davies described as nomadic, and said their culture had never advanced beyond the stone-age era. They still fought with spears and boomerangs. Australia was the home of the wallaby and kangaroo, and the chief feature of the landscape was the "bush" and the gray-green aroma-the eucalyptus tree."

"The Australians are very enthusiastic sportsmen,' Mrs. Davies said. "They love cricket, tennis and horse-racing. In New Guinea, where Americans and Australians are fighting, they have raced British horses originally imported there and re-captured from the Japanese and will bet large sums of money on the outcome. In fact an Australian will place money on almost any conceivable kind of betting proposition."

"Loyalty to the Empire has always been a very strong force among Australians. In the last war the Commonwealth contributed 330,000 volunteers, and their casulaties, 68½ per cent of the forces under arms, was the highest of any part of the Empire," Mrs. Davies said. "In this war Australians have fought on many fronts, and it was they who held Tobruk through nine months of siege."

John Bradshaw introduced the speaker, and President Dick Raine moved the vote of thanks.

Night Attack Sweeps Enemy Beyond Town

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press War Correspondent

CALTANISSETTA, Sicily, July 21 —(Delayed) — (AP)— The battalion colonel and his company commanders huddled about a lamp in an old house not far from Caltanissetta, a key city in the enemy's defence of Sicily. There was a terrain map on the table.

The light revealed the lines of fatigue in their faces, for they and their troops had been fighting for eight days with an average of not more than four hours sleepin each 24. They had fought their way across the beaches of Sicily, across the ridges and valleys by day and night, and now they were before the strategic city of Caltanissetta.

"We must be ready to attack at two o'clock," the colonel said. "It's now 14 minutes to 11 and you must get your men into the line by 11:30.

"Our objective is here to the east of Caltanissetta. We have to cross this river bed, move across this table land and then seize this hill. We hit them from three sides. We must take our objective by daybreak."

Close In

A few minutes later the troops were on the march in the bright moonlight. The Canadians were attacking on our right and an American division to our left. The Allies were closing in an the Caltanissetta and Enna area, which was the key to the defence of Sicily.

"With all of us pushing something's got to fall," the colonel said.

We walked through an orchard and down through a wheatfield to the road leading to the valley below Caltanissetta. Troops carrying tommyguns, machineguns and heavy boxes of ammunition were moving on the road.

On the hills ahead of us fires were burning.

Slight Opposition

From the hills to our right came bursts of machine-gun fire and the crackle of small arms fire. Our troops had run into an enemy strongpoint and had set about reducing it with rocket guns, grenades and machine-gun fire. Along most of the front the enemy had withdrawn.

It was dawn when the first Allied troops marched into Caltanisetta. Their faces were grey with dirt as they marched through the rubble and wreckage and kept marching to the north in pursuit of the enemy.

The city was gutted by bombs and artillery. Days before we had landed Allied bombers had swept over to pound enemy storage dumps, troop concentrations and communications. The frightened inhabitants had fled to caves in the mountains or flocked into the homes of friends in the country.

Island Hopping Not The Policy

LONDON, July 24 (CP).—Elmer Davis, director of the United States office of war information, told newsmen today that tactics being pursued in the Pacific did not necessarily mean the Allies were committed to a policy of regaining lost ground island by island.

The campaign hinges upon obtaining airfields, he said, adding the time would come when the Allies would pass beyond the present stage of operations.

He emphasized there is close cooperation between British and American propaganda, but referring to Russia said "We have not always found it easy to co-ordinate. We are hoping to open an office in Moscow but there is none there yet."

He said he found the O.W.I. organization in London satisfactory, and that he would visit Africa before returning home.

Bride-to-Be Entertained By Community

SPRINGVILLE, July 24 (ENS)—A gathering was held in the United church basement last week in honor of Miss Ruth Hunter, whose marriage to Mr. Earl Hunt of Holstein, Ont., is an event of this week.

Rev. Everson acted as chairman for the following program: Community singing, led by Duncan Seymour; reading, Jean Fairbairn; quartette, Misses Joy Preston and Viola Neals and Messrs. Bernard Preston and Duncan Seymour; reading, Janet McIntosh; duet, Viola Neals and Joy Preston. A mock wedding was held with Jean Fairbairn, Janet McIntosh, Clifford Johnston, Charlie Whittington, Manson Cathcart and Duncan Seymour.

Jean Fairbairn read an address to Ruth, expressing to her the esteem in which she is held by all her Springville friends.

Dorothy Cathcart and Walter Brown then presented on behalf of the Young Peoples' Society, the United church, and the Community, a beautiful clock and an original etching. Helen Kimbal presented her with a bouquet of flowers.

Short addresses, which further testified to the esteem in which Ruth is held, were given by Reeve M. H. Johnston, superintendent of the Sunday School, Miss Jessie Schaeffer, Clifford Johnston, R. B. Elliott and Mrs. S. S. Staples.

Miss Hazel Hall and Mr. Bernard Preston then sang.

Kitchener Man Wins Second War Decoration

OTTAWA, July 24 (CP).— Sgt. George A. Hickson, D.C.M., 28, of Kitchener, Ont., won the Military Medal in North Africa for organizing a detachment to clear a gap through a mine-field so tanks could advance to their "final objective"—a job carried out under "constant shell and mortar fire."

The citation for the award, announced July 8, was issued today. By winning the Military Medal Hickson became the first Canadian soldier to win two battle decorations in this war.

Also made public today was the citation covering award of the Military Cross to Capt. W. H. V. Matthews, 26, of Sooke, B.C. in the battle of Bou Arada last April 22, he was the only officer left in his company and "under extremely heavy fire" he "consolidated his position on the second objective when a counter-attack seemed imminent."

Sgt. Hickson's party, in less than an hour lifted more than 100 mines, making a 40-yard opening.

"It was undoubtedly due to the coolness and efficiency of the N.C.O. (Hickson) that the task was completed and the tanks enabled to pass through the minefield and assist the infantry in the capture of the final objective," said his citation.

THE ARMY'S FLYING WING!

WHEN AN INFANTRY ADVANCE is held up by an enemy "hot spot," the Commanding Officer signals for the shock troops—the hard-riding, sharp-shooting men of the Carrier Sections. Zooming up in speedy, armoured Universal Carriers the boys in black battle dress throw themselves and their weapons into action with the wild abandon of rodeo riders—but with deadly precision and split-second teamwork.

A Carrier Section (three carriers, nine men and a Section Commander) can concentrate fire-power equal to that of an entire infantry platoon on an enemy position. On today's fluid battle lines, the Carriers are star performers. They deliver a knockout blow in one place and—before the enemy knows what hit him—are striking again far down the line.

Each man in the Carrier Troops is an accomplished driver or radio operator; each is a dead shot with rifle, Bren gun, anti-tank rifle or 2-inch mortar which are standard equipment. Useful also for laying smoke screens to cover troop movements, the Universal Carriers are often called upon to transport men and supplies over rough-and-tumble terrain which would stop a less powerful or sure-footed vehicle.

Canada can expect great things from the fast, fearless soldiers in the Carrier Section—the Army's flying wing!

One of more than 50 types of battle vehicles made and tested by Ford of Canada's craftsmen, the Universal Carrier is a versatile piece of equipment; has already figured in successful Commando raids and important United Nations advances.

"Our fighting men are trained and ready to hit the enemy with everything they've got. Our job is to see they have more than enough first-rate battle equipment—and the job won't be finished until our enemy has 'unconditionally surrendered'."

American Navy Bombards Kiska

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—Heavy guns of the United States Pacific fleet bombarded Japanese positions on Kiska Island Thursday, the Navy Department announced today, in the seventh surface attack this month against the enemy's Aleutians outpost.

The shelling apparently was intended to hasten the day when Kiska defences will be softened sufficiently for amphibious assault and a final campaign to throw the Japanese out of the Western Aleutians.

The surface attack was made by warships which a navy communique described only as "heavy and light surface units."

Enemy shore guns returned the fire but none of the American ships was damaged.

A navy spokesman said that heavy fleet units could include modern battleships with their 16-inch guns, older capital vessels with their 14-inch guns, or heavy cruisers with their eight-inch cannon. All those guns are classed in the navy as heavy guns. Light surface units include destroyers and light cruisers.

The bombardment followed by 24 hours a raid of United States army heavy bombers on the Japanese runway and main camp area on Kiska. Numerous hits were scored and fires started in the air raid.

Word of the attack coincided with an Associated Press dispatch from Alaskan headquarters today reporting that the Japanese had finally completed a 3,700-foot runway on Kiska. The bombers obviously intended to undo much of the work accomplished.

While these actions were going on in the North Pacific the Japanese threw a force of bombers against the American base on Funafuti in the Ellice Islands, in the south central Pacific. The navy said two bombers were shot down, but that while no material damage had been reported there were some personnel casualties.

Plan Church Service For August Meeting

FRASERVILLE, July 24 (ENS).—The regular meeting of the Fraserville W.A. was held on Wednesday afternoon, July 21, at the home of Mrs. R. Finlay.

The afternoon was spent in quilting.

Mrs. F. Lackie, president, was in charge of the devotional period and Mrs. W. Moncrief of the program, which consisted of a trio by Marjory, Hazel and Helen Lewers; a reading by Mrs. W. Moncrief, 'Look Up,' and 'My Mission,' given by Miss Jean Holden.

It was decided the ladies hold their church service August 1, with Mrs. Harris, of Peterborough, as guest speaker. The service to be at 8 p.m.

There was a fine attendance and those present included: Mrs. S. Hogg, Mrs. B. Cunningham, Mrs. F. Lackey, Mrs. A. Hewitt, Mrs. P. and W. Moncrief, Mrs. William Rowland, Mrs. G. Hall and Misses Ethel Waterman, Hazel, Helen and Marjorie Lewers and Jean Holden.

More Trouble

MONTREAL, July 24 —(CP).—Canadian Pacific's east side Angus shops will close to-day for perhaps a week's "holidays" and 7,700 employees will be idle as a strike originally involving 1,600 laborers remains unsettled.

Russian Plan Interests World

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—Moscow's appeal to the Germans to overthrow Hitler and make an immediate peace, launched through a new "National Committee of Free Germany," was viewed here today as a trial balloon of more than ordinary importance.

The committee, with obvious Soviet inspiration, appealed in a manifesto for the formation of a "Genuine National German Government," which would immediately cease military operations, recall the troops to the Reich's original frontiers and embark on peace negotiations.

Washington officialdom shared the reported view in London that the manifesto showed Russia's pre-eminent interest in the peace conditions to be imposed on Germany.

It undoubtedly was intended, it was said, as a propaganda weapon to help the Red Army's counter-offensive by weakening the German home front, since it was broadcast to Germany by the Moscow radio.

The Moscow committee also could be a tentative nucleus for a pro-Soviet organization to take over authority in Germany, some quarters believe.

Some apprehension was expressed privately here that such a statement might stiffen German resistance out of fear that the Soviets intend to dominate Germany.

Band Has Charge WMS Meeting

SPRINGVILLE, July 24 (ENS).—The July meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. M. H. Johnston.

The program, was given by the members of Mission Band who are under the direction of Miss Velma Staples. Owing to Miss Staples' absence the arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Misses Joy Preston and Patricia Staples.

The call to worship was given by Evelyn Dunn, Audrey Kelk led in prayer and Hazel McIntosh read Psalm 23 for the Scripture lesson.

A selection "The Beauty of God's Earth" was given by Evelyn Dunn, Marylin Bowles, Ila Dunford and Audrey Kelk.

The program consisted of a story "White Fire" by Margaret MacNeill, a recitation by Irma Shaw, a duet by Ila Dunford and Marylin Bowles, a bible selection by Hazel McIntosh, Irma Shaw and Evelyn Dunn, and a poem by Margaret MacNeill.

A vote of thanks was given to the Mission Band by the W. M. S. members.

Young People Honor Mrs. L. Carr

SPRINGVILLE, July 24 (ENS)—A party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clifford recently, when the young people of the community gathered in honor of Mrs. Lloyd Carr, the former Irene Clifford, who was married recently.

Mrs. Carr showed her friends her wedding gifts, then all went to the lawn where games were played. A short program was given in the house. Jean Fairbairn gave a reading and a mock wedding was held. Dorothy Cathcart read an address and Viola Neals presented a set of dishes.

Mrs. Carr thanked her friends for their kindness. Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served.

Insurance Bill Gets More Study

OTTAWA, July 24 (CP) Consultations between the Dominion and the provinces before the next session of parliament on financial and constitutional questions relating to health insurance were proposed today by the House of Commons social security committee on its final report.

The committee said further study of the draft health insurance bill, which it has had under review, is desirable before it is approved in detail or amended and finally reported.

The report, tabled by Hon. Cyrus MacMillan (Lib. Queens) also recommended that "the government review the existing regulations covering old-age pensions, pensions for the blind, and war veterans allowances and consider the advisability of adjusting the eligibility age to a lower level and of increasing the amount of the pension."

The committee proposed that a study of a program of social security be continued during the next session of parliament with the object of making a co-ordinated framework of the various topics and problems.

It is proposed that the committee—or whatever committee is subsequently appointed for the purpose—be provided with the necessary research assistance.

Mess Room Chatter

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 24—(CP). — Sgt. C. H. (Ed) Witheridge of Bowmanville, Ont., treasures two jagged pieces of flak. They came from the shoulder of about as tough a pilot as any R.C.A.F. navigator such as Witheridge could hope to fly with.

Witheridge told about it after the doc had patched up the pilot, an Englishman who brought his Lancaster and its crew back safely from the flaming areas of Cologne even though he was badly wounded.

First Witheridge and the rest of the crew knew about the pilot's injury was when they heard him say, "that one got me."

Here's how Ed described it: "We had just released our bombs dead in the target when the kite seemed to shake all over and the skipper shouted that it had got him. It was an unlucky shrapnel burst through the perspex and the moment it hit we must have dropped 1,500 or 2,000 feet. But he pulled it through. He was slumped over on his left side and could use only one hand as he flew the old kite all the way home and made one of the neatest landings you could have wished."

It was only the third operation for the crew.

Latest news about Wing Cmdr. Bader's artificial legs: A new leg and a new socket are being sent to him in a German prisoner-of-war camp. They will be delivered by British Overseas Airways to Lisbon and handed over there to the German Airways Line. Since Bader, former leader of a Canadian squadron in the R.A.F., received the first of five artificial legs delivered to him in imprisonment he has made four attempts to escape.

Forty-nine seems old for a pilot on operations, but don't ever say that to Sqdn. Ldr. Robert Henry McIntosh. He is that age and he has just won the D.F.C., for his part in air-sea rescue sorties. His friends in the R.A.F. call him "All Weather Mac," because he flies whether it be snow, gale or hail. He won the Air Force Cross back in 1941 and has been flying for 26 years. Altogether All-Weather Mac has flown more than 100 types of aircraft, ranging from the 70-horsepower crates of the First Great War to the giant four-engined bombers of to-day.

June flying operations gained Canadians 73 air awards made up of 48 D.F.C.'s, two bars to the D.F.C., 21 D.F.M.'s, one D.S.O. and one U.S. Air Medal.

At one Halifax Bomber station the ground crew heard a buzzing from the tail of a plane as they serviced it. Investigating, they discovered a swarm of bees in there and it was the station padre who solved things by calling the vicar of a nearby village who was also a beekeeper. The vicar removed the Queen Bee and the rest of them left the plane in a hurry. The fabric of the tailplane then was patched up and the Halifax went out to Cologne and back again that night without incident.

POPULAR MURPHY

The potato is one of the most popular items of food in any service mess.

These Boys Are Prisoners Of The Allies

Part of the huge bag of Italian prisoners captured in Syracuse and vicinity on the Island of Sicily are shown passing through the streets of that city to the port from which they were shipped to internment. Many of the captives are obviously happy to be out of the war and going far away from their German partners.

Within the Framework of Freedom Forward with Drew to Better Days

Our danger in this Province is not unemployment after the war, but rather a shortage of workers for the job which lies ahead if only those who direct our affairs have the vision to see the role which Ontario and Canada can play in the post-war world. If we believe Ontario is about to enter a period of rapid expansion of the producing capacity of our farms our factories, our mines and our forests, then we are safe in promising employment not only to those who will be demobilized, but to many others who will also be needed to produce those things which will be required in enormous quantities by the whole world. This is true especially in meeting the needs of post-war reconstruction overseas, where destruction must be repaired. The enormous demand for replacements after the war is mounting every day. Ontario's huge reserves of raw materials will be required everywhere.

The simple truth is that all this terrible destrction is creating such opportunties for our young men and women as they have never known before. But there must be planning if we are to be ready for the tasks which lie before us.

Make Ontario Strong!

DREW'S 22 POINT PROGRAM

Hailed as the greatest event in the political history of Ontario, George Drew and his Progressive Conservative candidates are pledged to a sweeping 22-point platform. It is termed "the finest social document in Ontario's history." Here is a summary of the Program which will be enforced if they are elected:

1—Maintenance of British institutions and partnerships.

2—Co-operation with the Dominion Government in the prosecution of the war.

3—Legislation to encourage good wages removal of bureaucratic restrictions.

WILL TAKE OVER STOCK YARDS

5—Farming will be organized in every county under committees. Stock yards will be taken over by the government as part of the plan for better food production and distribution.

5—New labour legislation assurring fairest and most advanced laws governing labour relations.

6—Mining industry will be assisted, tax burden lightened and aid given prospectors.

7—Vast forest resources to be placed under an Ontario Forest Resources Commission.

8—Ontario Housing Commission.

SCHOOL TAXES TO BE CUT

9—Sweeping revision of whole real estate tax system; government will assume at least 50 per cent. of school taxes now charged against real estate.

10—Educational system to be completely revised with stress on vocational training.

11—Public health measures to ensure that every child faces life healthy in every way.

12—Great public undertaking to ensure post-war employment.

TO REVAMP HYDRO

13—Hydro to be taken from politics and rate structure revised; removal of rural service charge.

14—Land reclamation to ensure economic security to war veterans and families.

15—Cut taxation by eliminating services duplicated by Ottawa.

16—Permanent civil service to be established.

17—Repeal legislation barring right of the individual to defend his person and property before the courts.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

18—Increase in mothers' allowances and old age pensions, also removal of rule that those taking pensions have to give up their property.

19—Supplies of fuel, milk and basic necessities to be assured by effective organization and control.

20—Preference for men and women who have served in armed forces for public services positions.

21—Legal protection for property of men and women in military service.

SOCIAL SECURITY PLAN

22—Committee to draft plans for the social security of the people after the war and for rehabilitation of those leaving the armed forces and munitions work.

CAPT. HAROLD R. SCOTT
Progressive Conservative Candidate

Vote Progressive-Conservative

Peace will bring the dawn of a better day. It is our duty to prepare for the peace — to make Ontario strong — to plan now for the future of those gallant lads who are fighting for us — to provide a place for them in the post-war world — the kind of a home they are fighting for — the freedom and security so essential to the democratic way of life. Make sure we have Ontario ready for them!

The Progressive Conservative Party under the leadership of George Drew offers a program that must appeal to Ontario's tradition of individual independence and self-reliance. He would not subject men to the governing hand of bureaucracy nor plan us all into puppets under drill sergeants of the State. That he believes should be left to the Socialists of the C.C.F.

In Peterborough, Captain Harold R. Scott, business man, veteran of the First Great War and personal friend of thousands of the citizens of this County is a Progressive Conservative Candidate worthy of the program of George Drew and meriting the confidence and support of every elector.

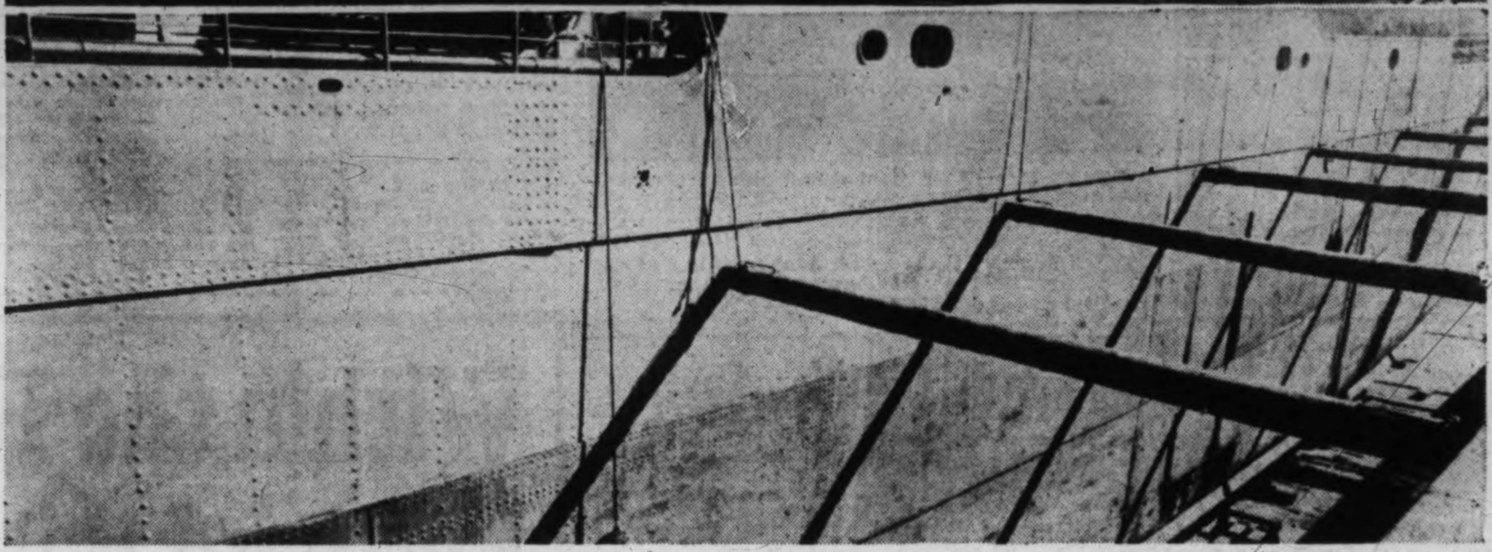
Canadian Yards Salvage Valuable War Cargoes, Repair Freighters of all Types



Diver's helmet is adjusted before salvage begins on cargo of wreck in Eastern port. By repairing damaged ships and salvaging sunken cargo Dept. of Munitions and Supply saves important tonnage, thousands of dollars worth of war goods.

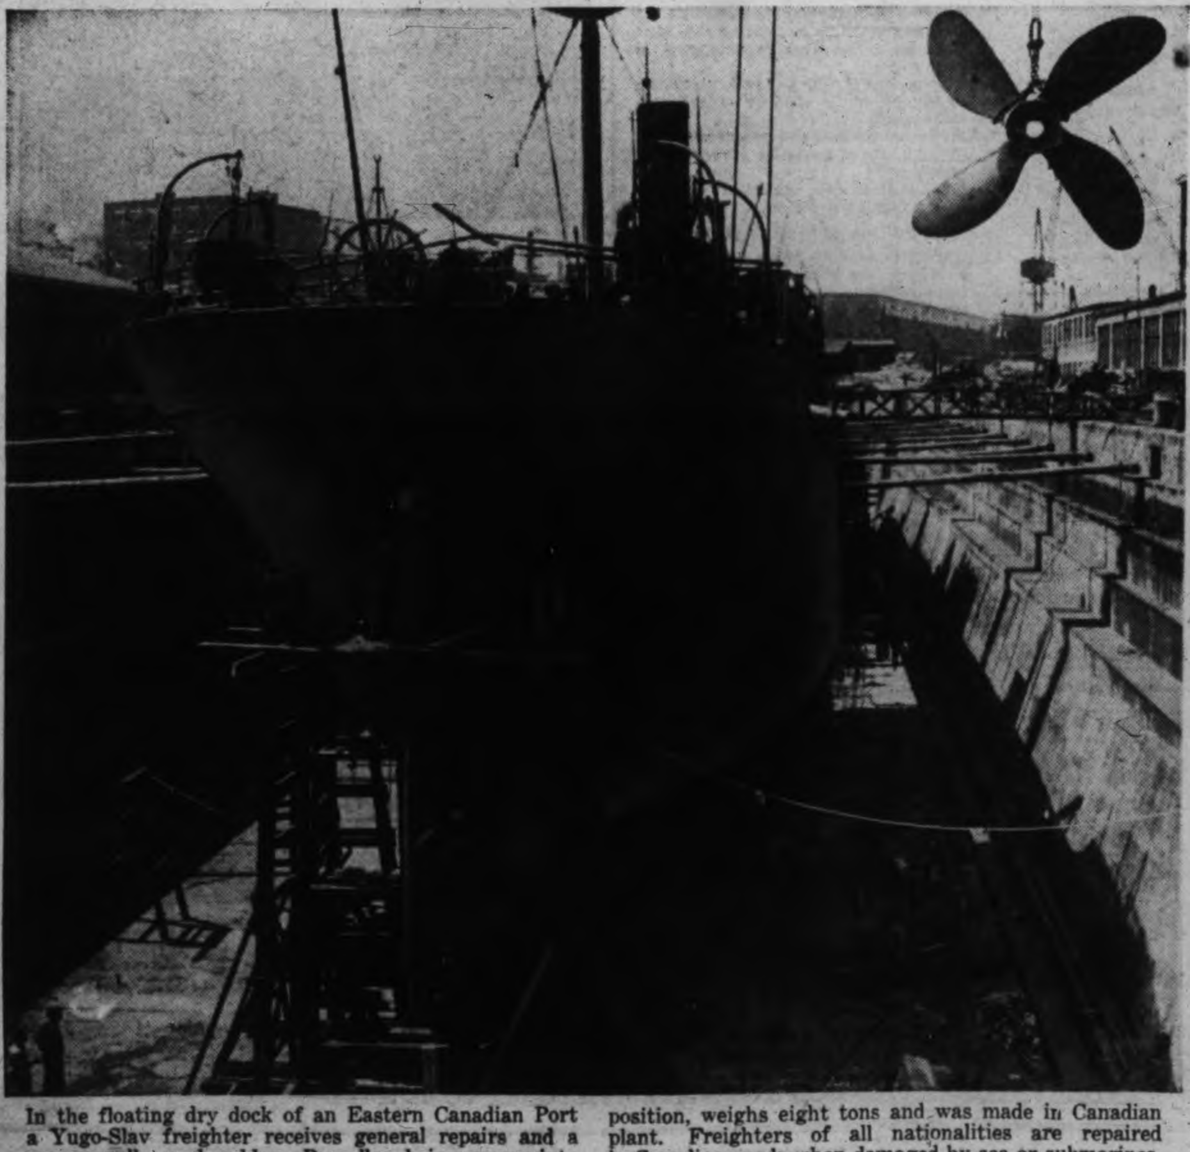
In the top picture is seen damage done to side of freighter by two torpedoes from a sub. A third torpedo crashed into opposite side of ship. Despite her wounds, gallant crew brought her into port. In dry dock with her cargo removed repair work began, and in the lower picture she is shown with a completely new side, signs of torpedo damage are gone, she is ready for sea again.

Over small microphone Navy salvage man talks to diver working below water on sunken ship. Valuable cargoes are brought up from the sea by these salvage workers.

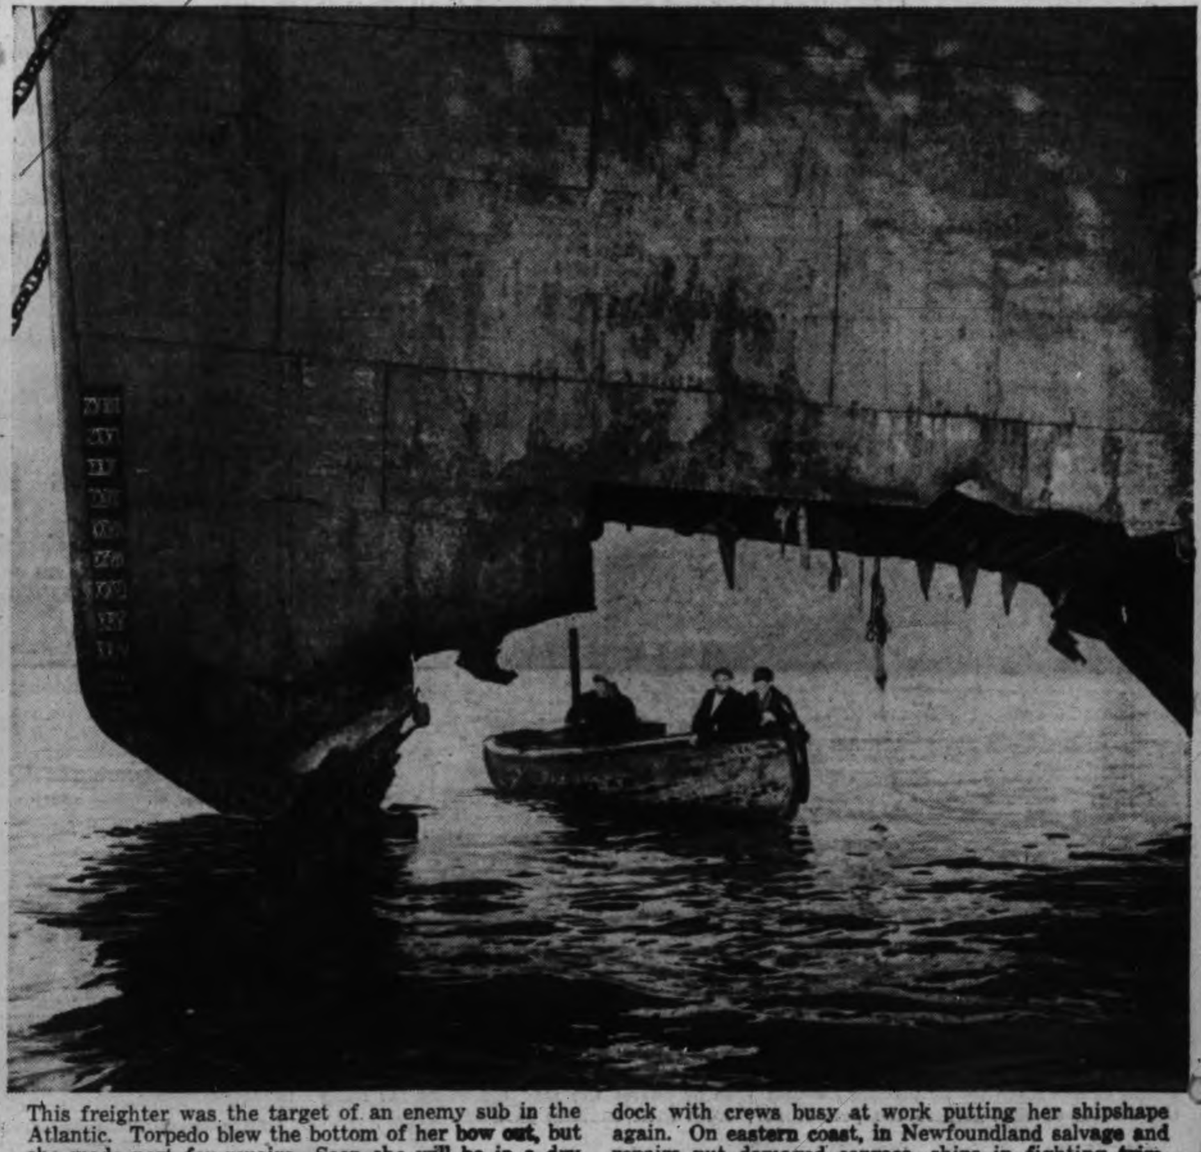
On stern of diving boat diver gets his final orders before face plate is screwed into place and air is pumped into his suit. Divers work winter and summer.

Diver Petty Officer John Brown enjoys a welcome cup of tea with couple of mates after working shift under water. Knife seems to be the center of Brown's story.

P.O. John Brown, St. John's, Newfoundland, and wife and baby, after receiving British Empire Medal for salvaging depth charge in an Eastern Canadian Port.



In the floating dry dock of an Eastern Canadian Port a Yugo-Slav freighter receives general repairs and a new propeller and rudder. Propeller, being swung into position, weighs eight tons and was made in Canadian plant. Freighters of all nationalities are repaired in Canadian yards when damaged by sea or submarines.



This freighter was the target of an enemy sub in the Atlantic. Torpedo blew the bottom of her bow out, but she made port for repairs. Soon she will be in a dry dock with crews busy at work putting her shipshape again. On eastern coast, in Newfoundland salvage and repairs put damaged cargoes, ships in fighting trim.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q. My friend has purchased a pair of trousers which are too long for him. Is it permissable to have them finished with cuffs rather than to waste the cloth?

A. The trousers must be finished without cuffs. The extra cloth will be retained by the tailor to be picked up for salvage.

Q. Please tell me if it is proper for a grocer to raise the price of black pepper from 25 cents to 40 cents within two weeks?

A. No. Black pepper is under the basic period price ceiling that is the grocer must not charge more for it than he did in the period of September 15 to October 11, 1941. Please send full particulars along with sales slip, if possible, to Enforcement Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, 330 Bay Street, Toronto.

Q. To-day I was charged 36 cents for eight pounds of potatoes. Is this right?

A. No. The ceiling price on potatoes is 38 cents for 10 pounds in Toronto. The ceiling price is slightly lower in your town. The matter has been turned over to our enforcement branch for investigation.

Q. I have lost my ration book; can you tell me how I can get another one

A. You must go to your Local Ration Board and get a statutory declaration form which must be filled out and sworn to. This application will then be considered by the proper authorities.

English Wedding Has Interest For Peterborough

The marriage of Antoinette (Bunny) daughter of Major Arthur Kittson, M.C. (formerly editor of the Genelco "Gun-shots") and Mrs. Kittson, of Montreal to Lt. Anthony B. Venner, 2nd Northamptonshire Yeomanry, took place recently in St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, Marlow, Bucks, England, the Rev. Canon Tillett officiating.

Pink peonies and blue delphinium were used as decorations in the church. The bride, who was given away by Major General Georges P. Vanier, D.S.O., M.C., Canadian minister to seven Allied Governments in London, wore an heirloom Brussel's lace gown and she carried a Victorian nosegay of cream roses and London Pride.

Mrs. Kittson, the bride's mother, wore a gown of Nile green crepe under a black crepe coat, and a black picture hat. Miss Elizeth Ann Kittson, sister of the bride, was in a frock of printed crepe and wore a large hat of natural straw.

The reception was held at the residence of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. Brighton, Terries Coppice, Cockham Dean, where garden flowers were used as decoration.

Lt. and Mrs. Venner spent their honeymoon in North Cornwall, the bride travelling in a suit of cherry red wool with a white blouse and wearing a navy blue knitted hat and matching accessories.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Canon and Mrs. Henry Kittson, of Berthierville, Que., and of the late Marquis and Marquise de Roussy de Sales of Montreal and Paris, France.

Barbara Vining Scott Weds Lieutenant Donald Diplock

Murray Street Baptist Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding this afternoon when Barbara Vining Scott, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. Raymore Scott, became the bride of Lieut. David Donald Diplock, son of Mr. and Mrs. David T. Diplock. Rev Dr. A. J. Vining of Toronto, grandfather of the bride, officiated. Stanley Northrop, A T C M. was at the organ and during the signing of the register, Miss Olga Westbye sang Greig's "I Love You."

Amidst a profusion of summer flowers in pastel shades, the bride made a charming picture as she traversed the aisle on the arm of her father, Dr. G. Raymore Scott, who gave her in marriage. Her floor-length gown of white silk net over a taffeta foundation, featured lovely lace medallions appliqued on the full skirt. The dress had a sweet-heart neckline and short sleeves and the bride wore long lace mittens. The very long and full white tulle veil was held to her head in a cap of pearls and orange blossoms. To complete out the all white setting, she carried a shower bouquet of white camellias interspersed with white feather summer flowers.

Miss Catherine Raymore Scott attended her sister as maid-of-honor, and Miss Elizabeth Couper was bridesmaid. Both wore floor-length gowns of pale green ninon with full skirts. They wore large white mohair picture hats and carried shower bouquets of pastel summer flowers.

AC2 Gordon Diplock assisted his brother as best man and the ushers were PO. Waring P. Clarke, 2nd Lieut. Desmond Morris of Jamaica, Sub-Lieut Michael Watson, R.C.N. V.R., of Kingston, and AC2 W. A. Davidson.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 286 Hunter street Mrs. Scott received the guests wearing a floor-length gown of printed organdy with a small black mohair hat and a corsage of pink corn flowers and moss roses. Mrs. Diplock, the bridegroom's mother was in cafe au lait crepe and wore a matching hat faced with green and had a corsage of pale pink gladioli petals.

Lieut. and Mrs. Diplock left later on their wedding trip the bride wearing a gray and yellow silk printed suit, a topcoat of canary yellow, and a small matching hat.

On their return from their trip Lieut. and Mrs. Diplock will be residing in Farnham, P.Q.

Carlaw-Moore Nuptials Solemnized at Whitby

Standards of garden flowers and palms provided a stately setting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Macdougall, Whitby, on Thursday, when Vera Eleanor Henriett Moore, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Moore, Lakefield, was united in marriage to Sandy McClure Carlaw, son of rMs. M. Atkinson and the late Mr. T. Carlaw of Whitby. Rev. C. G. aPrk, Whitby, officiated at the ceremony. Sub-Lieut. Graham L. Macdougall played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Miss Reta Croswaite, Hamilton, sang "Because."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Dr. H. E. Moore, looked lovely in a floor-length gown of daffodil yellow silk jersey. The tight-fitting bodice with a square neckline and elbow length sleeves, was draped gracefully into folds of the full skirt. She wore a chic hat in tde "pill-box" style in matching colours from which fell bronze veiling and small yellow roses, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Ruth Higgins, B.A., was bridesmaid and was froced in a street-length two-piece Queen's blue silk jersey dress. Her hat was of white straw with blue flowers and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Frank Every, Whitby, was the best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Madougall where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of dusky rose crepe, two piece style and a hat of white straw. The groom's mother, who also received, wore two-piece mauve crepe dress and a matching hat in mauve and white.

For their honeymoon to Niagara Falls and the Muskoka district, the bride wore a two-piece gold crepe dress, a beige top coat and matching beret, with brown and beige accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Carlaw will live in Whitby. The bride has been a member of the staff of the Ontario Ladies' College for the past seven years.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, July 25

Sundays horoscope emphasizes the social, cultured artistic, and affectional relationships, with much activity in celebrations, visiting, parties and all pleasant avocations of the young and sentimental. Professions and necessary business trnsactions should enjoy growth and expansion, with pleasant and profitable contacts, especially with influential and friendly persons. But maintain calm, control, and shun impetuous or aggressive moves.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a successful and pleasant year with much activity—professional, liberty, artitic and business as well. These should bring enhanced popularity and prestige. Affectional ties and festivities may be paramout, perhaps in celebration of engagements or marriages. In all maintain poise, self-control and harmony,lest impetuosity and hasty words or acts cause unhappiness.

A child born on this day may be active, have many social graces and intellectual talents, promising prestige and popularity, if it will control its impulses and unkind speech, with proper regard for others.

For Monday, July 26

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of singular, strange, unique and quite unpredictabe experiences, in which the vague, subtle and obscure may be conditons to be reckoned with. But exercise prudence, skill and discernment. With these, high hopes, and ideals may materialize. Domestic, financial, social, affectional and spirtual aspirations should flourish, under peculiar auspices.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of peculiar, strange, or mystifying experiences, calling for prudent and discriminating conduct. In home, business, and especially in emotional and spiritual matters there may be subtle or mysterious conditions, but withal happy and gratifyng. Work in finely creative artistic channels for exceptional growth or inspired expression. Popularity, honors, profitable connections may result from fidelity to high aspirations and ideals.

A child born on this day may have great creative ability, appreciation and honors, with good luck as well.

SHANGHAIED HUSBANDS NEVER GIVE CAPTORS EXPECTED BLISS

Men Must Be Extra Wary of Strange Females Writing Letters, Camping on Their Trails.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am quite plump and have a very large mouth, handicaps that cannot easily be hidden, but I am very affectionate and always wanted to marry and have a family. About a year ago I met a man who was in our city on a business trip. He was well-educated, nice looking, easy going, with no bad habits, so I decided to marry him if it was humanly possible.

We had one date before he left, but I knew that he was returning in a few weeks, so I made up a business question and wrote him for some information. He replied, and then I frequently wrote him long letters, some of which he answered, but only in a friendly way.

The next time he was in town he came by my office to ask me to go to dinner, and when I saw him I rushed up, threw my arms around him and kissed him. He was surprised, but when I left him that night I kissed him again. After that I wrote more often, and he answered occasionally, but not the loving letters I had hoped for.

However, I told my family and friends that we were engaged, even though he had never mentioned marriage. Once I wrote him that I hoped our first child would be a boy, thus taking our marriage for granted. He replied that he was engaged to someone else, but I paid no attention to that and kept on writing affectionate letters.

After some time I felt that was losing all hold on him, so I went to his city to see him. He did not seem glad to see me, but I had a lucky break—he was ill a few days and that gave me a chance to make much over him, even though his landlady did object to my visiting him in his room.

When I got home I told everybody that we were to be married, and I made all preparations. Several of the girls had showers for me. But when he came he refused to go through with it at first. I told him about the showers and that he had put me in an awful spot, and cried, and as he is very kind-hearted he finally consented to marry me. I went down and got the license and the ceremony was performed.

Now I wanted to get married for a home. I was tired of going to work every day. I knew he would make me a good living and I wanted companionship. I thought that if I always made a fuss over him that he would be satisfied, too. At first he tried to be nice to me, but after a few weeks he gave that up and paid me no attention.

We live in a little suburban town, but as he does not take me to see his friends or ask them to come to see us I am very lonesome. He never takes me any place, will not go out with me, will not even occupy the same room with me, does not want me to even touch him, but he is polite enough if I leave him alone. I have a home, food and clothes, but not as much companionship as I had before I was married.

I could get my job back, and sometimes wonder if I should not do that and get a divorce, for I do not believe he is ever going to be any nicer to me. Do you think I should do that? Or could you suggest some way in which I might arouse his interest? This has not turned out the way I planned it at all.

DISILLUSIONED.

a contempt for you, who will have nothing to do with you, who will not even introduce you to his friends, and your last estate is worse than your first.

I print your letter in full because it is the revelation of the tactics of the man-hunter that I trust will be a warning to many other unsuspecing males who are being pursued by women who are bent on capturing them and enslaving them. Surely if this doesn't teach them to watch their steps when strange females begin opening up correspondences with them and writing them love letters and otherwise camping on their trails, nothing will.

And I also offer this letter as a warning to the husband-hunters to desist from their dangerous sport, for their own good as well as for that of their unfortunate prey. No happiness comes to a woman from forcing a man to marry her. Shanghaied husbands never become household pets.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My husband and I have been married for over fifteen years and would have been perfectly happy except for one thing. When I was a young girl, I made a misstep that I have regretted all my life, and although I have been a good wife and mother this one mistake has always stood between us. My husband says he just cannot forget the past, and it is making a wreck out of him and me. What shall we do?

MISERABLE WIFE.

Husband Should Forgive Wife's Past Error

ANSWER—Surely in all of these years of straight living and tenderness and kindness to your husband you have atoned for any wrong you many have done in the past, and your husband should be big enough to forgive and forget, especially as your sin was not against him.

If you had been unfaithful to him, it would be a different story, but you have been true and loyal to him, and he might take into consideration your youth and inexperience and how easy it is for an unsophisticated little girl to be led into temptation by her emotions.

It is not only wrong, but foolish, for your husband to dwell upon his grievance against you until he has made the one black spot shut out all of the sunshine of his life. He is losing his mental balance. And if he does not force himself to take a saned view of the subject, he will wreck his home and ruin not only his life and your life, but the lives of the children.

Millions of women are married to men whose pasts have plenty of blots on them, but they ignore them and live happily together. I advise your husband to adopt this feminine philosophy.

LAWN BOWLING

In the play offs for Distric No. 14, Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, Peterborough has made a clean sweep winning the singles and doubles and rinks competition.

Playing over in Lindsay on Thursday night W. Jeffries and H. Coleman won the district championship when they defeated Leo Rogers and H. Norton of Lindsay by 28-19. This is the second year in a row for this pair.

R. Payne folowed on by winning the singles. He first met and defeated W. Ferguson of Lindsay 21-16 and then won the final from Jimmy Boyce, Oshawa by 21-14.

The boys and the rink winners will go to Hamilton now, to play in the finals with other group winners.

In the rink competition the Peterborough rink of C. Williamson, J. Detcher, G. Coleman, Sr. and G. Coleman, Jr. defeated an Oshawa rink by 20-11 and then beat Lindsay for the district honors.

Mr. R. Downey, Peterborough, was the official umpire.

There were only the usual number of rinks out last evening. Just why more don't come out, we don't know. They played the regular two 10-end games. The winning rinks were skipped by R. Burns, H. Clegg and T. McMillan.

And once again the ladies of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Association came through. Playing at Cobourg yesterday, Mrs. J. Arnold's rink won first place and the Cobourg Trophy. Mrs. H. Martin's rink came second, a few points behind.

With twenty-two rinks entered from Whitby, Oshawa, Port Hope, Stirling, Peterborough, Belleville and Cobourg the tournament was a big success. Peterborough Club was represented by four rinks.

It will be mixed rinks this evening, 7:30 o'clock.

Winning Rinks

First—Mrs. W. Greenslade, Mrs. L. Riley, Mrs. C. Williamson, Mrs. J. Arnolds, skip. Cobourg Trophy and each a hand bag.

Second—Mrs. F. Mowry, Mrs. J. Bair, Mrs. R. Hendry, Mrs. H. R. Martin, skip. Each a Paragon cup and saucer.

Huot Captures Seigniory Golf

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., July 24—(CP)—Jules Huot of Quebec won the professional honors in the third annual pro-amateur golf tournament yesterday, with a gross score of 69, two under par. Ernie Wakelam, Ottawa veteran, finished second with 70.

Among the amateurs, D. V. Robertson, captain of the Seigniory Golf Club, took first place with low gross 83. Runner-up was Adjutor Dusseault of Quebec, with 84. Dusseault shared honors with Huot to take the team prize.

The pro finish was particularly close. Going out, Huot had hard luck on the third and sixth, both short holes, and on the eighth, when he embedded his bal, which gave him a 38 count, to Wakelam's 33. Coming in, however, it was all Huot, who calmly scored birdies and par figures for a 31. Stan Horne of Montreal, last year's winner, was third in the pro line-up with a 71.

Oshawa Given Juvenile Charter

HAMILTON, July 24.— (CP).—Five teams were admitted to the Ontario Baseball Association last night at a meeting of the sub-committee at which H. H. Berscht was chairman. Windsor, Local 195 was accepted for a place in either Senior A or B.

Tecumseh was accepted as Intermediate A and Maidstone as Intermediate B. Windsor was allowed a Junior A team and Oshawa was granted a juvenile charter.

Four transfers were approved as follows: Salvatore Maglia from Buffalo, N.Y., to Welland; Ed Nakamura, Vancouver to Hamilton; Joe Krol, Windsor, to Hamilton and R. Reily, Lewiston, N.Y., to Port Colborne. J. Neilko was reinstated in the Association and was given permission to play for Hamilton.

Committee members present at the meeting were R. B. Hall of Port Colborne, W. G. Ward of Niagara Falls, A. R. McFadyen of Galt, H. J. Morgenson of Toronto, and W. J. Snyder of Hamilton.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Only woman in either Canada or the United States licensed as a steeplechase jockey, Judy Johnson rode third in yesterday's feature C.W.A.C. hurdle race at Montreal Blue Bonnets, the event being won by Frank C., with Bob Fair up. Miss Johnson is riding Lone Gallant in the William Hendrie Memorial in to-day's card.

The league-leading London Army was beaten in a home game of the Inter County Baseball Association 5-2 by the Stratford Nationals and the latter is now only a few percentage points from first position in the race. The Londoners had nine errors chalked against them.

After each had won a heat, Roland, owned by Franke Burke of Newbury Port, Mass., came through to take the deciding heat of the Grand Circuit 2:28 trot from Czarmite in yesterdays racing at Old Orchard Beach, Me. Roland made the best time of the day, 2:07.

Favor Armstrong

Henry Armstrong has been installed a 2-1 favorite for his 10-round clash against Willie Joyce of Gary, Ind., this evening in the Gilmore Stadium at Hollywood. The Gary lightweight won in their last meeting at the coast but suffered a broken jaw in the doing.

Eighteen rinks representing Oddfellows' Lodges in many centres of Western Ontario competed on Kitchener greens in their first annual fraternal tournament, the winner proving to be the quartette from Guelph captained by C. Watson. Two rinks from Waterloo skipped by Engel and Garner tied for second place.

Lou Nova has gone to Chicago from Southern California where he has been living on his newly-acquired ranch, to finish off his training for a return bout with Lee Savold scheduled for August 9. The confident heavy expects the engagement to be a step toward a mill with Sgt. Joe Louis after the war.

City League officials have the playoff jitters. All they have to do before they can even get the final rounds started is to untangle a three-cornered tie between Soldiers, Genelecs and 4th Battery for top position and unscramble a tie for fourth place between Combines and Switch Gear. Posters in Wartime Are Most Effective

POSTERS EFFECTIVE

See how effective this wartime poster is! In a war world there is a new field for advertising design with recruiting, government precautions, army, navy and air force work, among other things.

An effective war poster can be much better sometimes than any amount of haranguing from a platform. So if your talents run in that line, develop it!

Perhaps you do not care for that line but prefer to do advertising design for newspapers, magazines or magazine covers. Posters advertising places are also widely used.

Our 32-page booklet will help you if you are interested in advertising design. It not only gives you the basic fundamentals of composition, layout and color, but tells you how to present your work in a professional manner.

To be a successful advertising designer you should have an interest and liking for art as such. However, no great art ability is necessary to enter upon a career in advertising design, but you must learn to clothe your ideas in acceptable form.

For your copy of ADVERTISING DESIGN SELF-TAUGHT send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

IS [illegible] STRONG?

YOU CAN tell, to a certain extent, whether your partner has a fair hand or a worthless one, even if he has not bid at all, from what your opponents do. When they bid to exactly game in No Trumps, you can consider it highly probable that your side has enough high cards to provide a good sound opening bid if they were bunched in one hand, probably a little more than that. By subtracting the strength you hold from that amount, you are probably not far from knowing just about what your partner has. Doing that can sometimes guide you to the sound defense against the contract.

North: ♠ 6 5; ♥ K J 10 6 4; ♦ J 9 5 2; ♣ 8 7

West: ♠ 7 3; ♥ A 9 2; ♦ K Q 8 3; ♣ Q 6 5 2

East: ♠ K 8 4 2; ♥ Q 7; ♦ A 4; ♣ A J 10 9 3

South: ♠ A Q J 10 9; ♥ 8 5 3; ♦ 10 7 6; ♣ K 4

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT

North led his heart J against that contract in a rubber game. The Q won, the diamond A and K were taken, the club Q finessed to the K. West won the heart return with the A, and he then scored the diamond Q and four clubs, giving him nine tricks.

"My partner is certainly much stronger than I am," North could have said to himself. "If I were short in hearts, I could be pretty sure that was his suit, so I would then lead it. But I have too many, and probably the only honors in it possessed by our side. Where, then, is his strength, and what is his suit? Spades, almost certainly. Also, he probably has some kind of stopper in clubs, if that is really East's long suit. Besides, an important side entry for the clubs may be in spades, and if so it should be knocked out early."

That reasoning would have caused a spade lead. South would have been able to get his suit set up before the club finesse was tried, whereupon he could have taken the setting tricks in spades.

Health Minister Refutes Drew Statement

TORONTO, July 24 — Charging George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, with inconsistency and ignorance of Government departments, Minister of Health Harold Kirby last night spoke over an Ontario network. He declared statements "attributed to Mr. Drew at Midland and made in a radio broadcast "were such a mass of misstatements of fact that I feel it is my duty to the people of Ontario to show them how little the Colonel really knows about the health departments.

"Col. Drew takes as his text an assertion that army examinations prove we are a Province of physically unfit people, that one-third of all those examined were below the minimum physical requirements for military service. This statement was previously made by Rodney Adamson, M.P. for West York, and was at that time definitely refuted," Mr. Kirby said.

"What are the facts? Statistics of a group of 50,000 men medically examined and taken at random show that 72.7 per cent were in categories 'A' and 'B1,' and that 85.2 per cent were in categories 'C2' and higher. Only 13.03 per cent were in category 'E,' which is the only category below the minimum physical requirements for military service, to quote his own term. Apparently to Col. Drew there is little difference between 33.3 and 13 per cent."

Headed by Layman

Mr. Drew, he said, had also criticized the fact that Mr. Kirby is not a doctor, although head of the Health Department. However, Mr. Kirby declared, the Opposition terms of the work being done by the British Department of Health—headed by Rt. Hon. Ernest Brown, "a layman, and not a medical doctor."

He challenged Mr. Drew to name the man he proposed to appoint Minister of Health in the event of a change in government.

"The Ontario Department of Health has made greater progress in connection with cancer than any other Province in Canada," Mr. Kirby declared. "Perhaps that's his idea of inefficiency. The establishment of the Research and Treatment Foundation, for which we have appropriated $500,000 this year, is only one more step in advance of what we have already done."

Mr. Drew's promise to eliminate departments and services duplicated by the Federal Government was challenged by Mr. Kirby. Five of them, he said, which had counterparts at Ottawa, were Labor, Agriculture, Lands and Forests, Mines and Health. "I ask Mr. Drew to tell the people of Ontario which of these departments he is going to abolish. You are entitled to know this before Aug. 4, because, in his platform, he sets forth extensive programs for each of these departments."

Problems Intensified.

The war, continued Mr. Kirby, has intensified the problems and activities of the departments. "We have released 77 physician specialists, 11 dentists, 58 nurses and 411 other health personnel for service with the armed forces, and have placed the entire facilities of our laboratories and other technical divisions at their service. Yet Mr. Drew expects the people of this Province to believe him when he says this Government has done nothing."

Referring to Mr Drew's proposal to transfer 50 per cent of the cost of primary and secondary education from real estate to the Provincial Treasury, Mr. Kirby said the Progressive Conservative leader had declared a Province which could raise billions for war purposes, the Red Cross and other organizations should have no difficulty getting the money.

Full Significance.

"Do you get the full significance of this statement?" Mr. Kirky asked. "He admits that the people of this Province have been able to contribute millions to such organizations as the Canadian Red Cross and other voluntary and charitable organizations. He says they have raised billions for war. The obvious inference is that if you people, the taxpayers of Ontario, have enough money for the Red Cross, if you have money enough to buy war bonds to help win this war, then obviously you have money enough to contribute to the tax relief of his wealthy friends and backers."

He declared Mr. Drew had shown a strong belief in taxing the wage earner and quoted him as saying: "Taxes should be placed more largely on earnings and not on real estate."

"He will," said Mr. Kirby, "take from the pay envelopes of the workers the wherewithall to make gifts to land owners."

Canadians Ready For Dash To To Sicily Beaches

With the zero hour for their dawn attack approaching, Canadian soldiers who trained in Britain for months for just such action get ready to start the assault against the beaches of Sicily. LEFT to RIGHT in this group are Staff-Sergt. G. A. Luke of London, Ont.; Sgt. J. Farrugia of Edmonton, Alta.; and Sergt. W. G. Stevens of Winnipeg.

The Russian communique reported advances all along the front, from Izyum on the Donets river north to the Orel sector, but the biggest gains were recorded at Orel and Belgorod.

On the Belgorod flank, in the area where the Germans made gains when they first launched their offensive July 5, the Russians reported they had captured several towns, killed 1,000 Germans and disabled 18 tanks.

quarter north of the Simeto River on the Catania Plain south of the city, with defences stretching back to a depth of several miles and with thinner but fairly strong defences facing northwest and west, he said.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's American forces were left free to thrust eastward yesterday by the fall of Palermo, a drive that may have trapped western Axis forces estimated at 45,000 men.

(A German Radio commentator acknowledging in a Berlin broadcast that Palermo had fallen, said also that Axis forces had been withdrawn from Marsala and Trapani.

(Reuters News Agency quoted a Stockholm dispatch as saying Axis forces had begun evacuating Sicily. The report, not confirmed by Allied sources, was based on a dispatch to the Svenska Dagbladet from Berne, Switzerland.)

In splitting the Axis forces and toppling Palermo, the Americans applied their modern tank and plane tactics. One column stormed into the Sicilian capital from the southwest, another from the south and southeast, and a third cut northward to trap enemy forces withdrawing toward the east.

Obituaries

MRS. JAMES MACE

LAKEFIELD, July 24 (ENS).—Mary Ann Little, wife of James Mace, of Burleigh, died at her home on Wednesday night following an illness of three years duration.

Born in Marmora 63 years ago, she was the daughter of Elizabeth Knox and Thomas Little. Following her marriage to James Mace, she resided for a time in Agincourt, but had lived in Burleigh for the past 35 years.

Of kindly disposition and devoted to her family, she was very fond of flowers, and always had a lovely flower garden.

Besides her husband she is survived by ten children, Albert, Reginald and Russell of Burleigh, May, Ada, Percy of Toronto, Pte. Robert and Pte. Harold of Camp Borden, Maxine and Pte. Rutherford of Toronto, also a brother, William Little of Addison and a sister, Edith Little.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 from her residence; Evangelist C. E. Tatham of Lakefield will officiate with interment at Lakefield Cemetery.

The casket bearers will be her six oldest sons.

MONTAGUE B. ELKIN

LAKEFIELD, July 24 (ENS). — Montague B. Elkin, who died in Hamilton Sanatorium following a four-year illness, was quietly buried in Lakefield on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Elkin was well known in the village having resided here for three years previous to going to Hamilton. Born in London, England, in 1902, he graduated as a radio engineer at the University of London.

He was with the British Broadcasting Company in various parts of the world before coming to Lakefield. He was employed in the radio department of Frank Erskine's store while in the village.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. George Kelly.

JAMES EDWARD SANDERSON

LAKEFIELD, July 24 (ENS). — The funeral of James Edward Sanderson, held from the family residence on Wednesday afternoon, was largely attended. Rev. George Kelly conducted the service.

The lovely floral tributes bore testimony to the high esteem in which Mr. Sanderson was held in the community.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian Blewett, one son Melville, one daughter, Mrs. William Elliott, three grandchildren, Mrs. Lyndley Pratt, Sgt. Russell Elliott, and Pte. Donald Elliott, and five great grandchildren, Bobby Pratt, Tommy Pratt, Patricia Elliott, Gail Elliott, Joy Elliott.

The casket bearers were Sgt. Russell Elliott, a grandson who has been overseas for two years, and arrived home Wednesday morning, Pte. Donald Elliott, grandson, who is on the hospital staff at Kingston, Howard Sanderson, Stuart Sanderson, Harry Blewett and Harry Grant, all of Smith.

MRS. HENRY FARROW

MILLBROOK, July 24 (ENS).—The death of Ruth Evalin Lewis, wife of W. J. Henry Farrow, which occurred suddenly on Sunday following a brief illness and a major operation at Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, came as a distinct shock not only to the immediate relatives, but to the community as well.

Mrs. Farrow was in her 48th year, and was born in England, where the death of her parents took place, and she came to Canada when only three years of age, in the care of her grandmother, and her aunt. Upon the death of these relatives, Mrs. Farrow, then 15, became a member of the family circle of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Smith, of Tyrone.

Twenty-four years ago the marriage of Miss Lewis and W. J. H. Farrow took place, their first home being on a farm near Pontypool, and when this occupation was given up they came to Millbrook, thirteen years ago, continuing as residents of this community until the time of her death.

The late Mrs. Farrow was a member of the Daughters of Cavan, L.O.B.A., No. 1066, and while at one time a Methodist, had made the Presbyterian Church her place of worship for many years. Mrs. Farrow was a good neighbour, an active member of the Women's Institute, cheerful in disposition, and had "walked" with her lodge for its annual attendance at divine worship the Sunday evening one week previous to her death, also going to Omemee for the Twelfth celebration on Monday and joining with her sister members in the parada. The immediate surviving relatives, include only the bereaved husband, and a number of nieces and nephews.

The funeral, under L. O. B. A. auspices, took place on Tuesday at 2 p.m. from her late residence, Main street, Rev. Walter Patterson conducting the service for the church, and the Lodge ritual being in charge of Amelia Lunn, and the chaplain, Mrs. Wilfrid Fallis.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes were sprays from the L.O.B.A., and the Womens Institute, and the pall bearer included: J. Heeps, William Blair, Percy Stinson, H. C. Lord, D. L. Lunn, and J. Guthrie. Interment was in the Pontypool Cemetery.

Raps Mitchell

MONTREAL, July 24 — (CP).—Robert Haddow, American Federation of Labor organizer here said last night that Labor Minister Mitchell was "siding with" the Canadian Congress of Labor organization in an attempt to break the A.F. of L. He said that labor department officials had made concessions to striking C.C.L. employees of Canadian Vickers shipyards while refusing an A. F. of L. request for settlement of the strike.

Aboard one of the ships of the convoy which carried Canadian soldiers into the invasion of Sicily, a gun crew under direction of an officer gets in some practice with an Oerlikon gun.

Digest Article Annoys Member

OTTAWA, July 24—(CP).—Justice Minister St. Laurent said today in the House of Commons that when a question arose as to whether action should be taken as a result of publication of an article in Canada, the matter was referred to law officers of his department for consideration.

He was answering Mrs. Dorise Nielsen (Unity North Battleford), who had asked whether the Minister proposed to take action about an article on Russia which she had protested earlier in the week.

She said the article, from the Reader's Digest, had also been used by the Toronto Telegram.

Mr. St. Laurent said the opinion of the law officers was being sought in connection with the article mentioned by Mrs. Nielsen, and which she termed "infamous" and apparently in contravention of the Defence of Canada Regulations.

It Didn't Explode

SUSSEX, N.B., July 24 — (CP).—C. N. Thompson, or Toronto, mines manager at Jordan Mountain, had a miraculous escape from death when a car he was driving containing 200 pounds of dynamite and 300 blasting caps, left the highway and plunged over a steep bank. There was no explosion but he suffered severe chest and other injuries.

Execute 50 Cretans

CAIRO, July 24 —(AP). — For aiding the July 4 British commando landing and raid on Heraklion airdrome, 50 Cretans have been executed by the Nazis on orders from military governor Brauer, the Hellenic News Service reported last night.

90 Candidates Named By Tories

TORONTO, July 24 — (CP). — Nominations yesterday of Progressive Conservative Candidates in Waterloo South and Sudbury ridings gives the Opposition party led by Lt. Col. George A. Drew candidates in each of the 90 ridings in the province for the Ontario general election Aug. 4.

The Sudbury candidate is Harry Weisburg while the Waterloo South candidate is Norman MacRae, Galt alderman.

The Liberals, led by Premier Harry Nixon, now have candidates in all but one riding — Simcoe Centre — where a nomination meeting is being held tonight to name a candidate in place of the Hon. Duncan McArthur, Minister of Education, who died Tuesday.

Liberal headquarters here, include in their list of candidates Mitchell F. Hepburn, former Premeir of Ontario, who was nominated at a Liberal convention in his riding of Elgin but announced that he is standing an as Independent Liberal.

In one riding —Nipissing—there are two Liberal candidates. One, J. H. Marceau, has been endorsed by officials of the Ontario campaing committee of the party. The other, Cyril Smith, was nominated at a convention and has said he considers himself the official candidate.

The C.C.F. led by E. B. Jolliffe, now has 79 candidates and party headquarters indicate more may be nominated before official nomination day next Wednesday.

Allied Blitz Hits Essen On Weekend

25 Planes Missing From Raids On Inland Cities

LONDON, July 26 —(CP) — R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. heavy bombers made a concentrated attack on Essen last night, while Mosquito aircraft of both Britain and Canada struck at Hamburg and Cologne and swept over northwest Germany, the low countries and France, it was announced to-day.

The Air Ministry listed 24 planes as missing in the far-flung overnight operations, and of these the R. C. A. F. communique said that three were R. C. A. F. bombers and one an R. C. A. F. fighter.

Five enemy aircraft were shot down, one of them by an R. C. A. F. Mosquito pilot.

The air ministry announcement said the raiders encountered good weather over the target area at Essen and that preliminary reports indicated the bombing was concentrated and effective.

The great formations of night raiders scarcely had returned to their bases when fresh squadrons of Allied raiders swept out across the English Channel this morning to continue the smashing aerial offensive—the greatest in history — by daylight.

57th Raid

Last night's raids followed a mighty series of round-the-clock blows delivered by the R.A.F., R.C.A.F., and the United States 8th Air Force, British and Canadian bombers striking at battered Hamburg Saturday night and American airmen heaping destruction on the smoking ruins yesterday in their deepest penetration into Germany.

Essen, a vital industrial centre in the Ruhr, was last raided by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. the night of May 27. More than 1,000 tons of explosives were cascaded into the

Board Freezes Canned Goods

OTTAWA, July 26—(CP). — The Prices Board today froze stocks of canned goods in the hands of canners and wholesalers "to assure supplies of canned fruits and vegetables for civilian and military requirements for next winter."

The board's order affects all canned fruit and vegetable products except canned soups, baby foods, jams, jellies and marmalades. Frozen and dehydrated products are not affected.

The board's announcement said that "under the plan the public will be asked to refrain from using canned fruits and vegetables during the season when fresh supplies are on the market."

"The action takes the form of withholding from the retail market the current pack of canned vegetables and fruit and the remainder of the 1942 pack now in the hands of canners and wholesalers, thus conserving stocks during the period when supplies of fresh products are readily available."

The freezing order is effective immediately and applies to canners, whole salers and those retailers who operate central warehouses or storage places separate from their retail storjes. All contracts and agreements entered into by canners prior to the new order are cancelled to be reinstated or varied later if possible in compliance with the new ruling.

The freezing order was announced by K. W. Taylor, foods co-ordinator.

Convoy Arrives

LONDON, July 26—(CP Cable).—A new Canadian infantry regiment has arrived safely from Canada at a British port, Canadian military headquarters announced today. The date of the arrival was not announced. With the regiment came a larger number of reinforcements for all arms and services of the Canadian Army overseas.

Munro Covers Triumphal Tour Astride Donkey

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ENNA, Sicily, July 21.—Delayed) —(CP Cable.)—Along a dust-choked road winding up the side of a sheer cliff I hitch-hiked into Enna, using truck, jeep and mule to be among the first of the Canadians to reach the mountain-top city in the heart of Sicily.

The Americans had occupied the strategic city as the Canadians carried out other tasks in the vicinity and when I go into Enna the Yanks everywhere wre taking over the jobs of organizing the place.

This is the largest and finest city I have seen since landing and the occupation of Enna gives the Allies a great advantage in carrying the war into north-eastern Sicily.

For days I've been within sight of Enna around which the Germans made a stern defensive stand until driven out by the Americans and Canadians. It was tantalizing to see this important city, crowded atop the highest peak in the area and looking much like Quebec city from the south shore of the St. Lawrence. Finally the way was fairly well cleared and I hopped a truck. I drove as far as a railway bridge which the Germans had blown up, blocking the road completely.

No Questions

Three Italian peasants, with two mules loaded with grain bags, caught up with me. They stopped and chatted away loudly in Italian which I couldn't understand. But they waved their arms wildly and urged me to mount one of the mules.

So I climbed atop the poor mule adding 170 pounds to its burden but not feeling particularly sorry about it. My feet were just about worn out and my boots were breaking away at the seams from the rigors of this campaign.

The mule snorted its way up roads and paths for three miles. I kept wondering if any other war correspondents had taken to mules as transport. It was slow but surer than some vehicles I had been in. Finally the Italians had to turn off to a farm.

Pay Cigarettes

I jumped off my mule, gave the Italians some precious Canadian cigarets and the mule a farewell pat and started walking again.

I trudged up this terrible road, climbed through two more craters in it, eventually ran into some American outposts. They had been watching me with glasses and said they thought I possibly was a German straggler. Evidently I had been wandering on foot and by mule in no man's land, not knowing it.

I was about the first Canadian the Yanks had seen and they gave me a royal welcome. They had some jeeps behind their outposts and the officer offered to drive me into Enna.

Take No Chances.

The Governor's palace was a splendid stone and brick building with a high tower. I went in an impressive front entrance through marble halls crowded with American soldiers and Italian civilians and talked with an American colonel who was helping to organize the town after the confusion in which the Germans left it. They stripped it of vehicles and any valuables they could get.

Navy Men In Front Line

Canadians Enjoy Push On Italian Islands

OTTAWA, July 26—(CP).—Canadian naval personnel took part in the amphibious assaults on Lampedusa and Pantelleria, fallen Italian islands in the Mediterranean, the Navy revealed today with the publication of a personal letter from Lieut. Larry Hynes, R.C.N.V.R., of Toronto, to Sub-Lt. W. B. S. Trimble, R.C.N.V.R., also of Toronto.

A Navy press release quoted Hynes writing from "somewhere in the Mediterranean" to Trimble at Canadian naval headquarters in London, as saying:

"Robbie Robertson and Al Gardner were in the front row as usual at that last 'pushover' party, and yours truly had the first seat in the third row—yes, quite close enough, thank you!"

Hynes, who arrived in the United Kingdom more than a year ago, is serving in large landing craft.

The Robertson referred to is Lieut. R. E. Robertson, R.C.N.V.R., of St. Catharines, Ont.

Nazi Snipers Harass Canadians

Wounded Soldiers Say Invasion Like Battle School

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

A BRITISH HOSPITAL, NORTH AFRICA, July 24—Delayed)—(CP Cable)—The invasion of Sicily seemed like just another army manouevre to a 21-year-old Alberta farm boy who landed on the Sicilian beaches with the second wave of Canadian assault troops.

The youth, whose name cannot be published until next of kin receive advice he is a casualty, was in action for seven hours and then an Italian sniper put a bullet through his left knee while the Canadian chatted with some farmers six miles inland.

He was brought to a big British hospital and now has a plaster cast about his left leg from hip to toe.

He said his platoon was put down on the beach at 3 a.m. Other sections of his unit had landed but the Italians were still laying down mortar bombs and crossfire.

"It's funny you know," he said. "None of us seemed the least bit scared. It was a lot like a battle school. I watched the mortar fire coming closer and closer and didn't think much of being hit. I watched the tracers. They were pretty.

Move In Fast

'When the fire was beaten down, we marched up the hills, carrying our packs and we walked fast. It was tough going, and hot. We didn't always march along the roads. Sometimes we moved in through farms, taking cover. The farms in Sicily seemed pretty hard-up and poverty-stricken.

"I didn't really see much fighting because it was being done by fellows ahead. By 10 a.m. we got to a town, though I don't know the name of it. We were over to one side of it on a farm hidden by a big straw pile."

After the platoon dug in we went over to the farm house and tried to talk to the farmers, using a book of Italian phrases supplied by the army It was then he was hit.

He said the Canadians "sure were having fun" when he last saw them. "The thing they did when marching was to pick themselves up little jackasses and carts. They got them by dozens, loaded their kit in the carts and marched that much lighter.

He said he didn't see any Germans at all and the Italian prisoners looked half-starved.

The invasion also was a disappointment for a tall young lieutenant from Toronto who joined the army in 1940.

He led his infantry platoon ashore an up to Pachino airfield. Then an Italian machine-gun bullet struck his upper right arm, causing a compound fracture.

Never Fired Shot

"I lasted four hours in action—after 3½ years' work," he said. "I didn't even fire a shot. I carried a tommy gun but I never got close enough to the enemy to use it."

The officer, who had been in England a year before embarking

British Units Damage German Convoy

LONDON, July 26—(CP).—Fighting their way through a heavy screen of escort vessels, light British naval forces attacked a German convoy off Texel, Holland, on Saturday night and torpedoed and probably sank one ship, the Admiralty announced today.

At the same time, the announcement said, another formation of light British craft engaged the escorting vessels in a sharp close-range duel, as a result of which several of the enemy ships were damaged.

"In the final stages of the action it was noticeable that the enemy's return fire was considerably reduced," the communique added.

So confused were the German escort vessels that at one time in the fight they were observed firing on each other, the Admiralty said.

The German escort craft were said to include minesweepers, trawlers and "R-boats."

The British vessels suffered no damage or casualties, the communique said.

Another German convoy was attacked almost simultaneously south of Ijmuiden the bullletin added, but the results were known to have been damaged, however, and one ship in the convoy was believed to have been hit by a torpedo

The British craft participating in this engagement suffered some damage and casualties, but all returned, the Admiralty said.

EXTRA!

LONDON, July 26 (CP)—United States heavy bombers attacked northern Germany and medium bombers hit Saint-Omer, France, by daylight today after a 2,000-ton night raid by R.A.F. and Canadian bombers on the German industrial city of Essen.

CAIRO — R.A.F. Beaufighters from the Middle East Air Command attacked the Axis airdrome at Kalamate in Southern Greece during daylight Saturday, a Middle East air communique said today.

ALGIERS—Marshal Pietro Badoglio was reported today to have ordered 22 Italian divisions home from Yugoslavia and Greece, and to have recalled three or four more from France.

NEW DEHLI—R.A.F. Blenheims yesterday attacked the important Japanese supply base at Kyauktwa on the Kaledan River in Burma, a British communique announced today. No planes were reported missing.

Allies Bottle Up Axis Armies Along Sicilian Coast; Italians Clamor for Peace

Catania Holds Out; Americans Capture Termini

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North are squeezing tighter upon Axis last-stand defences in northeastern Sicily against bitter resistance, it was announced today, and American troops mopping up western Sicily have captured Termini, 20 miles east of Palermo, and taken 7,000 more prisoners, including six Italian generals and an admiral.

"Further pressure on the enemy was maintained in all sectors" by Canadian, British and United States forces closing in on the Catania-Etna-Messina area, the Allied communique declared.

Canadians striking east from central Sicily "continued to advance" but their progress was slowed in the face of bitter resistance," it added.

Some units of the U.S. 7th Army driving toward Messina are far to the east of Termini, and its capture consolidates the grasp upon the northern coastal area of the island.

70,000 Prisoners

More than 70,000 prisoners now are in Allied hands of whom 56,000 were taken by Americans. The six Italian generals and the admiral were not immediately identified.

To date, 10 generals and two admirals have surrendered.

It was officially estimated that 3½ German divisions and Italian divisions were bottled up in the northeastern corner of Sicily. One of the Nazi units in the Messina bridgehead was identified as the 29th Division, named for the German unit destroyed by the Russians at Stalingrad.

Allied planes kept up their incesant hammering, and the Axis supply port of Milazzo west of Messina was blasted Saturday night with many fires started. Road objectives near Orlando also were hit.

Three Axis aircraft were destroyed against loss of one Allied plane.

American units had all but finished the mop-up of western Sicily with occupation of Trapani during the week-end by armored forces. Trapani fell after the capture of Marsala and Palermo, the other two main ports in that area.

The German 29th Division was rushed across the Messina Strait in a desperate effort to bolster the rearguard action raging along the east coast.

The ghosts of Tunisia as well as Stalingrad are fighting in Sicily, for the other two German divisions are the Herman Goering and 15th Armored Division, both named after units destroyed in Tunisia. The additional half division of Germans is believed made up of parachute troops and other elements.

South of Catania, a main stronghold of the Axis defence, the British 8th Army reported successful patrol activity.

Typical of the Sicilian people's rebellion against Fascism was an incident, officially reported, in which British parachute troops dropped behind enemy lines. They went to the nearest village in search of food and were greeted as liberators and fed with the best the countryside could provide. The little detachment remained in the village in perfect safety until an Allied advance guard relieved them.

Musso Is Sad

Mussolini, dynamic head of the Fascist party, was fired over the week-end in the first of a series of fast moving events that may hasten peace with Italy. He has been succeeded by Marshal Badoglio, whom he dismissed in 1940.

Adolf's Yes-Man Born In 1883

By The Canadian Press

Highlights of Mussolini's career:

July 29, 1883—Born in the Italian province of Forli, son of a poor blacksmith who was an ardent international socialist.

1909 — Became editor of two Socialist newspapers, getting himself imprisoned for 10 days.

1917—Severly wounded in first Great War.

March 23, 1919 — Created Fascism by calling together at Milan a number of former soldiers and organizing them.

Oct. 28, 1922 — His Blackshirts completed their march on Rome.

1939 — His armies sweep through Albania.

June 10, 1940—He enters second Great War on Hitler's side, with historic "stab in back" of France.

October, 1940 —Invades Greece, but the Greeks rout his forces until Hitler comes to his rescue.

April, 1941.—British forces recapture Ethiopia.

1941 and 1942 — His armies are mauled in Libya and Russia.

July 25, 1943 —Resigns as Premier.

War To Continue Premier Says Events Move Fast

LONDON, July 26 — (CP). — Martial law was proclaimed throughout harassed Italy today in a swift succession to a government shakeup which eliminated Benito Mussolini and his Fascist cabinet and installed the conservative Marshal Pietro Badoglio as premeir.

King Victor Emmanuel made the change in the war leadership, the first major break on the Axis front and a possible prelude to an Italian bid for peace.

There was no Axis anouncement of what had become of Mussolini but unconfirmed reports from Stockholm said he had been arrested while trying to flee to Germany.

Badoglio ordered the army to take over the preservation of public order throughout the country, forbade gatherings of more than three persons, directed the people to remain at work and empowered the troops to fire on any one who violated the instructions.

Hour by hour, developments in the situation which may hasten the end to the struggle into which Mussolini plunged Italy with the attack, as Germany's ally, upon France, June 10, 1940, were broadcast by the Rome Radio and recorded by listening posts throughout the world.

Confronted by some of the gravest problems that the commander of a beaten and dispirited army ever faced, with the bulk of Sicily overrun by Allied armies, with German troops and German police on Italian soil, and with mainland cities beset by bombings which threaten ever increasing force, Badoglio said "the war continues."

In addition to his instructions to the people, the new premier issued a special order of the day stating that the voluntary Fascist militia "is an integral part of the armed forces of the nation and with them, as always, co-operates in the common work and intentions for the defence of the Fatherland."

Well-Equipped Army

The 250,000 Blackshirts — once Mussolini's private army — are the best-equipped group among Italy's military forces of about 2,000,000 men.

(The broadcast did not bring out why Badoglio considered such a special order necessary, but it may have been a tacit warning to the militiamen that they would remain under his control to the end, despite the withdrawal of Mussolini and the Fascist ministers.)

The Berlin radio said Badoglio had appointed Baron Raffaele Guariglia, 54, Italian Ambassador to Turkey for the last six months, as foreign minister in Italy's new government. The foreign ministry was among the portfolios held by Mussolini.

With 30 years experience in diplomacy, Guariglia could have been a go-between in any negotiation for a separate peace during his residence in neutral Ankara.

One Italian political source in London, who cannot be further identified, predicted Italy would be out of the war against the Allies within a week. Others were not so optimistic.

This source credited the bombing of Rome and related events, particularly the Vatican radio's denial of Axis propaganda concerning the raid, for the announced "resignation" of Mussolini and his replacement by a veteran, 71-year-old soldier, who was one of the Dictator's critics and a close friend of the King.

Party Nears End

Red Armies Drive To Cut Railroad

2,000 More Germans Wiped Out In Latest Push

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 26 — (AP). — Russian troops inspired by personal visits of Premier Joseph Stalin to the front, slashed through stubborn German resistance to advance 2½ to 5½ miles on the Orel front yesterday, and now stand with in six miles of the Bryansk railway supplying the powerful Nazi base.

Thirty populated places were swept up Sunday, and German positions became ever more precarious despite desperate counter-attacks. Heavy Nazi losses in men and material continued.

Stalin has been at the front much of the time, personally supervising operations, it was disclosed, as the Red Army moved slowly toward complete encirclement of Orel.

(The German communique asserted that all Russian attacks yesterday had been frustrated, with the Red Army suffering heavy losses in men and tanks.

(Soviet assaults in the Caucasus and Lake Ladoga area likewise were repulsed, it added.)

The new advances upon Orel were announced in a special communique.

The Russian gains were registered in the face of stubborn opposition by the German defenders, the communique said but declared German losses in the latest fighting mounted to well over 2,000 dead and heavy loss of armored equipment.

Most rapid progress in the three-pronged drive on the city was made again by the northern Soviet column, pressing toward the railroad link to Bryansk which has been feeding men and material into the base and which is vital to the Germans if they are forced to evacuate the city.

South of Orel, the Russians said, Red Army troops were "breaking down resistance" and had made gains, dislodging the Germans from a number of villages.

The Soviet advance, the bulletin said, was being well supported by the Red Air Force, which was ranging behind the German lines to strike at troop concentrations and supply depots.

The centre column of the Orel drive was credited with smashing 10 German tanks and killed 1,500 of the enemy. A large number of prisoners were taken, the communique added.

Kiska Invasion To Come Soon

WASHINGTON, July 26—(AP).—Ten battering aerial assaults on Kiska, carrying on the campaign to soften that Japanese base for occupation by ground troops, were reported today by the Navy Department.

Army fighter planes made the assaults in a speedy series of raids Saturday, bombing and strafing the Japanese on the rocky Aleutian island.

Numerous hits, the Navy reported, were scored on the runway at the Japanese airfield there. In addition, other bombs struck among gun emplacements of the enemy.

One United States plane failed to return from the attacks which brought to 30 the number of times that Kiska has been bombed this month.

Surface units also have turned their big guns on the island seven times in July.

Italy Takes First Step to Oust Fascism

Hitler Fears Allies May Use Italy For Balkan Attack

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

So at long last the Big Voice with the feet of clay has toppled from the pedestal which he hewed for himself back in those trying days after the first Great War when the people of Italy and other European countries were ready to accept any attractive political nostrum in an effort to cure their ills.

Mussolini's downfall is a sensation but not a surprise. No man inflicted with such short-sightedness as inspired his evil manner of entrance into the present war, could hope to survive.

The self-styled Duce, although possessing many accomplishments, never has been a big man. His chief assets have been a striking personality and the greatest gift of showmanship since Barnum. He is one of history's notorious fakers.

May Ask For Peace

The circumstances of the dictator's collapse are such as to support the belief that Italy is preparing to jettison Fascism and make overtures to the Allies for peace. The fact that the new military regime under Badoglio says the war will continue doesn't necessarily mean that surrender isn't contemplated.

This method of approach is calculated to save face and provide a possible bargaining point. Also the Italian Government may have to preceed cautiously so as to avoid a display of vindictiveness by Hitler.

However, whether Italy surrenders voluntarily in the near future or tries to battle on, her race is all but run. She can't hold out for long.

Affect Neutrals.

With Italy in a state of near collapse, the great question is what the effect will be on other countries, especially Germany. There can be no doubt that the normal reaction will be far reaching. It canot help but be a tremendous shock to the morale of the other Axis countries, and it will draw the neutrals closer to the Allies.

From a military standpoint Hitler presumably discounted the loss of Italy some time ago. He had squeezed all the juice he could out of that turnip when North Africa slipped away from him. However, if and when the Allies have taken over Italy it will provide a convenient base for possible operations in the Balkans, and that's something for the Fuehrer to worry about.

Make More Changes.

Allied broadcasts kept drumming home to the Italians to-day that they must rid the country of more than Mussolini, and the Algiers radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, warned that "it is necessary that all traces of the Fascist regime disappear from Italy. A change of names is not enough. In order to bring Italy back to life and the world back to peace, something more than a palace manoeuvre or a coup d'etat is necessary. A real revolution is necessary."

The BBC in an Italian broadcast, called on the Italians to break all ties with the Germans.

Balkans Ready For Change

Fear Of Hitler Keeps Them In Line

By FRANK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ISTANBUL, July 25 (Delayed)—(AP)—Signs have begun to appear in the Balkans indicating the possibility of a breakdown in the Axis structure there, with Hungary and Bulgaria showing the most symptoms of nervousness.

Travellers from Bulgaria report a general state of unrest and tenseseness there, and predict that a series of swift Allied successes in the Mediterranean might cause a revolt against the Bulgarian alliance with the Axis.

Travellers from Hungary say that the same condition prevails in that satellite country and that the Hungarians appear definitely set against further active participation in the war.

Surprises, perhaps swift collapse of the Axis grip on Southeastern Europe, may be in the offing. However, it is probable that none of the Axis satellites in the Balkans will make a move until Allied armies are close at hand, for fear of Nazi reprisals.

CLEAN-UP OF WESTERN SICILY THROWS ALLIED MIGHT ON COAST

Bitter Fight Continues At Catania

Americans Swing Armies Toward Messina

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 26—(AP).—With the mopping up process in western Sicily all but completed with the occupation of Trapani, the Allies turned their full attention to the east today for a final drive to crack the 65-mile Axis line barring the way to Messina and the Italian mainland.

Trapani, last of the trio of important western Sicilian ports which include Marsala and Palermo, was occupied during the week-end, and surrender of the Axis garrison brought the number of prisoners taken in the 15-day campaign to more than 60,000.

The successful conclusion of the western campaign permitted American forces to swing around to menace the right flank of the principal remaining Axis forces holding positions bounded on the south by the Dettaina River, three miles south of Catania, running west through Catenanuova, northwest to Realbuto, and then bending sharply to the north to the Tyrrhenian Sea. Messina, two miles from the Italian mainland and Axis escape-hatch, is the apex of the triangle.

Strong Defence Line.

There was every indication the Axis was establishing a strong defence along this line and was prepared to make a last ditch stand in an effort to block an Allied invasion of Italy or at least to wage a delaying action which would permit the evacuation of some troops and equipment if Allied pressure became too great.

The Allied campaign in Sicily resembles in movement a quarter turn of a huge wheel, with the British 8th Army at the hub in the Catania area. To the left of the British are Canadian forces under Maj.-Gen.

143 Boys Enrol In Y.M.C.A. Vacation Club

An enjoyable week or two of high-class fun was the reward of 143 boys who enrolled this year in the Y. M. C. A. Vacation Club. Beginning July 13, the club was in session until last Friday. A great many of the youngsters were on hand for every day's program.

One of the features most appreciated by the boys who took part in it was the swimming instruction conducted each day in the "Y" pool under the direction of Gordon Minty. This class had an enrollment of 35, most of them beginners, and they had a half hour in the water morning and afternoon each day. As fledgeling swimmers they made good progress, and 15 who had never swum before were able to go across the pool confidently by the time their instruction was ended.

Alex Kay, noted authority on birds, took club members out to the vicinity of Lily Lake one afternoon and led a bird hike through the woods, with the young lads attempting to spot as many of our feathered friends as each one could and Mr. Kay explaining to them the characteristics of the different kinds. He has volunteered to take any of the boys who might have developed an enthusiasm for bird life out again and teach them some more.

See Industries.

The visits made to local industries proved an interesting, educational opportunity for the boys, and included in the list of places they went to are Silverwood's Dairies, The Examiner and CHEX Radio Station, Canada Packers and Loch's Store.

Six movies were shown, among them an historical picture" Canada from Cartier to Confederation," and "Timber Front," a film depicting the lumber industry of Canada. There were several comic movies.

Games of softball wer played by many of the older boys; and two leagues containing ten teams were organized.

As a result of the keen enjoyment they derived from the Vacation Club, a number of the boys have decided to join the Y. M. C. A.

The Vacation Club has been under the direction of D. T. Crawford with A. J. Noftall serving as Assistant Director and Gordon Minty, swimming instructor.

Italian Upset Stuns Entire World

By WILLIAM FRYE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP).—The ousting of Mussolini as dictator of Italy stunned Washington into temporarily silence today. In concert, all high government officials took a wait-and-see attitude.

The White House, the War and Navy Departments, Congressional circles and the embassies — privately elated — put on a public poker face as though fearful that anything they said might possibly interfere with an early Italian bid for peace.

The attitude generally was to decline any discussion until the Government receives full advices through its own channels.

Speculation was rife nonetheless that King Victor Emmanuel may have chosen to accept the invitation extended to the Italian people eight days ago by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt to get rid of their Fascist Government and spare themselves further sacrifice in a hopeless war.

This remains the choice because in the Allied military plans, it is not enough for Italy to be out of the war — the Allies must use Italy as conquered territory, to give their forces, and particularly the bombers now based in North Africa, the bases from which to spring at Germany.

Calls For

The fate of the dictator who aspired to recreate the glories of ancient Rome and instead lost an empire was not known. There was no immediate confirmation of reports from Berne, Switzerland, that he and his cabinet had been arrested.

In a royal proclamation broadcast to Italians last night, the King announced that he had accepted Mussolini's "resignation" and had installed 71 - year - old Marshal Pietro Badoglio — bitter foe of Il Duce and Fascism— as head of a military government "to stand against those who have wounded the sacred soil of Italy."

"The war continues," the aged Marshal told the people in a proclamation announcing he had assumed supreme command of all Italian armies and calling on Italians to rally around the King.

But the conviction grew that Italy — her cities shattered, her empire vanished, internal unrest and violence growing, and a mighty army pounding at her threshold—had shaken the "guilty hierarchy" of Fascism and had taken a necessary step toward

Apsley Youth Goes To Jail

Pleading guilty to theft last September of 110 cedar posts from Percy Edwards of Lang, Otonabee, Stanley Carew of Apsley was sentenced by Magistrate Gee this morning to two months in jail, the term extended from July 17.

The charge was laid by Provincial Constable Morris, who investigated the case and found that Carey had sold the posts for $15.

For driving a car without a permit, Carey drew an additinal sentence of ten days, but Magistrate Gee made it concurrent with the two months.

Irving Moldover could have saved himself two dollars by taking a Charlotte street parking ticket to the city hall or police station. He neglected it, and collection in police court cost him three dollars.

A Sunday rubby-dub trio in the bushes near the Stewart Street bridge over the Jackson Park creek wound up at the police station, and remand for consumption in a place other than residence until Saturday in this morning's court.

Claims Liberals Fear Vote Of Men Overseas

"The date of this election was deliberately chosen by the party in power as the time when there would be a maximum lack of interest and a minimum turnout of voters. The Nixon government is afraid, Mackenzie King is afraid; they feel their power is slipping and don't want to risk a really fair election," it was said Saturday night by Norman Rawson of Hamilton, addressing a meeting of Progressive Conservative electors in the party's committee rooms on Charlotte street.

Rawson spoke in the interests of Harold Scott, Progressive Conservative candidate for Peterborough.

"Our boys overseas are being denied democracy's fundamental right by this foxy proxy. The Government taunts its opponents by asking if we would have polling booths erected on the shores of Sicily. Well, why not? In the last war Canadians in the trenches cast their votes in France. The Government remembers what their verdict was, and it does not want to take that chance this time. The young people of this country don't trust the present government, and I can tell you, from having been among them, that the feeling in our training camps is one of disgust," Mr. Rawson said.

Brings Change

"This is not just another election. It is one of the great turning points in the history of democracy in Canada. If political manoeuvring continues and the hands of the old gang in power are further strengthened, the young people will become thoroughly disillusioned. When the young men and women return from overseas they will want to see a government in power they can put their trust in, a government which will do things, the right things. If they don't bet that, they will take matters into their own hands and don't think they will be persuaded by the wiles of politicians to disband and toss away their ideals. Not this time," Mr. Rawson declared.

A verdict for Nixon would be the signal for Mr. King to pat himself on the back and say that it was an endorsement of himself, the speaker stated. "Nixon's election will seem to mean to some that the people are satisfied with King, with his policy of drift and his inability to make decisions."

"Complete unity is lacking because Mr. King prefers to have the war a party effort rather than a national war," Mr. Rawson declared. "Canadian soldirs, who are doing a splendid job in Sicily today, are doing it in spite of Mr. King and his government's petty politics.

Need Conscription

"We should have had Selective Service from the beginning. We should have conscription now. When my American friends question me as to why we have no conscription there is nothing I can answer. What a difference it would have made if Mackenzie King had not refused the requests of British flying commissions in 1937 and 1938 for the establishment of advanced training fields in this country. This is what he said: "No foreign power will exercise control in Canada." Note that he calls the Motherland a foreign power."

"But Mr. King feels his power slipping," Mr. Rawson said. Like a father who felt his authority over his family losing force and as a result felt called upon to assert himself continually, Mr. King was attempting to assert himself continually, both in season and out, he asserted.

"Mr. Bracken, who I may say is a man of granite and resource, a man who knows where he is going every minute, is so effective that Willie had to spank him," the speaker said.

Mr. Rawson asserted that the only intelligent criticism he had heard levelled against the 22-point program of Col. George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, was that it was going to cost too much to put it into effect. "But money is the cheapest thing we have today," he declared. "Beside the lives of the young men who are sacrificing themselves in this war it is very cheap indeed."

Forged Program

"Our program was not stolen from the C.C.F. as they would have you think. Our platform was hammered out on the anvil of the pooled experience of all of us, and it is a program full of vision. The C.C.F. says it is the party of youth and new blood, but it has no monopoly of youth or of youthful, high-minded ideals. Its president, in fact, is over 70 years old."

"Have you ever noticed that C.C.F. candidates have a habit of running for election in other constituencies than their own?" Capt. Rawson asked. "There is such a thing as being too well known."

"I am unalterably in favor of keeping Canada British and welded to the British connection," Mr. Rawson closed. "We may well unite with the States south of the border in a spiritual sense, but let us keep our freedom. The British Empire is the working model for any post-war federation of nations because its unity is one of ideas and not of tangible bonds."

Mighty Assault Wrecks Munda

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, July 26—(AP).—Allied bombers, in the mightiest aerial assault of the southwest Pacific war dropped 186 tons of bombs on Japanese positions at Munda, New Georgia, yesterday.

More than 200 planes with strong fighter escort participated in the attack, and only one failed to return.

Six hundred miles to the west, the Royal Australian Air Force executed the heaviest attack yet made on the Gasmata airdrome on the south coast of New Britain. Roaring in at dawn, Beaufortś, Beaufighters and Bostons with Kittyhawks as cover, destroyed the radio station and grounded aircraft.

"The runway and dump areas and enemy personnel were thoroughly strafed," the communique said. "Anti-aircraft positions were silenced."

Attacks against Japanese shipping continued. A heavy bomber on reconnaissance over Buka Island in the northern Solomons attacked eight Japanese merchantmen moving in the direction of the hard-pressed enemy bases to the southeast. Crewmen said they saw six of their 500-pound bombs explode within 40 feet of an 8,000-ton transport.

Thirty Japanese bombers, escorted by as many Zeros, were intercepted in an attack on Allied positions on Rendova Island a few miles south of Munda.

"The attackers were driven off with the loss of eight of their fighters," the communique said. "Four of our planes were destroyed in combat, but three of the pilots are safe."

There was no news on the ground fighting either in New Guinea or on New Georgia.

9-Year-Old Boy Killed On Road

HAVELOCK, July 26—(ENS).—A tragic accident happened on Ottawa Street on Saturday evening when Ronald Ross, one of the twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pollock, was knocked down by a car and fatally injured. A group of children were playing touch-tag when Ronald is said to have dashed across No. 7 Highway from behind a parked car into the direct path of a car travelling westward, and driven by Kenneth Barrie of Belmont. Although Mr. Barrie was driving slowly, Ronald was knocked to the ground and one of the car wheels passed over his chest, injuring his chest and lungs. Upon the arrival of Dr. D. J. Holdcroft, he was rushed to Mrs. Cummings' hospital in an unconscious condition, where he passed away on Sunday morning. The coroner was called and he decided it was purely accidental and no inquest will be held.

Donald was born August 3, 1934, in Havelock, and was in Grade 3 in public school. He attended the Sunday School and Mission Band in the United Church, and was very popular with all his playmates.

Left to mourn him, besides his sorrowing parents, are five brothers: Carl, attached to the R.C.A.F. overseas; Howard, Donald, Beverley and his twin brother, Reggie; also one sister, Maxine, all at home.

Funeral service will be held on Tuesday afternoon, conducted from his home on Matheson Street, at 2.30 by Rev. S. A. Kemp, thence to Maple Grove Cemetery for interment.

Pall-bearers will be six of his playmates: Masters Jackie Southward, Glenn Yeo, Bobbie Hill, Floyd Menzie, Graham Rowat and Vernon McQuigge.

many people to his side, some of whom did not like him. Getting Italy out of the war is naturally extremely popular with the people."

Badoglio's orders placing Italy under siege conditions and stressing that the Fascist militia is an "integral part" of the King's forces—not political storm troops—may be preliminary measures looking toward the utter elimination of the Fascist party.

The new premier barred all public meetings and parades, which obviously includes Fascist party functions. He banned the posting of bills, except in Roman Catholic churches, which presumably will prevent the Fascists from hanging any more of their bombastic slogans and exhortations on Italian walls and fences.

Cancel Permits

Firearms permits were cancelled, thus outlawing Fascist gunmen who had helped Mussolini terrorize political enemies.

The Fascist militia, when formed early in the 1920s, owed allegiance [illegible] incorporated into the army, but still took oath to Il Duce and not to the King, as did the rest of the armed forces. In 1940 the militiamen began taking oath to serve the King as well as the Dictator.

Mussolini frequently boasted of the militia as the strong arm of his revolution and, in a speech June 24 to the party directorate, asserted that backshirts would crush any opposition to his regime.

The militia now includes Italy's [illegible] armored division.

Twelve People Drown Over Week-end

By The Canadian Press

There were 22 fatalities in Eastern Canada during the week-end of which 12 were drownings. Six died from injuries suffered in traffic accidents and one died from injuries suffered in a fall.

A man died from what police sai were bullet wounds, an airman was killed in a crash and a boy was said to have died from drinking an overdose of lemon extract.

In the Maritime provinces, five persons were drowned in the Yarmouth area in four accidents. Mrs. Rita Gregory of Yarmouth and Montreal and a serviceman, died when a canoe capsized in Lake Milo. Next of kin of the serviceman has been advised and his name will be released shortly.

Frank Crosby, 15, jumped from a raft for a swim and failed to come to the surface; Roger Doucet, seven, fell from a bridge while fishing in Tusket river and Francis Thimot, 15, of Little Brook, was caught by a swift current while wading and carried away.

Four In Quebec.

Four of the drownings occurred in Quebec Sunday. They were: Romeo Crete, 28, and his cousin, Zephirin Crete, 29, in Lindsay Lake, near St. Malo; Marcel Boucher, 25, while swimming at Valleyfield, and nine-year-old Jean Claude Guay, at Levis.

There were two drownings in the Ottawa district Saturday, Andre Langlois, 21, of Montreal, in the Jock River at Twin Elms, and Marcel Giroux, 18, in the Ottawa River at Cumberland.

Another drowning took place at Gore Bay Manitoulin Island, Ont., when Wayne Lovelace, six, became frightened and jumped off a raft after it drifted into deep water.

Police at Val D'or, Que., said today that Alex Jean died from bullet wounds at his home during the week-end and that they are holding Jean's wife and a boarder as witnesses. An inquest will be held.

Car Hits Culvert.

Five of the six traffic fatalities occurred in Ontario. Damon McCamon, 44, of Thomasburg, died en route to hospital when the automobile he was driving crashed into a cement culvert near Belleville.

Sidney Polley, 48, died in hospital at Hamilton when he fell beneath a truck after his bicycle skidded into a parked car. Grover Kerr of Hastings, was killed when the car in which he was riding collided with another machine. Peter Scully, seven, died in a Toronto hospital last night from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile near his home.

Anthony Antonik, 30, injured Thursday when crushed between a truck and a freight train, died in a Hamilton hospital Saturday.

Dannie Burke, 12, was killed in Joggins, N.S., Saturday when crushed beneath a truck loaded with pulpwood.

Eight-year-old William Dawe died at Florence, N.S., Sunday. He was believed to have taken internally five bottles of lemon extract supplied by youthful playmates.

Men Are Needed To Cut Wood

W. H. L. Mellis, manager of the Local Employment and Selective Service Office, states that the local office is having to give a good deal of attention these days to labor requirements for fuel wood cutting. This is one of the areas in which a substantial cut is looked for.

Through a recent amendment to National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, the local selective service officer now has authority to compulsorily direct men to accept work at fuel wood cutting. This may be done after a man has been otherwise unemployed for seven days, or a man in less important work may be directed to give his present employer seven days' notice, following which the Selective Service officer may direct him to the cutting of fuel wood.

Of course the employment office is trying to find as many men as may be suitable for this work, among applicants who are registering for jobs. Any man who is available to go to the cutting of fuel wood, Mr. Mellis states, will be a very welcome visitor to the employment office these days.

The manager stated that transportation to the employment will be looked after, and where it is necessary, a man may be accommodated with a very small loan to help him to pay for necessities until he receives his first pay on the job. Head office of Selective Service at Ottawa has repeatedly stressed to the local offices the importance of fuel wood as one of the leading Canadian fuels, and of course it follows that the heavy cut expected must be made at this time of year.

Mr. Mellis pointed out that this area, which consists of Peterborough and Haliburton counties, is expected to produce 75,000 cords of fuel wood this year.

for Sicily, sprawled on a cot in a big, airy officers' ward. He said he led his platoon ashore with a company of his battalion which was scheduled to move through two others landed earlier to consolidate the ground.

"When we got ashore there was a lot of noise but not much fighting," he said. "One of our monitors was shelling over our heads. We landed on the southwest side of Pachino Peninsula. We went up through vineyards and were forced on by an officer and two men in a blockhouse. Two of my men went after them with their bayonets. But there was no real opposition.

Prices Board Discovers Wood Price Fair

"We are very anxious that it should never be said that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has launched an unfair prosecution," wrote J. D. Arnup, Toronto, assistant enforcement counsel, in a letter to W. F. Huycke, K.C., authorizing him to withdraw a police court charge against Samuel Abbott of the Albion Wood Yard alleging sale of slab wood above a just and reasonable price.

Circumstances indicated Mr. Abbott, and presumably other fuel dealers, were following a price schedule which had been amended downward, and further that this change had not come to the attention of Mr. Abbott and the local trade.

The case was formally abandoned by Mr. Huycke in police court this morning before Magistrate Gee. J. F. Strickland, K.C., represented Mr. Abbott.

Good Intentions

Correspondence showed that Mr. Abbott had bought the Albion wood yard subsequent to the period in which basic wood prices had been fixed. That schedule had include $8 for slab wood cut in 12-inch lengths.

The charge against Mr. Abbott was laid on the complaint of a woman who said she had bought a cord of this wood at $9. Subsequent information transpiring from local enquiry as to prices indicated that fuel dealers had received a W.P.T.B. letter permitting the increase to $9.

Ensuing prices were mentioned as being the result of a misunderstanding.

In his letter of July 15 to Mr. Huycke, Mr. Arnup wrote: "The Magistrate should be told of our decision and that it is based upon our desire to be scrupulously fair to all accused persons. I should be obliged if you would make it clear to Mr. J. F. Strickland, K.C., that Fuelwood Order 58 superseres all the instructions contained in the correspondence from the Deputy Administrator of Fuel Wood."

That reference was to the effect that the basic $8 for 12-inch slabwood should be the continuing price.

Prisoner Makes Tarzan Jump To Break Jail

COBOURG, July 26 (ENS).—Bernard Martin, on remand for housebreaking, escaped from Cobourg jail on Saturday afternoon, and in so doing accomplished a feat which perhaps only three other men could have done. Tarzan, Dick Tracy and Super Man. Martin made his successful bid for freedom while out in the jail yard during an exercise period. He scaled the southwest wall of the jail building, clung to a precarious hold at the top and then made an impossible leap to the outer wall. He crawled along the sloping top of the wall until he was opposite a pole to which he made a seven-foot leap and descended like a monkey.

Police set out a dragnet in the district and expect to bring him in.

The break occurred around four o'clock in the afternoon. Governor of the jail, Fred Whyte, was inside seeing to it that the cook started supper. Acting-Turnkey John Mulhall was in charge of the seven prisoners in the jail yard. The jail yard is encompassed by an 18-foot brick wall. Martin got around the corner of the jail building without attracting the attention of the turnkey and climbed up the wall by means of the barred windows.

To prevent anyone climbing on to the roof, the eave is fringed with a wide stretch of sheet metal with saw-toothed edges. It is believed that Martin clung to this metal while he braced himself for his leap. The first leap was unsuccessful as indicated by a brick which was pulled out of the outer jail wall, and Martin apparently dropped 24 feet to the wall. His next attempt was successful, although it is not known how he managed.

Martin is about 26 years of age, weighs 150 pounds, is five feet eight inches in height, dark brown hair, thin face, medium dark complexion. As he is on a remand, he did not wear prison garb, but wore a dark grey suit. His home is in Newtonbrook, Ontario, and he was arrested July 15 by Chief Gordon Hardy at Port Hope and charged with breaking into the house of W. Gorsline in Port Hope. Police say that he has an extensive record.

CCF Lacks Cure Hepburn Claim

AYLMER, July 26—The next Parliament of Ontario will be charged with a great responsibility not only for the rest of the war, but during the rehabilitation period and if those responsibilities are to be met, extreme partisan politics must be discarded in national interests, Mitchell F. Hepburn, Independent Liberal candidate in Elgin, told a campaign rally in the public park at Aylmer, attended by more than 1,000 persons, Saturday night.

Mr. Hepburn throughout his address made his political independence clear, declaring his readiness to support any move or measure that he believed was in the interests of Ontario and of Canada, without class or distinction.

"In a Province blessed by nature with the greatest natural resources, with fine schools and responsible government, we have all the machinery required to maintain an orderly and trained democracy," he said. "If another depression should eventuate after the war, it will be because of our inability to apply the necessary remedial measures."

Mr. Hepburn said he did not for a moment believe that the C.C.F. has the panacea for all Ontario's ailments.

"Certainly the C.C.F. theory of complete regimentation carried on in peacetime, if understood, would not be acceptable to the energetic individuals who populate this land," he said.

Mr. Hepburn deplored the system that was being employed in taking the vote of Ontario fighting men overseas. He said that from information at hand, he had yet to find an overseas proxy in Elgin.

"If this is the case, there will be great bitterness on the part of our armed forces who should have some say in the selection of their representatives in the Ontario Legislature," he said.

WOMEN NEEDED NOW FOR RCAF
ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE

● Patriotism is a clear call. It says in the tones of a bugle: "Here is your job! Here is your duty!" And duty is not a respecter of persons or of sex. It calls women as well as men. It says to the women of Canada: "Make patriotism mean something! Take your places alongside your men as the women of other nations have done."

Yes, it needs courage. But there will be no shirking when women once awake to the need—when they know what work they can do and where to go to get at it.

This is to tell you that the need is urgent—a job in the Royal Canadian Air Force is waiting—and it is your duty to fill it, not next month, but now!

The Senate Goes To Work

For many years the Senate has been accused of being a useless encumbrance by people who think that a Parliament with a single House would work adequately. The Senate, its critics say, never does any work. In actual fact that is not true; most of the work of the Senate is done in committees, and not in the Senate Chamber itself. But when the Commons gives the Senate something to bite on, it sets to work with a will, and last weekend it had a busy and profitable time.

For one thing, it altered the bill which sought to amend the Criminal Code with respect to gambling. The bill, in the Senate's opinion, was too stringent, and so they toned it down. By so doing they displeased the Minister of Justice, the Hon. Louis St. Laurent, who moved that the Senate's recommendations be adopted only because the session is nearing its close. No supporter of a bill likes to see it altered, and doubtless the Minister of Justice thinks that he knows more about law than does the Senate; his somewhat ungracious acceptance of the Senate proposals is understandable in this light. But understanding the subtleties of the law, and knowing what laws are good laws and acceptable to the people of this country, are two quite different things, and in our opinion the Senate was justified in the changes it made. Gambling may be an evil thing, but the evil which exists in the hearts of men must have an outlet of some sort. If gambling is utterly crushed, the appetite which it satisfies will seek satisfaction in something else and, it may be, something worse. The Senate may be wise in leaving a little leeway for the tipsters. A sound nation does not need rigorous "blue laws."

Among a number of other matters, the Senate dealt with the War Appropriations Bill, and in the course of the debate on this legislation there was a brisk exchange between Senator Davies and Senator Hugessen over the fitness of Dr. Leonard C. Marsh to be regarded as an expert in postwar planning. Senator Hugessen quoted Sir William Beveridge as having praised the Marsh Report when he visited Canada recently. As the Marsh Report is modelled on the Beveridge Report this praise is not so remarkable as it might seem. If the Beveridge Report is good, the Marsh Report is good also, but is the Beveridge Report good? That is a matter which Senator Hugessen does not seem to have asked himself. If he will read The Beveridge Report Criticised, by Dr. Clive Saxton, an economist who has had first-hand experience of finance, commerce and industry, he may find his faith shaken. Great numbers of Canadians have accepted the Beveridge Report, and its shadow, the Marsh Report, without reading either. The Beveridge Report is a statistical work of the first importance, but there is no reason to assume that it is an effective and satisfactory arrangement of social policy. It seeks to abolish want, which would certainly be an admirable thing, but in seeking to abolish want we must take care not to create a more difficult situation than that which already exists. Sir William Beveridge seeks to abolish want by providing everybody with an income as a "right", and without tests. Anyone who wants to provide a framework of productive employment to give scope to the energy, ability and enterprise of the nation—and by his speech Senator Davies puts himself in this latter group—will see the danger of accepting the Report as a workable scheme. The uncritical acceptance of Reports by either Beveridge or Marsh is one of those time-saving and thought-saving devices by which some of our legislators seek to gain the reputation of reformers. The worship of the Golden Calf has done much harm in Canada, but the establishment of Beveridge and Marsh as Sacred Cows will do even more.

We have touched on only two subjects upon which the Senate debated. Anyone who cares to look at the Senate Hansard will find that the Upper House has been very busy and has done some good work.

Is Ploughing a Mistake?

An experimental farmer named Edward H. Faulkner, who lives in Ohio, believes that ploughing is not only a waste of time but an enemy of good crops. Soil erosion and most of the other ills of the earth, such a crop blights and bugs, are encouraged by ploughing, according to this iconoclast. What is more, he has proved it to his own satisfaction and that of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Faulkner does not plough his fields; he disc-harrows them, and plants his crops in the resulting mulch of stubble, weeds and odds and ends of herbage. The capillarity of the closely-packed soil beneath his surface, says Faulkner, is much greater than that of ploughed soil, and thus the crops are assured of a better supply of water than they are on deeply ploughed land. The mulch does away with the need for fertilizer, lime and insectides; the bugs, it appears, prefer the mulch to the crops. His method, he says, reduces the growth of weeds, as weed seeds are not ploughed into the land and stored for future growth. The mess in which he plants his crops he calls "bearded soil."

Faulkner's crops are reported to be amazing, and his fields, though dirty in appearance, have excellent soil. He predicts that the mouldboard plough will soon be abandoned, and the system of shallow cultivation adopted by progressive farmers in the western world. He does not claim that his idea is an original one; peasant farmers in China, South America and other reputedly "backward" communities have used it since the beginning of time, and they get richer crops than the American farmer with his highly efficient plough. Manufacturers of farm machinery, he says, will soon begin making implements which will be correct for shallow cultivation, cutting weeds and grass below the surface, and leaving the soil with the rich mulch which draws moisture from above and below, like a blotter.

What farmers as a whole will say to this idea we do not know. We mention it as a revolutionary notion which one man at least has put into satisfactory action.

That Unwritten Law

A good deal of attention is being paid to a dispatch from Sydney, Australia, which tells of two army officers who were court-martialled for drinking with men of their own units. As might be expected, some of the comment has been indignant over the supposed anti-democratic bias of such action. There is no army regulation which forbids officers to drink with their men, but there is an unwritten law which forbids it absolutely.

We see much good sense in the unwritten law. First of all, army privates may not want officers to frequent their places of recreation. In a well-organized army there will always be a feeling of constraint between officers and men when they meet socially; if there is no such constraint, it is unlikely that the tone of the army is good. If the men want to relax, they do not wish to do so in the company of a man who will hold arbitrary power over them the next day.

Second, however democratic it may be in its composition, an army can only work efficiently if the officers are invested with a dignity appertaining to their rank. The familiarity which may be helpful in a guerilla force is harmful in a regular army. As anyone who has observed an army knows, some officers are men of little dignity and may possibly be the mental and moral inferiors of men whom they command; in such cases they must be given a dignity which they do not possess.

A firm basis of reasonable—not tyrannical—discipline is essential to the efficient working of an army, and anything which interferes with the maintenance of such discipline must be dealt with firmly. If it is unwise for enlisted men to see officers in their unbuttoned moments, then it must be prevented. At this distance, it is not for us to brand the Australian action as undemocratic.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

IT IS a late haying. It is not often you find much hay to cut in Scarboro township area, near Agincourt, on July 20, yet this year some farmers were only well into their hay at that date. One farmer offered a field of good hay to any one who would cut it and haul it off the place, but there were no takers. A farmer up Bruce way told me he would be very careful about buying a stack or mow of hay this winter as a great deal of it went into storage after a bad curing, following heavy rains when it was down. Not only was the weather 'catchy' but help was very scarce. One hot day in southwestern Ontario a group of farm workers quit at 4 p.m. with a protest that it was too hot to work in a barn. This kind of conduct is rare among farm workers as usually men who work on a farm are almost as keen as the proprietor to get work done when the weather is fine, and will put forth some extra effort, in spite of heat, if rain storms are too frequent to get on with the work.

Hay is a heavy crop in Eastern Quebec and so far does not seem to have suffered greatly from wet weather. Quite a lot of hay not far from Toronto was in coils on the 20th and looked rather battered from the weather. Oats doesn't look like much of a crop yet, but fall wheat is quite fair and it appears at the time of writing as if haying would have to stop for a day or two on many farms to get the wheat cut.

PASTURES are very lush but many of them are getting too far forward and should be cut with a mower run about six or eight inches from the ground. It is alright to say this should be done but, with work crowding as it is, it is quite another matter to get it done. Grasses in a pasture, however, when they head-out are well on the way to make poor feed for grazing cattle. Farmers tell me their cattle have been putting on flesh rather well, and any people who had fears that the frequent rains would make the grass soft and the cattle would not do well are very agreeably disappointed.

I have never feared a condition of this kind. If grass is green and full of moisture the animals will get a good supply of protein and dampness is all to the good. The difficulty with wet fields is that the cattle's feet punch them full of holes which is not good for grass, and which is distressing to the animals. There is an advantage in having two pastures—one on high land where the beasts can be kept when the weather is wet.

THE High River district in Alberta had 7 degrees of frost on July 7th. Some of the wheat, I learn, was far enough forward to be damaged but I have not been able to learn of the extent of the injury. This is a rather unusual time for frost, but anything can happen in the way of weather, and I hope that this will not be as bad as the first news of it. An August frost would be much worse and let us hope it may not come to pass.

THE British Minister of Agriculture has announced an aggressive policy for the improvement of cattle in the Old Land. Britain has led the world in many fields of livestock, or perhaps it would be truer to say that Scotland has done this. In Shorthorns, Aberdeen Angus, and Ayrshires Scotland has done a rare job, but the British Minister says that in travelling about England he has been shocked at the poor quality of their dairy cattle, and he now proposes taking drastic action for improvement. The present condition is blamed on the non-pedigree bull and indiscriminate cross-breeding.

War conditions aret blamed for some of this, but the British Minister is determined to have the cattle in England improved, and this done at once, as good animals will be very valuable when the war is over. It is certainly necessary, therefore, for a country like Canada to follow up this fine example and see that the value of the livestock on our farms is greatly increased during the next few years. The demand shall be for good animals ot re-stock farming countries after the war.

IT IS pointed out that the improvement in cattle will be brought about largely by better bulls. A cow may be the mother of only one calf in a year, while a bull may be the sire of fifty. If the bull is a good animal, and an impressive sire, it is easy to see how improvement can be brought about in a fairly rapid fashion by the use of better bulls.

Mr. Hudson believes that cattle breeders must become more 'pedigree-minded.' An animal with recorded ancestry, in the form of a pedigree, indicates to its purchasers something of what it may prove as a good breeder. A non-pedigree animal may be a rather fair looking beast, but if you know nothing of its ancestry there may be a bad cross not far back. We know there is such a thing as atavism in breeding and a non-pedigree bull may ruin rather than improve a herd.

Inspection and licensing of bulls is going to be pursued in England now, looking toward the final elimination of what we might call the scrub bull, which will be likely to greatly improve their cattle. It is surely worth noting that the Minister in that country, right in the throes of war, is not neglecting this highly important feature of farming. The licensing of bulls in England may go as far as to prohibit a farmer from using a bull that fails to pass inspection and is not licensed. This may become an order, like the ploughing-up and re-seeding of the land has become. Farming has learned something of compulsion, and its favorable results as to crops, since the war began, and may now have to improve its farm animals under a measure of compulsion which many may regard as undue interference on the part of the Government; but we are living in an age which may not even tolerate the breeding of nondescript beasts to eat good grass, and so lower the production of the land.

Unconsidered Trifles

TWENTY-ONE YEARS OF "MONKEY BUSINESS"

In Service to Others

The "democracy" which this and my own and other nations are so fond of vaunting, is not a system of government, for politics does not make democracy—it expresses it. Democracy is in its essence a state of mind; that state of mind in each individual which recognizes and pays scrupulous honour to the essential dignity of the other human being, no matter what his status or condition, his "race, colour, or previous condition of servitude." The social and political institutions which we establish are worth nothing unless they make a body wherein that state of mind may fitly dwell. Have we anywhere—here or elsewhere—yet built such an habitation for the spirit of democracy? Not yet. Nor shall we build it, if we think of democracy as a freedom granted to each man to set his own interest first rather than obligation to set above personal interest something higher: the interest of the community. There is no place in our time, there is no longer any place in the United States, for the "rugged individual," considered as a lonely embodiment of ruthless will and physical strength. It is not upon these qualities any more than upon material possessions, that the history of civilized man and of his civilization must depend. It is upon the primary quality of man, which is his social quality—his capacity for living and working adequately with other men, adjusting his mind to theirs, maintaining certain faith and unbroken loyalty, despising cruelty and ensuing justice. In service to others, individuality has its finest flowering. "If you love and serve men," said Ralph Waldo Emerson in one of the noblest of his utterances, "you can never, by any hiding or stratagem, escape the remuneration."

Here is a faith in which every American should live, and the more fully he lives for it the less chance there will be that he should have to die for it.—From "English Point of View," by Sir Willmott Lewis, in "America Now," edited by Harold E. Stearns. (New York: Scribner.)

A Little Boy Visits Goethe

MENDELSSHOHN'S boyhood was evidently marked by such good fortune as might easily have made him a spoiled child. He enjoyed privileges most human beings miss, and opportunities every artist needs but usually doesn't get. An artist needs, among other important things, an audience. A composer, in particular, learns by hearing his music and seeing its effect on other people. From infancy, we might say, Mendelssohn found in his father's house an immediate audience, remarkable for its competence to criticize and help, and for its still rarer competence to avoid flattering him. He was not a spoiled child. Even as a boy he was unusually magnanimous, large-minded, large-souled....

His best fortune was in the friends who encircled him from his earliest days. He grew up among great men, and those of his acquaintances who were not great were at least extraordinary. Friendship with any one of them would have stimulated his mind and guided his heart...

But the friend which we like to think counted most in shaping his character was Goethe, seventy-two years old and world-famous when Mendelssohn first visited him in 1821. Zelter arranged the meeting, and for sixteen days the young musician and the old poet enjoyed each other's society as equals, or as nearly equal as the difference in age would permit....

Mendelssohn obeyed the family injunction to send frequent and full letters. Remember that he was only twelve years old at the time, had composed two operas or operettas, and was working on a third, had written six symphonies, a quartet for piano and strings, a cantata, six fugues for piano, besides songs, sonatas, and innumerable smaller matters!....

On November 10th he writes,...."When I was with him the other day, I played the Sonata in G minor, which he liked very much, also the piece for Begas, and yours, dear Fanny. I play much more here than at home, seldom less than four hours, and sometimes even eight. Every afternoon Goethe opens his instrument (a Streicher) with the words, 'I have not yet heard you today—now make a little noise for me.' And then he generally sits down by my side, and when I have done (mostly extemporising) I ask for a kiss, or I take one. You cannot fancy how good and kind he is to me, no more can you form an idea of the treasures in minerals, busts, prints, statues, and large original drawings, etc., which the polar star of poets possess. It does not strike me that his figure is imposing; he is not much taller than father; but his look, his language, his name, they are imposing. The amount of sound in his voice is wonderful, and he can shout like ten thousand warriors. His hair is not yet white, his step is firm, his way of speaking mild."

The boy appreciated to the full the rare privilege he was enjoying, and it is clear that he stored up for life-long remembrance every impression the poet then made on him. — From "Song Without Words—The Story of Felix Mendelssohn," by John Erskine. (New York: Messner.)

Inflation A Long Step Nearer

In voting down the Roosevelt Administration's food subsidy plans, Congress did more and worse than snub the President. It knocked the keystone out of the United States' price control structure, and thereby brought inflation a long step nearer on both sides of the international border.

Subsidy was the method by which the Administration proposed to repair the breakdown of the price-freezing system. In Canada we had found out some time ago that subsidies were a necessary component of price control. United States did not, however, adopt them on any wide scale until serious—and largely artificial—shortages had developed in a number of essential foods.

Thus eastern dairy farmers were in desperate need of corn to feed cattle and hens, while Iowa farmers were feeding all their corn to the hogs, because corn brought only a frozen $1.05 a bushel in the Chicago grain pit, but was worth $1.45 a bushel if converted into pork. In the same manner beef is now so scarce that even the armed forces are said to be going short, while live cattle on western farms are reported at an all-time high. This was the situation which the Administration hoped, following the example of Canada and other belligerent countries, to correct by the subsidy method.

Experience has shown that without subsidies, food prices cannot be held down. That alone will have serious effects here, for we import many foods from the United States in off seasons, and recent prices of fresh vegetables are an index of what can happen. But unhappily, the inflation spiral will hardly limit itself to food. Wages, already held down with difficulty, will almost certainly rise—and with them, costs of manufactured goods, on many of which Canada is dependent.

The Fitting Name

Our American sunrise had ushered in a noble summer's day. There was not a cloud; the sunshine was baking; yet in the woody river valleys among which we wound our way, the atmosphere preserved a sparkling freshness till late in the afternoon. It had an inland sweetness and variety to one newly from the sea; it smelt of woods, rivers, and the delved earth. These, though in so far a country, were airs from home. I stood on the platform by the hour; and as I saw, one after another, pleasant villages, carts upon the highway and fishers by the stream, and heard cockcrows and cheery voices in the distance.....I began to exult with myself upon this rise in life like a man who had come into a rich estate. And when I had asked the name of a river from the brakesman, and heard that it was called the Susquehanna, the beauty of that name seemed to be part and parcel of the beauty of the land....That was the name, as no other could be, for that shining river and desirable valley.—From "Across the Plains," by Robert Louis Stevenson. (New York: Scribner.)

A Bible Message

And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath. And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.

And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering? And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?

And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him. (Luke 13: 10-17.)

Will They Bring It Home?

As the exchange of greetings between the ancient city of York in England and Ottawa on the occasion of Dominion Day has disclosed, Ottawa men in uniform are enjoying the hospitality of the country town of Yorkshire. They will therefore more than likely have something to tell about theatre-going in York.

By this, they will probably not refer to the movies as they would at home, and they may return with a fully developed taste for what is still known as the legitimate theatre. For they will have been going to the Citizens' Theatre, at the Royal.

A playhouse since the eighteenth century, it had fallen on hard times owing to the competition of the movies. A group of York citizens took it over and formed a public utility company, and the theatre is now successfully run as a repertory company. There is a cast of eighteen, with extras engaged when necessary, an orchestra of six players, and every production has fresh sets and new furniture is hired.

Audiences run to 10,000 a week in a city whose population is not much more than 85,000, and prices though recently raised are still below those charged at the film theatres. Substantial improvements have come out of the profits and a reserve fund has been created. The York Citizens' Theatre Trust, in its repertory venture, has been successful from the start; the initial system of operation, attempting to carry on with touring companies, had soon been discarded.

The by-laws governing the trust company prohibit the payment of any dividends, but apparently no one in York objects to that, least of all the members of the Citizens' Theatre Trust. It is an example to be remembered. Perhaps the men when they return will do more than remember.—Ottawa Citizen.

CAMPBELLFORD

H. Dunk Named CCF Candidate

CAMPBELLFORD, July 26 — (ENS).— W. Harold Dunk, school teacher and sports figure, was named C.C.F. candidate for Northumberland county at a nominating con ention held by that party in Campbellford Friday night.

The meeting, which had received little advance publicity, drew a fair sized crowd and Mr. Dunk, who taught school in Campbelford for fourteen years till six months ago, when he was appointed principal of the Public School at Elora, was the only nominee. He is a native of Seymour and taught in the township for six years prior to being engaged at Campbellford, and in recent years he became widely known for his work in organizing Juvenile hockey. Mr. Dunk has been a member of the executive of the O.M.H.A. for the past six years.

In his address to the gathering he outlined the platform of the C.C.F. party and declared both Liberals and Conservatives were tied to the monopoly and big business interests. The socialization platform of the party was, he said, aimed patricularly at the big corporations such as the milling and packing business, not the small retailer such as the grocer and general merchant. Profits from these businesses when they were taken over by the Government would be used to broaden the education and health fields.

Help Farmers

Addressing himself to the farmers, Mr. Dunk declared the C.C.F. was pledged to further the farm co-operative movement. He pointed out prices received by farmers for their produce were unfair and cited the fact that although they received 15¾ cents per pound for hogs the consumer paid 65 cents per pound for cooked ham, "thus both the farmer and the consumer are robbed."

Another plank in the platform was the offer of 2 per cent loans to "reliable" farmers if a C.C.F. government was elected. The party he claimed had the only plan to give everybody a job at decent wages. They propose to inaugurate a ten year plan during which the natural resources of the province will be greatly developed by the Government. The proposal included irrigation, drainage, damming for electrical power and reforestration. He concuded by saying that neither of the old line parties would do any more to help labor than was absolutely necessary to win an election.

Canadians Train Bofors Guns On Machine Guns

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With the Canadian Gunners in Central Sicily, July 21 (delayed)—(CP Cable)—Canadian anti-aircraft gunners have been in action against German machine-gun posts here with Bofors guns in some of the most surprising engagements in this campaign.

Moving up with the advancing Canadian infantry and tanks are ack-ack Bofors regiments who set up the guns with the bell-shaped muzzles on high ground and wait for an air attack.

There haven't been any that I have seen, so the gunners have been experimenting with knocking out enemy machine-gun posts which try to hold up the infantry.

On a hillside in North Valguarnera yesterday (July 20) afternoon Canadian Bofors gunners told me eye-opening stories of their actions around that town as the Canadian force swept down on it two days ago.

One troop commnader, Capt. Norval Robinson of Kingston, Ont., in a battery led by Maj. J. R. Pepall of Toronto, were moving down the road to Valguarnera at night with the motorized infantry. They kept passing trucks, and without realizing it got out among the forward elements.

About 1 a.m., they were machine-gunned and shelled by mortars on the road, and the gun crews jumped from the trucks to nearby ditches where they remained until dawn.

"We moved a little father along and got our Bofors gun set up just after daylight when the Germans peppered us with machine-guns, and that made us pretty mad," said Sgt. E. M. (Chip) Envoy of Carleton Place, Ont., who was commanding the unit which went into the anti-machine gun post action first.

"A French Canadian infantry outfit was with us, and an officer gave us the targets to try for. Ducking bullets we took on one target 1,500 yards away on a hill. It was a German strongpoint where flashes were showing as machine guns went into action."

Allies Beat Schedule Intend To Keep Lead

CHICAGO, July 26 — (AP). — Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commanding the United States Army Service forces, declared on Thursday "we're up to or ahead of our timetable on every front where we have the offensive, and on other fronts we have established a strategic defence."

At a press conference he said: "We've already shipped General Eisenhower more tons of material than Pershing had in the entire First World War, and we've already taking care of more prisoners of war than our entire army numbered in the First World War."

The Allies have a "tough job ahead of them, and we're just beginning to re-lize it," Somervell said, "but we have the initiative and we're going to press that initiative by keeping a steady flow of men and material to the fighting fronts."

Blast Out Tunnel On Steep Rock Job

ATIKOKAN, Ont., July 26 (CP)—Providing a unique spectacle for a large group of Canadian financiers and mining men, Esker Tunnel was "blown in" today to complete the first phase of the steep rock diversion project, about seven miles north of here.

Following the blast, the lake began flowing out by a new route—a man-made tunnel 1,300 feet long and an outlet 12 feet in diameter.

Esker tunnel is but part of a gigantic engineering scheme to drain near-by Steep Rock lake from the bed of which the steep Rock Iron Mines, Limited, ultimately hopes to extract more than 2,000,000 tons of iron ore annually.

Allies Bag 34 Planes In 7 Days Fighting

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, July 26 (AP). — Within the last week fighter squadrons have shot down about 34 Japanese planes, possibly destroyed 22 more and damaged seven other enemy aircraft in New Guinea.

In addition to yesterday's 23 downed or damaged near Madang and Salamaua, they destroyed 19 and possibly 11 more July 21 near Dang. In all 65 Japanese planes have been destroyed or possibly eliminated since July 10 in this sector in exchange for an Allied loss of a bomber July 19, two fighters July 21 and two more fighters yesterday.

Musso In Dark About Boundaries

MADRID, July 26 — (AP). — Press dispatches from Rome indicated Saturday the Hitler-Mussolini meeting this week was prompted by Il Duce's desire to learn Germany's idea of where the boundaries of Europe begin.

The Rome correspondent of EFE official Spanish foreign news agency, wrote that the Italian press, taking cognizance of Berlin dispatches which have noted with monotonous regularity the insular character of the Sicilian campaign had answered the invasion was part of the Allied plan for the invasion of Europe.

"Therefore, aiding Italy's defence contributes to the defence of the continent," the press articles said.

The correspondent said the Hitler - Mussolini meeting followed such a series of articles.

In Axis propaganda advertisements of the "new continental Europe which have appeared in the Spanish press, Sicily shares the fate of the British Isles in being left off the map but the Italian peninsula, like the Iberian and Scandinavian peninsulas, is included.

SWEDISH RUNNER SETS A NEW MARK FOR THE MILE ON U.S. TRACK

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

In a field of eight three-year-olds, Slide Rule, owned by W. E. Boeing of Seattle, came through to capture the Arlington classic at Chicago, Saturday, a length ahead of Bourmont and five lengths in front of the third horse, Chop Chop. Slide Rule, which earned a prize worth $53,450, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:04 3-5.

Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics lost outfielder Elmo Valo to the armed forces when the player was inducted into the U.S. Army Saturday, to report for duty three weeks hence.

Suspend Jockey

The stewards at Detroit Fairgrounds Saturday suspended Johnny Adams, leading jockey of the U.S. last year, for alleged failure to ride for Earl H. Beezley in the third race under the terms of a written agreement. Instead, Adams rode Amber Light in the Arlington classic at Chicago in which he finished last.

Unbeaten in three previous starts, Reveler was forced to bow to Speed King in the $1,000 H. K. Devereaux Stake for 2:09 trotters at North Randall Saturday after taking the first heat. Harry Whitney drove Speed King to win the second start in 2:03, the fastest time of the day and followed with a third heat victory in 2:05¾.

Jubilee Handicap Attracts Interest

TORONTO, July 26 — Great interest is being shown by followers of the sport of kings in the opening - day feature, "The Jubilee Handicap," which is slated for decision at Hamilton race track next Saturday.

Nominations for this rich $3,000 Hamilton Jockey Club's prize close Monday, July 26. Weights will be announced Thursday. The "Jubilee" Handicap" is restricted to horses foaled in the Dominion, and those already nominated are: J. E. Frowde Seagream's Silvos, Fred Schelke's Shepperton and H. A. Shepherd's Baby Broom. The latter, from Western Canada, finished second to Western Prince in this year's renewal of the Canadian Derby.

Others nominated are: Riverdale Stable's Gallant Foe; Charles Hemstead's Passa Grille, Parkwood Stable's Astrometer, Gyntaf and Talipat; Cosgrave Stable's Appas Tappas, while the MacDonald Stable have nominated a trio in Tulachmore Depressor and Sweepnito.

It is expected that Fred Schelke's good homebred, Shepperton, will carry the bulk of the public support in the "Jubilee Handicap" but the outcome will depend a great deal on the allotment of weights that will be placed on the starters in this rich H.J.C. event by Racing Secretary Anthony (Tony) Simms.

Haegg Smashes American Mile Record

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 26.—(AP).—Sweden's Gunder Haegg, who admits that he runs only fast enough to win, ran the fastest mile in United States outdoor track history—4:04.3—Friday night to defeat Gil Dodds of Boston by 10 yards and Bill Hulse of New York by 15 before a delirious crowd of 10,000 at Harvard Stadium.

Haegg virtually ran a front race from start to finish to lower Glenn Cunningham's American record, made back in 1934, by 1.4 seconds.

By doing so, Haegg came within seven-tenths of a second of his own world mile record, which recently was lowered to 4:02.6 by Arne Andersson in Sweden.

Dodds, who overtook Hulse with a terrific finishing drive, also finished under the Cunningham record in 4:06.5 and Hulse, who gave Haegg a stiff argument during the first half of the gun lap, was timed in 4:07.8.

The Swedish sensation was being hostly pursued by Hulse when he was caught at the 1,500 metres point in 3:47.8, a tenth of a second under Walter Mehle's American record for that distance.

A field of five lined up for the start, with Bobby Knowles of Springfield College 25 yards ahead of Haegg. Dodds, Hulse and Don Burnham, Dartmouth's intercollegiate mile champion.

Haegg caught Knowles at the quarter-mile mark which was reached in 58.4 seconds. From then on Gunder set the pace. He ran the first half mile in 2:09.9, with Dodds inches behind him and Tulse about three yards back. Burnham then was a poor fourth and Knowles sadly outdistanced.

Haegg had about a yard on Dodds at the three-quarters, which was run in 3:01.9. As soon as he heard the gun, Hulse jumped Dodds for second place and made a magnificent attempt to overhaul Haegg, but the harder Hulse tried the faster Haegg ran.

With less than 100 yards to go, Hulse tired as Dodds came with a furious rush that made absolutely no impression on the smooth-striding Swede. Burnham was a quarter lap behind as Haegg finished, and the trailing Knowles more than a half lap in the rear.

When Haegg first stepped on the Harvard track for a few jogs on Wednesday, he described it as "the best one I have seen in America." The two best previous miles run on that historic oval were the 4:12.6 races turned in by Norman Tabor of Brown in 1915 and Jack Lovelock of New Zealand in 1933.

All-Star Game Set For Wednesday

Ten prizes have been secured for the big all-star game between the Tip Top Tailors team and the Peterborough All-Stars billed for Wednesday night at 6:45 at Riverside Park.

The following prizes have been donated, and will be drawn for at the game, each admission ticket entitling holder to participate in the draw:

$10 War Savings Certificate, donated by Peterborough Hotelmen's Association; $10 War Savings Certificate, Peterborough Hotelmen's Association; Sweater, V. A. Selkirk's Men's Shop; Hat, Grafton & Co.; Basket of Groceries, Mason's Stores; Basket of Fruit, De Carlonis Fruit Store; 2 double tickets, Capitol Theatre; 2 double tickets, Regent Theatre; 2 double tickets, Centre Theatre; 100 cigaretes, J. W. Steinkrauss.

The Tip Tops will have their full team with "Suz" Turner doing the twirling. The local team will line up as follows: Catchers, Eddie Starr, Holly Mowry; infielders, Jim Ellis, Sandy Sandulak, Howie Dalton, Jack Tucker and George Hawks; outfielders, Joe Stewart, Tommy Parsons, Frank McCormick, Les Burton and Tony McIlveen. Tommy Stewart, one of the best twirlers in Toronto, will pitch for the local squad. Harry Morgan will be manager.

The entire proceeds go to the Milk for Britain Fund of the local Kinsmen Club and a record crowd should be on hand to help this worthy cause.

Westclox and Aircraft Tangle

Westclox and Aircraft will have the softball scene to themselves tonight as there will be no game in the men's league. These two teams have been dishing up good ball for the fans and the large attendance when these teams met before indicates the public appreciate the brand of ball played. Tonight should see another record crowd. Marg Watson will do the twirling for the Westclox and Norma Strickland for the Aircraft.

Winner Makes Playoffs

Tuesday night's game between the Combines and Switchgear is probably the most important of the season for the winners goes on into the playdowns and the loser folds for the season. With so much at stake a thriller of a game can be expected.

Freddy Elliot or Sid Craig will handle the hurling duties for the Combines while Ber Harrison or Gene Reynolds will get the call for Switchgear. The game is billed for 7:00 o'clock at Riverside.

Earl McCready Here Tonight

Big Earl McCready, one of the greatest wrestlers ever produced in Canada will meet Bunny Dunlop in the main bout at the Brock Street Arena tonight. Fans are looking for Earl to toss the rough house Bunny. The semi-final bout will be between John Katan and Wilbur Toar Morgan. The opener is between Joe Maich and Doc Felice.

Ready For Arlington Classic

Amber Light, ABOVE, fourth in the Kentucky Derby behind Count Fleet, was one of the contenders in the rich Arlington Classic run at Washington Park, Homewood, Ill., Saturday. Count Fleet did not run in the $60,000-plus event but several of the other three-year-old stars did. The list included Slide Rule, who won the race, Occupation and Askmenow. Amber Light came in last, and the jockey was suspended.

Tied With Frood

FALCONBRIDGE (CP)—By defeating Falconbridge 2-1 Saturday, Copper Cliff moved into a first-place tie with Frood in the Nickel Belt Baseball League. Falconbridge occupies second position in the race.

Smylie Wins

TORONTO (CP)—Former Balmy Beach footballer and Camp Borden's track exponent of the present, Cpl. Doug. Smylie won the individual champion at Military District No. 2 Field Day, exhibition track, Saturday.

Unknown Golfer "Buck White" Prolongs Battle

(By The Canadian Press)

The $10,000 Tam O'Shanter tournament at Chicago, openly designated "golfing circus," was scheduled to breeze to a finish Sunday but it didn't—for the simple reason that an unknown, Buck White of Greenwood, Miss., and the money-veteran, Jug McSpaden of Philadelphia, each shot a 71 in the final round to come out even, 282, for the 72 holes in the open division. The pair will play off today in an added 18 holes for the big cash.

While 35,000 fans swarmed the grounds to watch the battle of the links in its final stages, still another tie developed for third place when Chick Harbert of Battle Creek, Mich., and the more famous Byron Nelson pressed their tortuous way to the 18th hole of the concluding set-to to wind up with 283's. Among the ladies, however, there was a clean-cut victory for Patty Berg of Minneapolis in a field of 17 competitors with a 72-hole score of 307, five over par and five better than the second lowest card.

During tournament week, some 80,000 persons had caught glimpses of golf by paying approximately $729,750 in war bonds and war savings stamps as the price of admission.

LAWN BOWLING

As far as the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club is concerned, the main event of the 1943 lawn bowling season will be held on our local greens next Wednesday afternoon and evening.

It is the men's open tournament for rinks and to the two top winners go the beautiful trophies donated by the Quaker Oats Co. and the Peterborough Canoe Co.

The big event had thirty entries last season, eighteen of them from our local club. Just how many we will have this year is very doubtful. So far our own club has not responded the way the committee expected.

Many rinks are coming from Cannington, Lindsay, Cobourg, Uxbridge, Port Hope, Whitby and Oshawa.

There is still time to get up a rink and be with the crowd on Wednesday. There is really more fun in the water than sitting out on dry land. How about it, boys?

Win At Oshawa.

Oshawa held their annual trebles tournament on Saturday and while Peterborough only had one entry they gave a good account of themselves. They walked off with three wins and first honours, and for their efforts they each received a woollen rug. The rink was C. Renaud, F. Dearborn and R. P. Downey.

It seems our boys had won the first two games by handsome scores, but the third was an entirely different situation. They were four down coming home and the end was all against them when the veteran Charlie decided to take a shot at the kitty with the hope of knocking it out of bounds and he did that very thing. On the next end it was all Peterborough and not only did they get four but they got five and won the game, first place and the rugs.

No doubt that particular game will set "Faith, Hope and Charity" up in bowling conversation for some time to come.

Here's the best one that we can think of for the day. It was the first day that the enumerators were at work, and along about eleven o'clock a sweet young miss walked up to us on the green and said: "Good-morning, sir, I am the enumerator for this district and I was told by a family down the street that there were one hundred and sixty men living here. I would like to put them on the list if you will kindly give me their names."

We admit we smiled a little, the lady's face reddened a bit, and then came the dawn.

Young Men of 18 Wanted for the CANADIAN ARMY

One Full Year's Training Must Take Place Before Going on Combat Duty

ALL Canadian men who have reached their eighteenth birthday may now enlist in the Canadian Active Army. That means from the day you pass your physical tests and sign up you will receive standard rates of soldier's pay and your dependents will receive standard separation allowances. It also means that each enlisted man will receive free dental and medical care. But, it does not mean that you will be sent on combat duty at once, for each enlisted man will receive one full year's training before taking his place in the fighting line.

Here is an opportunity for young Canadians of eighteen to receive a full year of training, a real conditioning period in which muscles will be toughened, minds made more alert. A year in which to prepare for the biggest task that has yet faced us—a job of assuring freedom for ourselves and liberating millions more. It means, too, a full year's training that will make you fit and keep you fit. Regular meals, regular hours, and regular training that will put you in the pink of condition. So, if this year you have reached your eighteenth birthday, apply to your nearest Recruiting Office.

FREE YEAR IN UNIVERSITY
1270 young men between the ages of 17 and 22 who have university entrance and who have successfully passed physical tests will be selected for one year's university tuition. This year will apply on their B.A. or B.Sc. on return from duty overseas. Your nearest Recruiting Office will give you particulars.

NEW YORK, July 26 — (AP) — Dodging again, latest rumor is that them bums are after homesick Huck Geary, the Pirate absentee, to play shortstop . . . Branch Rickey's concern about the home life of his players might be just what Huck needs.

Monday Matinee

Pitcher Elmer Riddle of the Reds is in his fifth season of big league baseball and hasn't made an error yet. . . Joe Neville, the Delaware, O., harness racing maestro, is trying to promote a match race between pacers Adios and Senator Abbe . . . Amateur golfers in the Tam O'Shanter tournament had to be careful as well as good. With all the odd prizes George may put up, there was danger of collecting more than the U.S.G.A. limit of $100 in war bonds and thus disqualifying themselves.

After George Kochan, the Coast Guard middleweight, and Howard Bennett put on a torrid fight in Baltimore recently, Kochan turned to a dressing room attendant and said: "Send for the promoter." . . . A few minutes later promoters Fischer and Goldberg tiptoed fearfully into the room, ready for a squawk. . . . "When do we fight again," Kochan demanded. "And next time you'd better give us a couple of clubs."

McCready Is All Set For Big Bout

If huge Earl McCready, the "Aurora Farmer" is not the best wrestler Canada has ever produced, the man to beat him has so far not shown up. McCready wrestles the stronger Al Bunny Dunlop here in the Brock Street Arena tonight but in spite of Dunlop's well-known strength most of the fans expect Earl to give him one artistic licking. McCready won over Whipper Billy Watson in a non-title bout at Maple Leaf Gardens on Thursday night. Although Watson had to take the match on only one hour's notice and admittedly was under the handicap of being unpprepared, nevertheless the write-ups of the Toronto papers indicate that the man has not appeared who can make Earl "The Moose" look bad on a mat. Dunlop has proven to be something of a mat bully here, resorting to tactics against lighter opponents which have brought the ire of the fans down on him but when he tries that stuff on Earl McCready, he'd better be ready for its return with interest.

Canadian wrestlers have won excellent standing in nearly every country they have wrestled in and one of the best-known besides McCready and Watsin is big Black Jack Katan. The great Canadian-Ukrainian is right up there in the first ten of the world's best but on his introduction to the fans here he will meet the popular Toar Morgan and that should make him produce everything he has. The McCready-Dunlop and the Katan-Morgan battles would be stand-out bouts that would rate crowds in many a larger city. In the preliminary Joe Maich will test the mettle of Doc. Felice.

Cardinals Beat Braves In Double Bill

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Frisch appears to have come up with something that would at least give the hoss-laugh to the old gag that baseball is a young man's game. Now that he's found it, he has his Pittsburg Pirates parading up the trail.

Including yesterday's twin win over the busted bubble of Brooklyn—the Dodgers—the Pirates have put together four victories in a row and 10 out of 13, and at this writing they are close enough to second place in the National League to reach over and give the Bums a G. I. haircut.

Inasmuch as the Pirates hitting packs little power, it is obvious their boost lately lies in the elbowing forces Professor Franz has been rejuvenating. More particularly, it rests on three aged pitching arms, belonging to Rip Sewell, Bob Klinger and Wally Hebert.

Three Mainstays

These three have won 29 of the Bucs' 48 games to date. Klinger tossed a 2-hitter to take yesterday's opener and Hebert backed it up with a four-hitter in the afterpiece, and the Pirates rang the cash register 7-1 each time.

Of course, all this is just so much extra gravy for the Cardinals of St. Louis, because they also grabbed off a pair, knocking over Boston Braves 5-1 and 7-3 to run their winning string to eight straight and sky-rocket their National League lead to 8½ games.

Over in the American League, meantime, the Yankees hoisted their lead to seven full games by splitting with Chicago White Sox. The Sox squeaked through in the opener 2-1 on Thurman Tucker's ninth inning homer, while the bombers hit the jackpot 6-3 in the afterpiece. The Sox played the second game under protest after a balk was called on Pitcher Orval Grove in the eighth.

Detroit Wins

Second place Detroit Tigers dumped Philadelphia 5-0 in their first game, behind Dizzy Trout's five-hit flinging, but the Athletics came back for a 3-1 edge in the second tussle, although held to 2 hits by Johnny Gorsica. Boston Red Sox belted the Brownies twice 7-0, as Tex Hughson turned in win No. 12 with a three-hitter, and 6-4 as Bobby Doerr hit his fourth homer in four playing days. Vernon Kennedy's seven-hitter gave Cleveland an 8-2 win over Washington Senators in their curtain-raiser, but the Nats went on a four-run fourth inning spree to take the nightcap 7-2.

New York Giants' losing run reached seven straight as Chicago Cubs clouted the Coogan Bluffers twice by 2-0. A 14-hit attack gave the Cincinnati Reds a 7-3 win over the Phillies, but Jimmy Wasdell knocked two runs home to pace the Phils to a 3-1 nightcap win.

Saturday also was a busy day. In the National League Chicago trimmed New York 7-1, Pittsburgh handed the same kind of treatment to Brooklyn by a 6-1 count, Cincinnati hung a 5-3 licking on Philadelphia and St. Louis white-washed Boston 3-0.

In the junior league Philadelphia trounced Detroit 8-4, Boston took St. Louis 10-3 and Chicago dropped the first half of a double-header to New York 5-1, only to take the nightcap 5-4. Cleveland took Washington 2-0.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

TORONTO, July 26 (CP) — The batter takes a hefty cut at the sinker, misses—but the ball rolls into fair territory and the winning run scores from third base- impossibe? it happened. Harry (Sudbury Star) Eisen, who relays this tall tale of the weirdest base hit in history, says Bonfield was playing Mattawa 13 years ago. Henry Dunn, the batter, had lost a leg in a railway accident. When he swung, the ball struck his artificial leg and bounded between the foul lines. The poor umpire didn't even guess the truth.

Henry, 37 now, is still a power in Northern Ontario sports. he is president of the Sudbury Senior Softball League, promotes boxing and wrestling shows and recently played right field for eight innings in a scheduled game. As Eisen says, what price Pete Gray?

Incidentally, don't mail this to Ripley. He used it years ago.

Manna From Heaven:

Gaye Stewart of Toronto Maple Leafs writes his parents in Fort Wiliam that he is seeking a Commission in the Royal Canadian Volunteer Reserve at Price Edward Island. Gaye also sent a parcel containing all his "civies." Tucked among the shirts and socks, Momma and Poppa found the Calder trophy which Gaye won last year as the National Hockey League's outstanding rookie.

Personality Parade:

Ken Dixon of Brampton Army leads scorers in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior series with 56 points (31 goals, 25 assists). Ken who tried out with the hockey Leafs last fall, helped Mimico-Brampton Combines crush New Westminster Salmonbellies in the 1942 Mann trophy series... Len Burrage, former star defenceman with the famed Moncton Hawks and now established in Washington, is visiting friends at Moncton... Flying Officer Lew Hayman says "if anyone in the Air Force has ideas linking me with football this year I haven't been told a thing about it." But Ottawa papers hint Hayman may leave the capital to return to his job with Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, whom he guided to the Canadian title last season..."Too bad this isn't November," wrote Jack (Cornwall Standard-Freeholder) Park after glimpsing Alex Shibicky, Louis St. Denis Jake Brunning and Joe Cooper at a Cornwall Lacrosse game. These four stalwarts, now stationed in Cornwall played with Ottawa's senior championship Commandos last year.

Takes 2 Heats

SIMCOE (CP)—With Bob Ford driving, Alberta Lee of the Hyott Stable, London, swept to a two-heat win in the pace for two-year-olds in a twilight harness meet Saturday. Oxford Lad, with Milton reining, won two out of three in the 2.15 pace while Bruce Henley won the last two starts in the class trot.

Leafs Hold Lead Win Three More

By The Associated Press

Joe Buzas is living up to the high hopes held for him at Lewisburg, Pa., when he was playing baseball for Bucknell College.

Buzas, now playing second for Newark in the International League, was the deciding factor as the Bears swept a doubleheader from Baltimore yesterday by the identical score of 4-3. His single with the bases loaded in the seventh inning of the first game drove in the winning run. In the nightcap his fifth inning single again accounted for the winning tally and gave Frank Hiller, former Lafayette College star, his seventh triumph of the campaign. Altogether Buzas got three hits in six times at bat during the afternoon and drove in four runs.

The second place Bears failed to gain, however, as the leading Toronto Maple Leafs beat Jersey City twice, 9-2 and 3-2. Al Jarlett and Southpaw Joe Sullivan received credit for tht victories, although each needed relief from Al Shuman, recently obtained from Pittsburg IPrates.

Rochester took both ends of a bargain bill from Syracuse, 8-1 and 1-0. Blix Donnelly twirled a four-hit shutout in the nightcap and won on Wargo's fourth inning double.

Buffalo scored 22 runs to Montreal's six, but the Bisons had to be satisfied with a split of their twin bill with the Royals. Montreal took the opener, 5-2, but was outclassed in the afterpiece when the Bisons pounded out a 20-1 victory as Rufe Gentry notched his 12th triumph of the season.

Syracuse edged by Newark, 1-0, Saturday while Toronto earned a similarly slim, 2-1, victory over Rochester. Baltimore pushed over one extra run to take Jersey City 5-4 and Montreal executed a like squeeze to take Buffalo 7-6.

Rarin' To Go

Earl McCready is all set for his clash with the matman bully Al Bunny Dunlop here tonight. It promises to be a riot.

O'Connor Wins

EPSOM, England, July 26 —(CP Cable).—Lt. Larry O'Connor of Toronto won the 120-yard hurdles at an inter-services meet held here Sunday which took on the nature of a miniature Olympic Games with representatives of the Allied Nations participating.

It was O'Connor's first race since he came overseas.

Sgt. Sydney Wooderson won the mile for the British Army in 4 minutes 13.8 seconds. It was his second fastest time this year.

New Potatoes On Market Sell Quickly

New potatoes were 40c a peck and $2.25 a bag on the local market Saturday. Leo Cann of Port Hope, asked 40c a peck for his Warbas, and George Thorn of Cavan, quickly sold twenty bags of the same variety at $2.25 a bag.

Mr. Thorn said his crop is promising. He expects a representative of Canadian Countryman to make his annual trip this week for the purpose of taking photographs of the crop in advanced foliage. Mr. Thorn has a son in the army, and is managing to get along without his help.

Peas were 50c the six-quart basket; beans, onions and carrots two bunches for 15c. Arthur Stenson of North Monaghan had some ripe tomatoes at 20c a pound, and expects a larger ripening this week.

Vegetable Variety.

Herb Doig quoted cauliflowers at 25c, vegetable marrows at 15c and cabbages 15c or two heads for twenty-five cents. His yellow beans were two quarters for 25c, and onions, beets and carrots two bunches for 15c or four for 25c.

Yellow harvest apples were 35c the half peck, and black currants 50c a quart. Red raspberries were 40c a large box and 22c the small box. Mrs. W. S. Howson quoted raspberries at 35c a quart. She simply remarked that she thought 35 cents was a good price, and her customers, or any one else, could have them at that.

Butter was unchanged at 40c a pound. Eggs ranged from 35c to 45c a dozen. Extra large sizes sold at 45c. Chickens were 37c and year-old stock 35 cents. The market was active, and gardeners did a lively business.

Allied Blitz

sprawling Krupp Armament Works in that assault.

Last night's raid was the 57th on Essen—one of the most heavily bombed cities in the world.

In addition to the 25 bombers listed as missing in the overnight foray, one R.A.F. fighter also failed to return home, the air ministry said.

Yesterday's raid by the Ameri- was made at the cost of 19 planes. The heavy bombers beat off 200 fighters and weathered a hail of flak to loose new destruction on the submarine nests and port facilities at Hamburg, the aircraft factories at Warnemunde, the seaplane base at Wustrow and the shipyards at Kiel.

Black smoke was rising four miles above Hamburg when the Americans reached their target, left by the 1,000-plane R. A. F. and Canadian raid the previous night, which was the greatest ever launched against a single target.

The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers dropped 2,300 tons of explosives and incendiaries on Hamburg at a cost of 12 bombers.

Cover France, Holland

While the United States bombers were completing their 1,500-mile round trip, American medium bombers, escorted by Spitfires, fanned out over Belgium, Holland and France in destructive raids on German supply bases and communication systems in the occupied areas. Four enemy planes and seven Allied planes were destroyed in the resultant battles.

The flight from the west was duplicated by an American heavy bomber formation winging 1,500 miles round trip from North Africa yesterday to blast rail yards at Bologna in Northern Italy.

The unescorted formation exploded an ammunition train and blanketed the freight yards without encountering opposition fighters or flak.

Their attack also was preceded by an R.A.F. night raid, as R.A.F. Lancasters, shuttling back top on Italy's northwest coast.

German raiders, meanwhile, struck back at northeast England last night in a weak blow that caused slight damage and no casualties, the Air and Home Security Ministries announced today. Three enemy raiders were downed.

Overseas Mail Lost

OTTAWA, July 26—(CP). — The Post Office Department has reported the loss through enemy action of letters, printed papers and airmail posted in the United Kingdom between April 1 and April 8. The mail, addressed to all parts of Canada, included mail from the Canadian armed forces in Britain. The number of bags lost was not disclosed. The airmail was mail dispatched to Canada from Britain via New York.

The immediate effect on Germany and Italy of the end to Mussolini's 21-year regime as dictator and international bully could not be estimated immediately.

Five hours after the Rome radio stunned Allied Nations with the announcement, the Berlin radio announced only, in an overseas announcement, that Mussolini's resignation had been accepted, and added: "It is believed in Rome that the change in government was due to the health condition of Il Duce who fell ill recently."

There was no indication last night that the German people had been informed, and Tokyo broadcasts ignored the development completely.

There was little doubt, however, that the fall of the man whose political views and ruthless military policy eventually divided the world into totalitarian and democratic camps was the most staggering blow yet dealt at Axis prestige.

The Italian King's choice of Marshal Badoglio to take over instead of some fanatical Fascist strengthened the conviction that the Monarch was determined to end Fascism as a peace necessity.

Hitler's army, however, remained an unknown factor in determining the King's next movement as German forces have virtually dominated Italy since their arrival at Il Duce's call for reinforcements.

Hitler was now faced with the choice of taking over Italy completely to keep her in hand or withdrawing to the Brenner Pass and tightening the boundaries of his "European Fortress."

Official comment was not immediately forthcoming but Prime Minister Churchill, who had aimed some of his best bards at Il Duce and referred to him at various times as "Tattered Lackey," "Whipped Jackal," "Hyena," "Pinchbeck Caesar," and "Mussolini Flop," worked at his desk until early this morning and the activity at Whitehall was greater than had been noted in a long time.

London newspapers took the view that Mussolini's fate should not alter the immediate Allied plans and that Italy should be hit hard regularly until she accepts the only terms Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt have said would be settled on unconditional surrender.

Want To Quit.

"Badoglio says "the war continues," said the London Telegraph. "So be it. He will find that the Italians will not fight more readily for the King and himself than they did for Mussolini, because in both cases they will be fighting for Germany alone and they know it."

The King and Badoglio are equally guilty with Mussolini if they carry on the war, The Telegraph declared, and added: "Therefore Allied sentiment toward the new military government can be no more tender than toward th old Fascist Government."

Vernon Bartlett, member of Parliament, writing in the News Chronicle, asserted:

"The resignation or dismissal of Mussolini.... is in all probability intended to be the prelude to peace negotiations. It has been expected many months that Marshall Badoglio would be used when the time came to negotiate surrender."

Bartlett added: "It was natural enough that the new Premier should assert in his proclamation that fighting continues." It is possible, he wrote, that despite the Casablanca unconditional surrender declartion the new Government might hope "that surrender need not be unconditional."

Americans Swing

Guy Simonds, who are hammering the centre of the Axis line in the vicinity of Regalbuto. The Americans have wheeled into the left of the line and are beating their way up the Tyrrhenian coast. They were believed last night to have reached a point in the neighborhood of San Stefano di Camastra, approximately 60 miles from Messina.

(In a dispatch last night from Allied Headquaretrs William Stewart, Canadian Press War Correspondent, reported the Canadians engaged in bitter fighting in the centre of Sicily, but continuing their steady progress toward junction with the 8th Army.

(The Algiers radio Saturday night said tha forces, including the Canadians and Americans, driving eastward from Enna, now have linked up with the 8h Army in the Catania area. However, this report was unconfirmed from other sources.

(Stewart said the Canadians might take two courses in their drive toward Catania. The first one, he said, could be a thrust pointed at the mid-section of the 70-mile defence line which Axis forces are attempting to consolidate from the eastern edge of the Catania plain up through Regalbuto to San Stefano on the north coast.

(Or, they might cut through Nicosia to Stan Stefano. He said the Canadians were at present probably some 20 or 30 miles due west of Aderno, which is 20 miles northwest of Catania.

Canadians Slowed

Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent with the Canadian Army in Sicily, predicted in a dispatch last night that Canadian troops would probably make slow headway for several days as "the enemy is using every means he can take to block" them.)

German divisions, including the crack Hermann Goering armored unit, hold 35 miles of the line from the river to Regalbuto, with Italian troops taking the remaining thirty miles northwest to the coast. The remaining territory is roughly the size of Cap Bon on the North African coast, where the army of Nazi Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim cracked up less than three months ago.

(Admission that the Axis forces in Central Sicily are virtually entrapped by the advancing Allied armies came today from the German-controled Vichy radio. "The final assault on Catania seems imminent," said a broadcast recorded in London by the Ministry of Information. "Five-sixths fo Sicily now is in Allied hands and it is not certain whether the Axis forces in the centre of the island will succeed in reaching the east coast in time.")

However, British troops were still encountering strong resistance in the the southern sector, but land forces were getting assistance both from the air force and from naval units which swung into off-shore positions to blast away at the port of Taromina halfway up the coast of Messina.

Allied aircraft, including R.C.A.F. formations also ranged over the Tyrrhenian and Ionian seas and the Strait of Messina to attack Axis shipping still bringing a trickle of men and material to the belaguered Axis garrison.

BETTER LIVING FOR US ALL

FROM the test tubes and retorts of industry's research laboratories come thrilling new discoveries to enrich our daily life. But before these improvements in old products and developments of new can have any meaning for us, they must be put into production and made available in quantity. That takes money for tooling, machinery, materials and wages. The Bank of Toronto has extended financial assistance for countless such undertakings since 1855, thus playing its vital part in Canada's march of progress.

Liberal Party Has Plan For After War

TORONTO, July 26.—The Ontario Government "has been preparing plans for some time now which will enable Ontario to play its full part in reconstruction and rehabilitation" after the war, Farquhar Oliver, Minister of Public Welfare and Works, declared in a radio address Saturday night.

"This is not a promise but is a statement of an accomplished fact," he declared. "A plan for the education and retraining of members of the armed forces and war workers has been prepared. A youth training program to promote physical fitness and morale and combat juvenile delinquency is also under way.

"An extensive five-year program of highway development and improvement has already been laid out. Crown lands have been set aside for agricultural settlement by members of the armed forces and for reforestation. The burdensome restrictions which hamper prospectors and developers of mininig properties will be removed. Extensive geological surveys in which veterans can be employed are also planned.

"The construction of hospitals and other buildings held up by the war will be proceeded with and provide considerable employment for all types of labor. Government assistance will be given to municipal work projects deferred by war conditions.

"The present Government has a record of service that should appeal to thinking people. It has never been a class government, but rather has brought the benefits of good government to people in all walks of life.

"Ontario has la Premier Nixon a leader peculiarly fitted to guide this Province through the difficult days ahead; a man with a quarter of a century of public life to his credit; no blemish or trace of graft or scandal mark his long career.

"The other two parties are attempting to buy the people's support with your own money, by promising to increase services to the people by the simple avenue of increasing your taxes."

Mass Murder

DUNDALK, Ont., July 26—(CP).—A skunk with a penchant for neatness came to an untimely end here, trapped and dispatched with a rifle bullet. Like most skunks, this Jimmy had a taste for chickens; but unlike the majority of his clan, he worked on a system — laying his victims in neat rows of four before departing. Seventeen chickens and 19 bantams were his score before the inevitable end came.

SAMUEL STINSON

Samuel Stinson of Omemee died on Saturday at his home after a lengthy illness. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Mary Elizabeth Sandy, a son, the Rev. D. M. Stinson; and three daughters, Blanche, Mrs. J. K. (Carrie) Valleau, and Mrs. W. K. (Dorothy) Parker.

The funeral service will be held from the late residence, Queen Street, Omemee, on Tuesday at 2 p.m. Interment will be in Emily Cemetery.

Entertain Visitors At Meeting Of Red Cross

HASTINGS, July 26.—(ENS). — Mrs. Metcalfe entertained the Elgin Red Cross at her home on Thursday afternoon in honor of her daughter and little grandchild (Mrs. Henry Hawman and Mary Gail) of Woodbridge, who are spending their vacation with her this week.

There were 12 ladies present. They quilted a quilt during the afternoon. In the business hour it wa decided that there would be no meeting in August. At the September meeting each member is to bring either a quilt top or a lining.

At the close of the meeting the hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. Lobb and Mrs. Max Scott, served a dainty luncheon.

CHEMISTRY HELPS TO WIN THE WAR

... But A Whole Loaf is Still Better

YES, a whole loaf is better than half, but how often in the past has a half-eaten loaf been thrown away because mould had spoiled it?

In normal times bread spoiled by mould means a serious loss; in wartime such a loss is disastrous. That's why the discovery of "Mycoban" is so important to Canada and the rest of the United Nations.

"Mycoban" (sodium propionate) is a chemical product which, when added to the baker's dough, delays the growth of mould spores beyond the time when bread would normally grow stale. The addition of "Mycoban" does not affect the taste, quality, appearance or texture of the bread. Besides helping to save many thousands of loaves daily, "Mycoban" is also used to prolong the mould-free life of other bakers' products, and of butter, cheese, tobacco, honey and preserves.

Product of the Organic Chemicals Division of C-I-L, "Mycoban" is now being distributed throughout Canada to help Canadian bakers in their war against the blight of bread mould.

The contribution of "Mycoban" towards national food economy is another example of a product of Industrial Chemistry which helps Canada's war effort.

C.G.E. EXPANSION.

Piggott Construction Company, Hamilton, has been awarded the contract for a $240,000 (equipped) plant extension at the Edison Lamp Works, Dufferin Street, Toronto, for Canadian General Electric Company. The building is in two stories and basement.

EIGHTH DONATION

Arne Erikson of Peterborough, an employee at the Canadian General Electric Company, gave his eighth blood donation this morning at the Blood Donor Clinic. The week started off nicely with seventy-two donors, ten being from Lindsay, C.G.E., Westclox, Canada Packers and the Quaker Oats Company were all represented this morning.

BUMPED CHIEF'S CAR.

When Chief Gimblett suddenly braked his service car to avoid two girls who stepped off the McDonnel Street curb west of Aylmer, Saturday afternoon, an automobile driven by Keith Saunders of Quarries, Ontario, caused a rear-end collision with minor damage to the fender and tail light. Expense of repairs would apparently be slight. Police Constable McGillen informed the Examiner that Saunders did not report the mishap.

Illness Takes Peterboro-Born Wiklund Of CBC

T. O. Wiklund, prominent in Canadian radio circles, died at his home, 357 Roehampton Avenue, yesterday. "Wik," as he was known to associates, was only 34 years of age. His death occurred following a prolonged illness which took him from his desk at the National Program Office of the CBC last April.

Mr. Wiklund was born in Peterborough, Ont., of Canadian-Scandinavian parents. He studied music, engineering and pharmacy before entering the radio field 10 years ago. He was well known in broadcasting circles in St. Catharines and Hamilton before joining the CBC in 1937.

He had enjoyed many novel assignments. He had charge of one of the two travelling radio units which covered the Royal visit for national network listeners in the summer of 1939. He was the first man to make the Quints speak English when he taught them the words of "There'll Always Be An England" for a Christmas broadcast two years ago, and he described the opening of the Alaska Highway for NBC listeners last winter.

Mr. Wiklund is survived by his wife, the former Helen Gray of Hamilton; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wiklund of St. Catharines; his brother Carl of Toronto, and a sister, Mrs John Cavers of St. Catharines.

Three Machines Tangle On Water Street

A motor driver's midjudgment of space in the crowded and changing traffic plane ahead of him on Water street, between Brock and Murray streets, Saturday afternoon resulted in assorted damage to a city bus, automobile and Sanitary Ice truck.

The bus, driven by Terence Doyle, 578 Stewart street, was travelling south. Cars were parked an both sides of the street, but there was a space at the east curb about the length of two of them.

F. Ivey, 5 Wolsley street, going north, turned his car toward that broader stretch of the traffic lane, to leave ample room for the city bus, approaching him.

John Kidd, 259 Reid street, driving the ice truck behind Ivey, concluded that he could get through between the bus and the automobile, miscalculating the narrow strait that was open to him.

Resulting damage included: Front and rear fenders of Ivey's car; left front side of the bus, bent bumper and panel; and Kidd's truck came out of thet tangle with a front left fender wrenched, left tire blown out, bent anxle and frame.

Police Constable McGillen investigated the mix-up and did the accounting of the sundry three-way damage.

Berry Pickers Swelter On The Rocks

Some hundreds of Peterborough's citizens were on the rocks during the week-end in the blueberry country off in the general directions of north and east of the city.

Fifty cent strawberries and raspberries convinced the urban "dodowners" that if they were to get any preserves for winter they might as well make up their minds to do something about it themselves. And that's what has been going on, threshing the wild raspberry bushes nearer home and taking to the wilderness for the huckleberries.

"Fifteen quarters yesterday," said one man this morning referring to the industry and the outing of his wife up the Apsley Road.

Hundreds Picking

"You turn west to Long Lake, and you have to get over on the north side of it. Dinny Hendley, who keeps a resort up there, told me that he ferried four hundred people across the lake to the berry country a week ago, and I would say there were more than four hundred up there yesterday. Dinny has two boats and his charge is 30 cents for each passenger.

It was hot as the mischief up there Sunday, but you don't notice it as much as back in town. Nearly all the women wore slacks. After walking around on the hot rocks all afternoon I noticed they were glad of the chance to cool their feet in Long Lake before taking off for home."

They say the quest for wild berries was extended from the Belmont-Methuen rocks north of Havelock, across to the Blue Mountains, through Burleigh and along the Oregon Trail and the Mississaugua River in Harvey.

Free Conscience

This was one Sunday's travel by the burning of gasoline which might possibly provide salving pretext for the consciences of those who run unnecessary cars on pleasure idling up and down the county and beyond. At least they could say to themselves, if the question arose in their minds, that they were eking out the cnaning industry, or the ultimate truth that they were foraging for themselves and their families, like all hustling individuals whose last concern extends beyond the lintel of their domestic doors in consideration of the community canning business or the number of pints and quarts in their cellar array of conserves in the Doe and Roe houses.

"I'd never forgive myself if I paid forty or fifty cents a box for just ordinary berries, rasp and straw. Any consumer who bolsters those prices should consult an alienist or revise his sense of the value of money. That's why I don't mind taking to the woods of a week-end, and believe me we're just about independent of the canning industry right now. They don't need to worry about us; probably some peaches and plums and we're all set. At fifty cents a quart for fruit our preserves are really worth something this year."

Evidently smiling Bill Saltern from the Ninth Line of Dummer has a lot of amateur opposition in the business of picking huckleberries this season; not that he will object to the crowd, because he likes company. He was in with a load of the berries on the market Saturday, emptied every basket, and will likely be in again at the end of this week.

City Surpasses Bomb Objective

Peterborough has reached and passed its original objective of 67 depth charge posters, it was announced officially at local headquarters of the National War Finance Committee today.

An up-to-date count of completed posters turned in and on hand plus the number which have already been forwarded to Navy Headquarters, Ottawa, reveals this fact.

A sizeable number of additional posters are reported to be filled but these have not yet been received at the committee's office. Local headquarters urges all merchants who have completed posters in their stores to bring them in as early as they can, and if possible before the end of the week. The current drive, which has been going on all this month, comes to an end on Saturday, the last of July.

"We would like to make a showing 25 per cent. or more in excess of our original quota," the National War Finance Committee states.

In connection with Peterborough's accomplishment it was said that Windsor was the first city to report having reached its objective, and that currently its purchases amount to 107 per cent. of the original goal. The town of Hagersville has bought three times the number of posters called for in its quota, and the county of Haldimand first county to report, is at 125 per cent. of its objective.

Jar Marmalade Makes $4.05 For War Victims

When young children come back year after year to try to do some good for others, it is evident that the work on previous occasions had made more than a passing impression on their minds, and also left a desire to continue the good work while the need still exists. Time and again this has proved to be the case in the work done by many both old and young on behalf of the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund.

Hugh McIntyre of 157 Crescent street is quite a young boy, yet he has already taken part in four different efforts on behalf of the fund during the past two years, three of them previously in conjunction with his older sister, and the latest of these recorded today being all on his own.

Starting out by selling tickets for a draw on a jar of marmalade, which realized $4.05 and was won by Mrs. Post on Romaine sareet, he then had a stall on the lawn of the family residence across from Little Lake, from which he sold homemade baking, candy and lemonade, besides some beans from the family garden, and this was further supplemented by a small bingo which in all made a total of $9.70 credited in his name today. This is quite creditable work for such a young boy, and he was just as pleased as anyone could be, when the secretary of the fund called at his home to collect the money.

Hold Circus

Then as if to accentuate the splendid work that is being done by very young people to help the fund along, four seven and eight-year-old girls held a circus on their own to add a further $1.28 to the day's receipts. These four girls, Christine Monk, Irene Kelly, Joan Chamberlain and Mary Hunter, who made this venture give a good indicationu of how resourceful some youngsters of even such tender years can be when the opportunity presents itself.

Some time ago Mrs. T. Davies donated a considerable number of packets of Sweet William flower seed to the fund which have been gradually sold and mostly included in the returns from the market stall, but today an item of 25 cents appears all on its own from this particular source from a sale made by the secretary of the fund. There are still a few packets of this seed on hand, and since they can be sown any time up to about the middle of August, why not get a packet for the small sum of 5 cents, which also will go to help the people in Britain?

Fern received a Norwegian war medal and her husband was given the Saint Olav Medal with Oak Leaves.

Sugar Coupons Valid Earlier

OTTAWA, July 26 (CP)—Effective today, August and September canning sugar coupons for the purchase of sugar, the Prices Board announced in a statement which said the move was made to help women who wish to can fruit now available. Expiry date of the coupons remains unchanged.

"This does not mean that additional sugar for home canning will be available later in the season," a spokesman emphasized. "The move is made for the convenience of women who want to can the fruit that is available now, instead of spreading their canning activities throughout the whole summer. There is no present prospect of the present canning sugar allowance being increased."

The Board statement said: "A larger proportion of the total year's supply of sugar has come in during the first six months than was expected."

"This does not mean that any greater quantity of sugar will become available during the full year, but simply that a greater proportion of it has been delivered in the early part of the year."

Remand Couple In Fraud Case

On separate charges of alleged attempted fraud in an insurance claim for loss of certain furnishings in a fire which damaged the Norwood house in which they were living together, Floyd Emery and Helen Girard were remanded on bail of $1,000 each until Monday, Civic Holiday, in police court this morning.

Contents of the house, of which they were tenants, were insured for $700

The appraisal of articles alleged to have been lost in the fire covered a set of dishes, silverware, radio and some other furnishings.

The charge of attempted fraud followed an investigation of the circumstances of the fire and the claim for damages made by Inspector John A. Grant of Toronto on instructions from the Department of the Ontario Fire Marshal. It is understood that the articles which were said to be missing were traced to Peterborough after Emery and Miss Gerard had moved from Norwood.

41 Take Part Saturday On KawarthaCourse

A field of 41 starters teed off in the Red Cross golf tournament Saturday afternoon at the Kawartha Club. Charlie Low, city champion and holder of the Girven trophy was the ultimate winner with a gross 73, net 68. In a tune-up game in the morning Charlie shot the first nine in 33, two strokes under par. Dave Price, with a gross 86, also wound up with a net 68, and tossed a coin with Low for the silverware.

It was a good field, but the committee were disappointed in the fact that Joe Watson was the only member of the Peterborough Club to accept the Kawartha Club invitation to take part in the match.

Next Saturday afernoon the Kawartha golfers are hosts to the Peterborough Club, in the first intermatch for the Glover-Dobbin trophy won last year by Peterborough.

The City League has changed the playing date from Wednesday night to Tuesday night, and the games will be played tomorow night. President Ken Currie would like all captains to field a full team.

There will be a 54-hole professional tournament at the Kawartha Club August 21 and 22, with an 18-hole tournament for the amateurs.

Sgt. R. I. Elliott Sees Family After Two Years

Sgt. Russell I. Elliott, R.C.A.F., returned recently from 27 months service overseas, has nothing but praise for the kindness and hospitality of the English people among whom he stayed for so long.

Hs is back in Peterborough now, at 489 Sherbrooke Stret, for a short furlough before beginning his training to become a pilot or navigator with the air arm and is seeing his wife and two children once again.

Enlisting in the R.C.A.F. in June, 1940, he took instrument training, for which his previous job at Westclox had particularly fitted him, in Canada and departed overseas in February, 1941. In January of this year he was made a sergeant in the R.C.A.F. ground crew. His special function was the checking of the airplane instruments on the accuracy of which the success of any flying mission depends.

Sgt. Elliott says that the people near his camps abroad showed a very genuine interest in the strangers in their midst, and were very pleased, indeed anxious, to have Canadian soldiers in their homes. Families would register with the Women's Voluntary Services, telling that organization what facilities and kinds of entertainment they could offer the boys. Then, when arranging to go on leave a soldier who wanted to make the most of his holiday would first go to the W.V.S. office and tell them there just what it was he most desired to do, and that organization, after consulting its records, would arrange for him to be introduced to a family who could really help him to have a good time along those lines.

It was a very helpful service and it worked extremely well from everybody's point of view, Sgt. Elliott said.

Why Have An Election At All?

According to the Liberal propaganda bureau it doesn't matter whether Peterborough has a representative in the Legislature or not. "The affairs of the riding are being well looked after by an able Liberal executive," reads a recent Elliott advertisement.

That is probably the best piece of unconscious humor that has crept inti the campain.

Everybody knows that the way in which the "able Liberal executive" looks after the affairs of the riding is to see that nobody but a good Grit gets anywhere near the patronage trough.

It was the same "able Liberal executive" that was responsible for the appointment of enumerators on a strictly partisan basis and the voters whose names were left off the list and who have been forced to go before the revising officers to protect their franchise have a chance to say with their ballots on August 4 what they think of the advertised ability of the local Liberal machine.

Apparently it does not yet seem to have occurred to the Liberal propaganda staff that by the time the people of Ontario get through with the Nixon government there will be nothing for a Liberal executive, however able, to do.

Peterborough wants a representative at Queen's Park, not a regency operated by a party organization. They can get a real one, and they are going to do it, by electing

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q. Will you please tell me the maximum prices for honey in Northumberland County?

A. Maximum wholesale prices for honey, are 12½ cents a pound for granulated and 14 cents a pound for pasteurized. For sales by a primary producer at retail, a mark-up of 25 per cent is permitted. If, however, the retail sale is made in bulk or in any container other than glass of more than one pound capacity, the mark-up shall not exceed three cents per pound of honey.

Q. I have been paying 45 cents a dozen for eggs but to-day I find they are 53 cents. Is this correct?

A. Yes. The retail ceiling price for eggs in Toronto is 49½ cents a dozen plus mark-up of 20 per cent or eight cents per dozen which ever is lower. Eggs have been selling a good deal less than the ceiling price because of the supply situation. The market is now tightening due to increased shipments to Britain and the price is rising accordingly.

Q. I have two bedrooms which I am thinking of renting unfurnished. Can you tell me what rent I should charge?

A. You should apply to the Rentals Office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, 21 Main Street, E., Hamilton. An inspection will be made and the rent set.

Q. I am advised that when the house I live in is sold, I must either sign a lease for 12 months or vacate in three months. Is this correct?

A. If your notice to vacate contains a 15-day clause, then you may, within 15 days advise your landlord in writing, that you wish to remain for 12 months, in which case you would be bound by a statutory lease for this period. If you do not answer in writing within 15 days then you are obliged to vacate at the end of three months. If your notice does not contain such a lease, you may remain for one year.

Noted Woman Playwright Dies

VICTORIA, July 26 (CP)—Miss Marjorie M. Reynolds, 58, widely-known playwright of Winnipeg and Vancouver, whose plays for several years were included in the anthology of the best plays of the year, died Saturday night at nearby Deep Cove.

Born in Birmingham, England, she came to Canada 30-odd years ago living for a time at Vancouver where she was prominent in the Little Theatre group. She came to Deep Cove last May.

Some of her plays were written under the name of Rachel Reynolds.

TROUBLE WITH CHILDREN LAID TO PARENTS NOT GROWING UP

Boys, Girls Seek Independence by Leaving Homes Where Acts Often Cause Flareups

A friend of mine, whose young son was about to start to a summer camp, observed with surprise that he seemed to be suffering from a secret sorrow. Ordinarily, like a combined burst of sunshine and a tornado raging through the house, he had turned into a gob of gloom. He was strangely and ominously silent. He didn't want to play. He didn't want to go anywhere. He took no interest even in the packing of his multifarious camp outfit. And finally, when even pancakes and maple syrup for breakfast failed to lift him from his pit of despair, his mother spoke.

"Son," she said, "have you something on your mind that is worrying you? If you have, tell me all about it. Sometimes just talking over our troubles helps us to solve them."

Worried Over Farewell

"There is something bothering me," admitted the boy, "but there isn't any way to stop it," he added with the finality of utter hopelessness. "What is it?" the mother inquired, getting anxious. "Well," replied the boy, desperately, "I don't want you to kiss me goodbye before the other boys when we start off to camp, and tell me not to forget to brush my teeth and to change my socks when I get my feet wet."

"Certainly not," replied the mother. "I wouldn't dream of saying such a thing to a great, big chap, such as you are, or even kissing him." And so they parted with a formal handshake and the small boy went off perfectly happy.

"And," said the mother to me in telling this story, "I had gotten a valuable lesson in child-culture, and it left me wondering if perhaps the main reason that we parents so often get out of touch with our children is because we don't grow up with them. We persist in treating them as if they remained perpetual babies, and we never see them as anything but tiny tots in rompers, even after they get beards and have children of their own.

"Our children grow up. They change from helpless infants into sturdy little boys and girls who can stand on their own feet. They develop into adolescents with individual thoughts and tastes and desires. They get to be adults who go about the business of life for themselves. But we have not grown up with them. We have stayed young parents, just where we were when we had our first baby.

Mothers Cannot Admit Changes In Children

"Because we regulated their diets when they were teething, we still tell them what they should eat and drink after they have gotten dentures. Because we held them by the hand when they were toddlers, we never realize that they know enough to walk alone. Because we think of them as being in the cradle, we are shocked and hurt when they want to try their own wings. Mother knew best when Mamie and Johnny were six months old, and she still thinks she knows best when Mamie is 60 and has a half a dozen college degrees, and Johnny has made a million, or written a best seller, or is governor of his state.

"The almost universal wail among fathers and mothers is that as their children grow up they grow away from them, and it is a sad fact that the average household in which there are teen-age girls and boys is a dark and bloody battle ground in which the parents and youngsters wage a perpetual fight over dates and lipsticks and red finger-nails and the use of the car and the deadline for getting home.

"Father sees red when he thinks of his Mamie, whom he still considers an infant in arms, stepping out with a boy, and plastering her baby face with cosmetics, and preferring the society of any other man

Three Winners!

This week a bunch of timely tips for thrifty wartime housewives

Shanks make a thrifty dinner. Simmer shanks or hocks of beef, veal, lamb or pork till tender. Add vegetables—potatoes, carrots, turnips, onions, celery toward end of cooking period. Pork hocks are good with sauerkraut and dumplings. The broth you cook them in makes fine soup for another meal.

Hot Lunch Cakes—for leftover meat and vegetables. Combine two cups cold mashed potatoes with two cups cold, cooked, ground meat; add a little minced onion and an egg to bind. Season well. Shape into flat cakes. Brown in hot fat. Served with seasonable vegetables they make a satisfying lunch for four.

Goulash with Franks—a heartening dish! Mix cooked macaroni; sliced frankfurters, with onions lightly browned, and slightly diluted condensed tomato soup to make a sauce. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with a green salad or cole slaw.

Money Reforms Discussed In Commons

By C. R. BLACKBURN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 26 —(CP) —The House of Commons to-day stood adjourned to next January 26 after a session just short of six months which ended Saturday night in a flood of oratory on Monetary Reform and Old-Age Pensions.

The House had been sitting morning, afternoon and evening since July 8, with two Saturday sessions.

Shortly before 10 p.m. Saturday, after the House had been listening to oratory for two days on the main non-war estimates and for several hours on Monetary Reform, the talking suddenly ended.

In a few minutes the House, in committee of the hole, rushed through the final estimates, those of Finance Minister Ilsley. At 10:43 p.m. royal assent had been given the estimates in the Senate.

Members of the New Democracy group, formerly the Social Credit Party, held the spotlight through most of Saturday, warning the Government against any international currency stabilzation plan that would prevent the proper exchange of goods.

The debate on Monetary Reform was joined later by Arthur Slaght (Lib. Parry Sound) who expressed hope that in its future borrowing the Government would go to the Bank of Canada instead of the chartered banks.

Mr. Ilsley told the Monetary Reformers that to borrow $1,000,000,000 from the chartered banks would "blow the price ceiling control to kingdom come."

He said borrowing from the Bank of Canada was many times more inflationary than borrowing from the chartered banks, which lent money at less than one per cent interest.

Unprecedented appropriations of the peope's money for war purposes were the predominant feature of the session.

Parliament voted $5,500,000,000 to be spent in the fiscal year ending next March 31, and of that amount all but about $653,000,000 was for war.

Because ever since the war started much of the legislating has been carried out by order-in-council under authority of the war measures act, the government's legislative program was light.

Major items of government legislation were the following:

1. A war appropriation bill authorizing the expenditure of $3,890,000,000 in the curent fiscal year;

2. A mutual aid bill authorizing expenditure of $1,000,000,000 on war munitions and supplies to be transferred to United Nations countries where they can be most effectively used for victory, with or without reimbursement to Canada;

3. A bill to re-enact and consolidate the farmers' creditors arrangement act, applicable only to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta;

Amend Bill

4. A bill to amend the unemployment insurance act to raise the salary limit of those entitled to benefits to $2,400 (from $2,000) and to remove the ceiling on earnings of participants who are on piece work or hourly wages;

5. A bill to amend the criminal code, strengthening the laws against gambling and altering other sections;

6. A bill to authorize government grants to a national council on physical fitness;

7. The regular supply bill for non-war purposes voting slightly more than $600,000,000 provided for in the main estimates.

In addition to the legislation, and as a wind-up of the session, the government announced through the ministers concerned the following financial proposals:—

1. Arrangements for immediate legal provision for payment of a special war supplement to old-age and blind pensioners, the equivalent of increasing the maximum basic rate of old-age pensions from $20 to $26.

2. An increase in the pay of women in the forces to 80 per cent of rates for men of similar rank instead of 66 2-3.

Oratory and requests for information, and informative statements by key ministers combined to flood nearly 6,000 pages of Hansard with about 4,500 words making up the official journals of the House.

Former Torontonian Welcomes Canadians To Sicily

Tony, EXTREME LEFT, and his donkey were part of the reception committee which met Canadians who landed in Sicily. They helped to carry ashore supplies of food, ammunition and gasoline. Holding the bridle of the donkey and talking to Tony is Sergeant O. G. Kenney, Royal Canadian Engineers, of Ottawa; others in the group include Pte. S. Harman, of City Mines, N.S.; Sergt. A. L. Casey, of Moncton, N.B.; Lance-Corporal G. C. Brockie, London, Ont.; Corporal D. W. Burows, Chatham, N.B.; Gunner E. W. Lowes, Toronto; Signalman J. O. Richards, Halifax; Gunner J. F. Smith, Moose Jaw, and Gunner L. W. Ingleby, Moose Jaw. Tony lived in Toronto for seven years prior to the war, running a fruit store.

Premier Nixon Promises Extension Hydro Services

OTTAWA, July 26 — Development of at least one stage of the upper Ottawa power sites was pledged Saturday by Premier Harry Nixon to a South Renfrew Liberal rally called in support of T. P. Murray, who has represented the riding for 14 years.

Aside from the power program, of immediate local interest to the electorate of Renfrew, in which the Des Joachims and affiliated river falls are situated, the Premier announced that the Government would continue to pay the extra $3 per month to individuals receiving old-age pensions. His statement supplemented the Saturday announcement by Finance Minister Ilsley that the Federal Government would contribute 75 per cent of pensions up to $25, an increase of $5 a month.

Under the new schedule Ontario pensioners will, consequently, receive $28 per month plus the medical care that is provided by the Ontario Government.

Replies to Query

Premier Nixon was asked from the platform by Dr. James McCann, the Federal Liberal member for Renfrew South, to give assurance that the Government would proceed with the Ottawa power project "in view of reports that halt has been called on the devolpment and the statement by Mr. Drew, Leader of the Opposition, that if he is elected he will cancel the Ontario-Quebec agreements on the power sites."

"We are proceeding definitely with one of those sites," Premier Nixon replied. "And I believe that we will have it when power is needed by the Province. We are not overly pressed for power at the moment," he admitted, "and we have difficulties in getting priorities."

To a meeting in the Town of Renfrew and another one in Arnprior, he stressed as a major plank in the Liberal platform a policy of extending Hydro services throughout rural Ontario, and the provision of power to rural centres on a basis that would encourage the decentralization of industry.

Premier Nixon, accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, concluded at the two Ottawa Valley metings a week of strenuous campaigning that took them from the Head of the Lakes, through North Ontario, and to the long jump to the far east section of the Province. On Friday they attended the funeral of Dr. Duncan McArthur, former Minister of Education, at London. The Premier was obviously weary as he faced a scattered group of more than 300 at the Renfrew skating rink. At the conclusion of the meeting he motored to Arnprior, where 130 waited until 10:30 to hear him.

Sunday, at the capital, was given over to a day of rest. Mr. and Mrs. Nixon had lunch at the home of Mines Minister Robert Laurier and Mrs. Laurier. Mr. Laurier is the candidate for Ottawa East. At night Dr. R. E. Valin and Mrs. Valin entertained informally at their residence.

Just A Bum

TILTON, N.H., July 26 — (AP). — A former Italian army sergeant turned business man—he's been an American citizen for many years—is chuckling over the news from Italy. "Sure, I remember Mussolini," John Raffaelly recalls. "He was a corporal in my division. I saw him lots of times but I never met him personally." Rafaelly shrugs his shoulders, smiles and adds: "He was a bum corporal and a bum dictator—now he's just a bum."

Ontario Nominations

By The Canadian Press

Nominations for the Aug. 4 Ontario election announced during the week-end brought the number of candidates to 274, divided by parties as follows: C.C.F. 83; Liberals, 89; Progressive Conservatives 90; Independents two; Independent Liberals three; Independent Soldier two; Labor one; Independent Conservative one; Socialist Labor three.

Week-end nominations:

Durham—W. Bowles, C.C.F.

Essex North—Horace Morgan, Independent Conservative.

Lambton East — W. J. Stewart, C.C.F.

3,000 A Year For All Jolliffe Says

KIRKLAND LAKE, July 26 (CP) —E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader, said in a radio address Saturday night proper economic planning can assure an annual income of at least $3,000 for every Canadian family after the war. If elected, the C.C.F. would "start now to make an overall plan to win the peace."

"It will work out, while there is still time, a comprehensive program for the full use of our material and human resources, after, as well as during the war," said Mr. Joliffe. 'We know that never again will the people, and particularly the men and women in the services and the war workers, be satisfied to remain idle in a country where so much must be done to improve our standards of living."

Conditions had changed and Canadians must change too. The people of Ontario would never again place their faith in "the old system that has failed us in peace and in war." The "old parties are crying in the wilderness,' he declared.

Social Ownership

'A C.C.F. Government will replace the powerful and irresponsible business interests by social ownership and control," Mr. Joliffe said. The interests of the people, and not the making of profit, will be the guiding principle in the Co-operative Commonwealth."

The C.C.F. would humanize" social legislation, including workmen's compensation and its administration. "Then the worker who is unable to produce conclusive evidence of disability will, as he should, be given the benefit of the doubt," he said. Old-age pensions would be increased to $30 a month and mothers' allowances would also be increased. Hydro Power agreements, he said, had been made by the last Conservative Government of Ontario and would be investigated when the C.C.F. came to power.

Discussing forestry administration, the C.C.F. Leader said "We, the people of Ontario, have had our forests almost ruined, because many of our biggest lumber men have been also big politicians, Conservatives or Liberal, either on the political stage or behind the scenes." The C.C.F. would set up a "truly non-political" forestry commission and give full support to trained foresters.

Discussing farm problems, which he said had been caused by "big business" exploitation, Mr. Jolliffe declared a C.C.F. Government will "end monopoly exploitation of farmer and consumer by bringing processing plants under public or co-operative ownership and control." New processing industries related to agriculture would be reorganized with major representation of farmers and consumers. Farmers named by the Ontario Federation of Agriculture would be named to the Marketing and Control Boards.

Discussing Northern Ontario, Mr. Jolliffe said he believes the industrial possibilities of the North are "unlimited."

Private enterprise had proved incapable of successfully developing Northern Ontario's resources, he declared. Canadians should "stop to thing" about the growth of Russian resources and Russian industry. "This gigantic development has been made possible by large-scale planning and by public ownership. In this respect, Russia has accomplished more in 20 years than private enterprise has accomplished in 50 years in other countries."

WILL YOU VOLUNTEER?
Patriotic Helpers Urgently Needed on Canada's Farms
SPEND some of your leisure time this summer helping on a local farm. You will find the work enjoyable and health-giving and you will be doing a really vital service to your country.
For the hard-pressed farmer must produce more than ever this year in spite of the fact that thousands of farm workers are serving in the forces. He must harvest more grain, fruit and vegetables, supply more meat and dairy products to feed our armies and allies as well as our people at home.
YOUR HELP VALUABLE
To help on the farm is now work of national importance. Even if you are quite inexperienced you will learn quickly. Whether you can give part of your vacation or only a few spare hours at intervals, there is work waiting that you can do. The call is to all patriotic men and women.
WHAT YOU SHOULD DO NOW!
Consult any special local committee or office established to deal with farm labour placements in your city or town; or Write the Director of the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labour Program at the capital of your province; or

Tennis Club's Draw Announced

The tournament committee of the Quaker Tennis Club have drawn the following names in the first round of the various matches and have requested all players to contact their opponents immediately and arrange their matches so that the first round of the men's and ladies' singles will be completed August 1 and the ladies' doubles by August 8. The men's doubles and mixed doubles have still to be completed and these latter two matches should be under way by the middle of next week.

The courts are in excellent shape and dozens of enthusiasts turn out every night to match their skill. This year finds a few new faces in the lineup and some of the matches should bring out some excellent tennis. Spectators are invited to drop over to the Quaker courts just above Hunter Street bridge any evening to watch the players in action.

Henry Armstrong Defeats Joyce

HOLLYWOOD, July 26—(AP)—Making his 24th stand in a comeback campaign to regain the welterweight title he lost several years ago to Fritzie Zivic, Henry Armstrong punched out a unanimous decision in 10 rounds Saturday over Willie Joyce, a topflight contender.

Referee Ab Roth and Judges Benny Whitman and Charley Randolph decided that the former triple crown holder in the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight divisions landed the harder punches.

Joyce came in at 140, as did Armstrong, and Joyce didn't seem to have the endurance he showed in the previous bout, when he gained a clear cut verdict over Henry. Perhaps Willie would have been faster at 137 or so, but thef act remains that Armstrong scored more against him this time.

Joyce probably made a mistake when he started to slug with Little Perpetual Motion in the fifth. This was one stanza when Armstrong looked good. He belted Joyce all around the ring and twice rocked him to his heels with sweeping sidearm punches.

The fight was fairly close, nevertheless, and the crowd of 15,000 cheered the decision at Gilmore Field.

George Trafton, Joyce's manager said his boy's jaw, broken by Armstrong in the first fight, apparently was broken midway in the battle and he blamed this for Willie tiring in the later rounds.

to his. And Mother weeps into her pillow wondering where her wandering boy has gone tonight, and what he could see in that silly little nitwit of a blond girl that makes him want to go traipsing off after her when he could stay in his own comfortable home and read an improving book.

Parents Don't Grow Up With Children

"And Father rages and Mother scolds and the children fight back, and wounds are given and taken that never quite heal, simply because the parents haven't grown up along with their children and don't sympathize with them in doing what Nature intended them to do and what they did when they also were adolescents.

"Mamie doesn't confide in Mother because Mother feels it is her duty to say DON'T to her about everything she wants to do, just as she did when Mamie was five years old. John doesn't discuss his hopes and plans with Father because Father scoffs at all of his ideas and still regards him as a small boy whom he has a right to order around and command to be a grocer, or a lawyer, as he pleases and without regard to John's talents and desires.

"And both boys and girls leave home as soon as they can because they know they will never have the slightest independence until they get away from Mother's and Father's babying.

"So," said the woman in conclusion, "perhaps the reason so many of us have trouble with our children is because we haven't grown up with them."

Develop Your Voice and Join in the Fun

SINGING IS FUN

You miss so much if you can't join in the fun of singing with your friends. Lots of get-togethers feature singing, and if you don't sing, it isn't very much fun for you. You don't have to have a beautiful voice to be able to sing, because everyone can sing if they want to.

So many people are afraid to be heard because their voices are not exceptional. You don't have to be an opera singer to enjoy singing. Try it and find out!

Once you have lost your timidity of singing with others you will realize what enjoyment you have been missing.

Anyone who wants to sing can do so, provided, of course, that he really wants to, and has some musical sense, patience and a willingness to go slowly. Voice, in itself, is less important. Many a good singer has had nothing exceptional to offer in voice, but has trained it well.

This applies especially to the more serious singer. You, of course, may not want to try for the professional, but simply to develop your voice for your own enjoyment. Our 32-page booklet gives step-by-step exercises showing you how to use your voice and how to sing.

For your copy of TEACH YOURSELF TO SING send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

Stalin Bans American Film

LONDON, July 23—(CP Cable)—Simultaneously with reports from Washington that Premier Stalin has banned the showing in Russia of the motion picture "Mission to Moscow" at least in its present form—it was announced yesterday that the United States-produced film is the first to show living statesmen on the screen passed for showing in Britain. It opens at London theatres this week-end.

The fact that Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt, Joseph Stalin, Foreign Commissar Molotov and Maxim Litvinoff, Russian ambassador to the United States, are portrayed on the screen raised a delicate problem of film censorship, as living characters are not allowed to be shown on either the British stage or screen.

The picture was held up for a fortnight while the censorship problem was examined but finally it received the stamp "no objection" after 150 feet of film had been cut.

The film apparently has Mr. Churchill's blessing. The Prime Minister saw it a few days ago at a private showing and gave it an approving nod.

Washington dispatches reported Stalin objected to the scenes dealing with the trial of 1937 which resulted in the execution of Marshal Tukachevsky. He was one of eight army chiefs sentenced to death for "habitual and base betrayal of military secrets to a hostile Fascist power."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A SERIES OF "DON'TS"

SINCE THE pleasure of any game depends chiefly on the attitude of the participants toward it and toward one another, it is appropriate that the new Laws of Contract Bridge place emphasis upon the "Proprieties of the Auction and Play" in an entire section devoted to them. They begin with a series of "don'ts," introduced by these words, "A player should refrain from," and giving this list:

1. Varying the formulae used in calling. A footnote explains this: The recommended calling formulae are: "Pass (avoid "I pass" or "no bid"); "1-Heart" (avoid "I bid"); "1-No Trump" (avoid "without" or "without a trump"); "double" (avoid stating the number of tricks or the denomination doubled); "6-Spades" (avoid "little slam").

2. Calling with special emphasis or intonation.

3. Passing or doubling with exceptional haste or reluctance.

4. Making a call with undue delay which may result in conveying improper information to partner.

5. Indicating in any way approval or disapproval of partner's call or play.

6. Giving by word, manner or gesture an indication of the nature of the hand held.

7. Making a remark or gesture or asking a question from which an inference may be drawn.

8. Giving unauthorized information as to an incident of the auction or play.

9. Volunteering information which should be given only in response to a question.

10. Requesting, except for his own benefit, a review of calls or a placing of cards played to a trick.

11. An unnecessary hesitation, remark or mannerism which may deceive the opponents.

12. Attracting attention to the score, except when necessary to do so for his own information.

13. Calling attention to the number of tricks needed to complete or defeat the contract or to the fact that it has already been fulfilled or defeated.

14. Playing a card with special emphasis.

15. Playing with undue delay when the play does not need consideration.

16. Preparing to gather a trick before all four hands have played to it.

17. Detaching a card from his hand before it is his turn to lead or play.

18. Failing to keep the tricks in correct order and distinct from one another, or allowing some to be placed on the opposite side of the table.

19. Watching the place in a player's hand from which he draws a card, and making any inference therefrom.

Angry Gunman Murders Five After Divorce

OGDEN, Utah, July 26 (AP). — A gunman killed five persons — one of them a district judge who had granted the assailant's wife a divorce—in bloody attacks at two Ogden homes, then fired a final blast at the police station where he was captured early today.

The dead:

District judge Lewis V. Trueman 53; Mrs. Jane Stauffer, 29; Mrs. Burton (initials lacking), about 55, of Rigby, Idaho, Mrs. Stauffer's mother; Mrs. Betty A. Brooks, a neighbour of Mrs. Stauffer; Sam Nelson, 49, another neighbour.

A policeman was nicked in the ear by the final blast at the police station.

Sheriff John R. Watson said the gunman was Austin Cox, Jr., of Ogden. He said Cox' wife recently obtained a divorce in Judge Trueman's court, She accused her husband, Watson said, of beating her and of once trying to tear her tongue out.

With a manhunt on after the shootings had been reported, Cox drove up unnoticed behind the police station.

John A. Smith, assistant provost marshal of the Ogden area, on duty at the station, said Cox entered the door, his 12-gauge shotgun in his hands.

One shot went wild, and Smith said he jumped at Cox, knocking the man to the ground. Others officers rushed to aid him.

"Why in hell didn't you shoot me?" Smith said Cox cried. "Come on, get it over with."

He was locked in a jail cell.

Sheriff Watson said Cox evidentally had set out to "kill any peace officer or judge that he found." He was unable, however, to scribe a motive for the attack at the Stauffer home.

Axis Peace Feelers Fail To Move Vatican

NEW YORK, July 26 —(AP). — BBC broadcast, quoting the Swedish newspaper Nya Dagligt Allehanda, said last night that Italy, Hungary and Rumania recently asked the Vatican to mediate for a separate peace but the Vatican refused to negotiate.

The broadcast, recorded here by CBS, said "this report has not yet been confirmed in London."

The newspaper said the peace feelers were made by Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Ambassador to the Holy See, Nicolas Kallay, Hungarian Prime Minister, who visited the Vatican in April and Mihail Antonescu, Rumanian Foreign Minister who was in Rome recently.

Asks Girl For Picture Learns 'Twas Princess

LONDON, July 26 (CP Cable).— Sgt. Pilot Charlie Williams of London, Ont., looked at a pretty girl in one of London's art galleries two or three times and then approached her.

"Would you mind if I took your picture?" he asked.

The girl turned to her woman companion with a questioning glance and replied she wouldn't mind.

The girl was Princess Margaret Rose. Her companion was the Queen.

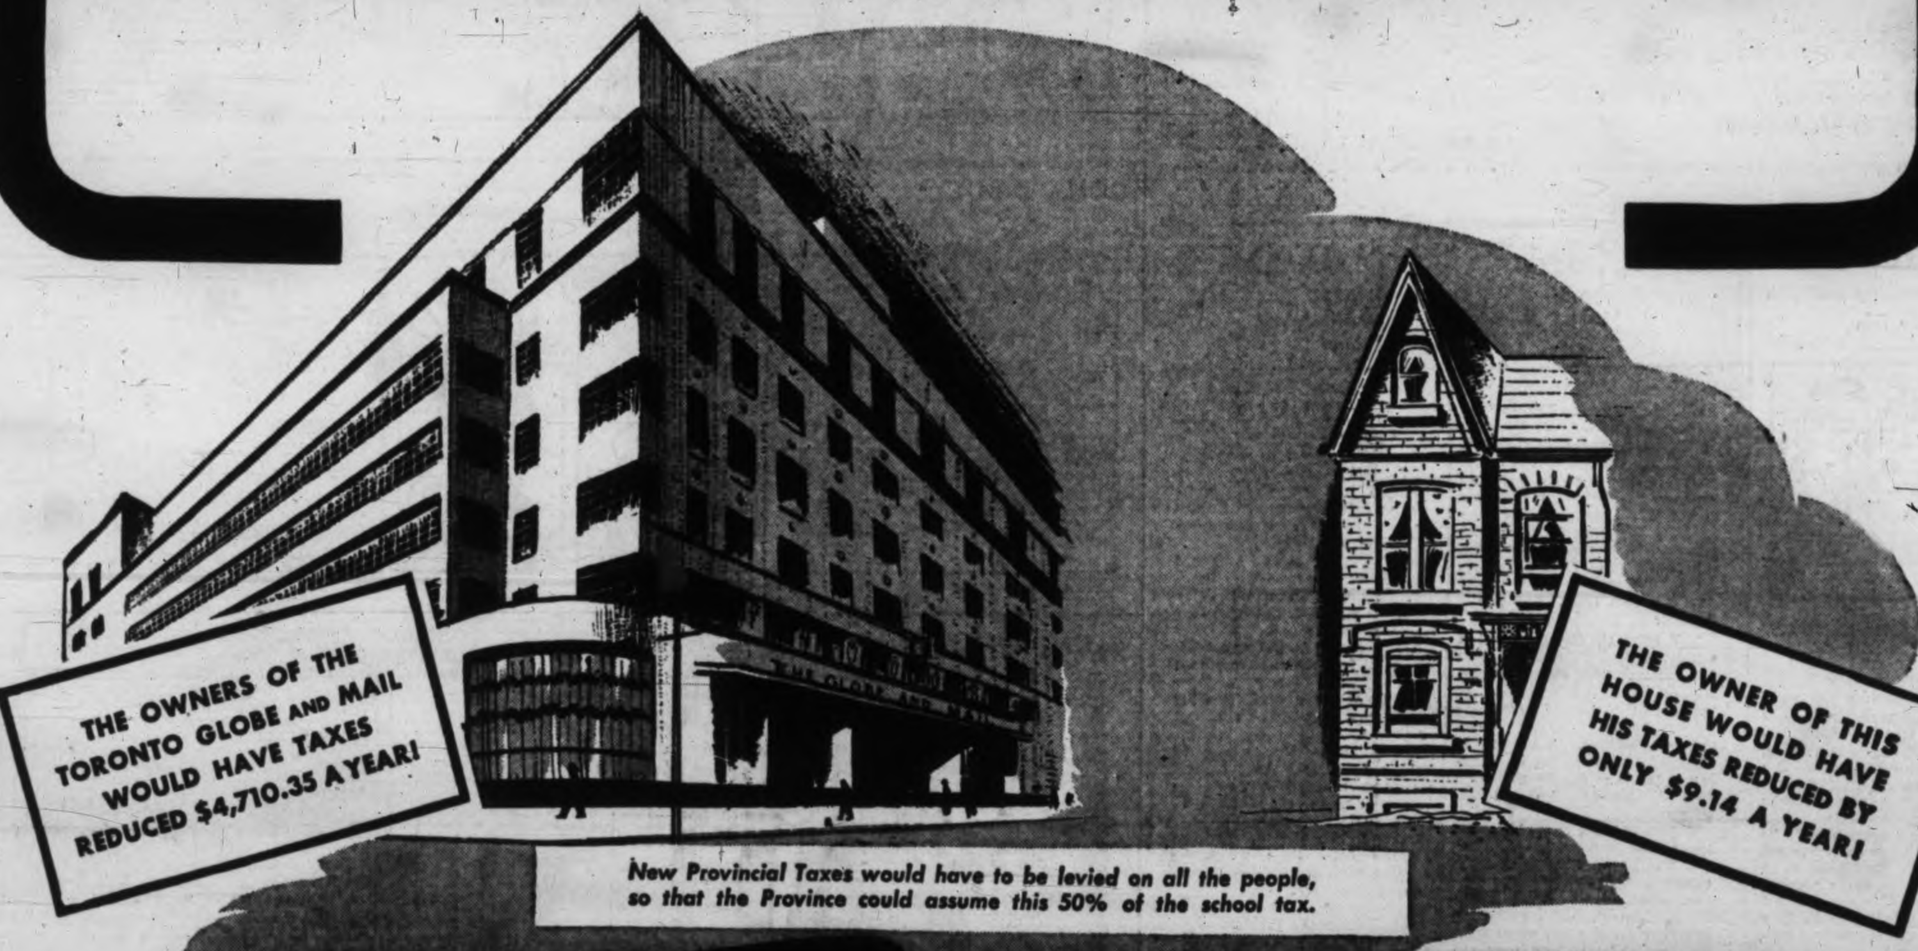
IS THIS WHY "BIG INTERESTS" ARE BACKING GEORGE DREW?

Hon. A. W. Roebuck, K.C., M.P., shows how earnings of labour would go to benefit owners of large properties if Drew's 50% school tax "reduction" were enacted



WE WON'T LET YOU DO IT, GEORGE!

SPEAKING over an Ontario network, Hon. Mr. Roebuck said: "But let us examine what Mr. Drew proposes to do. According to his election statement he would have the Provincial Treasury assume one-half of school taxes as against real estate, but he makes no suggestion as to where the money will come from.

"Only that can come out of the Treasury which has previously been put into the Treasury. That Mr. Drew knows this is proven by what he said in Sudbury in 1939 before he was spoofing us with election dope and when he was less cautious and more frank. He then said: 'Taxes should be placed more largely on EARNINGS and less upon REAL ESTATE.'

"Ah, there is the answer!

"He will take from the pay envelopes of the workers the where-with-all to make gifts to the large land owners!

"When Mr. Drew speaks of taxes on real estate, he mentions the 'home owners,' but he includes, of course, the owners of million-dollar big business properties and the holdings of vacant land speculators. Planes Bomb Zeebrugge In Daylight

Port Of Hamburg In Flames
Essen Still Burns

LONDON, July 27 (CP) — Hundreds of Allied fighters and light bombers attacked industrial targets at Zeebrugge and enemy airfields elsewhere in Belgium and in Holland by daylight today, the Air Ministry announced.

The day operations in the relentless air offensive against the continent followed upon the fifth attack in 48 hours on Hamburg.

The R.A.F. sent Mosquito bombers against the German port and industrial city last night for the third successive night.

The British, Dominion and Allied squadrons lost not a plane in the extensive daylight raids today. Hits were reported on Zeebrugge industrial buildings and pilots said they encountered neither fighters nor flak.

Even in the attacks on enemy airfields at Courtrai in Belgium and Woensdrecht in Holland, pilots reported that Nazi fighters showed no desire to challenge the Spitfires escorting Typhoon bombers. The hangars, buildings and dispersal areas were straddled with 500-pound bombs.

Spitfires made diversionary sweeps from Ypres to Hulst in Holland.

The U.S.A.A.F. hit the port in daylight Sunday with a large fleet of heavy bombers and the same night R.A.F. and Canadian Mosquitoes took up the attack.

The Americans raided the city in daylight again yesterday.

Nothing was said concerning possible R.A.F. and Canadian losses.

R. A. F. reconnaissance pilots went to Essen yesterday to view the devastation from the heavy attack by R.A.F. and Canadian heavy bombers Sunday night. They reported fierce fires were still burning there.

Canadian fliers that took part by the hundreds in the Essen raid flying both with squadrons from the R.C.A.F. Bomber Group and in R.A.F. crews, reported the German industrial city was well plastered with explosives.

Jap Wake Island Badly Battered

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).— U. S. Army fighter - bombers, pounding Kiska Island with pre-invasion thoroughness, made ten more raids on Japanese installations, the Navy Department reported today, and this series of attacks was followed up Sunday night by an unusual single plane assault.

At the same time Navy Secretary Frank Knox reported a flight of heavy bombers raided Wake island, and pounded that Japanese base "promiscuously and generally."

The lone night bomber which raided Kiska was a navy patrol craft, which made probably the first night assault ever delivered against the North Pacific outpost. Bombs dropped on Gertrude Cove and the main camp section. Fires were started at Gertrude Cove.

The 10 raids Sunday and the one shortly after midnight raised to 41 the total of air attacks on Kiska so far this month. Satur-

World War I Tactics Used In Sicily

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ON THE CANADIAN FRONT IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 25 — (Delayed) — (CP Cable). — The Canadians are driving forward again in rough country in Central Sicily and advanced forward at least six miles before darkness yesterday, in the wake of a tremendous artillery barrage.

The advance followed a four-day battle and was accompanied by resounding artillery support and with tanks. A German-held town was captured as the Canadians fought eastward within sight of towering Mount Etna.

(Munro did not give the exact location where the fighting was taking place but evidently it was somewhere northeast of Enna.)

The artillery opened up at 3 p.m., the zero hour. Infantry followed in the wake of the bursting shells and the Allied air forces bombed targets and strafed roads behind the German lines.

Within an hour the Canadians had reached their objective — a town in a fold of the hills.

Terrific Barrage

The guns have been pounding away almost without a stop ever since the night of July 23. It has been an artillery blitz on the 8th Army pattern of El Alamein and Mareth, not on such a big scale but applying the same principles of concentrated, persistent shellings.

The Canadians are the only 8th Army formation gaining yards at the moment. Their endurance and ability to continue attacking even after the lengthy and exhausting advance from their beach-head at Pachino Peninsula are one of the big features of the fighting here.

I got an eagle-nest view of Saturday's fighting from a vantage point on towering cliffs.

The artillery barrage got under way as the Canadians prepared to attack their immediate objective, a town two miles distant. The shelling grew steadily more intense and the road beyond the town, along which German trucks were moving, was bracketed with bursting shells.

Accurate Gunnery

Two German tanks moved into an olive grove but an artillery forward observation officer stopped them and tipped off a gun by wireless. The gunners hit it on the nose. I think one tank was destroyed, for there was a flash of flame and a pillar of black smoke curled up.

When the infantry definitely reported enemy strong points on the slope behind the town the artillery really went to work. A couple of regiments at a time seemed to be firing. The shells rushing over the clifftop on the way to the target sounded like a gale sweeping through pinetrees.

The rumble of artillery volleys echoed through the mountains. Gunners fired smoke shells occasionally to screen the infantry. The whole area was having the life hammered out of it.

I heard machine-gun fire and then there was the crump of a mortar. The machine-gun stopped abruptly.

Nazi Forces Almost Surrounded

Rain Gives Help To Hard Pressed Orel Garrison

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 27 — (AP). — Rain came to the aid of desperately-resisting Germans in the Orel sector and slowed down somewhat the powerful Russian advance, although intensive battles continued, the Russian army newspaper Red Star reported today.

Front-line dispatches said the Germans threw in big forces of infantry and tanks in a grim effort to keep one important line open north of beleaguered Orel, the now all-but-surrounded German bastion. Two German infantry regiments with from 50 to 70 tanks managed to delay the Russians in this sector.

Elsewhere, particularly southeast of Zhizdra, the Russians said they maintained their advance, capturing such important junctions as Mekhovaya and Berestna, according to Red Star. Zhizdra is on the extreme right flank of the northern advance, 75 miles northwest of Orel. Berestna is 19 miles east-southeast of Zhizdra.

The strategy of the Soviet forces, which reported only a general advance of three to six miles, apparently was aimed at consolidating positions. None of the 70 freshly-captured towns mentioned in an earlier communique were any nearer Orel than previously-mentioned places.

The Germans counter-attacked all up and down the Orel front, launching 17 successive attacks in one narrow sector in a single day.

(Today's German communique gave only a few words to this front, saying that the brunt of the battle yesterday was in the Orel area. It added that German troops supported by strong formations of aircraft, repulsed several enemy attempts to break through south, east and north of Orel after "fluctuating fighting.")

German losses were reported running high as the Nazis counter attacked desperately to hold Orel and to relieve the pressure already being felt at Bryansk, an important rail base to the west. The Soviet midnight communique said 5,000 Germans were killed in the day's fighting.

The war bulletin disclosed Russian troops had crossed the Oka River north of Orel and were cutting in behind the city to threaten the Orel-Bryansk railway, only

Hitler Wants To Meet Italy's Premier

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ,

MADRID, July 27 —(AP) —Berlin dispatches to the Madrid newspaper Informaciones suggested today that Hitler, apparently taken by surprise by Mussolini's resignation, would like very much to arrange a meeting with his successor, Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

The Berlin correspodent of the Madrid newspaper Informaciones quoted a German foreign office spokesman as saying that Mussolini's resignation had nothing to do with his conference with Hitler last week and inferred that the German leader was greatly surprised.

In other words, unless the Spanish correspondent was made the carrier for prime propaganda, Berlin doesn't know what to expect from Badoglio and his Government —which Berlin has termed "a cabinet of technicians."

There were indications, however, the Germans were hurrying military preparations designed to plug up holes which might be left in the Balkans should Italy bow out of the war or should Italian troops there decide to go home.

(The Algiers Radio broadcast a report last night that Badoglio had recalled 22 Italian divisions from Yugoslavia and Greece, as well as three or four divisions in Southern France.)

The Informaciones dispatch—the first direct word received here from Berlin describing German reaction to the Italian crisis—said however that the Germans "continue to believe that the Italian change will not concern the Fascist structure in Italy, despite the order incorporating the Fascist militia with the regular army."

Reports from Rome, meanwhile, said Badoglio was busy trying to take the Itailan war machine out of reverse gear and unscramble Italy's bomb-shattered transport system.

Churchill Advises the Italians Make Peace At Once Or Face Total Destruction

Fascist Council Veto Shoved Il Duce Into The Discard

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, July 27.—(AP).—Travellers arriving by plane from Rome to-day declared that Benito Mussolini fell because he supported a German plan to abandon Central and Southern Italy for a strong defence line in the north, and that he now is at a villa between Rome and Ostia.

The new government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio insists that all of Italy must be defended if Italy is to remain in the war, and the Germans have been forced to agree, they declared.

Hitler had first proposed a strong stand behind the Po Valley, and Mussolini, seeking to do his bidding, was overruled by the Fascist Grand Council by a vote of 19 to 6, it was asserted.

Carlo Corza, Fascist party secretary, was reported under preventive arrest, with others of Il Duce's collaborators confined to their homes.

On the issues of defence of all Italy, Badoglio for the moment at least has the support of the Army and the Crown, both of which enjoy tremendous popular prestige as successors to Mussolini, this late-hour account of the crisis in Rome said.

The first clear report of what happened after Mussolini resigned came with the first Ala Litoria plane to leave Rome since the event. It is significant of the swift changes that the plane arrived stripped of all Fascist insignia, marked only by the Italian national colors, and that an hour after its arrival the Fascist name Ala Litoria had changed to Ala Roma in the line's offices.

Before the public was informed of Mussolini's resignation the party took steps degsined in part to protect the leaders and in part hold those considered responsible for the state of the country's affairs.

Then the announcement was made Sunday night after Badoglio had advised the Germans of his decision that "all Italy must be defended or Italy must leave the war," and the Germans agreed, faced with that alternative, to help in defence of the whole peninsula.

The enthusiasm which greeted announcement of Mussolini's resignation and Badoglio's appointment was tremendous throughout Italy.

Cheer Badoglio.

Demonstrations formed in every major Italian city, where marchers of all classes massed in the public squares and cheered Badoglio and hooted Il Duce and Fascism.

Fascist uniforms vanished from the streets of northern Italy and Fascist emblems were ripped off monuments and public buildings or were covered with the Italian national colors.

There may have been some doubt abroad as to whether Mussolini's resignation meant the end of Fascism, but there was no doubt in the minds of the Italians.

Throughout Italy, the joy of the crowds was greater than their anger, and there were few deaths.

In Rome, Fascist militia garrisons made preparations to resist, but

Wounded In Sicily

PRIVATE FRANK PETERS

His wife received word today that he has been injured in the fighting in Sicily. He went overseas with the Canadian Corps of Signals, and is the first Peterborough soldier reported in the casualty list announced from Sicily. Two brothers are also with the Canadian forces, one across the seas and the other in Canada.

Peterboro Boy Hurt In Sicily

The first Peterborough casualty in the Sicilian campaign is Private Frank (Billy) Peters, Edison avenue, of the Signals Corps, reported wounded in official notification received today by his wife.

Private Peters is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peters. His father is at present employed in a shipbuilding yard in Toronto, and his wife is also engaged in war work with Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Limited (Johnson Motors). His elder brother, Victor Peters, is also on military service overseas.

Worked at Bonner-Worth

Prior to his enlistment, Private Peters was an employee of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds. He is twenty-two years old. His wife, the former Eva Morrison of Picton, and one son, live on Edison avenue. In his athletic days, not so long ago in the south end, Private Peters played on Sacred Heart hockey and baseball teams.

A second brother, James Peters, is with the Royal Canadian Artillery in Canada.

Frank Peters, senior, kept a grocery store on Albert street some years ago, and Frank, junior, worked as a clerk in this store for quite some time.

Allied Commanders Given Orders To Speed Up Attacks

By E. C. DANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 27 — (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill told a cheering House of Commons today that "Italy will be seared and scarred and blackened from one end to the other" unless the new government headed by Marshal Pietro Badoglio abandons Germany's war against the United Nations.

Speaking at a supreme moment in his career as Britain's wartime Prime Minister when his arch-foe Benito Mussolini has disappeared from the scene, Mr. Churchill said order to exert the "utmost rigor of war" against Italy have gone out to Allied commanders.

No overtures of peace have been received from the elderly successor to Mussolini, the "first of the dictators" to go, Mr. Churchill said, and therefore no new decisions by the Allies are called for except to bring "the maximum avalanche of fire and steel upon all targets of military significance throughout the length and breadth of Italy."

Let Them Stew

"I know little or nothing of the new government," he said. "I express no opinion upon it."

The Allied course, he said, would be to let the Italians "stew in their own juice for a bit" and to "hot up the fire to the utmost" with the aim of obtaining from the Italian Government full facilities for carrying on the war against Germany.

"The unconditional surrender of Italy should be brought about wholesale and not piecemeal," he said.

The British Government, he said is conducting an "increasingly successful war and policy" and then he offered a "word of caution."

"The whole outlook of the Nazi party and regime, their whole ideological outlook as it is called, will be disturbed and darkened by events which have happened and are going to happen in Italy," he predicted, "and the overthrow and casting down in shame and ruin of the first of the dictators and aggressors war lord strikes a knell of impending doom in the ears of those that remain."

Road Still Rocky

Nevertheless, he added, Italy's war power was about one-tenth of that of Germany and the Allies must not "allow this favorable inclination of our fortunes to blind us to the intensity of the task before us."

"I certainly don't wish, in the case of Italy, to tread a path that might lead to execution squads and concentration camps, and above all to have to carry on our shoulders a lot of people who ought to be made to carry themselves," he said.

Meanwhile Mr. Churchill expressed no opinion on the new Government of Italy.

"The Germans naturally desires that Italy shall become the preliminary battleground and that by Italian sufferings the ravages of war shall be kept as far away as possible and as long as possible from the German Fatherland," Mr. Churchill said.

If Italy continues to fight with the Germans, however, he said, "from north and south, from sea and from air and by amphibious descents we shall endeavor to bring the utmost rigor of war increasingly upon them."

Canadians, Americans Annihilate Nazi Shock Troops

By RELMAN MORIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 27—(AP).—Canadian and American troops, throwing themselves forward in the northeastern area of Sicily, have cut to pieces savage German counter-attacks in the central sector and advanced over ground strewn with Axis dead, Allied headquarters announced today.

At the same time a headquarters communique announced Allied air forces had smashed a new enemy attempt to bring reinforcements on a large scale into Sicily by shooting down 21 huge German Junkers-52 transports in a battle over Messina Strait.

It was stated officially German troops now have been identified all along the entire front in northeastern Sicily where they are attempting to build a dike across the tip of the island to block the invasion gates to Italy.

(Meanwhile, the Italian communique, recorded by The Associated Press from a Rome broadcast, said the situation remained unchanged in Sicily.

Naples Raided Again.

(The Italians reported another series of Allied air raids on the Naples area and the region of Messina Strait, and said anti-aircraft defences and Italian fighters shot down eight planes in duels off Sardinia.

(German planes, the communique claimed, attacked warships and merchantmen off the northern and eastern coasts of Sicily and heavily damaged four transports, two cruisers and a destroyer.

Two giant German 323-Mersebergs were shot down by R.A.F. Beaufighters. These planes are capable of carrying more than 100 men, but official reports did not state whether they were filled with troops.

Enemy losses skyrocketed in the central and southern portions of the line and a number of German battalions lost half of their effective strength in attempts to batter back the relentless forward rush of the Allied troops who swept in a wheeling movement from central Sicily.

The Canadians bore the brunt of the operation and made gains against the heaviest opposition,

British Suspect Italy's Move

People Feel Resignation Good Omen

By JAMES F. KING,
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 27 —(AP) —Suspicion of the meaning of the political shake-up in Italy was strongly in evidence in London to-day, but there was general agreement that Mussolini's downfall appeared to be a step in the right direction for the Allies.

Staid Englishmen, who usually take changes in war without altering their facial expressions, showed more excitement over Mussolini's run-out than they have at any time since the United States came into the war.

Cartoonists and art editors, who previous had found broad fields of material in Mussolini, are having a field day. The Daily Express, for instance, pictured a be whiskered Italian at a microphone on a balcony, asserting:

"The management regrets to announce that there will be some last minute changes in the cast for the final act."

The whereabouts of Mussolini did not seem to concern the man in the street for the moment. It was felt that he was trapped and could not get away, and this chuckle was heard repeatedly:

"Let him go to Germany if he wants to; we'll get him eventually."

Allied Victories Put Hitler On Spot

Withdrawal Of Italian Troops Would Complicate Balkan Situation

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The swiftly-moving Allied successes in Russia and Sicily were crowding Herr Hitler into a mighty tight corner even before Mussolini's downfall came to increase the difficulties of the Nazi position.

These widely-separate operations are creating a squeeze which, irrespective of developments on the Italian mainland, may in due course force the Fuehrer to pull back his entire battleline on the eastern front. This would be one of the greatest withdrawals in history. That line represents more than 1,000 miles of defences which have been buttressed with the bodies of hundreds of thousands of German youth.

The point is that the Nazi chief is compelled to regard the assault on Sicily as the possible forerunner of an Allied drive up through the Balkans. The danger is multiplied by the Italian political upheaval which may result in a separate peace.

An invasion of the Balkans would create a grave threat to the whole German right wing, which is shaking under the hammering by the Red armies.

World Is Guessing

Of course, the Anglo-American team has Hitler—and the world, for that matter—guessing as to where it may strike next. Possibly the Allies themselves are keeping open minds, since a quick surrender of Italy would make the Balkan adventure decidedly more attractive. Should Marshal Pietro Badoglio withdraw from Yugoslavia and Greece the Italian troops which represent the main Axis defence there (and he is unofficially reported to have issued such an order) it would open up possibility which the Allies could scarcely ignore.

In any event, it would be folly for the Nazi gangster to disregard the contingency of an early assault through the Balkans. His hope of avoiding a wholesale readjustment of his hard-won positions in Russia must lie in stalling the western Allies off until the bad autumn weather arrives to impede military operations in the Balkan peninsula. This likely accounts for his orders to his forces in Sicily to fight to the death.

It has been the Fuehrer's plan that Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary should stand in the way of an Allied invasion up the Balkans. But his hold on these satellites was getting shaky even before the collapse of Mussolini. The debacle in Rome will further strengthen their resistance to Hitler.

Palermo Has Food Riots

Civilians Forage For Food Like Animals

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

PALERMO, Sicily, July 23 — (Delayed) — (AP). — Food rioting broke out on Palermo streets to-day, but American troops brought it under control by distributing captured German military stores.

The disorder centred around the railroad station, where a mob of hungry people, many of whom hadn't eaten for days, descended on a German supply dump. Railroad authorities appealed for help to Capt. Raymond W. Robowski who was commanding a road patrol.

"They weren't going to issue these supplies and the people began rioting," Robowski said. "These people are really starving. We found them carrying off lumber and clothing, but mostly they wanted food. They were breaking open bags of flour and scooping it up like animals."

The office said he persuaded railroad authorities to let him dole out all the supplies. The good news raced through the throng, and soon the people formed a long line to get their share.

Robowski said some women carried in their arms babies "so starved there was hardly any life left in them at all."

Farmers Must Pay Soldier Help

OTTAWA, July 27—(CP).—Labor Minister Mitchell announced last night that soldiers from army units in Canada who go on the farms to do seasonal work under a plan announced Saturday by Defence Minister Ralston will receive pay from the farmers as well as their army pay.

Rates of pay are now being worked out, said Mr. Mitchell. While working on the farm, the soldier will receive only his regular army pay but after returning to his unit he will receive any additional money he may have earned, over and above army pay and allowances. Dependents' allowances will continue.

Though remaining under military discipline and orders, the soldier will work in the same manner as civilian farm workers.

The proposal is that farmers will be invited to advise the Provincial Governments of their requirements and military authorities will, in turn, direct army personnel to fill the vacancies.

Mr. Mitchell said he had telegraphed the Provincial Premiers Saturday, asking their co-operation in the scheme.

Under the plan, it is proposed that farmers will be invited to advise the Governments of their labor requirements. Government agencies dealing with the matter will be named later. Requirements will be passed on to the army, and district officers commanding will direct any personnel to proceed to the farms to fill the vacancies. While the soldiers will remain under military discipline and orders, they will work for the farmers in the same manner as civilian farm workers.

Rates of pay are being fixed at which the farmer will engage the soldier's services, but the soldier will continue to draw his regular army pay, and any allowance to his dependents will also continue. After return to his unit the man will be given any additional money which he may have earned over and above army pay and allowances.

The employing farmer, on the other hand, will be required to pay in full the wages the man earned to agents representing the Governments of the Provinces and the Dominion. Money collected will be turned over to army paymasters. It is expected the farmer will be required to guarantee full wages for the period during which a man is engaged, regardless of weather or other working conditions.

Mr. Mitchell's announcement said it was expected the plan would be put into operation immediately. No estimate of the number of men who will be sent out by the army can be arrived at until the farmers have advised of their needs.

The plan does not interfere with the previous system of men in the army being given compassionate leave to return temporarily to their own farms or to those of relatives.

BLAME THAT SICK HEADACHE ON YOUR LIVER

Headache is often Nature's warning the system is "backfiring" with impurities. A sluggish liver not producing enough liver bile is generally to blame.

Your liver must produce 1 to 2 pints of bile daily to help digest fatty foods, promote regularity. If it slows down, poisons accumulate. This leads to sick headaches, sour stomach, indigestion, biliousness, bad breath, a worn-out, half-sick feeling. The gentle, all-vegetable way to stimulate liver bile is with BILE BEANS.

Liberal Defends Labor Policy

GUELPH, July 27 — Addressing a Liberal meeting in the City Hall last night, Attorney-General Eric Cross said that the labor policy of the Legislature in this Province is similar to that adopted by the Labor Governments in Australia. Mr. Cross was speaking in support of Dr. G. C. McNab, Liberal candidate for South Wellington.

"We do not cater to any particular class of people, but the introduction of the new labor bargaining law has given employees the right to collective bargaining and prevented discrimination by employers to employees who are members of unions," Mr. Cross said.

Speaking of Hydro facilities in Ontario, Mr. Cross said that the Liberal Government looks forward to the time when every farm home in Ontario will have Hydro and expressed the hope that when the war ends Hydro rates in this Province will be reduced and stabilized.

Farmers and producers already have benefitted to the extent of seven million dollars in subsidies paid on cheese and hogs, and legislation enacted during the years the Liberal Government has been in power in Ontario has saved the tax-payers many millions of dollars, he added.

"The various departments of Government have a record of sane administration for the greatest good of all the people," the speaker declared.

In his address Dr. McNab said that when George Drew talks about revamping the system of education in Ontario he is not in touch with realities.

"This was done several years ago by the Liberal Government, and our present educational system is unequalled anywhere in Canada," Dr. McNab said.

Canadian Leader Takes To Ditch

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With The Canadians in Central Sicily, July 18 —(Delayed)— (CP Cable.)—Gen. Guy Simonds, of Kingston, Ont., commanding the Canadian 1st Division troops in Sicily, was trapped for seven hours by a barrage of enemy shell and mortar fire on July 16 when he pushed forward to an observation post on a hilltop to look over the enemy ground.

Gen. Simonds had gone forward to prepare an attack with the western commander when the Germans started to plaster the hill with shell and mortar fire. With him were his aide-de-camp, Lieut. R. S. Graham, of Winnipeg, and Capt. C. F. Richardson, of Montreal, headquarters camp commandant and several drivers.

Trapped 7 Hours.

For even hours the General and the officers were trapped in this fire. Mortar bombs and shells banged down around them and they leaped from ditch to ditch, taking cover wherever they could.

The closest escape came when Gen. Simonds and Capt. Richardson flattened out in a trench as four mortar bombs crashed down within a few feet of them on the lip of the trench, covering them with dirt and stones. Finally they cleared out of this hot spot and got away without injuries.

Meantime the Canadians, opposed by a battle group of the Hermann Goering division and batches of Italians from the Livorno division, were trying to bring the enemy to battle and destroy them. They sought also to gain important roads coverging on Enna.

Drew Promises To Repeal Securities Act

NORTH BAY, July 27—A 10-point program for restoration and full development of gold mining and other mining in Ontario, which included readjustment of taxation and the repeal of the present Ontario Securities Act, was announced last night by George Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader. He spoke in the collegiate auditorium and his address was carried over a radio hookup to Timmins and Kirkland Lake.

Gold mining had become a casualty of this war, he said, 37 producing gold mines in Ontario having been closed down since its outbreak, considerably more than half the producing mines of the Province. The social consequences were affecting thousands of homes. War and war industries had drawn extensively upon the manpower of the mines. Other factors, too, were limiting mine operation and particularly prospecting.

These factors, he said, were excessively high taxation which tied the hands of the prospector and developer, and the greatly increased cost of exploring for new fields.

Land Held Idle

In addition a considerable amount of idle mineral land was being held for development by people who, without any real effort on their own part, were hoping discoveries on near-by ground would establish the value of their holdings.

It was important to Canada as a trading nation to be able to maintain heavy exports of gold immediately after the war. Gold mining and other mining, Mr. Drew said, must be restored. It was the very keystone to the prosperity of the North. To restore it not only after the war but in the near future, he said, he undertook to carry into effect the following positive mining policies:

Readjustment of the tax burdens on the mining industry to permit maintained production. Recogniton in the taxing system of the fact that all returns from mining include returns from capital. "When the war ends the tax burden should be considerably reduced."

Will Repeal Act.

"The Ontario Securities Act," Mr. Drew, promised, "will be repealed and the protection of the investor assured under posititve and clearly stated laws which will impose severe penalties upon those who attempt to perpatrate fraud, but will untie the hands of the prospector and developer who has the right to finance prospecting and development without bureaucratic interference so long as all essential facts are fully disclosed."

Cheaper air travel to the North and the placing of the Ontario Department of Mines under a man who understands the problems and the future of mining, with a view to vigorous expansion and to provide jobs for returning servicemen also were assured.

Mr. Drew said the last two Ministers of Mines had had no direct contact with the North. If Premier Nixon were returned "a very estimable gentleman with no personal experience or contact with mines" would continue to be Minister of Mines. Of the C.C.F., he said "there is not the slightest chance in this world of it forming a Government." The only method of taking practical steps toward the return of prosperity in the North was to give the Progressive Conservative Party a clear working majority, he declared.

C.C.F. Admits C.I.O. Flavor

TORONTO, July 27.—The C.C.F., as "the party of organized labor," was extolled in a combined radio address last night by C.C.F. candidates representing both the A.F. of L. and the C.I.O. Speakers were Bert Leavens, Canadian director of one of the A.F. of L. unions, who is running in Toronto-Woodbine, and C. H. Millard, United Steel Workers (C.I.O.), contesting York West.

Though they found themselves in different sections of the trade union movement, Mr. Leavens said, both were looking forward to the day when there would be complete unity in the ranks of labor. "Then we can unite our solid efforts there, as we are able to do today in the political field. For we are uniting politically."

Of more than 80 C.C.F. candidates in the Ontario election, over 30 are members of either the A.F. of L. or C.I.O. union, he said.

Mr. Millard said that for years "the two old parties have kept in office by setting one section of the people against another—while they divided the swag with big business." The C.C.F. provided a common meeting ground for worker, farmer and professional men.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 27 (CP)—Influenced by fair buying by American houses, July, October and December wheat futures established new seasonal highs early yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. However increased offerings and decline of values at Chicago, later in the session, sent them ¼c to 1c lower at the close.

Export business in Canadian wheat to the United Kingdom was reported to be approximately 1,250,000 bushels, negotiated on an exchange of future basis.

Shippers took an estimated 300,000 bushels of Nos. 1 and 2 Northern in the cash wheat market. Spreads were ¼ higher. Odd cars of cash oats and barley traded for rail shipment to Eastern feeders.

Jolliffe Would Aid Farmers

NEW LISKEARD, July 27 (CP)— E. B. Jolliffe, Provincial Leader of the C.C.F., in an Ontario election speech here last night urged assistance to young farmers who wish to establish themselves on the land.

Mr. Jolliffe said that loans at a rate of interest not greater than two per cent should be provided in such cases. If a C.C.F. Government is elected on Aug. 4, he added, it would assist farmers through their co-operatives and marketing agencies and would further extend hydro services through the rural areas.

Mr. Jolliffe, who also addressed a meeting yesterday at Cobalt, repeated his party's pledge that the Province would pay 50 per cent of the cost of education through larger grants to municipalities and he said that a C. C. F. Government would also extend educational facilities so that every child would receive a first class primary school education. Students with the inclination and ability for higher education would have their opportunity.

Referring to his election opponents, Mr. Jolliffe said that Premier Nixon had no platform until he spoke at Timmins last week "when he came out on his Government's record," while part of the program of Progressive Conservative Leader George A. Drew was "a very cheap imitation of the C.C.F. platform."

Canada Comes To Rescue With Vehicles

A thousand big guns and 50 thousand military vehicles, all that England owned at that time, were lost in the disaster at Dunkirk, and it was to Canada that Britain turned in her desperate need for war materials in 1940, Wallace Murdock, manager of the Ford Motor Company, Toronto branch, said in an address to the Rotary Club on Monday.

In that hour of crisis England was not able to supply herself with land vehicles as all her manufacturing facilities were engaged in the production of fighter planes to beat off the expected German blitz, Mr. Murdock said, and "only Canada was in a position to answer and answer quickly her appeal for military vehicles. Canada was the only country producing that type of equipment then."

The basis for this notable contribution to democracy's survival was laid way back in the summer of 1936, Mr. Murdock told his audience. In that year executives and engineers of the Ford, Chrysler and General Motors companies met in Ottawa to hold a conference to decide whether vehicles built to specifications of the British military could be produced in Canada. Their final determination was that such vehicles could be built here, and they agreed to undertake the job whenever called upon.

Interchanging First

When first moving into production, the Ford executive stated, there was a good deal of interchange of production between the different companies of the Canadian automotive industry, but now each company's facilities have increased so enormously that the practice is no longer necessary. "Today, figured in dollars and cents, land transport is the largest item in the purchases of the Department of Munitions and Supplies."

Mr. Murdock pointed out that the worth and durability of Canadian military vehicles had been well proven by events. As instances of this he cited instructions to German personnel to use captured Canadian carriers wherever possible; the fact that more Canadian three-tonners were used in the desert victory than any other type; and that of a shipment of 30,000 Ford vehicles which were sent to South Africa, driven 2,000 miles across the continent and employed in the Abyssinian and Egyptian campaigns, many were still said to be in use.

Thousands of vehicles from Canada had been sent to India, Mr. Murdock added, 40,000 were aboard the vast armada, that sailed for North Africa last November, and thousands more were in the gigantic convoy that fought its way around the North Cape to Murmansk against 12 days of vicious attack by Nazi planes and subs. Altogether 65,000 were in and around the Mediterranean area at the time Montgomery headed west from El Alamein.

Not A Mistake

Taking cognizance of the criticism of many individuals who call it inefficiency that long lines of vehicles should be sitting on railway sidings in Canada, Mr. Murdock pointed out that these formed a strategic reserve, and that the number so set apart was not more than might be lost in a heavy battle.

Government contracts were secured on a cost-plus basis by the Ford Company of Canada, its Toronto manager said, and income received on the production of hundreds of thousands of vehicles turned out in 1942 was barely sufficient to earn net profits at the rate of 1½%. He presented an encouraging picture of the faithfulness of Ford war-workers stating that since the beginning of the year absenteeism had amounted to only 3.6%, $100,000 worth of War Certifiactes were being purchased monthly by employees, and 6,000 blood donations had been made to the Red Cross.

He mentioned the new art of "centrifugal casting" as a process likely to have revolutionary consequences in post-war manufacturing, and said the Ford Company invited manufacturers with casting problems to bring them to them, free of charge, to be dealt with in their new electrically-operated foundry. By this new process of pouring molten steel into a mould rotating at high speed, cost, machining, tooling and man hours were all saved, and the finished product would outlast the old design by 2 to 1.

It would be new products and new developments like this, Mr. Murdock said, that would save us from a post-war period of depression and unemployment.

The speaker of the day was introduced by Roy Girven, and Robert Abbott moved the vote of thanks.

Tribute Paid To Memory P.O. Carl Grose

Men who work beside each other have a common bond which varies according to the worth of the individual in character, who either lays up a store of esteem in which he is regarded or the reverse if he fails to measure up to the standards of manhood one could reasonably expect.

Before enlisting for service to his King, country and humanity in general, Pilot Officer Carl Grose worked in the Structural Steel Department of the Canadian General Electric Co., Ltd., of which Bert Kelsey is the foreman, and in so doing he so walked and worked among them as to rate tops in their esteem, so much so, that when the sad news of his being killed in action was heard a few days ago, there was a spontaneous desire to do something in his name, and pay a tribute to a pal whom everyone had a good word for.

Under usual circumstances, this might have taken the form of a floral tribute, but in the words of the boys in this department, this was out of the question, so they decided to take up a collection, which amounted to $14, and give it in his name to add still a further service to the highest he had already given in the service of the country, by giving it to help the sufferers from aid raid attacks over Britain, and in so doing, they felt they were best carrying out what he would have desired, from which they themselves must have some consolation in the loss of an heroic pal.

One could perhaps moralize extensively on the thoughts that such heartfelt action on the part of his former pals has evoked; suffice it, however, to say that no finer tribute can be paid to any man by his associates than that they should try to help suffering humanity in his name, as a tribute to his sterling worth while he walked amongst them.

One penny box collection was made by the secretary of the fund which added another $2.50 to the day's receipts.

Something unique will be the show of aquariums in conjunction with the gladiolus show to be held in the Market Hall on Wednesday, August 11, which will be open to the public at 1.30 p.m., under the auspices of the Peterborough Aquarium Society, of which C. H. Bacon is the president and Al Warne the secretary.

The usual conception of an aquarium in these parts is that this would be a showing of goldfish, but in this instance this attractive member of the finny tribe will probably be very much in the minority, for the showing will be largely composed of tropical fish. Who knows but what some of the noted local followers of Isaac Walton will be on hand to give a demonstration of just how they manage to hook them.

Tickets are now on sale at 25 cents each or five for one dollar, which will also carry a chance on five good prizes donated by the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Co., Ltd., the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., Ltd., Cripps Studio, H. S. Routley China Shop and T. F. Doughty, besides giving entrance to the show itself.

All are invited to enter their aquariums or gladiolus in the show which is wide open to anyone without even the payment of a small entrance fee, and there are prizes in each different class. Further details will follow in the course of future articles on behalf of the fund, which will benefit to the extent of the entire net proceeds from this first annual show of its kind to be held in this city.

Bagdolio Cleans House; Few Disorders

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Switzerland, July 27 — (AP). — While Premier Pietro Badoglio and his newly-formed cabinet set about the task of maintaining order and sweeping Italy of the outward symbols of Fascism, reports from Rome today indicated a popular belief there that one of the first acts of the new government would be a request for an armistice.

(In London Reuters News Agency quoted a Berne dispatch to the Svenska Dagbladet in Stockholm, as saying that preliminary negotiations for an armistice between Italy and the Allies began in Vatican City last night. There was no immediate confirmation of this report, however.)

(The Svenska Dagbladet dispatch also said that German ambassador Hans Georg Von Mackensen was holding a series of talks with Premier Badoglio, apparently to learn the latter's attitude toward Germany.)

Little Bloodshed

While Badoglio has not yet officially proclaimed the Fascist party dead, the new Premier and his ministers are cleaning house throughout the country. The Fascist party headquarters have been taken over, Mussolini and other high Fascists are reported under protective custody, and the national police force has been reorganized under a military administration, according to political and diplomatic reports from the Italian capital.

Disorders have been surprisingly few, according to these sources. Badoglio moved swiftly to avoid bloodshed and so far but one serious outbreak has been reported — a riot in Milan Sunday night that resulted in the death of three Fascist party members.

Belief Badoglio and his cabinet would seek some method of approaching the Allies for armistice terms was strengthened by increasing reports of spontaneous peace demonstrations which have broken out in Italy's biggest cities. They began Sunday night, soon after King Victor Emmanuel had announced the resignation of Mussolini.

Men, women and children poured into the streets of Rome, Naples, Milan, Turin, Genoa and other cities, with cries for peace and shouts of joy over Mussolini's downfall. Direct news dispatches from Italy have been halted, but Italian newspapers reaching Switzerland disclosed the scope of the demonstrations, which apparently were country-wide.

Free At Last.

The Corriere Della Sera of Milan reflected the opinion of the majority of the press in an editorial headed:

"Mussolini has left. We are free."

Whether the Italian press has been restored its full freedom of expression or whether the new government was not yet able to apply control was not yet certain, but indications are that most of the restrictions that have fettered news

Liberal Leader One With People Ready To Serve

HAVELOCK, July 27 (ENS)—One of the aspirants for the Liberal leadership at the party convention held in Toronto last spring, Walter Thompson, K.C., addressed a gathering in the town hall on Saturday evening in the interest of Captain Alex L. Elliott, Liberal candidate for Peterborough. A native of Hastings and one of the parties chief speakers Mr. Thompson reviewed the issues of the day and claimed that everywhere he had gone there was a satisfied feeling that the Liberal government had done a real job without lethargy or reproach.

He referred to Harry Nixon, as a "safe man for the leadership with a complete understanding of both service and sacrifice. He is beyond criticism and beyond the fear of anything the world might do to him on that score. He is genial and approachable—in marked contrast to his immediate predecessor—and he understands the tiller of the soil. The agricultural class is the basic industrial class of our country and everywhere there is confidence among the agricultural classes," said Mr. Thompson.

"We are aprpoaching an election behind a man who has not raised himself above his standard. He is a man of ourselves. He has pointed to a record of government that has done well for us. He was the main steadying influence in Mr. Hepburn's time and is inured to the travail of work—a man with vision who can bind us together in a common bond."

Some Responsibility

Declaring the only issue at stake was the renewal of the people's mandate for the Nixon government, the speaker said Col. Drew had had as much responsibility for bringing on the election as did Mr. Nixon as the opposition had voted against an extension of the life of the house.

"Something therefore had to be done and Mr. Nixon was insistent and gave you the opportunity to renew their mandate." The speaker described the Progressive Conservative leader as "a great starter but a bad finisher. How has he the right to say he can take over and do better than Mr. Nixon when he was nothing to look back at but his failures prior to 1943." Mr. Thompson referred to Col. Drew's connection with the Securities Commission which he claimed had operated at a loss.

The speaker claimed that without production there could be no reconstruction after the war and the tiller of the soil was the one who must produce. A boy after 4 or 5 years in the army has got to be put back in the stream of life slowly so that the stream can absorb him and "there is no man better qualified to do that job than Alex Elliott. A vote for the C.C.F. is a vote for the Conservative party, so vote Liberal for the Government that stands on its own," concluded Mr. Thompson, who earlier in the evening had addressed a meeting in Norwood which was being conducted simultaneously with the Havelock meeting.

Chairman W. G. Barrie introduced the first speaker, Dr. E. M. Crough of Peterborough, who made his address to an audience of 21 people. Dr. Crough made a strong appeal for support for the candidate Alex Elliott whom he described as "a man who merits your continued support as he has served in a non-partisan way."

Brought Tourists

The speaker referred to Captain Elliott's record and dwelt at length no the part he had played in attracting tourists to the district. An important phase of this work had been the building of a fish hatchery at a cost of $60,000 and the subsequent placing of large quantities of fry in the rivers and lakes of the county. In the three years up to and including 1942 approximately 29,940,000 fry had been placed in the water and these included 750,000 lunge, 16,000,000 pickerel and 100,000 black bass in 1942 alone.

T. J. Carley, K.C., president of the West Peterborough Liberal Association, answered the criticism regarding the holding of an election at this time by pointing out that both Col. Drew and Leslie Frost had spoken against an extension of the life of Parliament. Mr. Nixon had joined in this opposition feeling that the people's voice should be heard. Nor was the conventino that chose Harry Nixon as leader influenced in any way by Federal members. "It was only natural that cabinet ministers should be there on such an important occasion as the choosing of a leader, and Mr. Nixon, as the oldest and most experienced member of the Hepburn Cabinet was the logical man for that leadership."

King's College Trains Sailors In Short Course

CAMPBELLFORD, July 27 (ENS—One of the favorite conversations of naval men is home and what he is going to do after the war. So said Lieut. Donald Craighead, R.C.N.V.R. of H.M.C.S. King's, who two years ago was a teacher on the staff of the Norwood High School and is now teaching navigation to naval ratings at the Halifax station. He was addressing the Rotary Club.

Lieut. Craighead, a native of Seymour, presented an interesting picture of war time Halifax, the work done in the Naval establishment and of a destroyer trip on convoy duty.

With the aid of a map he pointed out where the tragic munitions ship explosion had taken place in the last war. He recalled its collision with a Belgian freighter at a narrow neck in the harbour near the northern end of the city. The explosion had not been simultaneous with the collision but had occurred some forty minutes later, after the fire which had broken out among the gasoline that was also being carried, spread to the exposives.

The sailors aboard knew what was about to happen and abandoned ship to make for the shore on the Dartmouth side of the harbor, but the harbor fire fighters and spectators who gathered on the shore to watch the blaze had no warning till the explosion rent the air, taking the lives of some three thousand people and levelling many blocks of buildings both at the waterfront and for several miles inland.

Housing Problem

Despite all that had been said of Halifax, the speaker felt they had done a good job of war time housing when considering the tremendous job they had to face. The peace time population of from 57-60,000 has now been swelled to more than 120,000 and what is described as the transient population of soldiers, airmen and sailors occasionally amounts to the equivalent of the pre war population. There are but two theatres, two large hotels and two modern apartment buildings in the city.

The housing shortage has however been relieved by the government housing project which has established from 1,500 to 2,000 prefabricated homes in the city. Most of these are occupied by dock yard workers and the rent runs from $25.00 to $35.00 per month, with the tenant owning his own home at the end of three years. These homes, in specially laid out sections of the city, have brightly painted roofs and are in marked contrast to the drab brown which predominates the other buildings. Most of the buildings in the city are made of frame since the climatic conditions cause both limestone and brick to deteriorate rapidly.

The naval establishment comprises the property formerly known as King's College and like all other naval training centres, whether it be a ship or a shore station, it is commissioned. At the head of all such establishments there is a Captain, known also as "the old man," when he is not within hearing distance. Such an officer need not necessarily hold the rank of Captain to be in charge. Under him are other officers—the Sub Lieutenant, know as "Jimmie the Wonder" and the dental officer who is popularly known as "Toothy," even when present.

Short Work

Officer's courses at King's are four months long and mass production is the order of the day. Evidence of the way studies have been compressed and simplified was seen in the speaker's statement regarding the teaching of mathematical angles in navigation. Here in a day and a half a complete high school and university course in trigonometry is given. Plane tirgonometry is taught in one day and spherical in a half day.

"Here we are not interested in theory, just in the basic trigonometrical formula which is quickly mastered."

Lieut. Craighead told of a six weeks trip aboard one of the old four stacker destroyers which Britain acquired by the ships for bases deal with the United States. He described the picking up of a convoy in a fog that was so dense it was impossible to see the bow of the destroyer. Radar, which has recently received wide publicity, is used and with it the exact position of ships in the convoy is calculated.

Mine Sinking

It was while aboard this destroyer on convoy duty that the message "Sighted mine. Sank same," was flashed, a take-off on the more famous "Sighted sub, sank same" sent out by a U.S. plane some months earlier. The convoy opened up to let the mine pass through and after it was safely past the destroyer opened up with everything up to twelve pounders. An American blimp hovering overhead asked the destroyer what she was firing at and they signalled back to the effect that it was a mine. The blimp went over the object to investigate and responded that they did not think it was a mine. Bct the destroyer's captain still thought he was right and when it was finally exploded the message to the ship in charge of the flotilla, "Sighted mine. Sank same" was hoisted.

A vote of thanks to the speaker for his interesting address was moved by Rotarian L. B. Glover.

Board Discusses School Repairs

CAMPBELLFORD, July 27 — (ENS) —Repairs to property were the chief item discussed by members of the Board of Education at the July meeting on Monday evening.

Several items which had been brought up at the June meeting and left with the Property Committee were reported on by F. C. Bonnycastle who heads that committee. He told members that putty work and re-pointing had been completed at the High School and recommended the placing of a quantity of loam next to the building in such places as were so low as to premit water to settle there. He had also looked into the matter of painting all of the steel sash on the building and said it would be difficult to find many who would have the time to do this work. At first it had appeared they might be unable to obtain a supply of aluminum paint, but a supply had been procured.

Members debated whether the work should pe postponed till next year on the chance that painters might be more available but the viewpoint was that there was nothing to be gained by waiting till 1944 as the work had to be done and the metal work was deteriorating. On motion the Property Committee was authorized to advertize for tenders for the job of wire brushing, paintiting and caulking the windows.

With regard to levelling the public school playground, whose condition has been the subject of Inspector Martin's censure for several years, a plan for changing the elevation was presented. It was suggested that little additional fill would be required if four feet were taken off to a height of about three feet near school foundation wall. This would still leave a drop of of from 2 to 2½ feet over the 100 foot stretch of playground. Doubt was expressed that the work could be commenced and completed before Sept. Here again the difficulty of obtaining the necessary lobour figured as an important factor and the matter was referred back to the Property Committee for further investigation.

W. Roy Loucks told the Board that pursuant to instructions at the lats regular meeting. Miss Jean Trumpour had been engaged on the Public School staff to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Nellie Morrow.

Cobourg Jail Breaker Remains At Large

COBOURG, July 27—(ENS). —Bernard Martin, the prisoner who escaped from the jail yard here on Saturday has so far not been located. Police spread the dragnet out during the week-end, stopping cars on all roads leading out of Cobourg in the belief that he might seek a ride out of town, but their efforts were not successful. The search is continuing and police are confident that he has not gone far.

30 Persons Charged In Coal Strikes

PITTSBURGH, July 27 (AP)—A Federal grand jury investigating recent unauthorized strikes in the soft coal fields of southwestern Pennsylvania today indicted 30 persons, charging conspiracy to prevent production of coal in violation of the law.

The indictments were the first since enactment of the anti-strike law June 25.

The indictment said those named "well knew" that the mines were in possession of the United States and that continuous operation was necessary "for successful prosecution of the war."

Conviction under the anti-strike law carries a fine up to $5,000 or imprisonment for one year.

Special Assistant Attorney-General Henry Schweinhaut, assigned from Washington to aid the prosecution, said the defendants included 19 officers of United Mine Worker locals and 11 members. Four local presidents were named.

Plan To Redecorate Church Parsonage

CAMPBELLFORD, July 27 — (ENS) — Thirteen members of Stanwood Sewing Circle journeyed to Havelock on Thursday to be the guests of Mrs. B. H. Brown for their July meeting.

The president, Mrs. Carmen Redden presided for the meeting and during the afternoon plans for the redecoration of the parsonage were made. It was pointed out the Stanwood group would bear one third of the cost of the redecoration with the Springbrook and Rylstone congregations providing the balance of the money. Members decided to have the draw on a quilt donated by Mrs. D. H. Brown made at their next meeting to be held at Mrs. Kenneth McAlpine's. During the opening exercises Mrs. Dan Petherick gave the Scripture reading and Mrs. Murray Petherick took the roll call.

Potato Fields Are Inspected

COBOURG, July 27.—(ENS). —Wide acreage of land in Northumberland county is devoted to potato production, along with a varied vegetable production, it was pointed out by Ralph C. Banbury, county agricultural representative during a crop survey. James Hume, inspector re seed certification of the Ontario Agricultural College of Guelph, along with Mr. Banbury, recently visited farms where the owners had applied for certification of the crop. Object of the inspection was to find how many diseased plants were present. In this county it would appear that black leg, a disease which attacks the stems at the top of the ground, is the most serious.

In some fields, a good percentage of the crop is dying from this seed-borne trouble, although the yield will be about one-half that of healthy hills. Fields which appear to pass at this time are those of Arthur Rutherford, Charles Maguire, E. A. Rutherford and Charles Quinn, all of Colborne section; W. B. Lowe of Hilton and Norman Flindall of Trenton, stated Mr. Banbury. This certification of seed in a sound way of keeping the crop healthy and most potato producers are well advised to secure more certified seed at least every second year, as the cost is very little more, while the production is much higher.

8 Americans In Treason Act

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP).—Eight Americans, including two women, who have broadcast regularly from Germany and Italy in behalf of the Axis war effort, were indicted today for treason, and Attorney-General Francis Biddle said they would be brought to trial when caught.

The indictments are similar, each alleging that the defendant named aided enemies of the United States by repeated broadcasts designed "to persuade citizens in the conduct of the war."

Seven of those charged have been broadcasting from Germany, one from Italy. Six are native Americans, the other two are naturalized Americans of German birth.

GERMAN "SPIKED" GUNS

MOSCOW — (CP). — In the exhibit opened here of specimens of war booty captured from the Germans from 1941 to 1943, a prominent place is given to Germany's artillery weapons.

"I tell all who have RHEUMATIC Pains!"

If she had known earlier what she knows now, Mrs. Brum would have been spared a lot. So she wants to pass her knowledge on to you.

"I have had rheumatic pains all over me for nearly 12 months," she writes. "In fact, I could hardly move. My hands were puffed up and I could not do my own work or get up the stairs. I tried almost everything I was told. At last I decided to try Kruschen.

"I have had two bottles and I am pleased to tell you I am now better, thanks to Kruschen Salts. I shall never be without it now I know its value. If I had taken it before, I should have saved a lot of money. I tell all I know who suffer from rheumatic pains what it has done for me."— (Mrs.) E. Brum.

Those stabbing rheumatic pains are often caused by needle-pointed crystals of uric acid lodging in the joints. Kruschen usually brings relief because it helps dissolve those sharp crystals and expels them from the system. Then, if you continue with a little daily dose of Kruschen, it should keep your inside so clean and regular, that uric acid and other body poisons do not get a chance to accumulate again.

Kruschen Salts come in two sizes. 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

You Owe It To Yourself To Vote for Alex. Elliott

--- He's the man who sponsored the Bill which saved city ratepayers $59,893.10

In 1938 Peterborough City Trust had a surplus of approximately $300,000. Thishad been acquired by investments earning in excess of the anticipated rate and sale of securities at prices in excess of their par value.

In 1938 the City Council applied to the Legislature for right to have this money used to reduce tax rate. The City of Belleville introduced a similar bill but both were turned down.

The following year the Peterborough member asked the government to introduce general legislation as a Government-sponsored measure which would permit municipalities to deal with their surpluses. The Government refused and Alex Elliott drafted a bill providing an amendment to Municipal Act of Ontario allowing city councils to appeal to Municipal Board to have these surpluses used to reduce the demands made to meet the interest on debentures. In other words the sulpluses would be used to reduce the amount of money the tax payers would have to put up in taxes to pay interest on debentures. The Legislation was passed and became law and through Alex Elliott and City Trust Peterborough City Ratepayers have saved

In 1941	$18,329.12

Viva La Pace! Viva Il Re!

By the time this reaches the reader there may be new developments in the Italian situation; matters will not stop at the dismissal of Mussolini and the imprisonment of his Fascist cabinet. The King and Marshal Badoglio, having taken matters into their own hands, will move as quickly as they can to get Italy out of the war. That is the only course open to them. The war was sought by the Fascists, and it was fought under the Fascist yoke. Now that Fascism is dead there is no point in continuing the war.

The Italians have been the buffoons of this war ever since they entered it. That is not because they are essentially cowards or bad fighters. Men who fought with the Garibaldi Brigade in Spain know what fighters Italians can be when they feel that they have something to fight for. But they have never accepted this war as a necessary or personal one. When they surrendered they usually did so with the broad grins of men who thought themselves well out of a bad situation. There is no doubt that they will be eager for peace on any terms we like to offer.

They know that our terms, unconditional surrender and all, are easier in the long run than any terms which they can hope for from the Germans. They probably are awake to the fact that the Axis cannot hope to win this war. Whatever terms of peace we give will at least allow them to relax and nurse their wounds; while they were under the Fascists the Italian people were forever on the stretch, and after twenty years they are tired.

Whatever they may say to the contrary the collapse of the Fascist regime will be a heavy blow to the Nazis. Their Axis is now a Berlin-Tokio affair, and the Japanese ally cannot be turned into the easy catspaw which the Italians supplied.

If the Italians seek peace, as almost certainly they will, let no one expect that our terms will be easy. If Germany were to get the notion that the overthrow of a totalitarian government softened our hearts and made us ready to forgive and forget they would not be long in trying the same game. The Italians will be treated with austere justice.

But Italy has had a change of heart which will sooner or later take her out of the war, and that is a victory for our side which will cut many months off the duration of the conflict.

Explanation And Emendation

On July 8 we published an editorial referring to building licenses which had been issued to Senators during the past year, and listed the sums which had been spent on the building which these licenses made possible. We attempted to be facetious in our handling of this matter, and in that we made a great mistake. No one, writing in a newspaper, should ever depart from the paths of dullest sobriety, for there are sure to be some of his readers who do not know what a joke is and will misinterpret him accordingly. Imagine our horror when we found that a number of our readers assumed from what we wrote that the Government had actually made presents of several thousands of dollars to the Senators in question!

Let us make the matter as clear as possible. At present anyone who wants to do any building or make any structural alterations costing more than a fixed sum must get a license to do so; this is because materials and workmen are scarce and they must be directed to the jobs which need them most. The Senators in question applied for, and received, licenses to spend their own money in doing some building. They were not given anything by anybody. The object of our editorial was merely to imply that a fuss was being made about a small matter, and now that we have amplified our remarks we hope that everyone understands them.

Production In The Poultry Run

Ever since war broke out newspaper offices (except for those of snooty journals in large cities) have been bombarded with vegetables in the contours of which their growers discerned auguries of the future. The "V Cucumber" seems to be the favourite among such contributions, and no office is complete without one of these strangely contorted objects. Why the cucumber should twist itself in a V—we cannot say; offhand, we should assume that a cucumber took little interest in the international mess; all the same, many an Ontario cucumber has grown itself into a V just to encourage us and to show that it is not neutral.

The neutrality of Eire has restrained the potato from any demonstration of sympathy with the Four Freedoms, but we have seen plenty of parsnips which grew to look like Hitler, tomatoes and turnips which strongly resembled Mussolini, and onions which looked like Hirohito. When our very vegetables grow into caricatures of the Axis leaders, how can we lose?

But until recently domestic poultry have taken the war very quietly. We hear, however, that a hen at Lakefield has produced an egg measuring $8\frac{1}{2}$ inches one way and $6\frac{1}{2}$ inches the other way; when blown, this monster was found to contain three yokes. Obviously this hen is getting into war production and is trying to make up for lost time. We have not seen the hen ourself, but we asked the owner what her breed was, and were told that she was a Poland-China, so it is easy to tell where her sympathies lie.

Two Birthdays

On Sunday last George Bernard Shaw was 87; on Thursday Benito Mussolini will be 60. Mr. Shaw is decidedly the younger man of the two, and his reputation is greater and more enduring than that of the Italian dictator. Astrologists will already have noticed that both were born under the zodiacal sign of Leo, which should account for their desire to be leaders, to be combative, to love the limelight and to be rampageous characters generally. What appositions of planets and influences made one of them the greatest writer of our time and one of the great dramatists of all time, and the other the outstanding failure of his era, we must leave it to the astrologers to decide, if they can.

Mr. Shaw has allowed his birthday to pass without comment; we shall not be surprised if Mussolini follows his example. Mr. Shaw looks as though he were good for another ten years, at least; Mussolini will probably die, in one way or another, quite shortly. Mr. Shaw has been giving us intellectual cathartics for fifty years; Mussolini gave castor oil to his enemies and banana oil to his friends for twenty years, and now his king has given him a powder. Both men were conspicuous failures at school. Mussolini, so far as we know, has never said anything in public about Mr. Shaw; but Mr. Shaw, in his play Geneva caricatured the dictator as Bombardone in a manner which must have caused misgiving even in the brazen breast of the modern Caesar.

Mussolini pinned his faith to youth. The gospel of youth was forever on his lips, and he struggled hard to retain an appearance of juvenility even when the years told heavily against him. He cropped his greying head, sucked up his paunch and thrust out his jaw with all the arrogance of a lusty young springald. Mr. Shaw spent a youth of miserable genteel poverty, achieved little recognition before he was forty, and did his best work after he was fifty. He has never thought much of youth, and accepts old age with ribald glee. He still swims, drives a car, sings, plays the piano and throws the hatchet with unerring accuracy.

Many happy returns of the day, G.B.S.! Sorry we can't wish you the same, Benito!

The Glass Of Fashion

An account has appeared in an English paper of a wedding at St. Giles' Cathedral in Edinburgh in which the bride wore a wedding dress of spun glass. She was Miss Helen Nairn Munro, who is lecturer in glass etching at the Edinburgh College of Art, and she married Professor W. E. S. Turner, of the glass technology department of Sheffield University.

The dress was made of six yards of pale blue spun glass which is said to be as fine in texture as silk and perfectly adaptable to any purpose for which fine cloth is used. Her hat, her handbag and even her shoes were of glass fabric, and her dress was painted with flowers made from another glass product.

We could refer to this wedding as a "glassy affair", and express a hope that it may not end in a shattered romance, but we shall refrain. The miracle of flowers preserved under cellophane pales beside that of brides preserved under glass.

Letters To The Editor

"CO-OPERATOR" POORLY NAMED

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Whoever wrote that letter signed Co-Operator did not pick a very good name for herself. I am guessing it was some woman. We have had a farmers' co-operative store in Peterborough for a good many years now and it works fine for everybody. Maybe she better take a look in there some day. As for other complaints I know she don't speak for most farmers. Prices are pretty fair right now, what with eggs 45 cents the doz. and berries 40 cents the qt. She says milk is a poor price; yes, 10 cents is no hell but we get a government grant on cheese and butter and that helps.

I was ashamed to read a Canadian farm woman saying it was a good thing we got a food shortage. That is just how Hitler would like us to talk and feel revengeful and mean among ourselves. We got enough on our hands now without none of that kind of talk from farmers. I was a farmer myself up to 1937 and since then my business keeps me always with them and I know what they think as well as anybody and its not that sour milk kind of stuff this Co-Operator writes. Take it from the farmers are in this war, manpower shortage and all, and no squealing. Thanking you I am,

LIFELONG CO-OPERATOR.

FARM STORAGE ON GRAIN

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I was glad to see the folowing point included in that series of recomendations tabled in the House of Commons (Ottawa), July 20, by the Agriculture Committee: "Consideration of the advisability of paying farm storage on grain...."

Why not? It seems to me that this decision is not more than fair and is long overdue. It costs money to "carry" grain in the bins, and whether those bins are at the Lakehead terminals or "down on the farm," really does not alter this economic fact.

Due primarily to the immense bushelage which, willy-nilly, had to be "carried" in the great elevators across Canada—as an emergency war reserve!—the income-rental for a bushel of wheat which used to be 1-30th of one cent per day has been hammered down to 1-45th of one cent per day, so that a year's rental has been lowered in recent years from 12 cents per bushel to just 8 cents! This may be an economically fair trend, but the same service is being rendered by the farm bins of the growers and, as the risk of deterioration is the owner's until the stuff is delivered at the primary markets (i.e. the country elevators), I can see no reason why the statutory storage-rate should not be paid?

Although Jack Canuck's elevator system is among the greatest in the world—with a binnage capacity capable of housing nigh 600 million bushels (less 10 per cent for what is termed "working space")—it may surprise urban readers to learn that there is more grain being carried in rural storage today than in the elevators, local and terminal, from coast to coast. It is true that hundreds of millions of bushels will not leave the farm in the form of grain. In the present season almost 95 million bushels of wheat, alone, will be "fed" to livestock, according to the experts. I think, therefore, that it is only ordinary justice that the farmer should win the ordinary storage revenues in return for the services rendered in carrying grain "in the bin" for a full season?

It is this kind of economic "leakage" from year to year, which makes it difficult for the farmer to get onto a sound debt-paying basis.

VIMY RIDGE.

A PRODUCER SPEAKS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—A letter in a recent issue of the Examiner signed "City Dweller" deserves some comment. I presume the writer is a lady as the letter is a good example of woman's logic, but nevertheless there are a few issues raised about which your correspondent should be set straight. She has mentioned the price of apples, among others, and appears to think that because the apples cost a nickel each some local grower is getting rich. Anyone who stops a moment to think should know that apples on sale at this time of year are not local, and that the price paid includes the profit of the retailer, wholesaler, and importer, as well as foreign exchange, war tax, etc. Probably the grower, wherever he lived, got about a cent a piece for them.

Now let us look into the grower's cost of producing apples. He invests his money in trees, devotes his land, which to all intents and purposes is his factory, and is an investment, to the production of fruit. He devotes his labour to the cultivation and care of the trees for eight to twelve years, depending on variety, before he realizes a cent in return. Then another five to eight years elpse before the orchard comes into full production. Commencing in April and continuing throughout the season, he must spray trees and fruit with expensive chemicals, applied with a machine costing anywhere up to $2,000. He must buy his baskets, hamper, and barrels, and pay for picking, and transportation. So much for apples. No doubt producers of beef, pork, dairy products, maple syrup, honey, and what have you, could submit production figures for the benefit of your correspondent.

Farmers have always been mildly fed up with the criticisms and advice offered by people who know little or nothing of what they are talking about. I am willing to wager that the city men who have sacrificed their holidays to help on the farms and who are spending ten to twelve hours daily under a blistering sun do not consider the farmer is overpaid.

In conclusion I have yet to hear of farmers going on strike, or laying off one or two days a week when their incomes become taxable.

PRODUCER.

INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Certainly appreciated your printing that little article I sent you though I didn't think it was worth while and that no one would be much interested in it, thanks also for the vacation material you sent me and which I just received a few minutes ago. I also learned that our Mr. V. J. Wilson who was Supt. of our Prison twine plant here for nearly thirty years is the one who has been getting the Examiner and that Peterborough is his old home town, he wants to see the papers showing the vacation places there, they are all familiar to him he says and he also thought the ideas I expressed in the letter you published were timely and good and that there is an undercurrent of feeling on this side the line that Canada is not a "free" country in the same sense as the "States" which I think, as you say is pretty much of a mistaken idea.

You know there are a lot of things like this that could be freely discussed and talked over back and forth in a helpful and friendly manner that would bring out new ideas that many never think of nor pay any attention to, we all think we have the greatest country in the world regardless of what country it is and everyone likes to prove his point and so many are just so biased that they can't see anything good in any other country, they can't see the other fellow's viewpoint and they don't want to learn, such persons are to be pitied.

Twelve years ago this month, on the 8th, I believe to be exact there was held one of the greatest International events I ever witnessed on the Border at the little town of Dunseith or twelve miles north of it at the Peace Garden when this tract of land, lying half in Canada and half in States was formally dedicated commemorating one hundred years of peace between the two nations. Fifty-four thousand people were there that day from all over the world, no one knew there was any line there, though it was marked by stone monuments about five feet high and at the top of the rock cairn erected on the line the American flag flew on one side, the Canadian or British on the other and many people stood in pairs on this imaginary line, one in Canada, the other in the U.S. holding hands and having their pictures taken in this position. I think I still have some of these around somewhere that I took. There was a feeling of friendliness and comradeship there that day that should be spread clear across the American continent and as long as that bond of unity and friendship exists no foreign power will ever dare molest us regardless of which side of that line we are on.

On three different occasions during last ten years or so I have been less than a hundred miles from your city and as I said before if I get that close again I will drop in for a few minutes and I am sure we will have a most pleasant visit and I am also enclosing ten cents for whatever you can conveniently spare of this page No. 4 of the July 14th issue with these two articles in that you so kindly sent me, several that I have shown this one to have wanted to keep it and I told them I would try to get them a copy, one of my brothers who worked up at Melita, west of Winnipeg with me that winter and who is out in Oregon now would be very glad to get a copy I am sure, Thanks again for everything and rest assured I appreciate your most valued comments and sentiments, So Mote it be.

GEORGE L. BASKA.

GETTING BACK INTO OUR OLD "RUT" AGAIN

The World Turns in Empty Space

NOWHERE is the sky so high above the world as above Greece. For more than seven months of the year it holds itself up and away from the Greek mountains and sea. It is lifted away like a cover, so that you do not think of a sky overhead. There is no dome of the heavens, nothing spreading and hanging above you oppressively; the world turns in empty, blue space; you feel the mountains and sea plunging forward. At times the motion is as perceptible as this chugging ahead of the Pteroti on the water. Because of the lack of a covering sky there is a nobility to the Greek landscape, a quality of grandeur, and because of the singular clarity of the air you feel that you have gained new vision, that your eyes for the first time are open to reality....

Looking back towards Piraeus and Athens, I saw the Acropolis and the proud bulk of the Parthenon dominating the long panorama of smokestacks, massed buildings, hills, and mountains. My gaze went directly to the sharply outlined rock hill and the more sharply outlined temple and stayed there. All of the buildings of the two cities, even the other hills and the mountains, were pivoted around that one small rock hill. Strange how difficult it is to turn your gaze away from the Acropolis.—From "People of Poros," by Peter Gray. (New York: Whittlesey House.)

Breath Of The English Rural Year

A LITTLE over three hundred years ago England had given to her a poet of the very rarest lyrical quality, but she did not discover the fact for more than a hundred and fifty years afterward. The poet himself was aware of the fact at once, and stated it, perhaps not too modestly, in countless quatrains and couplets, which were not read, or, if read, were not much regarded at the moment. It has always been an incredulous world in this matter. So many poets have announced their arrival, and not arrived!....

On September 30, 1629, Charles I, at the recommending of the Earl of Exeter, presented Herrick with the vicarage of Dean Prior, near Totnes, in Devonshire. Here he was destined to pass the next nineteen years of his life among surroundings not congenial. For Herrick to be a mile away from London stone was for Herrick to be in exile....Yet, however discontented or unhappy he may have been at first in that lonely vicarage, the world may congratulate itself on the circumstances that stranded him there, far from the distractions of the town, and with no other solace than his Muse, for there it was he wrote the greater number of the poems which were to make his fame. It is to this accidental banishment to Devon that we owe the cluster of exquisite pieces descriptive of obsolete rural manners and customs—the Christmas masks, the Twelfth-night mummeries, the morris-dances, and the May-day festivals....

His poetry has the value and the defect of that seclusion. In spite, however, of his contracted horizon there is great variety in Herrick's themes. Their scope cannot be stated so happily as he has stated it:

> I sing of brooks, of blossoms, birds and > bowers,
> Of April, May, of June, and July-> flowers;....
> I sing of dews, of rains, and piece by piece
> Of balm, of oil, of spice and ambergris;
> I sing of times trans-shifting, and I write
> How roses first came red and lilies white;
> I write of groves, of twilights, and I sing
> The Court of Mab, and of the Fairy King;
> I write of Hell; I sing (and ever shall)
> Of Heaven, and hope to have it after all.

Never was there so pretty a table of contents. When you open this book the breath of the English rural year fans your cheek; the pages seem to exhale wildwood and meadow smells, as if springs of tansy and lavender had been shut up in the volume and forgotten. One has a sense of hawthorn hedges and wide-spreading oaks, of open lead-set lattices half hidden with honeysuckle; and distant voices of the haymakers, returning home in the rosy afterglow, fall dreamily on one's ear, as sounds should fall when fancy listens. There is no English poet so thoroughly English as Herrick. He painted the country life of his own time as no other has painted it at nay time.—From "Ponkapog Papers" by Thomas Bailey Aldrich. (Boston: Houghton, Mifflin.)

Max Was Right

When convicted of treason and sentenced to death after he helped an escaped German prisoner on his way with food and money, Max Stephan, naturalized German-American restaurant proprietor in Detroit, said: "I'll bet all the tea in China they won't hang me." Max was right. A few hours before he was due to be executed, President Roosevelt granted commutation of the sentence to penal servitude for life. Mr. Roosevelt held that the nature of the offence did not warrant the death penalty.

Max is lucky. Perhaps he thinks the United States is a better country to live in than Germany after all. Had he done the equivalent of this in any of the occupied countries, the Germans would certainly have shot him or hanged him, probably after cruel tortures, and not only that but his wife and a whole crowd of friends might have been arrested and executed also. The entire legal resources of the United States were employed to save him. He would have had no such trial in Germany or occupied Europe.

The President watered down the seriousness of Stephan's breach of the law. It should be recalled, however, that Nurse Edith Cavell was tried by a German military court, sentenced to be shot and was shot for doing exactly what Stephan did.

The Nazis in Germany were not in the least interested in the fate of Max Stephan, nevertheless they will regard the President's action as a happy omen for Germany and for themselves. They will say: "The Allies talk about being hard on Germany and of executing us as war criminals. This just shows you that they don't mean what they say. We'll bet all the tea in China we don't get hung."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A Bible Message

Thus saith the Lord; I am returned unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem shall be called a city of truth; and the mountain of the Lord of hosts the holy mountain....

Thus saith the Lord of hosts; Behold I will save my people from the east country, and from the west country; and I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem, and they shall be my people, and I will be their God, in truth and in righteousness. (Zech. 8: 3, 7, 8.)

Be thou exalted, Lord, in thine own strength: so will we sing and praise thy power. (Ps. 21: 13.)

O Lord God of hosts, who is a strong Lord like unto thee? or to thy faithfulness round about thee.... Thou hast a mighty arm: strong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand. Justice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne: mercy and truth shall go before thy face.

Blessed is the people that know the joyful sound: they shall walk, O Lord, in the light of thy countenance. (Ps. 89: 8, 13-15.)

For Tuesday, July 27

WHILE THERE is definite promise of progress and expansion, it is advisable to move quickly and decisively if real constructive work is to be accomplished. Also there may be certain dangers from false steps or mismanagement as well as due to acting with ir. etuosity. It may be wise to rearrange plans or schedules in order to side step certain dangers. It should be a good time for writing and business or professional pursuits, but refrain from social and domestic bickerings.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of progress and advancement, with affairs moving at high tempo. The way may be beset with dangers, which may be averted by well planned moves, but moves in the right direction and not on erratic impulse. Change, travel contacts, deals with agencies or those in high place should find favor. But keep the social and domestic scene clear, and harmonious and business as well as professional association should prove lucrative and pleasant.

A child born on this day may be blessed with much creative ability and versatility. With precaution, and restraints of personality it should enjoy a successful and happy life.

For Wednesday, July 28

A rather difficult state of affairs is indicated by cetrain adverse aspects among important planets. There may be menace of fraud or imposition, with an undercurrent of treachery and intrigue. These may be overcome by shrewd attention to the logic and reasonableness of problematical situations. A danger may arise from too expansive and ambitious a view, as well as by looking at things from a morose, sullen and perhaps vindictive attitude. Rationalize any threatening circumstances, safeguard the position, property and other real possessions. Support from influential persons may change the complexion of difficulties.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may turn a difficult and perplexing state of affairs from an adverse and menacing one into something gratifying and productive. An obstinate and morbid mental attitude may prove baneful. But in all efforts at stabilizing the position and property, be alert to snares, schemes and other intriguing predicaments. Keep eyes and ears open and work intelligently for cherished goals.

A child born on this day although inclined to be pensive and possessive, yet may have sturdy qualities to win support from those in power.

10,000 Brides Train to Be Canadian Wives

LONDON, July 27.—(CP Cable).—A bevy of British brides returned to school to-day, but not to learn such dead things as Latin. Two score of the estimated 10,000 wives of Canadian servicemen overseas started a four-day course relating to life in the Dominion and entitled "how to make a Canadian husband happy."

The plan is sponsored by the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire with Lady Tweedsmuir as the chief lecturer. If the course is a success, others will be organized so that hundreds of wives of Canadian soldiers will learn the way of life, manners and the country that will be their home after the war.

A practical demonstration of Canadian cooking will be one of the features as well as films dealing with the country. Discussions will follow each lesson.

From many parts of Britain wife-students arrived in London yesterday and were billeted at a Canadian Legion Club as guests of the Dominion government.

Omemee Girl Weds Westerner

OMEMEE, July 27—(ENS)—The marriage took place in the Reaboro Baptist Church on Saturday, July 24 at 2 p.m. of Olive Frances, daughter of Mrs. W. A. Windrim and the late W. A. Windrim of Omemee to Thomas John, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Smoothy of Wauchope, Saskatchewan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. C. Reed assisted by Rev. F. C. Stevens.

The church was prettily decorated wtih standards of phlox, delphinum, hydrangea and baby's breath. The wedding music was played by Miss Ruby Windrim, sister of the bride. During the signing of the register, Mrs. William Weir of Omemee sang "O Promise Me."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Percy D. Windrim of Peterborough and she wore a gown of white sheer over satin with a lace yoke, long sleeves and rows of covered buttons, and wore a sunburnt brooch, an heirloom of her mother. Her veil was of silk embroidered net and was in the cap shape, caught with a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Mrs. G. A. Morden, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. She wore a gown of pink sheer over satin with insets of lace with a matching halo hat with shoulder veil. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. The best man was Mr. G. A. Morden and the ushers were Mr. Grant Patillo, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Gordon Minty of Peterborough.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, when the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of navy sheer with hat to match, and wearing a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother was unable to attend owing to illness.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Wauchope, Saskatchewan. For travelling the bride wore a two-piece dress of navy taffeta with hat, purse, gloves and shoes to match.

On their return they will live in Peterborough.

Guests were present from Windsor, Toronto, Peterborough, Kingson, Kirkfield, Sunderland and Lindsay.

Prior to her marriage, which took place on Saturday, Miss Olive Windrim was honored by her many Peterborough friends.

On Tuesday evening, July 13, Mrs. P. D. Windrim of 315 Maitland avenue, Peterborough, was hostess at a kitchen shower. On the following Friday Mrs. N. Dunbar of 100 Aylmer street entertained at a dinner and the bride-to-be was presented with a china shower. Also a cup and saucer shower was held on Monday evening, July 19, at the home of Mrs. Roland Colmer.

Tollington—Brown

In a quiet ceremony performed on Monday at the home of the bride's parents in Arkona, Ontario, Mildred Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Brown, was united in marriage to Gordon Charles Tollington, B.Sc., son of Mr. and Mhs. George Tollington, of Calgary, Alberta. Rev. Anson C. Moorhouse performed the service and the wedding music was played by Mr. Howard F. Brown, brother of the bride.

The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her father, Mr. John L. Brown, and looked lovely in a street-length frock of powder blue crepe, and carried a bouquet of Killarney rosebuds and bouvardia. She wore an attractive floral head-dress matching her bouquet which was draped with a powder blue veil.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate relatives and friends, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of Navy-blue triple sheer, with which she wore white accessories and a hat maching her dress. She wore a corsage of summer roses.

After an extended cruise by boat of the Manitoulin Island district, the bride and groom will reside in the Coronation Apartments, Water Street, Peterborough, Ontario.

Pretty Wedding Solemnized At St. Peter's

Before an altar banked with pink spirea and mauve delphinium, Mary Eileen Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William George Hunt, became the bride of James Joseph Burton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Burton, of Weston, Ontario, in St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, this morning. Rev. Father K. Malane officiated. Mrs. Cyril O'Donnell played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register Mrs. D. Campanaro sang "Ave Maria."

White faille taffeta with a sweetheart neckline, and full bouffant skirt formed the bride's costume, and from a halo of white flowers fitted to her head fell a fingertip length veil. She carried a cascade of Bettertime roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Thomas O'Brien attended her sister as matron-of-honor, and wore rose chenille taffeta with a matching calot delicately trimmed with roses. She carried a cascade of mauve delphiniums and Joannah Hill roses.

Mr. Edward Burton was the best man and Mr. Leigh Hunt ushered the guests to their pews.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of orchid flowered crepe and a matching hat. Her corsage was of Sunbeam roses.

For travelling the bride chose a wistaria rose two-piece ensemble with a matching hat and accessories and wore a corsage of Bettertime roses and sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Burton are honeymooning at Niagara Falls, and on their return will reside in Weston, Ontario.

WOMAN WASTES TIME TRYING TO IMITATE HUSBAND'S LOVE LURE

Given Chance, He'll Return to Upright Wife Who Gave Him Children, Good Home.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband decided a year ago that life with the children and myself was not what he wanted, and has left us. He said that he had lived a lie so long that he couldn't go on with it any more, yet up to that time he had been as good and kind a husband and father as anyone could ask for. During the past year many things have made me realize that I must start a new form of education if I am ever going to interest him again.

The current woman in the case is a typical government girl in her late thirties, very sophisticated, loves bowling, races, night clubs, beach parties and cocktail parties in her apartment. She dresses as if she were going to a party all the time. This, in general, seems to be the type that a man of forty desires.

In contrast, I am the natural type. I love to dance, enjoy sports of all kinds, have been a good mother, and used to think I was a good wife, but apparently I have failed. My husband has paid well for his sophisicated education and I also would be willing to pay well for any education that would bring his interest home again.

No College Course In Reviving Love

ANSWER: Alas, there is no school, nor college, nor university that can teach a wife how to light again the fires of love in the heart of a husband who has grown tired of her, yet that is a branch of higher education for woman that many a one needs more than she does a knowledge of all the ologies and isms, and that she would sell her very life blood to get.

Sometimes, of course, a wife drives her husband from her and kills his affection for her by her temper, by her nagging, by her bossing, by her laziness and shiftlessness and bad cooking, but there are not enough shrews and slovens and female Hitlers to account for all of the philandering husbands. Just as often the good wives and mothers are forsaken as the bad ones. And just why so many men get tired of the wives they picked out no one knows. Perhaps they don't know themsel-

EARL McCREADY DEFEATS STRONGMAN DUNLOP IN STRAIGHT FALLS

M. G. Hardill Posts Low Net Of 85

All the crack golfers of the Peterborough Golf and County Club must have journeyed to the Kawartha Club for the Red Cross tournament Saturday last, that is if the scores turned in on Saturday's sweepstakes can be taken as an indication. The best low net turned in was an 85 by M. G. Hardill which does not speak very highly for the rest of the field.

In the net bracket, Stanley McBride, with the assistance of a 28 handicap, managed to score 65 with the low net of the day, but when the match and handicap committee finish with the scissors he will be forced to keep his head down continually before he will tour the course in anything near that figure again.

McBride is a newcomer to the Peterborough Club, and although he hits a ball of prodigious length, his scoring is of the hot and cold variety which only experience can mould into par figures.

The Rev. J. F. Kelly posted the second best net of the day with his 72, and if the energetic padre continues to improve as he has during the past month, his handicap will likewise require some attention.

The following scores are also posted:

	Gross	Handicap	Net
Dr. Weldon	95	22	73
C. Westbrooke	94	21	73
W. M. Lloyd	97	23	74
A. Rutter	89	14	75
J. E. Keyes	96	20	76
F. Jobbitt	95	17	78

The extreme heat turned back many players after the first nine, cancelling what might have been otherwise very fair scores.

Players are requested to note that the Stratton, Westclox and President's tournaments have moved into the second round and a number of scratches were made on these matches because either one or the other of the players had failed to arrange a playing date.

The draw for the first round of the club championship will be made this week and all players with a handicap of sixteen or under who desire to compete in this competition and who have not posted their names should contact the match and handicap committee at once.

OBA Committee OK's Transfers

HAMILTON, Ont, July 27 —(CP) —The sub-committee of the Ontario Baseball Association, at a meeting here decided that round-robin playoffs would be eliminated for the duration of the war.

Instead all series will be decided on a home and home basis with the teams tossing for the choice of home games. Deciding games will be played on the field of one of the contesting clubs.

Sub-committee members were given authority to deal with matters in their own territory and report to secretary W. J. Synder in Hamilton. Matters that take in other territories and general O. B. A. business will be handled in the usual way.

A vote of thanks was tendered H. H. Berscht of Hamilton and Ralph Hall of Port Colborne, both sub-committee members, for their efforts to organize baseball clubs in their respective territories.

Two players were granted reinstatements from professional ranks.

They included Jack Davis of Buffalo, former pony league player, who has been granted permission to play or Port Colborne.

Transfers passed included: S. A. Magile from Buffalo to Welland; Joe Krol from Windsor to Hamilton and Bob Reily, a student, from Lewiston to Port Colborne.

The sub-committee decided that no military club playing in the O. B. A. would be allowed to sign new players or transfer players after July 15 unless on authority of the military in the course of training. Such cases have to be presented to the O. B. A. for approval.

Player Yorkton was granted permission to play junior ball in Galt providing the Hamilton juvenile clubs waive on his services.

New clubs accepted were: Windsor Local 195, Senior "A" or "B", Maidstone and Tecumseh, intermediate "A" and "B", Windsor Ottawa Cartage, Junior "A" and Oshawa Juveniles.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

All-Stars To Meet Toronto Team

Everything is set for the big exhibition game between Toronto Tip Tops and the All-Stars from the local City League at Riverside Park tomorrow night at 6:45 o'clock in aid of the Kinsmen's Milk for Britain Fund. Manager Sam Shefsky of the crack Toronto club is bringing his entire string of stars to Peterborough for the engagement.

The team will consist of the following: Don MacKinnon, Harry Turner, Harry Eckler, Ab Box, Sam Spero, Earl Surphlis, Budd Harrison, Pete Glen, Leo Deadey, Kitch Jeffers, Bill Summerhill and Andy Kowalik.

The Peterborough team will have the services as pitcher of Tommy Stewart, the crack twirler of the Dominion Bridge team and one of the best hurlers in Toronto. Otherwise it will an all Peterborough affair with the following players from the City League: Eddie Starr, Holly Mowry, Jim Ellis, Sandy Sandulak, Howie Dalton, George Hawks, Jack Tucker, Joe Stewart, Les Burton, Frank McCormick, Tommy Parsons and Tony McIlveen. Harry Morgan will manage the squad.

Ten gate prizes will be drawn for including two $10 War Savings Certificates and the game looms up as the sporting event of the summer season and the crowd should be large enough to provide the Milk for Britain fund with a real boost.

Should Be A Thriller

The re-play of the tie game between Switchgear and Combines billed for tonight should be a thriller because the winner goes on into the playoffs and the loser drops out for the season. The two teams finished in a tie with four wins and five losses.

Both teams will be battling the whole route because a loss means the end of the trail. The Switch Gear have Bert Harrison and Gene Reynolds ready for mound duty while the Combines will call on Sid Craig or Freddy Elliott.

Both outfits have put up a good fight all season. Combines started off with htree straight wins but have since fallen upon evil days while Switchgear who came into the league late after being dropped out of the Industrial loop because they were considered too strong for that organization have an up and down career in the City League. The game is billed for 7:00 o'clock at Riverside Park.

The three teams tied for top place in the City League will draw for the bye at Riverside tonight. It has been decided to run sudden-death games. The team drawing the bye will play the winner of the two teams meeting first. First game will be Thursday night, providing Switchgear and Combines get their game played tonight.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

Stewards of the Detroit Fair Grounds Race Track yesterday issued a 22-day suspension to Johnny Adams, leading American jockey for running out of his commitment to ride Earl H. Beazley's Grasshopper II last Saturday. Adams had ridden 139 winners so far this year and led the country with 245 mounts last year.

Two Good Fights.

Promoter Mike Jacobs yesterday announced two major fistic matches to be staged at New Rork Polo Grounds. On August 27 Henry Armstrong will trade punches with Cpl. Ray Robinson in a scheduled ten-round bout and on September 14 Beau Jack will again meet Philadelphia Bob Montgomery, lightweight titleholder, at 15 rounds.

Albert (Chalky) Wright, one-time holder of the featherweight crown, yesterday enlisted in the U. S. Martime Service. Before he reports for duty at mid-August, however, he will have one more civilian fling on August 9 at Washington, D.C., when he takes on Angel Avilas for a 10-rounder.

Big Mutuel Take.

The Louisiana State Racing Commission reported a $10,104,476 mutuel total for the 74-day regular season at New Orleans Fair Grounds, the alltime high in wagering being partly due to the closing down of tracks in Florida and California last winter.

The 30 day Fall meeting at Pimlico, October 9 to November 13, will be managed jointly fy four clubs, Maryland Jockey Club, Laurel, Harve De Grace and Bowie, it was decided yesterday by the Maryland Racing Commission. Under a previous plan, the jockey club was to run the meet and share profits with the three other tracks.

Heading For Record

The only Ace in the major leagues not in the Card deck, Ace Townsend Adams, the New York Giants' bull-pen pitcher who hurled his way to relief pitching fame last year, is on his way to a new mark this season. In the Giants' first 79 games this season, the relief ace has gone to the mound 39 times, 27 of them finishing jobs. At this rate, Ace should be able to surpass his own mark and perhaps hit the all-time mark of 75.

Baseball Tourney

TORONTO—(CP)—Name players of Canadian baseball will participate in the three-day tournament at Maple Leaf Stadium, July 29-30-31, under the auspices of the Congress Service League. Trenton R.C.A.F. will have Art Upper and Eddie Geraldie; Brantford Army has Dick Fowler and Len Gaull as a battery, while two former Leafs, Art Calhoun and Al Yernell, will pitch for Earlscourt entries.

Morgan-Katan Tussle Delights Crowd

Almost a quarter of a ton of human flesh went hurtling through the ropes of the wrestling ring at the Brock Street Summer Gardens on Monday evening, when Earl McCready, prospective world champion and Bunny Dunlop, locked in each other's arms fell out of the square arena and continued their bruising battle in the aisle.

Women screamed and men hustled to places of safety as the two human mastodons flailed each other and crashed into the first row of ringside seats. It was a crowd-pleasing rip-snorting battle of brawn, but Dunlop noted as one of the world's strong men bowed in defeat to the great McCready, losing in two straight falls.

Dunlop weighed 242 pounds and McCready who towered over him was four pounds lighter. The first fall came after 13 minutes of furious wrestling during which the spectators, cheering for McCready, yanked Dunlop's feet off the ropes each time he tried to use them for a brace. Dunlop earned the displeasure of the cheering mob early in the match when he attempted to bite his opponent. He gave up the ghost after a series of speedy pinwheels on the mat, being pinned down by a body scissors.

Zoomed Through Ropes

In the second fall, the fireworks started when the athletes plummeted through the ropes, and instead of climbing back in, continued the battle in the aisle drawing a mob of youngsters from the bleachers, which police had to hold back. At the count of seven both were back inside the ropes, and a few minutes later, the same thing happened, and they were squirming on the floor again. Dunlop tried to climb back into the ring, but McCready pulled him out, only to have his opponent return the favor seconds later. After a brisk tussle, Dunlop was so weak he could not get back into the ring behind McCready and the latter was declared a winner in 14 minutes.

McCready is slated to meet Whipper Watson for the British Empire championship next Thursday at Toronto, is a beautiful specimen of a man, and the father of a two weeks old boy, for whom he says he will bring home the world title as a gift.

Hogan, 218 pounds of vicious energy tangled with Joe Maitch in the curtain raiser, and it was a lovely setto. Hogan, a villain, built along the lines of a grizzy bear, and not unlike one in appearance had a host of dirty tricks in his wrestling repertoire and he used them all, much to the disgust of the fans who called the referee, Bert Maxwell, a blindman, and many other things. He was reprimanded time and again, while spectators walked over to the ring to point out the dirty tactics to the referee. At one time he was kneeling with his knee on Maitch's throat, while he argued loudly with the referee, protesting his innocence of any shady work.

A pair of adult eels locked in a death embrace would seem muscle bound when compared to this pair of mayhem artists, who trotted out the entire catalogue of holds, locks and punches in a dazzling exhibition. Maitch bounced Hogan's head off the canvas several times while the fans, and especially the women screamed approval, but he wasn't good enough to gain the verdict and the match ended in a draw.

Maitch is an undersized edition of the late Frank Gotch, renowned world champion, having broad shoulders which taper down to lean hips and sturdy legs. He has a lovely tan, and his neat body glistened with perspiration as he squirmed around the ring.

Katan Villain

The second bout, between John Katan, 236 and Thor Morgan, 220, the U.S. marine who was invalided home from Guadalcanal after suffering from shell-shock was the tidbit of the 3-match program, and Morgan was the victor.

For the greater part of the time, they were interlocked like a pair of battling octopuses, and in this tussle, Katan was the badman. He stood Morgan practically on his head twice and baled at the referee "Whas da matter with it, he's down," but the crowd yelled "no" and the arbiter shook his finger under the giant's nose and ordered him to break it up. He dragged Morgan around the ring wih a punishing half chancery and it looked one time as if he tried to impale the marine on one of the corner posts. The end came when Katan threw Morgan out of the ring, jumped out on top of him, then climbed back in and refused to allow his opponent to return. Morgan finally managed to return, and when the referee went to hold his arm up, giving him the match and disqualifying Katan, Morgan flipped the referee over his head, and tore against his heavier opponent for sveral seconds of terrific action, which had the crowd standing. The luckless referee tried to separate them, but was caught in a bear hug and sank limply to the floor while the two behemoths struggled on with renewed viciousness, finally the referee manager to grab Morgan and raised him arm, and the latter left the ring, but Katan remained to argue with the crowd, growling and grimacing in a frightful manner and inviting any member of the audience who agreed with the verdict to step up and fight. Nobody accepted, and he finally grew tired and strutted down the aisle, followed by a wave of boos and catcalls.

Altogether it was an eventful and interesting program and the women in particular, many of them in ringside seats got a great kick out of it.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—That 4:05.3 mile of Gunder Haegg's has revived interest in the Gaevle Galloper's American tour .... Chalky Wright's enlistment in the maritime service finally revealed his real age. It's 31....It also revealed that Chalky used to work on ships out of west coast ports so he won't be exactly a green hand when he sails on a Victory fleet ship.

One-minute sports page:

First holdout of the pro football season is Andy Karkas, who played in a war plant softball game the night the Redskins left for San Diego to begin training....Harry Lowrey, the Cub's outfielder, says he got the nickname of "Peanuts" when he was a few days old and an uncle remarked "He looks just like a peanut."....And Harry hasn't eaten a goober since the Los Angeles fans gave him a couple of bushels in 1941.

Shear nonsense:

W. N. Cox of the Norfolk Virginian-pilot, bemoaning the fact that Norfolk's new sports arena won't have air conditioning, consoles fans with the thought that the change from the old auditorium air won't be so abrupt...."The air up at the old place is air worth speaking of," says Cox...."It has been in the process of being made for 50 years or more....It is probably the most refined lot of air this side of the hotel room where once while passing I heard Larry MacPhail fumigating a National League magnate."

WHY IS THE C.C.F. WRONG?

C.C.F. Against Workers' Interests

Sound Reasoning Condemns Whole Idea

The coming Ontario Provincial election on August 4th is of interest to everyone because it offers the promoters of the C.C.F. a chance of establishing a dangerous foothold in the provincial parliament and thus the unsound doctrines, given a chance to thrive, could easily spread to other provinces and even our Federal Government could be affected.

We are appealing particularly now to Ontario workers and farmers, but Canadian workers and farmers everywhere need to be on the alert to this growing menace. The C.C.F. can only succeed by class prejudices, arousing animosities between individuals and classes, taking advantage of special conditions such as the war or difficult times and by promising a care and trouble-free existence to all and sundry except of course the present leaders of our country, whom, we are taught, are our selfish enemies, to be eradicated and replaced by C.C.F. Supermen.

That many of the large numbers of young, inexperienced workers drawn into our industrial plants by the war, should lend an ear to the C.C.F. bunkum, is perhaps understandable because they fail to devote sufficient time to fully comprehending the fallacies of C.C.F. doctrines but we feel sure that more mature minds will not be deluded by absurd C.C.F. claims and will have nothing to do with it. We believe too, that a little meditation will help our young workers to avoid C.C.F. pitfalls.

C.C.F. IDEAS ARE NOT NEW

There is nothing new about the ideas advanced by the C.C.F. From time to time other groups under different names, have grasped the opportunity to organize and promise Utopia to the people, most everyone is familiar with their song and dance—take away from those that have and give it to those that have not—a perfect social and political life—everything free, practically no work and mostly all pleasure—complete freedom for all except those who are now leaders or those who now possess property of any kind—bigger and better pensions for everybody.

To accomplish this purpose, a good healthy hatred must be worked up between classes. We are taught that those who worked their way to the top and who serve Canada in a most magnificent manner, should be replaced by others, whether capable or not and we are taught that only C.C.F. leaders are able to conduct our affairs in a satisfactory manner.

WHAT THE C.C.F. FORGETS TO TELL US

The C.C.F. opportunists forget to tell us that all such movements have failed in the past because they lead to dictatorship, because it is impossible to fulfill all the silly promises and because the co-operation of all classes is essential to our success and security.

The C.C.F. in collusion with the C.I.O., is pretending to be the only friend and protector of Canadian workers and farmers and is relying upon its belief that the majority of Canadian workers and farmers will prove susceptible to promises of 'something for nothing' and thus sweep a C.C.F. government into power.

CANADIAN WORKERS AND FARMERS ARE NOT FOOLISH

We believe that the C.C.F., like all other movements of a like nature, is doomed to disappointment and will not even get the chance of attaining power to destroy our successful democratic, social, industrial and economic achievements. We know that Canadian workers and farmers are not so gullible as the C.C.F. would like to make out and they do not believe in Santa Claus when it comes to our political and social life. Neither do they believe that by electing a C.C.F. government and destroying all classes except one, that we can reach the perfect solution to all our troubles.

The average Canadian worker and farmer knows that Canada has been and is blessed with good sound government as represented by the Progressive Conservative Party and the Liberal Party, beneficial to all classes and representative of all classes. It is well known that taxation has immeasurably equalized all sections of Canadian society and that social legislation in force has reached a high pinnacle, commensurate with our ability to sustain such measures and that such fundamental social legislation as is needed from time to time for the benefit of our people will be enacted and brought into action by our governments as they are constituted today and without disturbing our economic position as advocated by the C.C.F.

Canadian workers and farmers will not be hoodwinked by C.C.F. claims. We have a social system equalled by none. Why destroy it?

AIRCRAFT GIRLS DEFEAT WESTCLOX 10 TO 6 IN CITY LEAGUE GAME

Arky Vaughan's Home Run Saves Dodgers

By ED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A last second reprieve, in the form of Augie Galan's ninth inning single that tied the score followed by Arky Vaughan's grand slam homer with the bases full in the 10th, kept Brooklyn Dodgers from tumbling into third place in the National League yesterday.

After walloping the Dodgers three in a row at Forbes Field, Pittsburg Pirates, thanks to Vince DiMaggio's two homers, led, 6-5, going into the ninth. With two on and two out all that separated the Pirates from moving into second place was one strike. But with the count on him two and two Galan belted Max Butcher's next pitch for a single to score Dixie Walker from second base with the tying run.

Brooklyn remained 8½ games out of first place, however, as the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals made it nine in a row by beating Boston Braves, 6-3. Big Mort Cooper got off to a shaky start, but hurled hitless ball after the second inning to record his 14th victory of the season against five defeats.

Yanks Win Again

In the American League the first place New York Yankees made only three hits off Jake Wade, but beat Chicago White Sox anyway, 5-2. The victory stretched the Yanks' lead to eight games as the second place Detroit Tigers lost to Philadelphia Athletics, 2-1. Wade lost because of four White Sox errors and because the Yanks capitalized on eight bases on balls.

Jesse Flores, early season pitching sensation, won his first game since June 15, in beating Detroit for the A's. Stubby Overmire held the Mackmen to five hits but three of them went for extra bases. Catcher Ray Mueller walloped two homers, good for six runs, as Cincinnati Reds thumped the Phillies 8-2, while New York Giants ended a seven-game losing streak by beating Chicago Cubs, 4-3.

St. Louis Browns snapped their five-game losing streak by defeating Boston Red Sox 7-1, behind Bob Muncrief's three-hit pitching.

Cleveland started a new winning streak by walloping Washington 7-3, as Jim Bagby chalked up his 10th win of the campaign.

Black Badge, shown at Washington Park, Chicago, ran fifth behind Jezrahel in the Arlington Futurity after going to the post as second choice. Black Badge won four straight races at Detroit before going to Chicago for the big two-year-old event which was over six furlongs.

Cleveland Team Stays In Hockey

CLEVELAND, July 27.—The uncertainty concerning Clevelands hockey future has ended.

The Barons definitely will remain in the American League in the 1943-44 season, it was learned from an official but confidential source yesterday.

Al Suthpin, owner of the Barons, has not yet returned from a meeting of the American League Board of Governors held in Longport, N.J., Friday and Saturday and could not be reached for information as to the clubs which, in addition to Cleveland, Buffalo, Indianapolis and Pittsburg, will make up the league. League officials plan to release this information to-morrow.

For many weeks it was thought the Barons and Buffalo would shift to the National League and Suthpin met with National League representatives in Toronto last Tuesday to discuss this possibility.

Plans for this shift fell through and it will be in the American League that the Barons will carry on in 1943-44.

Williams Back

HAMILTON (CP)—Johnny Williams, former Canadian jockey who retired in 1926 because of injuries from a spill at Thorncliffe, has returned to racing as a trainer of horses for a Hamilton owner. Williams' regular mount in the old days was Joy Smoke which earned $100,045 in the winning of 26 races.

Winners Score Eight Runs In 2nd Inning

An eight-run splurge for Aircrafts Monday night in the second innings of a hard-fought struggle gave them sufficient lead to take the game from Westclox girls by the score of 10 to 6. Westclox put in a strong bid in the seventh and eighth frames when they collected five runs on two hits, three infield errors and a walk.

Norma Strickland, hurling for Aircrafts, was pitching excellent ball with fourteen srikeouts to her credit against one for Marg Watson, who was replaced by I. Bullock in the closing moments of the ninth and struck out the last two batters.

Homers by McLean of Westclox and Selkirk of Aircrafts were features of the game. Both teams were hitting on an even keel with twelve for Westclox and thirteen for the winners.

Bigelow was first to cross home plate for Aircrafts when she walked and scored when Hewett singled out. Anderson scored for Westclox in the second half on a single by Armsrong.

J. Moore walked to open the second inning for Aircraft. McCarthy, Strickland and Bigelow each singled in succession and Perdue flied out. DeCarlo and Craig each reached first on errors and when Hewett doubled they came in. M. Selkirk's homer sent Hewett in ahead of her to sew up the game. Moore walked and McCarthy and Strickland each flied out to short to close the first half. Aircrafts gained their final run in the fourth when Selkirk scored for the second time of the game.

V. McLean's homer in the seventh was the lead for two more runs for Westclox when Bullock also scored. The losers closed their scoring in the eighth when McLean, Bullock and Hawthorne each crossed. Watson singled, Dobbin also singled but was caught out at second, Castle struck out and Anderson's fly was caught by the catcher. Neither side got a hit in the ninth.

A reurn game will be held on Friday night by these two teams at the East City Bowl.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 27—(CP)—Horse players with heart ailments and no money saved up to buy insurance spend anguished moments when the "photo" sign flashes on the tote board. Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson, intrigued by this photo finish business, tried a more scientific approach. He found:

Forty-two Canadian and United States tracks (thoroughbred, harness and dog-race) used 450,000 feet of film last year... This year not an inch of film can be bought in Canada because of the war... The supply comes from the United States, now rationed to 200,000... Chicago tracks use 320 feet every day. Dog tracks use 15 to a race.

Wonderland, the Boston dog-racing establishment, refused to pay $100 or $150 daily to rent the eye-in-the-sky. Foxily, Wonderland offered to pay 1/10th of one per cent of the daily mutuel handle—and snarled bitterly when the "take" soared unexpectedly to an average $240,000, forcing the limit $200 rental the owners set, but never expected to pay.

The Camera Doesn't Lie

Elmer deflates the theory that the camera favors the outside horse. And if you think the picture can be "doctored," you're wrong too. The Eye-in-the-Sky Company offers $5,000 to anyone who can touch up any picture in 30 minutes to make it appear that the second horse actually won the race.

The Sock Exchange

Flt. Lt. Bert Light at R.C.A.F. headquarters in Montreal reports plans are under way to match LAC. Dave Castilloux with an "outstanding boxer from across the line" prior to meeting Pte. Johnny Greco in a Canadian championship affair. We could stand more detail on that Castilloux-Greco meeting, Bert... Al Lust, who knocked out Maxie Berger in 12 rounds before bowing twice to Castilloux, arrived safely "somewhere in England" recently after a 33-day odyssey from Calgary. The former Western Canada welterweight champion is undecided whether to continue without manager-brother Eppie Lust, whom Al says "was mainly responsible for my success in the ring."

Around the Circuit

Howard Awrey, with Hamilton Wildcats last fall, has reported for duty with the R.C.A.F... Brother Hardy remains with the Ontario Rugby Football Union entry... Eddie Shore of Buffalo Bisons is due in Saskatoon shortly to make arrangements for his fall hockey school.

Montreal Beats Baltimore Orioles Twice

By The Associated Press

Baltimore Orioles yesterday suffered their second double header defeat in as many days, and in each of the four games the opponents collected just four runs. Sunday Newark Bears defeated the Baltimore club by identical scores, 4-3. Last night Montreal did the trick, 4-1 and 4-3.

The Royals just home-runned the Orioles to death last night. In the first game Dixie Howell connected for a three-run circuit drive, and K. Ball accounted for the other run with another four-base poke. In the nightcap Barnhart's home run in the 10th inning brought Montreal the victory. He had been removed for a pinch hitter in the first game, and had three hits mor seven bases in the second.

The epidemic of fours seemed to be spreading through the League as Syracuse Chiefs defeated Rochester in the only other game scheduled last night, 4-2, behind some neat five-hit pitching by Millard Howell.

West and Desalvio led the Syracuse attack against Bill Trotter with two hits each.

Drew Labelled Canada's Foremost Critic

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP)—Arthur Slaght, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Parry Sound, said last night in a radio address that George Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader, was a political leader who had changed his "party coat" six times in seven years and "who has never beaten anybody in a contest."

Speaking from Ottawa over an Ontario network of the CBC, Mr. Slaght said Mr. Drew had never won an election and that he had been "wished" on the people of Simcoe East, who, in the present campaign, had "ditched" him.

Almost all of Mr. Slaght's half-hour on the air was devoted to comments on the political career and public acts of Mr. Drew, coupled with an appeal for confidence and trust in the present Premier and Liberal Leader, Harry Nixon.

He said Mr. Drew had posed as an expert on military matters, but in 1939 had described the armed power of Russia as a "myth." He said Mr. Drew had declared in 1938, after a trip to Germany, that the British should seek the friendship of the Germans.

Reference was made by Mr. Slaght to Mr. Drew's attack upon the Bren gun contract and his criticism of the despatch of Canadians to Hong Kong.

Called "No. 1 Nagger"

"He has sniped at, quarrelled with nearly every constructive effort the Government has adopted . . . This party leader—I suggest to you—has undoubtedly established himself as Canada's number one nagger."

Mr. Slaght said the farmers of Ontario would find in Mr. Nixon "one of your own calling who knows your difficulties and your needs; the two other choices you have are two Toronto lawyers."

He spoke of Mr. Nixon's contribution to the war. Five went to the services from his farm. Two had given their lives—his own son and his farm foreman. Two more were prisoners in Germany. The fifth, his daughter, was serving in England.

Mr. Slaght said he would speak about the C.C.F. in a later broadcast.

He said Mr. Drew had made an "attempt to destroy Canada's Ministers of War, one after another."

Mr. Slaght said Mr. Drew had found it difficult or impossible to get election from his own people through his public life, and that he finally got his Bruce East seat in the Legislature as leader of his party through "courtesy" and without a contest.

"The Tories of Simcoe East had him wished on them . . They want no part of him, because they have nominated some one else in this election — in other words, they ditched him."

British Customs Vital Issue Drew Declares

LEAMINGTON, July 27 (CP).—Lt. Col. George Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader, said Saturday "the British connection and the maintenance of British traditions have become a vital issue" in the Ontario election Aug. 4.

He criticized remarks he said had been made on Canadian-United Sates relations by Maj. James Clark, speaker of the last Lesgislature.

(Maj. Clark in a radio forum address in Detroit June 13 said he believed 40 to 45 per cent of Canadians favored political union with the United States.)

"Men have been held in custody by Mr. St. Laurent (Federal Justice Minister St. Laurent) without trials for acts which it was claimed should give comfort to our enemies," Col. Drew said.

"Mr. St. Laurent knows that no single statement by a Canadian since the beginning of the war has given such comfort to the enemy as Mr. Clark's statement made over the radio outside Canada."

Axis Delighted

Col. Drew said Mr. St. Laurent's department had reports of Italian and German broadcasts "telling their people and telling the world in exact detail what Mr. Clark said in Detroit."

"Could anything comfort the enemy more at a time when they are feeling the full strength of that great world partnership of free people?"

The stand of the Progressive Conservative Party on this issue, he said, is clear. By education, by legislation and "by every other practical measure, we intend to make Ontario the strong sheet-chor of the British connection in Canada."

In another address at Wheatley, Col. Drew dealt with proxy vote. He challenged anyone in the audience to rise and state that they had received proxies from overseas. There was no response.

Services Need 65,000 Women For Active Duty

OTTAWA, July 27—(CP).—Canada's armed forces require the services of an additional 65,000 women, Wing Officer Willa Walker, R.C.A.F., Women's Division staff officer, said Monday.

In an address prepared for delivery to an Ottawa service club (Rotary), she placed the recruiting quota for the services at: Army, 35,000; R.C.A.F., 25,000; Navy, 5,000.

She said these women were needed "as quickly as they can be trained and enlisted."

The 27,000 women now in uniform are "a component and integral part of the navy, army and air force" rather than auxiliary service, Wing Officer Walker said. At present there were some 12,000 women in the army, a similar number in the R.C.A.F. and 3,000 in the navy.

"In Canada there are approximately 700,000 women, exclusive of women on the farms and in war industries, between the ages of 18 and 45, single or married without dependent children, who could be enlisted."

There were 500 C.W.A.C.'s and 400 airwomen serving overseas and they would soon be joined by Wrens in the naval service. In Canada women were playing a vital part in the defence of the country.

Wing Officer Walker urged those with eligible daughters, sisters or friends to encourage them to enlist.

papers for 20 years under Fascist rule have been lifted, at least temporarily.

One of Badoglio's greatest worries, apparently, is the presence of German troops in Italy. Reports perists Hitler still hopes to establish a defence line in Northern Italy should Italy collapse or go over to the Allies under terms of "unconditional surrender."

(The Algiers radio reportd that Badoglio had called home all the Italian divisions in Yugoslavia and other Balkan States, possibly to offset this menace. However, it was recalled in this connection that Badoglio had stated, although somewhat vaguely, that the war would continue.)

That the German press and people were surprised and stunned by the swiftness of the fall of Fascism was confirmed to-day by a dispatch from the Berlin correspondent of the Tribune De Geneve which said that the people of the capital were "shocked." It was difficult for them to comprehend the possible consequences other dispatches said, and until the news was announced by the official German news agency, newspapermen, diplomats and the public believed themselves victims of the "black radio."

and the Allied communique said the American advance, too, was proceeding "according to plan." However, the Germans were managing to stiffen their resistance as the Americans drove into the harder core of the enemy's defence positions.

Medium bombers attacked railway communications at Marina di Paolo in Southern Italy while light bombers and fighter-bombers continued the assault upon shipping in Sicily harbors and on road communications on the island the Allied communique said.

On the night of July 25-26 the port of Milazzo, Sicily, was attacked by medium bombers and torpedo-carrying aircraft sank an enemy merchant vessel in the Tyrrhenian Sea.

In addition to the 21 JU-52's shot down in offensive sweeps over the Messina area on July 25, Allied fighters shot down eight of the enemy escort planes.

There was little of the heavy fighting yesterday such as that which marked the early days of the campaign and it was apparent that the Axis forces under Nazi Field Marshal General Albert Kesselring were making frantic preparations for the general Allied assault which appears imminent.

Kesselring, it was believed, had 3½ German divisions available for the defence of the Messina triangle. These included the Hermann Goering Division, the 29th Motorized Division, and the 15th Armored Division pledged to fight "to the last cartridge" on Sicily while the Nazi High Command reshaped its plans in the light of the collapse of the Mussolini government in Italy.

Whether these German troops could expect any assistance from the Italians remaining in Sicily was problematical. There were believed to be Italians to the numerical strength of three divisions remaining on the island, but in the most recent phases of the struggle they have shown little disposition to fight.

British troops were still finding the Nazi lines at Catania a tough nut to crack. The Canadians likewise were meeting with stiff resistance but were making headway.

"the biggest I've ever seen" — in the middle of the concentrated fires there. Sgt. R. R. Urquhart of Spanish River, Ont., said he saw smoke billowing 20,000 feet and fires visible 100 miles away.

Sharing the weight of the American assault with Hamburg in daylight yesterday were three other Northwest German cities — Hannover, Wilhelmshaven and Wesermunde.

Bomb St. Omer

American medium bombers dumped their cargoes on the German airfield at St. Omer, France, while R.A.F. medium, light and fighter bombers attacked Courtrai, Abbeville, and Merville.

Returning raiders said German fighter opposition was spotty but the Allies had the better of the situation for a final check showed 54 Axis planes shot down against 26 for the Allies. Of the latter, 23 were bombers.

Heaviest opposition was reported at Hanover, where the bombers struck at two synthetic rubber plants employing 50,000 workers. The pilots said the flak was heavy and that they were opposed by a force of from 75 to 100 fighter planes, of which they destroyed 33.

Naval installations were the targets at Wilhelmshaven and Wesermunde and submarine works and an airplane engine plant were the Hamburg objectives.

An Allied communique said good results were observed on all of the targets.

The city of London had an alert lasting about an hour last night when a small number of planes approached the Thames Estuary and one or two headed toward London. The alarm was the first since July 15. Gunfire was heard and night workers went to shelters.

Minor enemy activity also was reported over Southeastern England. One enemy raider was downed.

avenue of escape for the Germans. One Soviet column of the northern spearhead has reached Berestna, 45 miles to the northwest, the Russians said.

The southern flank of the Russian army is following the line of the Kursk railway and has taken several towns in an advance reaching to Yeropkina, only 17 miles from Orel, the bulletin added.

The communique told of furious fighting, especially in the Glazunovskaya area where the Nazis were said to have counter - attacked five times before they yielded, leaving 600 dead on the field. In another sector Russian armored units were forced to come to the aid of infantrymen who were attempting to capture a German-held village, the communique said.

South of Izyum four Russian planes were reported to have broken up a fighter formation of 25 German bombers, knocking down four of the raiders and causing the rest to jettison their bombs and flee.

Other Russian aircraft operating over the Barents Sea above the Arctic circle attacked a German convoy consisting of five transports and several trawlers and patrol ships. A direct hit was reported scored on a 12,000 ton ship.

Allied Commander

At this point he said that orders have already been given to this effect.

No Overtures.

Since no "approaches" have been received from the Italians he said, "no new decision is called for from us except the decision already taken to pour fire and steel upon every military target of significance throughout Italy."

Uttering a "word of caution," Mr. Churchill said now that Mussolini is gone "we should be foolish to deprive ourselves of any means of coming to a general conclusion with the Italian nation."

It would be a mistake, he added, "to act so as to break down the whole structure and expression of the Italian State."

Apparently implying that the Allies would accept surrender from the Badoglio military government, Mr. Churchill added:

"We certainly do not seek to reduce Italian life to a condition of chaos and anrachy and find ourselves without any authorities with whom to deal."

Emphasizing that an immense task would be involved in occupying Italy, Mr. Churchill said:

"We must be careful not to get into the kind of position in which the Germans have blundered in so many countries—namely to hold down and administer from day to day the entire life of a very large population and thereby become responsible under hard conditions for the whole of their upkeep and well being.

"It is to the interests of Italy and also to the interests of the Allies that the unconditional surrender of Italy should be brought about wholesale and not piecemeal. Whether this can be accomplished or not I cannot tell."

Meanwhile, he said, "we should allow the Italians, to use a homely phrase, 'to stew in their own juice' for a bit and hot up the fire to the utmost in order to accelerate the process until we obtain from their government or whoever possesses the necessary authority all the indispensable requirements we demand for carrying on against our prime and capital enemy which is not Italy but Germany."

He disclosed that Britain is keeping Russia informed of the progress of the campaign against Italy as well as acting in the closest concert with the United States.

Mr. Churchill said that he "corresponded personally almost every day" with President Roosevelt. This was assumed to mean by telephoning and cabling as well as writing.

While Italy has only "about one-tenth of the power of Germany," Mr. Churchill said, "the whole outlook of the Nazi party and regime . . . will be disturbed and broken by events which happened and are going to happen in Italy."

"German hopes of U-boat warfare turning the tide of the war are sinking as fast as the U-boats themselves," he said.

He said that the Russians, in the "mighty battles on the Russian front far exceeding in scale any of the operations in which we and the United States have hitherto been engaged on land, have in the month of July inflicted very deep injuries on the German army."

In the aerial war, "systematic shattering of German cities continues remorselessly and with ever-growing weight."

"The spirit of revolt rises higher in all subjugated lands," he said. "German rule is maintained from the north cape in Norway to the Island of Crete only by hideous and ruthless cruelty, reprisals and massacres."

Germany Strong.

Mr. Churchill emphasized however that "German national strength is still massive."

"The German armies though seriously mauled by the three Russian campaigns are still intact and quite unbroken," he said. "Hitler has under his orders over 300 German divisions excluding satellites."

He concluded:

"Both our strategy and our policy I venture to claim have been vindicated by events and I look forward to offering to parliament as the months unfold further convincing proofs of this assertion.

"But we cannot afford to make any large mistake . . . nor can we afford to prolong by any avoidable mismanagement the sombre journey in which we shall persevere to the end."

Obituaries

MRS. J. D. FOWLIE.

GORE'S LANDING, July 27—(ENS).—The death occurred on Friday evening at her home of Lulu May Neill, wife of J. D. Fowlie, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Fowlie was in her 64th year and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Neill who lived on Glen Lynden Farm for many years after moving from their first home in the Plainville district.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, with service at 3 o'clock and interment in Plainville United Church Cemetery. Surviving are her husband, John D. Fowlie; one daughter, Ruth, Mrs. Ed. MacFarland; two sisters, Mrs. Bert Cheyne, formerly of Peterborough, and Mrs. M. J. MacDonald, and a brother, Tom Neill of Gore's Landing.

JAMES RICHARDSON

James Richardson died Monday night at his home in Keene after a short illness. He was 66 years old, and his sudden passing was a shock to his many friends.

Born in Otonabee the son of the late Robert Richardson and Isabell Hogg, he lived in that township all his life.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife; three sons, L.-Cpl. Ray Richardson of Brockville, and William and Melville at home; and three daughters, Msr. Ian Begg of Campbellford, and Mrs. Albert Stillman and Mrs. Harold Stillman of Otonabee. Also surviving are one brother, George Richardson of Lang, and a sister, Mrs. Ann Wood of Otonabee.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from the late residence in Keene to Keene Cemetery for burial. Rev. F. W. Craik of St. James Church, Peterborough, will conduct the service.

A Good Neighbour Policy FOR PARTY LINE USERS

Even before wartime shortages forced the restriction of telephone installations, thousands of telephone users helped us by accepting party lines instead of the individual line service they asked for.

To all who have thus helped to conserve scarce materials, we say "Thank you."

So that you and your party line "partner" may continue to enjoy the best possible service, try at all times to use your telephone in a neighbourly co-operative spirit . . . follow these simple rules:

Listen . . . and if the line is in use, hang up promptly and gently.

Avoid long talks; clear the line for the next call—yours or that of the other party of the line.

When you finish your talk, hang up promptly. A receiver "off the hook" blocks the line for both parties.

Practice "Wartime Telephone Tactics" on all calls.

WARTIME TELEPHONE TACTICS

- BE SURE you have the right number, consult the directory.
- SPEAK distinctly, directly into the mouthpiece.
- ANSWER promptly when the bell rings.
- BE BRIEF. Clear your line for the next call.
- USE OFF-PEAK hours for Long Distance calls: before 9.30 a.m., 1-2 p.m., 5-7 p.m., after 9 p.m.

These things may look trifling, but on 6,500,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. LXXXVIII, No. 22 PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JULY 27, 1943

MAIN STREET TOPICS

STRANGE PLANT.

Mrs. J. K. Dinesen of 647 Park street, reported to the Examiner that she had tomatoes growing on a potato vine.

JOINS THE NAVY.

Joseph Hooey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hooey, Sr., 48 Lansdowne avenue, Peterborough, left this morning for Kingston to take up his duties with the Royal Canadian Navy.

FIRE REPORT.

A call turned in at 9.45 last night by a woman on Romaine street caused a good deal of excitement and speculation as to whether the city was going to have another bad fire like that at the Peterborough Canoe Co. last week. But the whole thing turned out to be a mistake. Seeing flames leaping into the air this woman came to the conclusion that the Peterborough Lumber Co. was ablaze and acted accordingly. But when the firemen arrived they found nothing wrong. The flames had been real enough, but they came from a large incinerator at the Outboard Marine burning garbage and rubbish.

AT SWIMMING MEET

Gordon Minty of the Y.M.C.A. left last night for Montreal accompanying three boys who are entered in the Quebec swimming championships Wednesday night. They are William Lech, Andy Brown and Gordon Guildner. Mr. Minty said he had hopes of again having Peterborough "Y" represented in the winning column.

ARRIVES OVERSEAS

A news item in the Ottawa Journal reports the arrival in Britain of Lieut. Robert M. Armstrong, officer in the Canadian artillery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Armstrong, and grandson of the late Simon R. Armstrong, former city clerk of Peterborough. His father is Parliamentary correspondent in Ottawa of the Toronto Star.

INFORMATION WANTED

Chief Constable Newhall has been requested to make enquiry in the Peterborough district for information regarding the family named McBride. One brother, James, was killed in the last war, and another brother, William, also served in the war and came back to Canada. The family was originally from Scotland, and lived for a time at Campbellford. Any person knowing this family, especially as to location of its members, is requested to report to Chief Newhall.

SPORTS COLUMN BLANK

Missing from the sports pages of the Examiner for two weeks is the sparkling and informed comment of Fred D. Craig. The departmental editor timed his holidays to coincide with the two weeks' furlough of his son, John E. Craig, who graduated with high marks last week as radio technician and operator at a Canadian Naval training school near St. Hyacinthe, Quebec. He will be assigned for duty after his furlough to a post in the Canadian Navy. In the meanime Mr. and Mrs. Craig and son are spending the family vacation at their cottage on an island in the eastern section of Stoney Lake.

3-Way Fight

LINDSAY, July 27—(CP). — John Richard Hand of Peterborough announced on Monday he will contest the riding of Victoria for the C.C.F. in the August 4 Ontario election.

This will make a three-cornered fight in Victoria with L. M. Frost, the Progressive Conservative candidate and Frank Welch, the Liberal candidate.

Ceiling Placed On Spring Lambs

OTTAWA, July 27—(CP).—Action to place spring lamb under definite ceiling prices during the period July 27 to August 31 was taken in an order issued by the Prices Board's food administration last night.

The immediate effect of the order, board officials said, will be a reduction, in Toronto for instance, in carcass prices at wholesale to 30 cents per pound, bringing considerably lower retail prices.

Spring lamb prices this year have not followed last year's pattern under which the seasonal decline in carcass prices began about the middle of July. It was considered advisable, therefore, to place spring lamb prices under specific ceilings for each of the zones in Canada.

Maid Testifies In Murder Case

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 27. — (AP).—While Nacy Oakes de Marigny listened intently, a negro maid, Mabel Ellis, told to-day how Nancy's father, the multi-millionaiare British Baronet Sir Harry Oakes dined and played cards with friends shortly before he was budgeoned and left to die in a blazing bed the night of July 7.

Nancy flashed smiles at her husband, Alfred de Marigny, who is charged with murdering his father-in-law.

They were sitting near each other in the court room where a twice-postponed preliminary hearing for the 35-year-old de Marigny was being held.

Mabel Ellis, maid at the Oakes estate, Westbourne, said Sir Harry dined at home July 7 with Harold G. Christie, a business associate, and a couple whose names she did not know.

Later, he continued, the four played cards.

Before leaving, she added, she placed before the door to Sir Harry's bedroom a spray gun containing insecticide.

It was this inflammable liquid, the prosecution says, which the slayer used to spray Sir Harry's body, bed and room before setting the fire which he apparently hoped would blot out evidence that the 68-year-old man had been bludgeoned.

BEER IN YOUR HAIR

What won't be thought of next? With beer so scarce women are taking it to use to "set" their hair; a beer wave is just like any other except that the beverage is used instead of lotion or water. The malt in the beer is the miracle-working secret of giving body and softness to thin and dry hair.

Wonder what the reaction would be when the girl-friend rests her "beery" head on the shoulder of the boy-friends? — A.E.H.

Sgt. J.F.K. Crowe Reported Dead

Richard Crowe of McCracken's Landing has been notified that his son, Sergeant James Franklin Carl Crowe is to be considered missing, believed killed, as indicated by Red Cross information that his body was recovered from the sea on July 8.

SGT. J. F. C. CROWE

The text of the official message from Ottawa was as follows: "Regret to advise that International Red Cross quoting German information, states the body of your son, Sergeant James Franklin Carl Crowe was recovered from the sea, but does not give additional particulars. Pending further information, your son is to be considered missing, believed killed.

Sergeant Crowe went overseas with the Royal Canadian Air Force last November.

He had been called up for military service, took thirty days basic training in Peterborough and immediately enlisted in the R.C.A.F.

Lived In Lakefield.

Born at McCracken's Landing, he had grown up through boyhood at Lakefield. His mother died when he was eighteen months old, and his aunt, Mrs. W. Gray of Lakefield, took his as a baby and brought him up in the village. After school days he returned to the home of his father, came to Peterboro eventually and was employed at the service station of Percy Edwards at Burnham and Hunter Streets at the time of his enlistment.

He graduated in the R. C. A. F. as an air gunner. Sergeant Crowe would have been twenty-four on June 25.

He is survived by his father and four brothers:— Glenn of the Peterborough Bus Company, Taylor Crowe with Johnson Motors; Chester of Toronto and Hilliard of Lakefield; and three sisters, Alice of Toronto, Mrs. Amy Harris, Toronto and Mrs. Cora Newell of Hamilton.

Car Knocks Down 4-Year-Old Girl

Rosaline Forbes, four years old, suffered minor injury in a traffic accident at Hunter and George Streets during the noon hour Monday.

According to the police report by Constable McGillen, Mrs. Francis Irwin, Peterborough, R.R. 2, was driving her automobile north of George Street. She stopped for the red light at Hunter Street. When the light changed she proceeded to cross Hunter Street and "felt a bump." She stopped the car, and getting out saw Rosaline Forbes lying on the pavement.

The little girl was carried into the Uptown Silk Shop for first aid and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. She was able to return to her home this morning. Both her knees were bruised and she had suffered a swelling over her left eye.

Examiner Boys Sell Stamps For 22 Charges

Examiner News Carriers have to date sold $1,978.70 in War Savings stamps as their contribution to the current Depth Charge campaaign. This figure is ony $1.30 short of equalling 22 posters completely filled.

The stamp drive, which has been underway all this month, comes to an end on Saturday, the 31st of July. Stanley Pogue of the Examiner circulation staff, wishes to remind the carriers to bring in all their stickers as soon as possible so that the final computation of the results of the campaign can be made and their own individual efforts figured up.

Ten fine wrist watches are awaiting distribution to the carriers of highest standing, and then there are the 30 "keys to the city" which Mayor Hamilton will award on behalf of the citizens of Peterborough.

During the past week total value of stamps sold increased nearly $600, and some remarkable increases were registered by a number of the Commandos. Bill Edgar, a mere Lieut.-Col. last week, jumped two ranks to Brigadier by accounting for $181 of additional stamps sold. Jack Hayes, now senior officer, increased his sales by $120. Gerald Rose, formerly Commando, has become a commissoned officer by selling last week nearly three times the number of stamps he had sold altogether previously.

Officers in the army of Commandos are now: Major General Jack Hayes, $524; Brigadier Bill Edgar, $445.75; Lieut.-Col. Don Pagett, $268; Captain Walter Pridham, $149.50; and Lieut. Gerald Rose, $y10.

Other Commandos: Sgt. Murray Wright, $73.50; Sgt. Nancy Leith, $67.50; Cpl. John Frise, $51.75; Cpl. Ray Harris, $36; Commando Donald Dummitt, $29.25; Commando Miles Brooks, $23.50; and the following Cadet Commandos: George Gimblett, $17.75; Gerald O'Niell, $16; Gerald Hillis, $15; Ronald Doughty, $13; Jack Berwick, $10; Don Fitzsimmons, $9.75; Jim Grant, $8.50; Bill Killenbeck, $8; Gerald Sutherland, $8; Bertha Walling, $7.50; Ross Kidd, $7.

Other stamp salesmen include: Ken Stacey, $5.50; Leo Bourrie, $5.25; Jim Cournyea, $5; Don Searl, $5; Joe McLeague, $5; David Fenns, $5; Bob Orde, $4.50; Don Anderson, $4; Bill Reade, $3.75; Paul Jones, $3.75; Dick Fulford, $3.75; David Lavoie, $3.25; Don Butcher, $3; Ken Wilson, $2.25; Ralph Brown, $2; Walter Jarry, $2; Jack Reynolds, $2; Don Ball, $2; Bob Dummitt, $2; Bill Campbell, $2; Delimer Noble, $2; Edgar Humber, $1.50; Carl Williamson, $1.50; Jim McDonald, $1; Keith Borland, $1; Ken Ferron, 75c; and Jack Kennalley, 75c.

Power Plant Operator Dies

For almost 50 of the sixty years in Peterborough, Gilbert Pakenham, 737 Water street, who died Monday, has been in the service of two power companies, and he worked for 40 of these as power house operator with the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company at the Quaker Oats.

The late Mr. Pakenham started off as a boy with the old Dickson Lumber Company 50 years ago wheeling out slab wood and in a few months he entered the employ of the Light and Power Company and his job was trimming the lamps around the city streets. When he fell off a building, a transformer cut his leg off, and after that he was placed as power house operator with the Hydraulic Power Company.

Lt. Jack Rogers Writes Chief Newhall

"The more I see of the world, the more clearly I see what a fair city is Peterborough, and what fine citizen she has," writes Lieut. John Rogers, overseas, to Chief Constable Newhall and the members of his police force.

Lieutenant Rogers was formerly a constable under Chief Newhall, and later joined the Ontario Provincial Police.

"There is everything in Peterborough," his letter continues, "good municipal government, good industries, fine schools and so on, and most important of all a wonderful community spirit.

"I think the spirit is what really counts, for it is from such a source and motive power that results and achievements spring."

Lieut. Rogers is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Rogers of this city.

"Yes, Peterborough really has something, including a good police force. You boys are lucky that you are able to work among such a fine citizenry; but I guess you know all this, as indeed we have all known it. I hope some day to visit our sister city of Peterborough over here, and may do so soon.

I think the English know more about how to enjoy living than we Canadians do, as they seem to have a faculty for taking things quietly, making the best of things and getting the job done without fuss. There is a good lesson here for us, and most Canadians to whom I have talked admit the same thing.

Visited London

I spent my last leave in London, and expect to go back there as I have relatives living near the city. There are many things to see there, and I saw a lot of them.

I am feeling fit, and have been getting a lot of exercise lately, including running five miles every night for about five months. I have lost over thirty pounds and had to get my clothes altered. I went to the Unit Sports and won four prizes. I think I did fairly well "for an old fellow." I have a notion my days of competitive sport are nearly over. From now on it will be a matter of keeping in condition.

I often meet chaps I knew in Peterborough and the neighboring country. It is like a touch of home. I met Jack Harstone (Major) several times; saw Jack Perry last week (Walter Perry's son).

How are Inspector Reid and Bill Meagher Did I hear something about the Chief falling down a well? I hope Gord Puffer's health is better. And how is our Matron, Mrs. Maguire?

I hope I may be remembered to all the force, Sergeants Jack Thompson and Bill Wigg; Archie Menzies, Jack Stevenson, Murphy, McGillen, Mesley, Price and Grayling, also Chiefs Bill Aikens and Bill Parcels of Havelock and Norwood.

It was very pleasant working in Peterborough and county, and although I may be a poor correspondent I often think of the old gang and would be glad to hear from any one who would write to me.

You may be surprised to know that I have been transferred out of the Provost Corps to the General List and on an acting Q.M.; like it very much and consider I am getting good experience. I am no longer on police duty.

I met Reg Chandler (Alex Elliott's partner) not long ago. A friend of mine told me the other day that he knows Ted Reeves, special sports writer for the Toronto Telegram, who is with one of the batteries. He says Reeves told him Fred Craig in Peterborough is the best sports writer, bar none, he ever knew. I guess we can back that up, so please pass the compliment along to Fred. It comes from a fine source.

My regards to Magistrate Langley, Crown Attorney McElderry and Mr. Kerr, Mayor Hamilton and the City Fathers and the city hall staff. I just missed Dr. Murray Fraser our esteemed M.O.H. on several occasions, but I may run into him yet.

So long for the present. Hope to see see you all before 1950 or thereabouts. Best of luck in enforcing law and order."

Otonabee Boy Missing

SGT. ERNEST ALDERSON

Word has been received that Sgt. Ernest H. Alderson of Otonabee, who has been serving overseas with the R.C.A.F., is missing after air operations over Germany May 23. His wife lives in Otonabee. Prior to his enlistment, Sgt. Alderson was engaged in farming. He joined the Air Force in March, 1941, and went overseas in November, 1942. He trained at Manning Pool, Jarvis, Guelph, Trenton, Mountain View, and finished at Mont Joli. The airman was an air gunner and had taken an instructor's course.

Greek Hour Nearing

CAIRO July 27—(AP).—Premier Emmanuel Tsouderous of Greece declared last night that "the fall of Mussolini and his regime shows how near the hour of victory and liberation of all Greeks is."

55 Air Cadets Witness Air Bombing

Fifty-five enthusiastic Air Cadets returned to Peterborough Monday after 10 days spent in training at the Mountain View No. 6 Gunnery and Bombing School.

The boys had a busy time and a good bit of fun, taking part in a large number of the activities of the camp and observing at first hand all the routine involved in training air crews for active combat.

They inspected the gun turrets of the bombers, fired Browning machine guns, washed the planes and helped on the maintenance work around the hangers. They watched bombs dropped in target practice on the ranges and saw how the bombardiers' accuracy is geometrically determined by means of the triangulation towers. They saw sleeve targets towed behind planes and shot up by bursts from the guns of other planes.

Group Captain R. C. Ripley, officer commanding, gave the boys a formal review, for which they were marshalled by their own oficers, Sgt. Major Ronald Boorne, No. 1 Flight Sgt. Al Barry and No. 2 Flight Sgt. Ralph Hall. The Air Cadets Band, under the leadership of Flight Sgt. Raymond Sutcliffe, joined up with the station band, and thus augmented they played together.

They heard talks from men returned from overseas on their experiences, and witnessed a wings parade at the graduation of a group of air gunners.

On Sunday night before leaving the station they went out in country side and had a bean feed and sing song, with lots of refreshments supplied by their hosts, the airmen.

What Government? And What Record?

Premier Nixon is appealing to the people on the record of his government, Liberal speakers and Liberal advertising state.

The government propaganda bureau should be more explicit.

On the record of what government is Mr. Nixon appealing for support?

Can it be on the record of the Hepburn government, from which Mitch Hepburn was ousted by his own colleagues?

Or is it the record of the Conant government from which Mr. Nixon retired in a huff?

It can't be on the record of the Nixon government because it hasn't any yet, except the black record of indecent haste with which its leader precipitated this election into the midst of the farmers' busiest weeks of the summer, the indecent haste that will result in thousands of Ontaro soldiers being disenfranchised because many of the proxies will not get here in time.

None of these records entiltes Premier Nixon to anything but the censure of the voters of Ontario.

Here in Peterborough riding that censure will be shown by a sweeping majority for ves.

So when a woman starts to change herself over into something nearer to her husband's heart's desire, she is undertaking a hard job. If she is middle-aged, she cannot turn herself into a glamorous sub-deb. If she has been a hard working woman who has pinched pennies and done her own cooking and baby-tending in order to help her husband pile up the fortune he is spending on othed women, how can she suddenly become a wisecracking sophisticate? If she has worn bungalow aprons all of her life, how can she transform herself into a Power's model?

The answer is, of course, that she can't. And I think she is foolish to waste any time and energy in imitating a role for which Nature did not cast her. Because, in the first place, she would be a misfit. And, in the second place, because no husband wants a wife who is an understudy of a loose lady. And, thirdly and lastly, because it was variety that he was seeking, not two women who were as much alike in conversation and dress and drinking habits as two peas in a pod.

Let your husband go his gait and the time will come when your truth and honesty and integrity will appeal to him more than the pinchbeck charms of the women for whom he has forsaken you, and he will come back to home and Mother, if you still want him.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Sally likes a boy in the Army, but she won't write to him because he took out another girl, who, in turn is going with a fellow in the Navy. Sally and the boy are not engaged, but they used to work together in the same defense plant and he took her home in the evenings. But she is so angry with him about his going with the other girl that she wouldn't even shake hands with him when he came to say goodbye to her parents and her before leaving for the service. Did she do right, or wrong?

MARGARET

Girls Lose Boys Being Too Possessive

ANSWER: She used neither good sense nor good manners in dealing with the situation. As she was not engaged to the boy, she had no right to object to his going with any girl or every girl he happened to meet.

A lot of girls lose boys by being too possessive. Nothing infuriates a man so much as a woman asserting proprietorship over him. He thinks it is bad enough to have to wear the ball and chain after marriage, and he certainly doesn't intend to let any girl clamp them to him while he is still single.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married a little more than a year and I love my husband very, very much. He has been wonderful to me until a few days ago when I found out that he is writing love letters to a girl to whom he was engaged before we were married. He told her in one of his letters that he loved her and would as long as he lived, and she sent me the letter. He also writes me every day that he loves me more than I will ever know. And he has me wondering which one of us he really loves.

I think his ex-sweetheart is not encouraging him, or else she would not have sent me this letter. What do you think I should do?

WONDERING

ANSWER: I think that you should ask for a showdown and make your husband decide which one of you he really loves. Evidently he is one of the men with too much heart who slops his affection over every female with whom he comes in contact. Or maybe, and this is very likely, he thinks he has a talent for writing sentimental twaddle and it makes him feel romantic and poetic, or something, to spread his sentiments over good white paper.

But these great -lover type of husbands are a pretty poor bet for life companions.

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a boy whom we adopted when he was three days old. Now he is six. Shall we tell him he is adopted? We love him very much and want to do what is best for him.

MRS. C. R.

ANSWER: By all means tell him before he grows any older. At his age he will not understand what adoption means and think it an honor rather than otherwise, but if he grows up in the belief that you are his own parents and finds out later that he has been deceived, it will break him all up. Some sensitive children never get over it.

A good way to put it is to tell him that you looked all around for a little boy that you wanted until you found him, and that you liked him so much that you just took him for your own.

Jug McSpaden

foot pressure putt on the 18th carpet for another birdie and a card of 37-34—71, to White's even par of 36-36—72. White's runner-up award was $1,400.

Buck's Putter Cold

Trees played a big part on the last three holes. On the 215-yard 16th, Jug's tee shot hit the trunk of a tree and bounced onto the fairway. He chipped within six feet of the cup, but missed the putt and took a four.

Buck was short, but his chip-up—the deadliest part of his game—left him only three feet from the hole. He also missed, marking the sixth time during the round that he failed to get down putts of five feet or less.

White was in the rough directly behind a tree on his drive on 17, then played the most remarkable shot of the day. Sizing up the slant of the fairway beyond him, he took a No. 4 iron and rifled the ball low enough to catch the roll and follow a natural trough to the back apron of the green. From there he chipped two inches from the cup to salvage his par and match McSpaden's four.

After the 18th, however, it was little wonder that McSpaden left for the showers humming "Trees."

His second shot hit some branches overhanging the green, taking enough steam from the ball to allow it to drop 20 feet from the cup. Jug's putter did the rest.

Although missing two-foot putts on the third and fourth greens, White managed to grip a two-stroke lead until the ninth, when McSpaden hung a 50-foot chip on the lip of the cup for a birdie win.

Jug missed a 35-footer by an inch for an eagle on the 10th, as both posted birdie four's, and they matched par on the next four holes until the Philadelphian squared the count with his birdie on 15. White took a regulation five after blasting from a trap 14 feet short.

Liberal Leader

The speaker charged that Col. Drew had not performed his duties in Provincial affairs as the people of Ontario expected him to. "He was continually meddling in Federal affairs and this was either becuase there was nothing to criticize in the Provincial house or because he was more interested in Federal affairs." Mr. Carley said the provinces had curtailed many activities so that they would not interfere with the war effort. "We want to see the war brought speedily to a close and to see the Government planning for what they will do after the war so that when we are finished with it there will be a better and brighter world for us all, and those men who are over there are looking forward to coming back to a world that is better than it was."

Best Prepared

He referred to Captain Elliott as the logical man to represent the people of Peterborough county as he was now overseas himself and knew the hopes and fears of those men who were with him. "When the war is over and Mr. Elliott who can better represent those boys?

Speaking of Col. Drew's 22 point program Mr. Carley declared a record was better than promises.

"He will take over 50 per cent of the cost of education at a cost of 50 million dollars but only speaks in generalities of where he intends to get that money. If the cost of education is increased by raising teachers' salaries then cuts it by fifty per cent it will not save you very much. Many large corporations will save tremendously by this scheme but the average citizen will save little. The C.C.F. platform is state socialism pure and simple. We groan under war time restrictions now but socialism will apply even more regulations than we as a Canadian people would submit to."

St. Peter's Boys Whip Beavers 19-3

At Armour Field on Monday night league-leading St. Peter's pounded out a 19-3 win over Beaver's in an action packed Catholic Softball League tussle.

Backed by a smooth-playing infield Gordon, for the winners, pitched fine ball, allowing only four hits. Shine for the losers tried hard but was nicked for 19 hits by the big guns of St. Peter's.

Action throughout was fast but the sparkling razzle-dazzle play of the Saints left no doubt as to the outcome.

Bang-up men for the winners were Conroy with a homer and three singles, and Murphy, Caccavella and Herr, each with three hits for four tries.

Fitzgerald, playing heads-up ball for Beavers, handled several deep flies smoothly and McIsaac fielded well for Saints.

LAWN BOWLING

On Friday night of this week we intend to hold a big mixed rink tournament; draw from the board. All the money will go to purchase "depth bombs." It is the aim of the club to fill all the greens, and if some of us have to sit out, why there are comfortable chairs on the verandah. Now let's explain about the fee. You pay $1.00, and in return you get four War Savings Stamps. Three hours of good fun. A chance at one of the three prizes donated by the club—and also the satisfaction of knowing that you are helping to clear the high seas of the German U-boat menace.

Remember we are lucky to be able to enjoy our summer pastime in peace. Remember the boys "over there." Remember the risks the sailors are taking. Remember the airmen. Remember everyone who is out there fighting for us. We feel sure that if you get behind this worthy object, we can put it across. Tell everybody about it. It is the first chance our club, as a club, has had this season to help the war effort.

We have never failed in any undertaking yet, and we feel sure that we will not fail this time.

Freshen Your Home With Bright New Slip Covers

SMART SLIP COVER

That faded Cinderella of your chairs may become a queen overnight. For today you can pin on colorful spring slip-cover material—and tomorrow you can baste and finish.

It's as simple as that to make such a smart slip cover.

Working the pin-on way, remove the chair cushion and smooth your fabric over the inside-back and seat, leaving a four-inch tuck-in between. For welted seams, work with fabric wrong side out. Then you pin every three inches and cut off surplus material outside the pins, allowing 1½ inches for seams and baste, inserting the welting from the right side.

This half completes your slip cover! All that remains is to stitch it up and add the fringe.

Our 32-page booklet gives exact details, step-by-step diagrams for making slip covers for differently shaped chairs and sofas, also auto seats. Tells how to trim, make pleated flounces.

For your copy of HOW TO MAKE SLIP COVERS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT COULD HE HOLD?

When your partner has doubled the opponents' contract, and it is apparent that the outcome is going to be very close, it is up to you to figure out the best you can just what he had as a basis for his double. Doing that may show you how to play your cards on the defense in order to help him take the tricks he has expected. To do this, it is advisable to "put yourself in his place" and reckon what would have caused you to do what he has already done.

North: ♠ 2 ♥ A K 10 8 5 ♦ Q ♣ A J 9 8 6

West: ♠ Q 6 5 ♥ J 3 ♦ A 10 7 4 ♣ K 5 4 3

East: ♠ A K 10 9 7 ♥ Q 9 2 ♦ K J 9 ♣ Q 7

South: ♠ J 8 4 3 ♥ 7 6 ♦ 8 6 5 3 2 ♣ 10 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♦	3 ♣	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass
Dble	Rdbl

That was bidding them "high, wide and handsome," especially South's thin double and West's redouble. But the one whose action really decided the issue was North, in the play of the hand.

South opened the heart 6, which North won with the K. He laid down the A and then, "just to see what South would play," scored with his club A. It was still not too late to set the contract, but he now indulged in some very haywire thinking. "Since the 2 which South played on the club A could not possibly be the top of a doubleton, and was not likely to be the bottom of three, it must be a singleton."

So North returned his club 8, the Q winning, and the contract was made. East led the spade 9, let it run when South played low, and then the 10. The J and Q covered this, the A and K settled South's other trumps, and East had the rest of the tricks solidly.

If North, after his second heart trick, had reckoned that South surely had at least four trumps to the J, for his bad double, and also must have one of the intermediates higher than the 6 in dummy, he should have returned a third heart. South's 8 would have forced the Q, and there would then have been no way to keep his J from taking the setting trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ Q 9 7 6 3 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ K Q J ♣ 8 2

West: ♠ K 4 2 ♥ Q ♦ A 9 3 ♣ A Q J 7 5 3

East: ♠ J 8 ♥ K J 10 9 8 2 ♦ 10 8 7 ♣ 10 9

South: ♠ A 10 5 ♥ A 6 4 ♦ 6 5 4 2 ♣ K 6 4

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

What kind of co-operation between the defenders can make it crystal clear to them as to how they should beat an unsound 3-No Trumps by West on this deal?

Woman Uses Hoe As Weapon On Neighbor

BANCROFT, Ont., July 27 — (ENS) — The following cases were handled in Bancroft Police Court, presided over by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd of Belleville on Wednesday.

Mrs. Bessie Rupert of L'Amable appeared in court charged with assault occasioning bodily harm to Clare Lalone, a neighbour. This charge arose as a result of Lalone's cows said to have been on Mrs. Rupets property and she took the law in her own hands locking up Lalone's cows in her own field. When Clare and his father, Harvey, went for the cows Mrs. Rupert wanted money before releasing the cattle. Lalone refused attempting to take his cattle by letting down the fence. Mrs. Rupert struck Clare in the face with a hoe causing a gash which had to be closed by several stitches by Dr. Lamb of Bancroft. He also received several other abrasions on his body from the hoe. This case was enlarged to August 11 when Crown Attorney will be present.

Minor Fines.

The following paid $10 and costs for breach of the L. C. A. Durwood Lavoy of Hartsmore, John Lockwood of Bancroft, Roy Vallier of Princes Lake, and Gordon Coburn of Weston.

James Yantha of Princes Lake was sentenced to seven days in the County Jail at Belleville charged with drunk driving paying $12 and costs and also paid $10 and costs on a further charge of careless driving.

Steven Glester of Weston paid $10 and costs charged with failing to turn out and give half the road to another vehicle.

Oscar White of Detlor paid $5.00 and costs for failing to give sufficient road to another motorist.

Clement Hogan of Highland Grove was assessed $5.00 and costs on a charge of careless driving.

Dogs Wild.

Jerry Hartwick Cox of Harcourt Township paid $20 and costs when he was found guilty on a charge of harbouring a dog or dogs, and permitting them to run at large in the vicinity where deer were plentiful and during close season.

The case was investigated by Game Overseer Melville Inwood of Combermere and Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer back in February when they conducted an investigation which revealed at that time thirty-five carcasses of dead deer and three more destroyed by dogs. These dogs were a ravaging lot and the constables shot three in the bush at that time. These dogs were evidently left in the bush by hunters last fall and came to the Cox home for food and shelter.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E Wiggins and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Kellar returned home from Toronto Friday evening having spent the week in Toronto attending Grand Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead of Detroit, Michigan left for Detroit Thursday morning having spent a part of their honeymoon at the latter's parents home in Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. P. Caverly. Mrs. Whitehead was formerly Miss Aletia Caverly.

Ceiling Prices On Eggs Set By Prices Board

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP)-Ceiling prices for eggs have been set for 25 cities and a number of rural areas covering most of the inhabited parts of Canada, the Prices Board announced to-night.

Effective Wednesday, the order also fixes the maximum markup allowed retailers at six cents per dozen.

A chedule accompanying the latest order sets out a uniform wholesale price for Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and British Columbia, with the exception of Vancouver Island and certain mainland coastal areas.

The maximum wholesale price in these three Provinces is ½ cent per dozen higher than that previously established for three designated cities—namely, 51¼ cents for grade A-large eggs in Halifax and Saint John, N.B., and 49½ cents in Vancouver. The price in Prince Edward Island is fixed at 50¼ cents, one cent below that in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, to permit normal movement of eggs from the Island, a surplus production area, to the mainland

In the remaining Provinces certain areas, are defined and a varying maximum wholesale price is set out for each: 50½ cents in the principal Quebec markets, 50 cents in Central Ontario, 50½ and 52 cents in Northern Ontario, 48½ cents in Manitoba, and 47½ cents in Saskatchewan and Alberta, with prices ½ cent lower in more outlying production areas.

Every sale of eggs by a primary producer now is under the price ceiling, whether the sale is made to manufacturers, processors, wholesalers, retailers or other dealers. When a primary producer sells direct to a consumer, whether on a public market or otherwise, he is governed by the wholesale ceiling price for his area and the markup allowed to retailers.

An increase of ½ cent per dozen in maximum wholesale prices in the nine designated rural areas is provided to cover reduction in returns to producers as a result of changing the basis of establishing prices outside of the key markets. They now are based on the price in the producing areas, less freight to the city markets.

The scale of prices set out in the new order represents a differential to cover shipping costs from areas of production to areas of higher consumption, and in general a higher price is established for deficiency areas than in the areas centring around cities in order to keep eggs moving to market in normal channels below established ceiling prices.

Ceiling prices apply throughout the year.

Says Fruit Shortage Boosts Prices

LONDON, Ont., July 27 (CP).—The London Consumers' Association has protested to the Prices Board against high prices being charged for fruit here, Mrs. Lucy Cole, president of the organization said today.

"Hundreds of housewives in London have a lot of sugar on hand for canning and now they can't use it because they can't afford to buy the fruit,' she said.

M. H. Robinson of the Ontario Fruit Council, in an interview in Toronto Saturday, said high prices being asked for Ontario fruit were due to a shortage.

500 Canadian Sailors Used At Sicily

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP).— The Navy to-day told something of the careful preparation behind its share of the invasion of Sicily—the first "combined operation" in which Canadian naval personnel retained their identity as a Canadian unit, manning their own flotillas of landing craft.

There was no lack of trained men in the Royal Canadian Navy. More than a year ago detachments were sent to the United Kingdom for combined operations training. Many took part in the attack on Dieppe last August and an even larger number participated in the North African landing late last year.

In command of the new units as group officer was Lieut. Jack E. Koyl of Saskatoon, a veteran of both shows. With him were other officers with similar experience—Sub-Lt. Andrew A. Wedd of Toronto who won the Distinguished Service Cross at Dieppe and Lieut. Robert Smith of Regina.

(Dispatches from Allied Headquarters in North Africa said it was estimated 500 Canadian naval men took part in the Sicilian landings as members of the R.C.N., the Royal Navy, and combined operations units.)

Weeks before the attack on Sicily, the new Canadian landing force got orders to sail from the United Kingdom — destination undisclosed. They were issued with tropical kit but it wasn't considered an authentic clue since Canadian corvettes which left Canada before the North African campaign carried extra heavy clothing as though they might be headed for service in convoys to Russia.

It was a long voyage but there was no untoward incident. Training continued on the trip.

At their destination the Canadians split up. One group stayed aboard ship but others went ashore to a camp in the desert close to the sea. Their landing craft were in constant use.

Two weeks later the senior Canadian officer was able to include in his routine progress report that "I am satisfied wtih the state of training of the coxwains." Yet boatwork and more boatwork remained the order of the day as each man was pushed to "top-line" efficinecy.

Use Small Arms.

There was practice, too, with small-arms—Lewis guns, rifles and pistols. Landing craft singnalmen became expert at their specialized duties; there was instruction in aircraft recognition and chemical warfare, in beach organization and seamanship.

Meantime the group which had remained aboard the liner were just as busy. By day and night the landing craft flotillas practised manoeuvres until they could change from line ahead to line abeam with precision; scatter to lessen the target in event of attack and then reform into a close-packed unit; make beach landings and withdrawal without error or delay.

Finally the troops who were to be landed by the Canadians came aboard the ship. Within a few hours they had begun practising loading and unloading the landing craft. Standing by to give assistance were the well-trained Canadian seamen.

Some time before the Sicilian invasion the Navy, Merchant Navy, Army and Air Force put on a full-dress rehearsal for the job ahead. Lt.-Cmdr. E. H. Bartlett, of Toronto, R.N.C. public relations officer in the Mediterranean, described it in a press release issued here to-day as "a marvellously smoothly-running demonstration of well-trained men doing their jobs well."

Quiet orders from the senior naval officer started the exercises in one ship in which a Canadian flotilla was based.

"Flotilla, man your craft," said the S.N.O.

From the mess-decks where they had been drinking the inevitable cocoa with which the navy starts night operations, the Canadians made their way to their craft. It was dark but they moved as deftly and confidently as if they had been working in daylight.

Near Zero Hour.

"Assault force, fall in by your craft; embark when ready," came the order.

The troops moved to their positions. Equipment was shrugged into more secure position.

The flotilla officer, the senior Canadian officer who would lead his landing craft afloat, checked his watch.

"If you're ready," he suggested to an army officer. The word was passed down the lines and the troops commenced embarking. There was no hitch.

Then it was the turn of the merchant navy. The carrier ships was massed by her own merchant crew. They were on duty at the davits, waiting the order to lower. Quick on its heels the landing craft started to descend to the sea. Greased falls, silent winces, dropped them. The spashing of keel against water was the only sound. And then, with engines turning quietly, falls were cast off and the craft, one by one, slipped away into the darkness to form into a flotilla ready to land their troops.

In the carrier hhip there was no lessening of activity. More troops were to be landed and their assembly at the correct embarkation points was already in course. The return of the landing craft, once their first troops were discharged, found their second loads ready.

An army officer, commenting on the fact of the landing craft, seemed to be running on unbreakable schedule, said "these Canadian fellows know their job." The R. C. N.'s new unit was ready for Sicily, its first big show.

Hun Prisoners Help

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP)—Arthur MacNamara director of National Selective Service, made public last night some details on the employment of prisoners of war in beet fields in the district of Raymond, Alta., and said nearly 500 German military prisoners were "borrowed" from a camp in southern Alberta and were transported daily to and from the Raymond beet fields.

FORWARD WITH THE CCF!

People of Ontario. The public are moving strongly to the CCF. The old parties now realize that the CCF is headed for success in this election, and they are turning loose a barrage of untruths and rumors to confuse you.

Here are some of these falsehoods:

UNTRUTH NO. 1

THAT—"The CCF will confiscate your savings, life insurance, and other property."

This is absolutely false. We will add to your protection. One of the principal ideas of the CCF is security for the individual. What the CCF knows, as you well know, is that the savings and even life insurance of the average working man, business man or farmer are not enough to take care of serious illness, the support of a family on the death of the bread-winner, and other major emergencies.

Instead of taking away the security and the hard-earned money of the people the CCF will add to their security by increased provision for old age, by more adequate mothers' allowances, by a health service that will really take care of those who are ill as well as protecting public health, and, above all, by an adequate plan for employment after the war.

UNTRUTH NO. 2

THAT—"The CCF will take farms away from their owners and operate them by the state."

This again is absolutely false. As Agnes Macphail said in a radio address recently— "All this nonsense you are being told about the CCF wanting to take away the private ownership of farms is just so much twaddle. What we really want is to keep the processing plants, the mortgage companies, the farm machine companies and others who fatten on the farmer, from taking your farm away."

The CCF government will greatly assist the farmer by reducing the spread between the prices he gets for his produce and what the consumer pays: by helping farmers establish co-operatives; by strengthening his representation on marketing boards; by the extension of Hydro; by encouraging and making it possible through low interest government loans for young men to stay on the farms; and by better educational and health facilities.

UNTRUTH NO. 3

THAT—"The CCF will regiment everyone."

This is absolutely false. The basic principle of the CCF is democratic co-operation. The CCF has been fighting regimentation for the past ten years . . . the regimentation of mass relief . . . of employers who refuse their workers any voice about their own conditions of work . . . of monopolies who set prices with which farmers and merchants have to comply.

These three untruths are only a few of the many bogeys being used by the old parties to confuse the issue and to stampede you into voting for them.

Here are the major points of the CCF program. You can see for yourself how reasonable they are and the necessity for them:

- Immediate planning for post-war employment.
- An effective collective bargaining act.
- Adequate health services for all.
- Improved opportunities for education.
- A large scale housing plan to go into effect immediately after the war, to provide employment and to make available good houses at lower costs.
- Immediate increase of old age pensions to a minimum of $30.00 a month, and an increase in mothers' allowances.
- Development of the province's natural resources in forests, minerals, and hydro power as a public trust, with the revenue from these going to pay for health services, education and other benefits to all the people of the province.

These are things that your CCF government will do. It is a program drawn up by the people . . . for the people . . . to ensure that our province will make its maximum contribution to the war . . . and to ensure a better province for our men overseas and us to live in when the war is over.

Don't let the old parties stampede you — Vote CCF!

Effective Raid Starts Many New Fires

LONDON, July 28 — (CP). — Hamburg, great North German port, has been hit by about 5,000 tons of bombs since Saturday night, it was announced today—within a few hundred tons of the total Germany dropped on all Britain in the fall of 1940 during the worst days of the battle of Britain.

This announcement was made soon after a great force of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers returned early today from heaping further destruction on the German port which has been the object of continuing round-the-clock attacks since Saturday.

It was the R.A.F.'s fourth successive night assault upon the battered city, which in normal times has a population of more than 1,000,000. Sandwiched in between these night raids were two smashing daylight attacks by American bombers on Sunday and Monday.

There was no let-up in the Allied attack as strong formations of fighters and fighter-bombers continued the assault in daylight to-day shuttling forth and back across the sunny Channel to the Low Countries. The attacks continued past mid-day.

The heavy attack on Hamburg was acknowledged in a DNB news agency broadcast recorded by The Associated Press. The "heavy terror attack," the broadcast said, caused "extensive fires in several areas of the town and high casualties among the civilian population." The Germans asserted 27 bombers were destroyed.

18 Bombers Lost.

At least two squadrons of the Canadian bomber group—the Lion and Goose—were along, and as the R.C.A.F. crews clambered from their four-engined craft early today they were emphatic that Hamburg was blazing even more furiously than after the Saturday hammering.

Targets in the Ruhr Valley, site of many important German war industries, also were bombed during the night, said an Air Ministry communique, which acknowledged the loss of 18 bombers. Canadian losses were not given.

Mosquitoes of the fighter command at the same time carried out offensive patrols over Germany, Holland and France, attacking airfields and railways communications, the bulletin said.

A total of 2,300 long tons of explosives and incendiary bombs were dropped on Hamburg Monday night

Cairo Bombers Blast Italy

CAIRO, July 28.—(AP).— R.A.F. Liberators and Halifax heavy bombers from the Middle East Air Command bombed the airdrome at Reggio Calabria on the toe of the Italian boot Monday night and yesterday morning, an Allied communique reported to-day.

The communique said the bombers scored hits on the airdrome surface and caused fires.

Beaufighters staged a daylight attack on Axis shipping in the Aegean sea off the coast of Greece with bombs, cannon and machine gun fire, the bulletin said.

An Italian vessel towing a large barge attacked off Melos Island was badly damaged. Returning pilots said white smoke and steam were

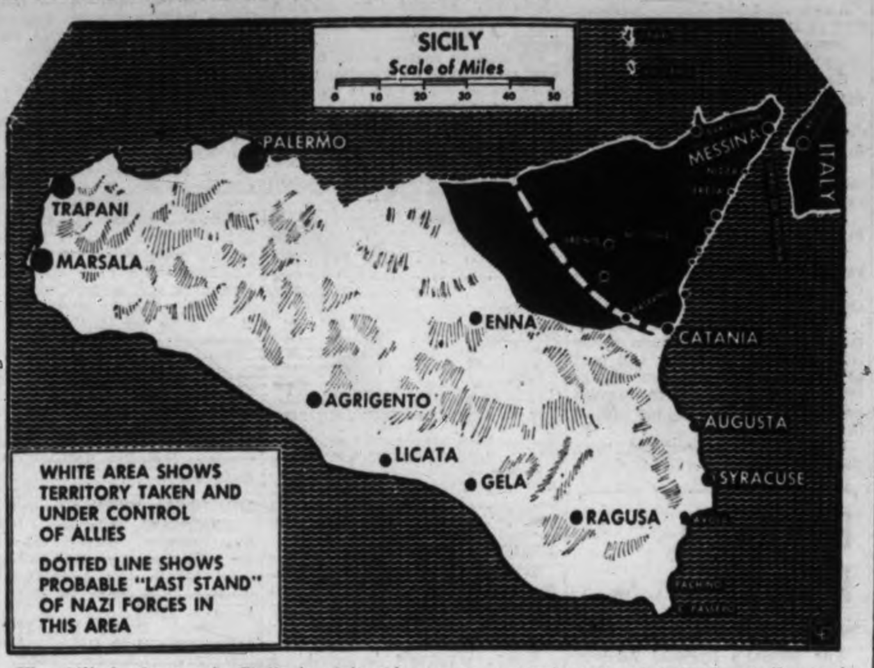
As Allies Near Sicilian "Last Defence" Line



The Allied advance in Sicily is pictured by the white section in the Central Press Canadian map ABOVE. American troops have captured Palermo and territory farther east on the north coast. The British Eighth Army, including Canadians, is battering on the walls of Catania on the east coast, while Canadians and Americans are pushing up from the captured Enna, in central Sicily. All are moving north and eastward to the defence line where the German forces are expected to make a final stand.

Badoglio Will Bring Peace?

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent.

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY, July 26—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—Sicilian Italians who cheered the news of Mussolini's downfall today expressed belief that Marshal Badoglio will bring peace to Italy.

In two towns I visited after learning of the Duce's resignation, Italian civilians said that Badoglio is not a Fascist and that he did not want Italy to enter the war.

They believed he will eventually work with King Victor Emmanuel and the Vatican to obtain a peace settlement.

Peace is what these people want. Their army has the same desire, for it has not fought with any degree of stubbornness.

On the other side of the fence, there are Fascists in Sicilian towns—now imprisoned—and to them the latest news from Rome came as a terrible blow. Too, it is a hard blow to landowners who have reduced the people to serfdom.

Taxes a Burden.

Wherever I go I have been checking the reaction. At headquarters, where I made my daily call, four Italian army deserters were brought in. Their eyes sparkled when they were told the Rome news.

"Mussolini will be shot sooner or later," said a big soldier from Palermo.

Again and again they told us the Fascists had milked Sicily and forced Sicilians to fight the Allies against their will. They were strong in belief the people of Italy would accept an Allied offer of honorable capitulation.

These deserters were in an artillery unit and said they had run from their guns when Canadian troops approached. Germans had tried to stop them.

Another Italian soldier who had given himself up to Canadians has been working as kitchen helper at our camp for the last 12 days.

He is a quiet little peasant boy from the hills outside Rome and he is eating better and enjoying life more than he ever did before. He says he'll stay with us until we get to Rome, then perhaps go to Canada when the war is over.

Duce Starved Them

Signalman Frank Siscoe of Cochrane, Ont., who speaks Italian like a native, asked him what he thought about the news of the Duce.

He sat down, put on an R.C.A.S.C. cap someone had given him, and said :"Wonderful, wonderful."

"Look at our people," he said. "Look at their boots and clothes.

Squeeze Japanese At Munda Junglewise Allied Forces

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, July 28—(AP).—Jungle-wise Allied fighting men, squeezing the Japanese at Munda, New Georgia, into an ever-shrinking finger of land, were reported making new progress in the campaign against the strategic central Solomons airbase in today's communique from Allied headquarters. The announcement did not give the extent of the advance but a spokesman said it was "considerable."

The drive through strong enemy defences east of Munda carried the Allies past the coastal village of Tetere to within 2,100 yards — less than 1 1-5 miles—off the airdrome. Strong pressure was exerted against enemy "centres or resistance"—probably dugouts so placed their machine-guns could meet assaults with strong crossfire.

Japs Bottled Up.

During the first few days of the general offensive launched on the southwest Pacific June 30, the Allies moved swiftly upon Munda, located on a tapering point of land on western New Georgia. As the Japanese were compressed within their long-prepared defences, however, resistance stiffened and for nearly three weeks positions remained virtually unchanged. Then yesterday Allied headquarters announced an advance of 500 yards and today an-

Newspapers Urge Patience; People Suspicious

By FRANK BRUTTO, Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Switzerland, July 28 — (AP). — Unconfirmed reports received at the Italian frontier today said an insurrection among the people, verging on revolution, had broken out at Milan.

Mobs swept through the streets despite a state of siege proclaimed by the military authorities, shouting "liberty," and 'we want peace' the reports said.

Shots were fired.

The situation was described as extremely grave.

All workers were reported to have left their jobs.

Earlier the Corriere Della Sera of Milan had reported islands of Fascist resistance were holding out against Italian troops at Milan and indicated that uncertainty over the new government's course between peace and war were producing restlessness among the people.

Flood of Rumors

The Rome Radio, in frequent interruptions of muscial programs warning the people against "sensational" rumors circulated by irresponsible persons.

Tullio Giorbana, new director of the Gazzetta del Popolo at Turin, was quoted in dispatches as urging patience upon the people advising it was not possible to make peace in two days.

The newspaper Il Corriere Della Sera presented this account of happenings:

Outbreaks in the centre of Milan were limited and the gravest resistance occurred in the suburbs where Fascists barricaded themselves in buildings and fired on civilians as well as soldiers. The fight to reduce these nests was "long, difficult and bloody."

Some Workers Return.

Workers generally responded to the request of the military commander of Milan, Gen. Canale, to return to their work. But in some quarters there was "hesitation and resistance." Troops had to intervene at certain quarters to prevent gatherings and demonstraions which resuled.

Another outbreak occurred in the Milan prison of Cellulare, where one prisoner was killed and many were wounded in an attempted prison break. The prisoners burned part of the prison.

Naples was the scene of fights in which several were killed and wounded as the people celebrated the fall of Fascism.

There were demonstrations also at Bari, Taranto and other southern sities, and at Trieste and Venice in the north, and Turin was the scene of continuous demonstrations.

The Italian radio this morning ended its program by warning the people against rumors of events "of an exceptional nature which at this moment are being circulated by an irresponsible effort to affect public order."

Sporadic, but nonetheless serious clashes between die-hard Fascists and regular army troops, chiefly in Milan, were reported by travellers

NEWARK, N.J., July 28—(AP).—A new form of the coals to Newcastle situation has been created by a Canadian flight lieutenant—he wants beer sent to Germany.

He added: "Send the bill to my father."

Fascist Party Dissolved By Badoglio

NEW YORK, July 28—(AP).—The Rome radio announced today that "complete dissolution of the National Fascist Party" had been ordered at the first meeting of the new Italian Cabinet, held yesterday under the presidency of Marshal Pietro Badoglio, new Premier.

The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said the Cabinet also decided:

1. To abrogate the 14-year-old law under which the Fascist Grand Council became an organ of the State, the law being "incompatible with the return to constitutional normality."

2. To suppress the special tribunal for defence of the State. It was ordered that cases ordinarily tried by the tribunal would be transferred to military courts of the army corps "during the duration of actual war."

The broadcast said:

"The first meeting of the Council of Ministers was held on Tuesday, July 27, in the quirinal under the presidency of His Excellency Marshal Badoglio.

"The Council, in view of the new situation which has arisen in the political life of the land, has ordered the complete dissolution of the National Fascist Party.

"Measures have been taken to the end that auxiliary institutions of education and sports, which depended in part upon it, will continue to function.

"In addition, the same meeting of the Council of Ministers decided among other things to abrogate the law of December 9, 1928, number 2,693, concerning the Fascist Grand Council, incompatible with the return to constitutional normality.

"Finally the Council ordered the suppression of the special tribunal for defence of the State. Affairs which have been handled by this tribunal will be taken over by military tribunals of the army corps during the entire duration of actual war."

Hun Reinforcements Continue To Reach Sicily

By DANIEL DE LUCE, Associated Press War Correspondent

Allied Headquarters, North Africa, July 28.—(AP).— Canadian troops have driven forward against stiff resistance in Sicily and the Americans have captured Cefalu, 90 miles west of Messina Strait, Allied Headquarters announced today.

The Canadian 1st Division, led by Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont., has driven forward after heavy fighting in the Central Sicilian sector, the communique announced.

The American 7th Army of Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton, sweeping eastward toward the tip of Sicily, following their capture of Cefalu, are advancing against strongly-prepared German defences at San Stefano.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army still faced the main German defences near Catania in the eastern sector, and the Americans and Canadians were driving in that general direction for a joint assault on the corner of Sicily still held by the enemy.

The 8th Army had made no important gain for 13 days — longer than it was stopped either at El Alamein in Egypt when it took up its powerful offensive, or at the Mareth Line in Tunisia.

Announcemest of the fall of Cefalu came at least 36 hours late, and while there were no more official reports on progress, it was plain the heaviest American forces were being drawn up for an all-out blow along the north coast.

The Germans still were getting in reinforcements, and it was disclosed "the bulk of two Italian field divisions" had escaped into the bridgehead from the west. This appeared to trim down previous official estimates that 110,000 Axis soldiers had been trapped since the start of the campaign. "Over 70,000" was the last official count of prisoners.

Front dispatches said the Germans were completely in charge of the strong Etna line running from San Stefano to Nicosia, Agira, Catenanuova to the Dittaino river and had put Italian survivors of two field divisions which escaped the American encirclement of Western Sicily to digging trenches and preparing road blocks.

Use Conscripts.

The same report, however, said "political "developments do not appear yet to have interfered with the German habit of sandwiching Italians in at the firing line."

It is believed only a small number of Italians actually continued as combat troops.

(L. S. B. Shapiro of the Montreal Gazette reported "hundreds, probably thousands, of troops conscripted from occupied countries being used by the German forces in Sicily." He said the troops were compelled to fight but were surrendering in substantial numbers when they could. He quoted two

Where's The Crew

LONDON, July 28 (CP)—An invasion barge loaded with Lockheed Interceptor planes found bobbing around without a crew in mid-Atlantic provided the Royal Navy with a mystery today.

The barge was superficially damaged on the nose and had apparently been struck by flying debris, but it was still seaworthy enougl to be towed to the Belfast docks. Several empty lifeboats were found near the barge.

Hun Counters Smashed On Orel Front

Nazis Fall Back Steadily Before Red Advance

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN, Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 28— (AP)— Retreating Germans are burning villages, impressing the inhabitants into labor gangs and forcing them to dig trenches and dugouts for the last desperate defence of Orel on the Central Russian front, Red Army dispatches declared today.

A Russian communique reported Field Marshal Guenther von Kluege's army was continuing to fall back as the Soviets pressed in on three sides of the big Nazi base.

Savage battles were being fought on the sector northwest of Orel. The exact locality was not identified but it was believed to be in the vicinity of the Orel-Bryansk railway which the Russians have had under artillery fire since the capture of Studenkovo. The town is five miles from the railway, only avenue of escape for German forces facing encirclement in Orel.

Barrage Heavy

It was believed the Red Army artillery barrage has seriously hampered, if not halted traffic on the railway but there is no indication from the Russians the line has yet been cut.

Resistance was stubborn, the Russians said, declaring they had switched to flank attacks and encirclement moves when unable to penetrate German defences in frontal assault.

The midnight communique reported the capture of 50 more villages as the Soviet line advanced from two to four miles closer to the

No Peace Bids Says Churchill

LONDON, July 28 — (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill answered with a short "no" today when asked in the House of Commons whether any reply had been received to repeated requests for Italian capitulation.

"No official reply has been received to the message from President Roosevelt and myself," he said, "unless the disappearance of Mussolini is to be considered a reply to it."

His reference to Mussolini brought a burst of laughter from the members.

Asked if he felt that an apology for bombing Rome would serve any useful purpose, the Prime Minister replied:—

"His Majesty's Government have not made any apology for bombing the marshalling yards near Rome. On the contrary, if they are repaired, and hostile military traffic is resumed, they will no doubt have to be bombed again.

The Ankara radio, in a broadcast heard by Reuters News Agency, reported that "news reaching Turkey tonight says the Italian government shows willingness to negotiate with the Allies."

"The main difficulty seems to be the fate of German divisions in Sicily and Southern Italy," the broadcast added.

F.D.R. To Report On War

Expect Stress On Prices And Disputes

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(AP).—Against a backdrop of Allied night pounding forward on all major fronts and the political demise of Mussolini, President Roosevelt drafted to-day his first war report to the American people in 5½ months.

The President will broadcast for half an hour on all networks tonight at 9.30 o'clock eastern daylight time, and the White House labelled the address of "major importance."

Mr. Roosevelt told his press radio conference yesterday he would talk on the war and he made it plain he considered war activities at home and in the actual theatres of combat of parallel importance, a hint on the scope of to-night's speech.

He was in a position to paint a glowing picture of events in the Mediterranean; the Pacific, Russia and from the skies of Europe.

But words of caution appeared in order from the Chief Executive on what has been happening here to wages, prices, manpower, internal disputes in the government as well as on an admitted possibility that war production goals for 1943 may not be attained.

Axis May Try Sweeping Withdrawal

Allied Speed Will Decide Issue Of Last-Stand Manoeuvre

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press War Analyst.

Italy's dismal predicament and its far-reaching moral effect are likely to make the way of transgressor Hitler exceeding hard in the not distant future.

The way things are developing it wouldn't be surprising to see the Nazi chief attempt the major operation of making a sweeping withdrawal on all fronts to restricted boundaries which he would try to defend against the Allies— come one, come all. Strengthened by this consolidation he would battle for a stalemate, hoping not only to save the Reich but salvage some of his ill-got gains.

The length of time which must elapse before the all highest undertakes such a last-stand move obviously depends on how hard the Allies are able to push him. That in turn hinges on the speed with which the Anglo-American brotherhood is able to clean up the Italian situation and strike elsewhere.

In yesterday's column I pointed out the great threat which would be created to the present German battle-line in Russia if the Western Allies should follow the Italian collapse with an invasion of the Balkans. A successful drive up the Balkan peninsula would force the Nazis to undertake the dangerous feat of pulling back their entire front, assuming that Soviet pressure was maintained.

It's most unlikely that this could be achieved without corresponding withdrawals in Western Europe. Hitler's postion would be so precarious on the Eastern front during his retreat that he wouldn't dare leave his forces scattered throughout the occupied areas of the west. Moreover, we are reminded of another cirsumstance by Prime Minister Churchill who yesterday told a cheering House of Commons:

Revolt Rises

"The spirit of revolt rises higher in all subjugated lands. German rule is maintained from the North Cape of Norway to the Island of Crete only by hideous and ruthless cruelty, reprisals and massacres."

The Greeks, the Yugoslavs, the Czechoslovaks, the Poles, the French, the Belgians, the Hollanders, the Norwegians — all these tortured folk are merely waiting for the signal to throw themselves on their oppressors. Indeed, Yugoslav guerilla forces never have ceased to wage bitter war on the invaders, and the ferocity of these attacks has increased with the weakening of Italy.

Northern Defence

German troops were reported moving through the Brenner Pass to take up defence positions in Italy's northern provinces of Venetia, Lombardy and Piedmont, advices reaching The Associated Press from a European capital said yesterday.

London newspapers carried similar reports from Switzerland saying the troops were accompanied by the Todt organization of engineers and work troops, some of them reportedly flown from Russia.

R.C.A.F. Helps Bag 21 Planes

Canadians In On Aerial Slaughter

NEAR CATANIA, Sicily, July 28—(CP Cable)—Two Canadian fighter pilots, Sgt. Donald Rathwell of St. Vital, Man., and FO. Edward Burrows of New Glasgow, N.S.S., shared in Monday's greatest aerial slaughter of the Sicilian campaign, it was announced today.

They were part of the British Spitfire force which shot down 21 German transport planes, four German fighters and one Italian fighter.

Rathwell downed one Junkers-52 transport and Burrows shared another with an English squadron-mate.

The fliers described the foray as "an absolute shambles, reminiscent of earlier and similar destruction of transport aircraft in the Tunisian campaign."

There are approximately 26 R.C.A.F. men flying in one Sicily-based fighter-bomber wing which has been doing spectacular work over the enemy positions near Catania, bombing supply lines and strong points.

One daring strafing foray was led by Sqdn. Ldr. Stanley Turner, D.F.C. and Bar of Toronto who was accompanied by FO. Hedley Evrard of Timmins, Ont., and WO. Paul Alpointe of Escourt, Que.

NEW PEACE DEVELOPMENT LOOMS FROM MEETING ABOARD SHIP

Name Turkey As Possible War Mediator

Meeting Held In Secrecy On Italian Launch

By FRANK J. O'BRIEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ISTANBUL, July 28—(AP).—Turkey was projected dramatically into the role of a possible mediator between the United Nations and Italy today by a hasty and mysterious conference between the new Italian Foreign Minister, Rafaele Guariglia, and Turkish Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu.

The meeting was held amid every indication of secrecy and urgency aboard the Italian Embassy launch in the Sea of Marmora yesterday. Immediately after the conference Menemencioglu left hurriedly for the capital at Ankara and it was disclosed that Guariglia — who has been in Turkey as Ambassador under the Fascist regime of Benito Mussolini—would leave by plane today for Rome.

The circumstances under which the meeting was held were in themselves sufficient to arouse intense interest. Beside the crew there was only one other person—who remained unidentified—seen to board the launch.

A Good Sign.

The fact the Turkish Minister agreed to see Guariglia at Istanbul instead of the Foreign Office in Ankara indicated the importance of the conference. Turkey, as a neutral power maintaining close diplomatic relations with both Great Britain and the United States is a logical choice as the medium for possible Italian peace overtures.

Menemencioglu returned to Istanbul after the conference and then proceeded on to Ankara.

Guariglia was appointed to the Turkish post three months ago and at the time it was understood he was not the Italians first choice for the job. Rome, it was understood, wanted to appoint an Ambassador with pro-Allied leanings, but the suggestion apparently was vetoed by Berlin, Italy's Axis partner. Guariglia, who is not known to have exhibited any particular Allied sympathies, is known to have been only luke-warm toward the Fascist party.

Meanwhile, the Turkish press reacted favorable to the news of the collapse of the Mussolini regime in Italy, most editors expressing the opinion Italy would soon be out of the war.

Milan, birthplace of Fascism, was under strict military guard today, following outbreaks which continued throughout yesterday and last night.

Police Intervene

Police were forced to intervene and break up an attempted jail delivery in Milan, in which one person was killed and several wounded, frontier reports said. Up until today 74 political prisoners were said to have been released in Milan.

In other outbreaks Monday nine Fascists were reported shot or stabbed to death, while scores were wounded. Many Fascists were placed under arrest, travellers said. Turin, Bologna, Genoa and other cities in Northern Italy reported disorders.

German garrison troops in Milan, who had been guarded in their barracks by Italian soldiers since the announcement of Mussolini's downfall Sunday night, can no longer be seen in the city, according to the Swiss Telegraph Agency.

(A Rome radio broadcast, recorded in London, said the King Victor Emmanuel had accepted the resignation of the Fascist President of the Italian Senate, Count Giacoma Suardo, and had appointed Don Paolo de Velle in his place. The King also met with the new Italian cabinet in audience yesterday, the Rome radio said.)

Lang Youngster Dies In Crash

LANG, July 28 (ENS)—Stanley Davidson, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson of Lang, was killed Tuesday night, when the bicycle he was riding was involved in a collision with a truck driven by Fred Nelson of Keene.

Provincial Constable Price Morris of Peterborough, who investigated the accident, said that it was not clear as to exactly what happened. Mr. Nelson was driving east into the village with a load of gravel and coming south on a bicycle were Stanley Davidson and his cousin Archie, 11, son of Stuart Davidson of Lang, who was riding on the handle bars.

The boys apparently saw the truck and didn't know what to do, and they turned the same way as the truck. The truck was practically past them but somehow the rear wheel struck the children and Stanley died shortly from a badly fractured skull. His cousin was brought to Nicholls Hospital and the extent of his injuries has not been determined.

Dr. Herbert Young, coroner of Peterborough, and Dr. Wright of Keene were called to the accident. Stanley had been an Examiner news carrier boy for more than two years.

He leaves to mourn his loss his parents, and three brothers and two sisters, George, Roy, Stewart, Mary and Jean, all at home.

The funeral will be held on Thursday at 3.30 p.m. from the family residence in Lang to Keene cemetery for burial. Rev. G. Murray will conduct the service.

The Duce has starved them."

In one front-line town where Sisco and I broke the news of the collapse of the dictator, poverty-stricken inhabitants shouted "bravo" grabbed our hands and patted us on the back.

The citizens milled around the mainstreet, with the hulk of a destroyed German tank still at one corner, gesticulating wildly, laughing and shouting. It was one of the most unexpected spontaneous scenes I have ever witnessed.

We walked up to a group of Italian civilians and Siscoe asked them if they had heard the news. They hadn't.

Then he told them of Mussolini's resignation. The group of 20 crowded around us, shouted together, "Bravo, bravo," and clapped their hands.

A couple of youth said "Grazzia, grazzia," thank you, thank you.

This reception took me by surprise. I had seen civilians in every town we had occupied in Sicily give the troops the "V" sign in the march from the coast and sometimes cheer the invaders. But this was something I hoped I might see some day but never really expected—a group of people in a Fascist country expressing whole-hearted relief at the collapse of their dictator an dthe chance they see ahead for freedom.

Joyful Outburst

Siscoe and I made our way through the crowd and told another group standing beside the wrecked Nazi tank about the good news. There was an immediate outburst of joy and Siscoe was nearly mobbed. He was hugged by one husky fellow and walloped on the back as if he were a newly-elected party leader. He looked a little embarrassed by all this notoriety but kept his soldierly poise and told the gathering all we knew. In a few minutes the news had spread through the town, electrifying everyone.

I felt like a Woolcottian town-crier. The town was changed from a miserable Fascist down-trodden place into a place of high excitement and enthusiasm for the Allied cause. It couldn't have been a fake.

Overjoyed Sicilians vented their hatred of their Fascist overlords by tearing down Italian propaganda posters featuring big-jawed, virile-looking pictures of Mussolini. They threw rocks at Fascist emblems. One old man reached up to disfigure a painting of Mussolini's head on the wall of a buiding.

For the first time in Sicily I saw really happy Italians. Sad-eyed old women smiled and pretty, vivacious young girls who had been hiding in the cellars came into the streets, their eyes sparkling with joy.

3 Candidates' Names Placed In Nomination

Party nominations for the provincial elections were officially ratified during the prescribed hour between one o'clock and 2.00 p.m. today before the electoral returning officer, A. J. McClellan, in the Canadian Legion Hall.

Nomination papers submitted the names of the three Peterborough riding candidates which in their ballot alphabetical orders are:—

Alexander Leslie Elliott, barrister, City of Peterborough.

Bruce Johnston, township clerk, township of North Monaghan.

Harold Robinson Scott, lumber dealer, City of Peterborough.

Official agents for the three candidates are: W. F. Huycke, K.C., for A. L. Elliott, Liberal.

Fred H. Dearborn for Bruce Johnston, Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation.

John A. Bradshaw for H. R. Scott, Progressive-Conservative.

The three candidates and their agents were present, and others were G. K. Fraser, M.P., Wm. C. Grant, Gordon Powell and George Munroe.

Each nomination paper was required to hav: the signatures of one hundred qualified voters, and part of Mr. McClellan's duty was to determine whether the three hundred names were shown in the voters list.

Each paper actually listed more than the requisite one hundred.

Price Control Ration News

The Women's Regional Advisory Committee, Consumer Branch, Central Ontario, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—I have bene charged 72 cents for a six-ounce tin of lobster. Is this commodity under a ceiling?

A—Tinned fish is not under a ceiling, although the wholesale and retail mark-ups are controlled. If you would forward the name of the store where the lobster was purchased, we will have the matter investigated.

Q.—I have been charged 72 cents my food shop for two weeks in order to take a vacation, I will have to get a permit to re-open. Is this correct?

A—No. The regulations do not require a permit for the re-opening of a shop closed for a brief period to allow the operator to take a holiday.

Q.—My two girls were at summer camp from July 13 to 21. Coupons were taken from their books as follows: two sugar, four butter and three meat. Was this correct?

A.—No. For a one week stay at camp or hotel, the management is entitled to one butter and two meat coupons from each guest. The stay must be 14 days or longer before the management is entitled to remove coffee, tea or sugar coupons. If you will forward th name of the proprietor of the camp we will have the matter straightened out.

Q.—Is there no control over the prices of fresh fruits and vegetables and if not, why?

A.—Onions, potatoes, oranges and bananas have been placed under the price ceiling. Prices of the other fresh fruits and vegetables are being watched closely by the Board, but as yet no satisfactory method of controlling them has been devised. We are assured, however, that steps will be taken if the present high prices continue, even though it may mean radical changes in the present marketing methods.

275 Candidates Enter Election Race

By The Canadian Press

Candidates of three major political parties and of several smaller groups today prepared for the stretch drive in the Aug. 4 Ontario general election with official nominations scheduled for this afternoon in the province's 90 ridings.

An unofficial total compiled from nominations at party conventions shows that 275 candidates are preparing to enter the race, nine more than the 266 who contested the 1937 general election and 13 more than the 262 of 1934. The number may change today with the possibility of other candidates being nominated and some withdrawing.

The probable number of 275 candidates is the largest since the election of 1923 when 293 sought election. However there were 111 seats in the legislature at that time. In 1926 there were 241 candidates and in 1929 236 for 112 seats. There were 90 seats in 1934 and 1937 as well as in the present election.

Liberals Want Mitch

The Progressive Conservative Party led by Lt.-Col. George A. Drew leads in the number of nominations with 90—one in every riding—and one more than in the 1937 election when the only constituency in which the Conservative Party did not have an official candidate was Wellington South where Col. Drew ran as an Independent Conservative.

Premier Nixon's Liberal government forces have 89 candidates in the field and the only riding in which there is no candidate running as a Liberal is Elgin. There Mitchell F. Hepburn, former Liberal premier, is standing as an Independent Liberal. However, Liberal Party headquarters in Toronto says that Mr.Hepburn, who was nominated at a Liberal convention, is regarded as a candidate for the party. The Liberals had 86 candidates in 1937 although candidates in the other four ridings were regarded as favorable to the government.

The C.C.F. group led by E. B. Jolliffe is making its strongest bid for power in Ontario with 85 candidates likely to enter the field. In 1937 the C.C.F. had 37 candidates, although none was elected.

There are 11 candidates not affiliated with the major parties, compared with 54 in 1937. They are: Independent Liberals three; Socialist-Labor three; Independent-Soldier two; Independent Conservative one; Independent one; Labor one.

Crewmen said their bomb patterns covered 80 per cent of the field at Scalea, starting fires and subsequent explosions, and photographs indicated at least 20 grounded aircraft were destroyed.

With the German defenders of the Messina bridgehead strongly entrenched on the northeastern mountain line, Allied aircraft continued to support ground forces with scourging attacks on front and rear enemy bases.

R.A.F. Bostons and Baltimores made nine separate attacks upon Milazzo, 20 miles west of Messina, through which the Germans are getting reinforcements from the mainland. Bomb bursts covered railyards, docks, installations, waterfront buildings and quays. The R.A.F. formations suffered no loss, and only two enemy aircraft were sighted during these operations. The day's air activities destroyed five enemy planes, with three more Allied ships lost, the communique said.

Flier Escapes

SIMCOE, July 28 —(CP)—LAC. Harold Pickersgill of Hagersville training station was injured slightly when his plane crashed yesterday on a farm, north of Port Rowan, next door to his own home. His father was one of the first to reach the crash scene.

Niemoeller Again.

As far back as February demonstrations in Munich resulted in the execution of six young Catholic students at the University. All were said to have refused the Gestapo offer of mercy in return for naming additional leaders on the movement.

The work of military chaplains on the field of battle also apparently won the respect of the army, which prior to 1940 had been more or less indifferent.

The work of the clergy in ministering to homeless victims of Allied air raids may have been another factor in the growing trend.

Unconfirmed reports from Germany say that the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, Lutheran leader, has been removed from the Oranimburg concentration camp at Dachau. Niemoeller, long a foe of the Nazis, is said to have circulated letters throughout Germany advocating close co-operation between Protestants and Catholics.

Favors Pensions At 65 Gordon Reports

TORONTO, July 28. — Recommendation that Ontario should adopt the New Zealand plan of maternity benefits came last night from Hon. A. St. Clair Gordon, Provincial Treasurer, who promised to "find the funds without new taxation" if the plan is adopted.

In a radio address, Mr. Gordon declared he had recently discussed the New Zealand plan with Hon. Frederick Jones, Minister of National Defense for that country.

"The New Zealand scheme provides for certain allowances for prenatal advice and necessary medical cnsultation," Mr. Gordon said. "For the actual days of confinement, generaly two days, there is an allowance for the services of a trained or practical nurse and a further daily allowance for a post-natal period of aproximately 14 days. In Canadian funds the maternity benefits would probably run $30 to $40 per person; in Ontario the birth rate is slightly over 70,000 per annum.

"It is my firm conviction that the New Zealand plan of maternity benefits possesses great merits and is one that should be adopted by the Province of Ontario and made a part of our social service and health program," Mr. Gordon declared.

"I propose translating belief into action, for this great social benefit is one of the first measures we should deal with at the meeting of the Legislaive Assembly which follows the election. Personally, I am prepared to urge this upon the Government and, moreover, as Treasurer of the Province, I promise that I will find the funds without new taxation. By careful management of the finances I will save in interest sufficient to make available to the mothers of the new generation on a most generous scale, so that maternity benefits may find a permament place in our social service program."

Favors Old-Age Pensions

Mr. Gordon also declared he was in favor of a national old-age pension scheme which will ensure pensions at the age of 65 and said "the Province of Ontario can well afford to pay its share in such an enlightened national plan for old age pensions. I promise that I will urge this Government to make the necessary and appropriate representation to the Dominion Government, and will endeavor to have the other eight Provincial Governments do likewise," he said

"One thing I can assure you definitely and emphatically," he said. "We shall slough off unemployment relief, which is a relic of the old Bennett-Henry days. We propose to see that full employment is available to every one who is able and willing to work, employment of a kind that will be beneficial and profitable and that will add to the resources of the Province; employment at wages that will ensure a decent, comfortable standard of living and a brighter future for all our citizens."

He paid tribute to the "high character, sound judgment," of Premier Nixon and predicted his return to power with "a splendid working majority that will enable hime to guide this Province during the war and the difficult post war period that will follow when peace is declared.

Finances Sound

Of the Province's financial position, he said :"During the four years of war Ontario has shown the way by imposing no new taxation; loaning of our Provincial buildings, valued at millions of dollars, rent free, to the Federal Government; the purchase of $5,000,000 of Victory bonds to help "Back the Attack," and adopting a financial policy of accepting Canada's Victory bonds at par value in settlement of Ontario Succession Duties.

"I am happy to say in my capacity as treasurer of the Province that the finances are in a sound and healthy condition," he said.

In the year ending March 31, there had been a reduction in the net debt of $11,686,815; reduction in contingent liabilities of $2,505,000; reduction in funded debt of $7,868,000, and reduction in the Treasury bill debt of $6,500,000 he said.

"I call your attention to the fact that never in the history of either the Ferguson or Henry Administrations was a reduction of one single dollar made in the new debt of the Province," Mr. Gordon declared.

"The Liberal Government," he continued, "is planning for the future and is determined to plan with courage and vision and intelligence; happily, we can benefit by more than nine years of experience and by the knowledge that the finances of the Province are in such condition as to enable us to fulfill our promises and to carry out a magnificent postwar program that will be worthy of Ontario. We have a solid foundation upon which to build; whatever is good and worthy of being retained will be retained; whatever is outmoded will be cast aside and new measures adopted."

Off The Record

MIAMI, Fla., July 28.—(AP). — Rep. R. A. Green forgot during an address here his speech was being broadcast. Twice he made assertions which he quickly assured his visible audience were "off the record." The third time he spoke in confidence, he suddenly remembered the mike before him was "alive," and muffled it with his hand while he made his point.

Pull Plug Of Huge Lake To Mine Iron At Steep Rock

Here a dynamite charge has just been set off in Finlayson Lake in the Steep Rock mining area of Northern Ontario and set the water of the 12-mile-long lake rolling out at the rate of 3,500,000 gallons a day. The charge blasted about six feet of rock between the lake and a draining tunnel, which engineers had driven beneath its bottom. The newly released waters can be seen rushing down through the tunnel in the picture, LEFT, ABOVE. RIGHT are General D. Hogarth, of Toronto, Ont., president, and Cyrus Eaton, of Cleveland, Ohio, chairman of the board, at the scene of the blasting. The lake level is being drained so miners can get at a rich hematite iron ore belt, 150 feet below the surface. It is expected to mine millions of tons of the ore for the Allied war effort.

Campbellford Boy Wounded In Sicily

PTE. BOB MORRISON

CAMPBELLFORD, July 28 — (ENS). — This town's first casualty as a result of the campaign in Sicily was announced yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. George E. Morrison, Queen street, were officially notified that their son, Private Bob Morrison had been wounded in action. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison were advised that further particulars as to the extent of their son's injuries would follow.

Pte. Morrison enlisted in 1940 and went overseas two and a half years ago. He had been stationed in various parts of England prior to the invasion of Sicily, and according to the last communication received from him by his parents, he had been serving as a batman runner. Pte. Morrison was still in England when he informed his parents of this.

OBITUARY

MRS. JAMES McAVOY

CAMPBELLFORD, July 28 (ENS) —Funeral services for the late Elizabeth Johnston, 58, who passed away on Friday, following a recent illness, were held here Monday morning.

Widow of the late James F. McAvoy, she was born in Rawdon township, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Johnston. Mrs. McAvoy had been a resident of this town for the past thirty years and her quiet and friendly disposition made her a good neighbor and endeared her to a host of friends. Mrs. McAvoy was a member of St. Mary's church and in past years had taken an actice part in the Catholic Women's League.

Predeceased by her husband in October, 1940, Mrs. McAvoy is survived by one daugter, Irene, of town, and two sons, Vincent of Peterborough, and Pte. Francis of the R.C.O.C., Barriefield, and two grandchildren. Five brothers, George of Cushing, Oklahoma; Alex. of Rawdon; Edward of Crookston; David of Campbellford and William of Belleville; and four sisters, Mrs. Charles Pounder (Mary Ellen) of Campbellford; Mrs. Thomas Brennan (Catherine) of Campbellford; Mrs. William Forestell (Susan) of Codrington; Mrs. Peter Ryan (Fannie), Belleville.

Requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Joseph V. Collins at 9.30 Monday morning and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. Pat Shannon, John O'Sullivan, Thomas McAvella, John Bunnell, Eugene Dunlay, Thomas Doyle.

Police Arrest Wife

COBOURG, July 28.—(ENS). — Alleged to have been implicated in the robbery over which her husband was remanded to jail, Mrs. Bernard Martin was brought to Cobourg jail, following her arrest in Toronto during the week-end. Her husband, Bernard Martin, broke jail on Saturday afternoon by scaling the side of the jail building, leaping to the adjoining jail wall and gaining his freedom. He has not been captured yet. His wife is said to have been with him when he allegedly broke into a Port Hope residence earlier this month. He broke out of jail before she was interned.

Victory Geese

MILLBANK, July 28.— (CP). — Don't put all your eggs in one basket? If it's the victory basket, do! That seems to be the reasoning behind two diligent geese on the farm of David Cascho, just south of Millbank, who are doing their darndest to relieve the meat shortage. To date this year they had laid 53 eggs and hatched 48 goslings for market —their first 25 went marketward, so they laid another 18.

Pity The Bachelors

TORONTO, July 28.—(CP).—An unofficial survey of Toronto's smaller retail stores indicates more merchants may be closing up shop for a holiday this year than ever before. Only hardship reported arising from the situation involves the city's "summer bachelors." There have been those who called too late for shirts or suits and found them locked up for two or three weeks.

Ditch Digging Taboo As Post-War Measure

TORONTO, July 28 (CP)—Sub-Lt. J. H. Osler, C.C.F. candidate for Toronto St. Patrick's riding in the Ontario general election, told a meeting here last night that highway building and ditch digging will not provide satisfactory employment for men returning from overseas after this war.

"This time the great majority of the men and women in the services have learned trades and skills of many kinds," he sadi. "As full employment and quantity production has only been obtained in wartime by comprehensive planning, so too must we plan intelligently if we are to ensure full employment in time of peace."

Nixon Promises Floor Prices To Aid Farmers

CORNWALL, July 28.—(CP). — Premier Nixon of Ontario Tuesday promised "floor" or minimum prices for farm products in the postwar period, declaring that "as long as I am in public office" prices would not be allowed to fall to depression levels.

"If it is necessary in wartitme to set ceilings," he told a Liberal rally in Glengarry riding, "therefore it is just as necessary in the times after the war to establish floor prices to prevent prices from going down to devastatingly low levels.

"Never again should small exportable surpluses be permitted to drive prices down."

Mr. Nixon, who spoke earlier at nearby Alexandria, described the Progressive Conservative farm platform as "regimentation" and said he doubts if Ontario wanted to be regimented as he said farmers were in Britain. He said the farm policy

Reviewing The Session

The conclusion of the six months' session of our Parliament demands something in the nature of a general review. A two-foot stack of Hansard stands on top of our book-case as a witness of the prodigious amount of talking which was done, and it may fairly be said that perhaps a third of all that talking advanced the business of the nation. Some good work has been done during the past session, a few things have been bungled, and some other things have been overlooked entirely.

Enormous amounts of public money were disposed of. The war appropriations were in excess of three and a half billion dollars; votes for other expenditures amounted to $610,000,000, and there were supplementary estimates for an added $43,634,000. It has been said that the total of these sums is more money than was voted by all the Parliaments from Confederation until the close of the First World War. Certainly it is money as very few taxpayers understand that word and, we suspect, as only a handful of parliamentarians understand it. Nevertheless, it is our money, and it is contributed by us either in direct taxes or through voluntary subscription. That is why we do not like to see so many large amounts huddled through during the last hours of the session, when the M.P.s seem as eager to get home as boarding-school boys. If they had sat patiently in the House for the full six months, and had attended closely to the debates we might understand their anxiety to hurry away, but we know perfectly well that the House was often reduced to less than twenty members, and that as many members as usual employed it as a reading room and a convenient place for writing letters. It is an old story; a Parliament is no better than the men who comprise it, and the indifference of many private members to their duties and responsibilities is one of the scandals of democracy. If Parliament is not respected, as we are so often told that it is not, these gentlemen must take a large share of the blame.

The Speech from the Throne which opened this session contained many promises and a great number of them have been fulfilled. The pay-as-you-go income tax plan turned out to be less of a boon than many people expected, but that was not the fault of the Government, who promised only what they delivered, but who were misunderstood by too many optimistic citizens. Redistribution has been shelved, and the manpower problem is more complicated than before; Parliament seems far less concerned with this matter than the people who must keep up the business of war production. Still, in spite of these glaring failures to deal with important matters the session must be counted a satisfactory one, as sessions of our Canadian Parliament go.

But the sessions of our Canadian Parliament go far too slowly when they begin, and at a ridiculous speed when they near their close. The duty of Parliament is to do the business of the nation, but what private enterprise would conduct a board meeting by letting every member have his say on every subject if he did nothing more than cover ground already adequately dealt with? What company board would be so hurried in voting money which belonged to shareholders? As matters stand, our Parliament is at the mercy of the gasbag members who insist on being heard on every important question, whether they have anything to say or not. The debate on the Speech from the Throne rambled on for days, while members who clearly had no intention of touching on any significant aspect of the Speech gave their views on a variety of subjects. An examination of Hansard shows how many hours of the past session were consumed in third-rate oratory.

The remedy, of course, is to adopt the British system of alloting a certain amount of time for a debate on a fixed subject. Under that system each party selects the men who are to speak for it, and care is taken that they do not waste time or say what has been said before. Questions are in order, and statements of views by members who have not taken part in the debate, but these are kept in control, so that time is not wasted. Then the vote is taken and a new matter is debated. We all have seen how efficiently this system works. But Canada, which is approximately half a century behind Great Britain in its political thought and machinery, has not yet seen that the system of limited debates is the only way of getting Parliament's business done without scamping important matters. How long it will be before we wake up, no one can say. The slumber which deadens us to many matters of the utmost importance is profound, and even war has not roused us thoroughly.

The King Of Italy

It is not the task of any Canadian to criticize the work of the American Office of Wartime Information, which is so ably headed by Mr. Elmer Davis, but we cannot help wondering if that bureau really hopes to influence the Italian people by referring to King Victor Emmanuel III as "the moronic little king". Calling names is a poor way of fighting a war, and although the Axis have called our King, Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt every name that they could lay their tongues to, there is no reason why we should copy their bad manners.

Such information as we have does not lead us to believe that the King of Italy is a moron. All his life he has been handicapped by his lack of inches, but he has never suffered either from lack of brains or lack of courage. His training was that of an engineer and in his youth he possessed an astonishing memory; every sort of statistic concerning his own country and neighbouring countries was at his finger-tips, and he could quote references offhand for his statements on history. Indeed, we have it on the authority of the Queen Mother Mary that in his young days Victor Emmanuel was regarded in the courts of Europe as a "knowledge-box".

Nor was his record in the last war that of a moron. And when the war was ended he accepted Mussolini as the one man who could put Italy on her feet, which was a shrewd judgement at that time, however badly it went amiss. Since Italy entered this war there has been talk of the King as "senile", "gaga" and so forth, but he seems to have retained enough vigour to get rid of Mussolini.

Nothing is so easy as for a republican country to make fun of kings and call them names. But possibly a greater wisdom is shown by keeping to the truth.

Stigmas And Dogmas

It has truly been said that any stigma will do to beat a dogma, and this is never so clearly illustrated as at election time. The secret of electioneering—we shall not say successful electioneering, for that has yet to be proved—is to think of the nastiest thing known to you, and then to say that your opponent represents that thing. At present nothing stinks so pestilently in the nostrils of democrats as the fascist regime in Germany and Italy. Clearly, then, the political speaker who wishes to discredit his opponent should in some way link him with the Axis beliefs.

One Progressive-Conservative candidate in Toronto has told his hearers that if the Italian people had voted Mussolini out of power after ten years of Fascism, there would have been no war in Italy; the Liberals have had ten years of power in Queen's Park, and this profound political thinker feels that there is danger in leaving them there any longer. Yet another candidate of the same party, in the Toronto vicinity, has told his hearers that if the C.C.F. were to come to power in Ontario a dictatorship like that of Mussolini would immediately be set up in this Province. Clearly the Toronto politicians have been making the best use of the Italian debacle.

But does this sort of talk do any good? Does it impose upon anyone at all? We have quoted two Progressive Conservatives because their remarks are reported in the morning paper which we have at hand, but we could easily quote similar remarks from speeches by Liberals and C.C.F. adherents. A hellfire evangelist could take lessons from some of our political aspirants when they mount the stump. But do they make any converts?

NOTE AND COMMENT

The trouble with a three-cornered election is that it is so hard to run it on the square.

A Georgia man swallowed a glass of gasoline by mistake. No doubt he uttered fiery words to whoever poured the glass.

What Britain Is Doing

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THE latest book by J. B. Priestley has just reached me. No, it is not a novel; it is a sort of informal Government report, called "Britain At War," and it reads rather like a novel. One of the most interesting side-shows in Britain's war effort is her handling of official information of this sort. Instead of embalming it in blue-books which no one would ever read unless he had to, they get authors of the stamp of Priestley or Hilary St. George Saunders to write it in a readily comprehensible form, print it attractively, and distribute it widely. Government Information Without Tears, the process might almost be called. Admittedly the process is expensive, but it brings excellent results. When our Canadian parliamentarians, most of whom know nothing whatever about publicity, complain about the expense of our Wartime Information Board, they might reflect that Canada pays only a fraction of the British or American expense for her publicity. Propaganda of this sort costs money, but it is well worth it, for it carries conviction.

CARRYING conviction is J. B. Priestley's strong point as a writer. He has failed conspicuously at fanciful and philosophic writing, but at didactic or factual stuff he is hard to beat. Since the outbreak of war he has travelled widely through the United Kingdom, visiting the forces, the workers, and the people who are holding England's business together through the war days, and when he tells us what they think and how they behave we are sure that he knows what he is talking about. And he is talking about a fighting nation. The people who, between 1929 and 1939 declared that Britain was done for, that the old fighting strain was played out, that the politicians were all boobs, the intelligentsia all half-baked and the common people mere sheep, have had to eat their words. Britain looked dead, but she was only asleep, and when she woke up she was refreshed and valiant. When war came Britain went to work with a seriousness which she had not shown for twenty years. The result was what Priestley calls "prodigious, the greatest effort ever made by people of this island, and perhaps the most remarkable national effort in all history."

THAT "perhaps" is typically British. What other nation with a similar record would have hesitated to declare it the greatest of all time? But even though he proclaims himself as a licensed blower of the British trumpet, Priestley qualifies much of what he says. The result is convincing and sincere. His description of the condition of Britain after Dunkirk merits quotation: "Britain stood alone. Twenty-one miles from our shores was the most formidable military machine the world has ever known. A vast and ferocious air force was within an hour's flying time of our cities. North and East and South, we were ringed round with bombing planes and U-boats, and behind them the invasion barges were being assembled. The miracle of Dunkirk had saved most of our men, but it could not save all the valuable equipment. The desperate air battles in Belgium had dangerously reduced our fighter strength. We were in truth short of everything except the will to resist. And it was then that this nation rolled up its sleeves and gave the lie forever to the legend of decadent democracy. It was then that the men and women poured into the war factories and worked at their benches until they dropped with fatigue, that the vast citizen's army of the Home Guard kept watch on every hilltop each night, that all the network of Air Raid services was perfected, that all the great resources of this island were instantly placed at the disposal of the War Cabinet, and that the whole nation came out fighting. The old lion roared its defiance, the wolves and jackals hesitated and the world's freedom was saved."

THE story of Britain's fighting forces has been told many times, and a great story it is. But it pales beside the story of her civilians. Fighters are expected to be brave in the face of danger, and resolute in adversity. It has been usual to look on them as the guardians and protectors of civilians. But during the Blitz it was the British civilian who took the hard knocks; casualties among the armed services from bombing were few, but among civilians they were many. Opportunities for bravery among the armed forces were few, but among civilians they came daily. For the whole of the winter of 1940-41 it was a civilian's war, and they fought it as bravely as ever troops fought in the field. One person in every 500 of the population was killed or injured—a total of 96,000. One house in every five was damaged or demolished. But the civilians took it and, miraculously, they even managed to joke about it. "What's the army doing these days?" they asked, and the answer was "Knitting comforts for the poor bloody civilians." Now the army is doing something something rather more energetic than that, and the civilians are still behind them with production, incredible sums of money, and unfailing courage.

Elections in Wartime

Eire voted June 22.
South Africa voted July 7.
Ontario votes August 4.
Australia votes August 21.
New Zealand votes in fall.

If it is all right for Eire, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand to have wartime elections, is it all wrong for Ontario to have a wartime election? Ontario, of course, is only a province. Well—

Alberta voted March 21, 1940.
Manitoba voted April 22, 1941.
British Columbia voted October 11, 1941.
Nova Scotia voted October 28, 1941.
Ontario votes August 4, 1943.

If it is all right for Alberta, Manitoba, British Columbia and Nova Scotia to have wartime elections, is it all wrong for Ontario to have a wartime election?

Ontario has had no election since October 6, 1937.

The premier now in office has never been approved by the electors.

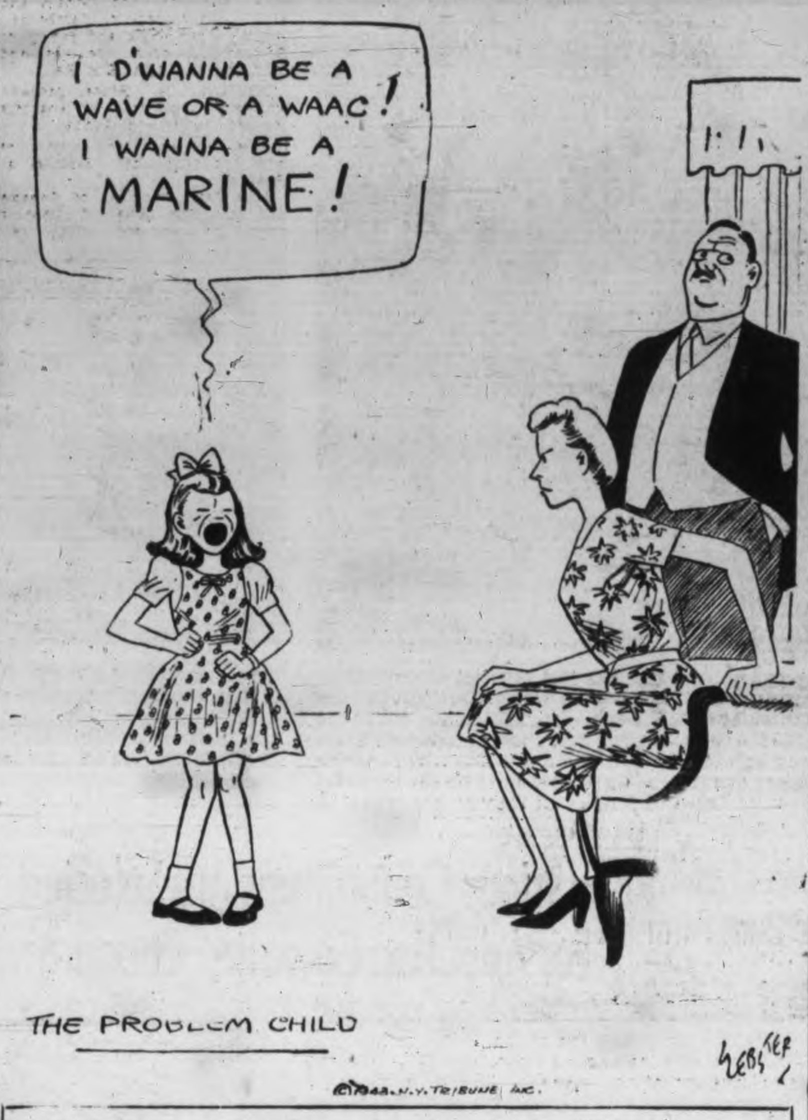
The premier the electors did approve is not even in the cabinet.

Ten seats in the legislature were vacant at dissolution; one out of every nine.

Ten by-elections would have been necessary in any event.

The legislature has far outrun its term. It has no mandate from the electors. An election is entirely justified by the circumstances, and Premier Nixon was right in deciding to hold one instead of clinging to office until the fall of 1944, as he might have done under the extended term which the legislature had voted itself. —Toronto Star.

LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT



Croquet in Luxembourg Gardens

THE game of croquet in the Luxembourg Gardens is, according to my taste, the most interesting sight in Paris. In the meanest American enclosure, in the simplest patch of land adjoining an habitant's house in the Province of Quebec, the site of the croquet is on grass; undulating, humpy perhaps, but on grass. In the Luxembourg Garden the hoops are set out in one if the broader paths not far from the Senate Chamber, a path with rugosities, idiosyncrasies, rotundities, readily perceptible even to the onlooker. The players are selected from among the rentiers of the neighbourhood. The French are (were) a most sensible people. Why add to golden numbers golden numbers? As soon as they have enough in the bank to yield them food, lodging, a chicken in the pot on Sunday, newspapers and loto at the cafe, and five francs a year to belong to the Croquet Club, they knock off work and begin to enjoy life. From among these sensible men two sides are chosen. I could not make out how many play at a time, but each side appeared to have a council of elders to decide upon a difficult play, and often at a crucial point the oldest, or the man of most character, acted as dictator, telling the player what stroke to make. Strategy, strength, skill, all were put to use, and the spectators along the sidelines watched as patiently as the fishermen, also rentier, on the banks of the Seine.—From "Memoirs of an Epicurean," by Henry Dwight Sedgwick. (Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merrill.)

Ilsley Sets A Limit

THE Federal Government has sponsored, and the House of Commons has passed, a bill replacing the farm debt legislation of 1934, maintaining the main provisions fo that act and extending the operating scope to Manitoba, which, by all accounts, stands in no need of the proffered help. This year's legislation contains a new provision that if two-thirds of a farmer's indebtedness were incurred prior to 1935, he may seek an adjustment of all his obligations, including those subsequently incurred. Cases which were composed before January 1, 1939 may be re-opened, and in place of the old boards of review the machinery is now to be administered by county or district courts, with a right of appeal to a single judge of the Superior or Appeal court in any one of the three prairie provinces.

Mortgage companies have expressed the opinion that prairie farm debtors do not need more legislative relief, that the mortgage position has improved, and that what is now proposed will react unfavourably upon new settlers seeking credit and upon the credit position of western farmers generally. Notwithstanding this argument, western interests, supported by provincial governments, urged the Dominion to establish what Finance Minister Ilsley has called an "open-ended" scheme of debt reduction. Mr. Ilsley, very properly, rejected this proposal. He was not prepared to accept a system under which, as he put it, debts could be written down without the debtor being obliged to divest himself of his assets. "That," said the Minister, "is a right which no other person in Canada has. It is a right which the farmer in eastern Canada does not want. It is a right which business men in the East would not ask for."

The Minister of Finance has allowed this farm debt legislation to go very far before closing the door again what might well be a wholesale cancellation of obligations upon which some investors have relied. There is great sympathy everywhere with the western farmer, whose lot has been difficult, but there is still some sense of justice which does not overlook the rights of those people who have lent their money in good faith. Mr. Ilsley himself thinks "that people should pay their debts if they can." Other people have thought the same thing for many generations. If they had not done so, credit would have collapsed and business would have gone with it.—Montreal Gazette.

At the Centre of Empire

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 28 —(CP)—The British people can take anything — except people telling them how they can take it.

Most men and women in high places who visit this country feel bound to lapse lyrical at least once in every speech and tell these people how grand they were to stand up under the blitzes of 1940 and 1941. They talk about Londoners' reaction to those blitzes as the "rebirth of the British race," the "lighting of a torch by which all mankind may guide itself," and—this is the most common line—of how "the magnificent way you conducted yourselves roused the admiration of all the free people of the world."

Those are fine words, but the British people are not built to like them. While they went through the blitz in a spirit of exaltation (so people tell me; I wasn't here, and I'm not going to join the ranks of judges from afar), losing their homes, fighting fires by night and working by day, suffering injury and personal loss, watching friends and relatives die without losing heart, they cringe every time a speaker gets that look in his eye and starts to tell them how they acted in the blitz.

"We know how we bloody well acted," a minor Labour official told me after one of these "London can take it" speeches. "We don't talk about it, and we don't like others to talk about it. I'm not trying to hurt anybary's feelings, but it bores us bloody rigid to have somebody come from three or four or eight thousand miles away and tell us how tough it was in the blitz and how well we took it."

Cockneys know, although they woudn't say it, that people who are scared but stick it out are brave, and those who aren't scared in the face of death are fools. They prefer just to say that they were scared, and call it human, with no bravery, cowardice or foolishness about it.

I won't mention the names of the worst "London can take it" offenders among visiting Canadians, because all these people have one saving grace—sincerity. They have felt admiration, have wanted to express it, and at last came to Britain and got their big chance.

Being here on such short visits, they couldn't really find out how the British dislike that kind of praise. But they are on the record—Canadian cabinet ministers first, followed by all the host of high-placed men and women who have visited this country for various reasons in the last two years.

People here hardly ever talk about the blitz any more although they may recall it in connection with some particular incident.

But they don't talk about losing their homes, or brothers or sisters, unless it's a simple explanation that once there was another member of the family, but "he was killed in the blitz."

Certainly they don't recall it as a heroic time. It was a filthy, homeless, destruction-filled, abnormal period of their lives that they hate to remember, and pray never comes again. They honour the men and women who fought and died in it, but they honour them by thinking of them, not talking.

"These rock formations," explained the guide, "were piled up here by the glaciers."

"But where are the glaciers?" asked a curious old lady.

"They're gone back, madam, to get more rocks," said the guide.

A Bible Message

I will mention the lovingkindnesses of the Lord, and the praises of the Lord, according to all that the Lord hath bestowed on us, and the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which he hath bestowed on them according to his mercies, and according to the multitude of his lovingkindnesses. (Isa. 63: 7.)

Thy mercy, O Lord, is in the heavens: and thy faithfulness reacheth unto the clouds....

How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings....

O continue thy lovingkindness unto them that know thee; and thy righteousness to the upright in heart. (Ps. 36: 5, 7, 10.)

Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love....

No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us. (I John 4: 7, 8, 12.)

Unconsidered Trifles

MacHamish: "I hear your friend Angus has marrit a third wife."

These Things Have Kept Us Free

Percy J. Philip, New York Times correspondent in Ottawa, has become a familiar speaker here in the last two or three years, but he has never been in happier vein than he was before the Montreal Rotary Club yesterday. In an address as rich in humour as it was in wisdom, Mr. Philip drove home a profound and serious point:

"In this (British Commonwealth) union, which is no more than one of loyalty to the symbol of the Throne, we have come through such a test as has set high example to the world of how it must be organized and conducted in the days to come, if it is to save itself from destruction by its own narrow passions and the weapons it has invented. On this Dominion Day you and we have reason for rejoicing, for it is these three things—national unity and independence, international unity and interdependence, and loyalty to what Mr. Churchill called last week 'the embracing golden circle of the Crown'—which have kept us all free nations."

Mr. Philip is a Scot, and the Scots have acquired in the last 200 years an ability to be genial and facetious about their local patriotism. They humourously patronize the English with a skill Mr. Philip displayed to good advantage yesterday, yet they are loyal Britons. This is a consummation devoutly to be wished, for all our internal nationalism. Let them be sublimated into a genuine, unselfish, unself-conscious patriotism, and we shall all know, as the United Kingdom has proved, how much a national unity in diversity can add to the strength of all its components.—Montreal Gazette.

SELWYN

Ladies Hold Quilting Bee

SELWYN, July 28 (ENS). — In place of the regular W.A. meeting the ladies of the Selwyn United Church held an all-day quilting bee in the hall on Thursday.

There were fifteen present and two quilts were quilted for Mrs. Stanley Northey. A delightful pot-luck dinner was enjoyed at the noon-hour.

Weiner Roast.

Misses Edna and Elva Elliott and Mrs. Jack Dawson (nee Toots Dobson) of Peterborough, were hostesses to about fifty of their friends at a weiner roast and dance, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs Alex. Elliott recently.

The early part of the evening was spent in playing games on the lawn, after which dancing was enjoyed on the sun-porch to music supplied by Mrs. Dorothy Pammett, of Peterborough, with her guitar, and Mr. J. Blewett, violin.

Personals.

The many friends of Sgt. Russell Elliott, R.C.A.F., who has spent the past two years overseas, will be happy to know that he has arrived home for an indefinite period. He is enjoying a month's vacation with his wife and family before beginning an extensive training course here in Canada. Russell is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott.

A large number of relatives and friends of Mrs. William Elliott attended the funeral of her father, the late E. Sanderson, of Lakefield, on Wednesday

Mrs. Sarah Preston and daughter, Eva, of Peterborough, have been renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity for the past few days. Mrs. Preston celebrated her ninetieth birthday in May, and despite her age she is very hale and hearty and enjoys going around. While here they stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs Bruce Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Ray Crapp (nee Verda Northey) of Chatham, N.B., arrived home last week for a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Northey, and other relatives. Her husband, Capt. Ray Crapp, R.C.A.F., came on Thursday to spend his vacation.

Miss Barbara Harrison of Peterborough is holidaying at the home of her sister, and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McIlmoyl.

Miss Joyce Forsythe of Lindsay is spending her vacation with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyl.

Pte. Donald Elliott of Kingston Military Hospital, accompanied by his wife and infant son, visited with Donald's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nan Elliott, last week.

Miss Emma Elliott of Peterborough spent a week's vacation with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fitzgerald, and other relatives.

Mrs. McKee Sr., and Mrs. R. T. F. Brain and daughter, Urala, of Peterborough spent some holidays the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Dean.

HP RATION-GRAM

Fish Croquettes

The French call them "CROQUETTES" . . . the English call them "fish cakes". But regardless of what you want to call them, here's a new "ration-saver" recipe that the whole family will like.

Mix 9 medium-sized, cooked, mashed potatoes with 1½ cups of shredded codfish, ¾ of a cup of milk, 2 beaten eggs and 1 tablespoon of H. P. Sauce. Form into small cakes and fry in fat until golden brown.

Be sure to use H. P. You'll be surprised at the appetizing difference this fine, old English thick sauce gives to foods. People the world over will tell you what a difference a dash of H. P. Sauce makes when served with meats, fish, stews, salads, fowl, soups, etc.

How will DOMINION SUCCESSION DUTY affect your Estate?

Owners of property, securities, or life insurance, should be familiar with certain provisions of The Dominion Succession Duty Act and know what it may mean to their dependents.

Leads Canadians Ashore In Sicily

Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds, head of the Canadian forces in Sicily, is pictured here leading his troops ashore, as his men began their invasion of the island.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

On Saturday last thanks to Mr. Shiner and Akela Bill King the St. Wolf Cubs were taken out to the Scout grounds to spend an afternoon in fun, swimming and tracking. Whilst the men were at work on the roof of the building Baloo Lawless and Raksha Baxter took the boys to the river where an enjoyable time was had. Returning to the grounds Akela Groombridge went out and was tracked down by the alert Cubs, Drew Buckland being the keen eyed Cub to first spot their leader under the scrub. Supper followed, then out went Baloo and Raksha but the Cubs failed to locate their hiding place.

Those working on the building were W. G. Shiner, Earl McNabb, Bill King, Jamie Collis, Alec McLeod and your scribe.

Looking over the work we feel that it needs some real organized gangs to get it finished in proper time. Up to the present there has been very little enthusiasm shown by a great many of the Scouters and we must congratulate those who up to date have put themselves out to get some of the work done.

Medicine Bottles

We again appeal for medicine bottles for the Local Training Centre. There is a real shortage of these bottles and we would appreciate a call from anyone having medicine bottles for us to pick up. Phone Mrs. Langhorne at 3896. The sizes needed most are ¼, 1, 2, 4 and 8 oz., also small ointment jars and face cream jars. Sauce bottles are of no use.

Going To Gilwell

On Saturday of this week Mrs. Kay Baxter and Mis Peggy Lawless will leave town to take up the Cub Leaders Training Course at Blue Springs Scout reserve near Acton, Ont. We wish them good hunting on their trip and good weather.

Rover Scout P.O. Eddie Pinn is in town on furlough. We noted his white uniform and thought he looked swell. PO. Pinn will leave on Sunday next to return to duty.

O.S. W.T. Les (Bud) Groombridge was also in town over the week-end. We understand that our president had a slight accident and suffered facial cuts, we all trust that he soon be completely recovered.

So important is Scouting experience considered in the Fleet Air Arm in Great Britain, that one of the questions asked of all recruits is, "Have you had any Scouting service or experience."

Those two distance stars, Gunder Hagg, Sweden's world-famous champion, and Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student, who ranks as one of America's best, are still at it. They have opposed each other several times with Hagg always the winner. Their next start will be at Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, O., July 31.

LAWN BOWLING

"Every dollar invested in War Savings Stamps in July will be spent for depth charges."—Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance.

And that is just the reason why our lawn bowling club is staging a big mixed tournament on Friday night. It is being done for one purpose and one purpose only—that of aiding the war effort. Need we say more?

The novice competition is now under way. The draw has been made and is posted up in the clubrooms. All new bowlers are asked to look for it and arrange their game. Tommy Doughty is the convener.

Red Ruffing Hurls First No-Hit Game

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 28.—(AP).—Pte. Red Ruffing, former New York Yankee mound ace, yesterday pitched the first no-hit, no-run game of his career.

Wearing the uniform of the Sixth Ferrying Group, Army Air Transport Command, Ruffing hung a 2-0 defeat on the Santa Ann Airbase team, led by his former teammate, Joe DiMaggio.

Whipping through a fast ball, reminiscent of his World Series days, Ruffing struck out nine batters, including the great DiMaggio, who also popped out on his other two appearances at bat.

Combines Fail To Hold Ten-Run Lead

Switchgears eliminated the Combines Tuesday night 17 to 16 in a see-saw softball fixture of the City Men's Loop. The losers were in a fair way towards capturing the game in the second frame when they piled up ten runs but Switchgears managed to score in practically every inning that followed and the decision came early in last half of the ninth when four men for the winners made the circuit.

Reynolds, hurling for Switchgears, allowed sixteen hits while Elliott, Combines pitcher, was hit fifteen times. Reynolds struck out one and walked one while Elliott struck out three and walked one.

Eight errors were committed by the winners against two for the losers.

Enter Play-offs

By virtue of the win, Switchgears enter the play-offs against as yet undecided opposition. On Thursday night Genelecs and Soldiers meet to decide a first place winner to meet the 4th Battery who won the bye last night. These semi-final games are sudden death.

Gerrard was first man to score for the Combines when he reached home after McCormick made first on an error but was later caught stealing second. Switchgears tied it up in the second half after Holmes singled and scored on Ashmore's single.

On seven hits, a walk and a sacrifice hit, Combines scored ten runs, a triple by Calladine being a feature of the innings, in the first of the second. Switchgears failed to score in the last half.

Combines went out in rapid succession in the first of the third but Switchgears piled up six runs in the last half on five hits and an error. Holmes, Carpenter, Ashmore, Maloney, Robertson and Reynolds were the scorers. In the fourth Combines failed to reach first but Switchgears again piled up an additional three runs to put them within one run of the opposition. Three costly errors were committed by Combines.

Combines in the fifth got one hit but failed to score but they held the winners down to three straight outs. Again in the sixth Combines failed to click but Switchgears had two men cross to put them one run up. Al. Holmes, who reaches first on a fielder's choice reached home when Ashmore completed the circuit in one hop on an error by Brockley.

In the seventh Combines again failed to score but they held down Switchgears to one run. Whitehill crossed on Jamieson's clout to centerfield which was muffed by McCormick.

Combines Rally In Eighth

Securing five hits in the eighth, Combines staged a five-run rally. Currie and Crary singled, Currie reaching home on Gerard's lofty fly to right field. McCormick's single drove in Crary. Calladine doubled and Brockley's fly to right field sent in McCormick. Dennie singled to send in Calladine. Craig's fly to right field, dropped by Whitehill, allowed Dennie to score.

Switchgears failed to score in the last half of the eighth and going into the first of the ninth, Combines failed to increase the lead.

On four hits and two errors, the winners had four men cross to win the game by one run, although none were out when the game closed.

Whitehill, Reynolds, Jamieson and Holmes each crossed in succession the latter coming in after Currie muffed the ball at third.

The Grand American Transport at Vandalia, Ohio, opens August 25 and runs for only three days this year, instead of eight as formerly. Each entrant had 1,900 targets in former years; now they'll have only 500. And each shooter must bring his own shells.

Orlando Trial Gets Underway

DETROIT, July 28.—(AP).—David Ferguson, part owner of a war plant in which hockey player Jimmy Orlando of Detroit Red Wings was formerly employed, told Federal Judge Ward Moinet yesterday that Orlando was transferred from an essential war job in office work last November, and that his draft board was not notified.

Orlando is charged with violation of the United States Selective Service Act. He received a 2-B classification last summer after Ferguson had informed the draft board he would be employed on an essential job.

Under cross-examination Ferguson said that he did not know it was his duty to inform the draft board when Orlando changed his work status.

Orlando was indicted on five counts, which carry a maximum sentence of 22 years in prison and $45,000 in fines. The trial opened yesterday.

Sport Shorts From Britain

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 28—(CP)—This may or may not connect itself with Prime Minister Churchill's reference to new war action before the falling of the autumn leaves, but Britain's 1943 racing season winds up a fortnight earlier than last year.

The Jockey Club, giving no reason for the shortening of the term, announced it would end Oct. 20 at Newmarket.

The St. Leger, only classic yet to run, will be held at Newmarket Sept. 18 and the first call-over revealed 34 horses entered. They include the first seven to finish in the Derby and the first four in the Oaks, the other two major classics held in June.

Bookmakers at the call-over made Persian Gulf, owned by Lady Wernher and a surprise fourth in the Derby, a 6-1 nominal favorite for the St. Leger. Those odds came as a surprise to most turf followers who could see no real reason for the racer's position at the head of the market.

In announcing fixtures for the second half of the season which starts Aug. 1, the Jockey Club revealed that the same five courses, Newmarket, Ascot, Salisbury, Windsor, Pontefract and Stockton, will be used as in the first half. Newmarket and Pontefract will have five meetings each, Ascot and Stockton four each and Windsor and Salisbury three apiece.

All meetings will last one day with the exception of Newmarket. There, all but one will be for two days.

Appropriately enough, this football team calls itself he "Peg-Legs." Every member has a wooden leg. They're prisoners of war in a German camp and the team was revealed by one of the boys in a letter home. The camp houses amputation cases only.

This was all in the line of duty—not supposed to be sport but "It was the most wonderful thing in the world. The stars above and the earth below, and you could heard the aircraft going away."

Thus did Sgt. Roger (Eddie) Paquin of Montreal describe a parachute jump he and eight others made from a Liberator caught in a gale and fog over England after an anti-submarine patrol over the Bay of Biscay. They jumped from 7,500 feet.

Paquin said he had never seen such politeness. "It was, 'after you, Alphonse,' and, no, you first, Gaston."

Canada's Top Twirler To Be In Game

Announcement that Cam Ecclestone will do the twirling for the local all-star team in tonight's big game with the Tip Tops of the Toronto Fastball league was received with great joy in the Petes' camp. Ecclestone is ranked top softball twirler in Canada and his addition to the local squad gives them better than an even chance to take the Tip Tops. Eddie Starr will do the catching for "Ekky."

With the entire proceeds going to the Kinsmen's Milk for Britain Fund and ten big gate prizes to be drawn for, one of the largest crowds to ever witness a ball game will be on hand tonight at Riverside Park when the umps send the teams away at 6:45 o'clock. The admission price will be 25 cents.

Manager Sam Shefsky is bringing his entire squad and big 'Suz' Turner will do the twirling for the Toppers with Don MacKinnon receiving. Turner pitched Tip Tops to a win last night in the Toronto Fastball League and allowed but one hit. This makes about four one-hitters this season.

Harry Morgan, who will manage the Petes, says the local squad is evenly balanced and should give a good account of themselves and with Ecclestone on the mound look stronger than ever.

The ten gate prizes, including two $10 War Savings Certificates, donated by the Hotelmen's Association, will be drawn for during the game.

Genelecs and Soldiers Meet

Soldiers and Genelecs will play a sudden-death game Thursday night, the winner to meet the Battery, who won the bye, to decide first-place in the Men's League.

In the draw for the bye Eddie Starr beat out Howie Dalton of the Soldiers and Ted Johnston of the Genelecs. With three teams tied for first-place it was decided to play sudden-death games, and the winner of Thursday night's struggle will therefore meet the Battery. The first-place team will meet the Switchgear in the best three-of-five and the second and third teams will stage a similar series.

Both Genelecs and Soldiers have been playing a number of exhibition games to keep in practice. The Genelecs were in Oshawa Saturday night for a game and will have the Oshawa club back here this Saturday.

Soldiers have three twirlers ready for action, Johnny Walker, Jack Wilson and Tommy Parsons. Genelecs also have three pitchers ready to go, Ron Akers, Terry Moore and Bill Moorhead.

Both teams are strong at bat and in the field, with the Soldiers having a slight edge defensively. The game is billed for 7:00 o'clock sharp Thursday night at Riverside.

TORONTO, July 28—(CP)—Dick (Port Arthur News-Chronicle) Elliott is the latest diagnostician to ponder the conditions of sports in Canada, prompted perhaps by the "sport is dead" crack in this column a few weeks ago. Stethoscope in hand, Dick decides the patient "is not dead—just dormant". But Dick goes deeper than that. In his best beside manner, he declares peace may bring a new concept of sport as a vehicle for mass participation rather than for lavish spectacle and brilliance of performance. Such a concept, he believes, would "restore initiative to the masses, make the citizens more self-sufficient and less dependent on other for their athletic recreation. For a time at least the postwar days may delete the word 'shamateur' from sports lingo. . ."

Then Dick grows a little glum:

"Once the world is full recuperated.. the almighty dollar no doubt will creep back to its former high place."

Equine Echoes:

A Winnipeg undertaker engaged a rider named Dye to ride the filly Arcadella .. And when Four in Hand returned an appropriate $44 place mutuel at Fort Erie, the Toronto Globe and Mail wondered: "Can you tie that. . .?" Sudden Shake-up Astonishes Baseball World

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Clubhouse friction was reliably reported to-day to be the main reason why Bucky Harris was dismissed last night as manager of the National League Phillies in a move that astonished the baseball world.

Coming on the heels of the Phils' double defeat at the hands of the first place St. Louis Cardinals, who stretched their winning streak to 11 in a row, the news of Harris' ousting and the announcement of Freddy Fitzsimmons, Brooklyn pitcher-coach, as his successor, surprised most diamond followers.

Harris said at St. Louis "apparently Mr. Cox (William D. Cox, new owner of the Phils) means to call me some time and tell me of the change. At that time I expect to get the explanation I feel is in order."

Everything was lovely last February when Cox signed the former 'boy wonder" as manager. Since the start of the season, however, Cox has frequently visited the players in the clubhouse after the game.

This was perfectly all right until, the grapevine reports, Cox, among other things, declared he couldn't understand why the club wasn't fighting for the lead. Harris is reported to have suggested diplomatically it would be better if Cox, as president of the club, sent for the players he wished to talk to instead of seeing them in the clubhouse.

This apparently didn't set well with Cox.

This latest twist to a "what's-gonna-happen-next" season overshadowed the Cards' winning streak, longest of the season, and virtually shoved out of sight the fact that to-day is the second war relief day of the season for the major leagues.

Back on June 30, a total of 134,578 fans paid $147,391 into the treasury of National War Relief, Inc The clubs hope to-day's program, highlighted by Babe Ruth's return to the Yankee stadium as a one-day manager, will exceed both marks.

The pitching of Murry Dickson and Howie Krist brought the Cardinal victories by 6-2 and 5-2 to boost their lead over the idle Dodgers to 9½ games.

Yanks Win in 13.

The most exciting game was in New York where the Yankees and Cleveland Indians battled 13 innings before a single by pinch hitter Bill Dickey scored Bill Johnson from second base for a 4-3 triumph.

Pittsburg, kept out of second place on Monday when Brooklyn's Arky Vaughan socked a grand slam homer, started a new drive for the runner-up spot by beating New York Giants, 8-5. Three home runs by Maurice Van Robays, Tom O'Brien and Bob Elliott accounted for six of the Pirate runs.

Boston Braves moved over the Phillies into sixth place by defeating Cincinnati, 6-2, as Jim Tobin scattered seven hits in gaining his ninth win of the season.

Trailing by three runs going into the eighth, St. Louis Browns tied the score, then bunched four hits for four runs in the ninth to beat Philadelphia Athletics, 8-4. Chicago White Sox, helped by Gordon Maltzberger's relief pitching, defeated Washington, 6-5, in a night game.

The Dodgers, Cubs, Red Sox and Tigers were idle.

Rochester Defeats Syracuse Twice

By The Associated Press

If the aging arms of Blix Donnelly and Ira Hutchinson hold out, Pepper Martin's Rochester Red Wings may yet give the International League's leaders an argument.

That probably won't come until the playoffs, for Rochester hasn't been up to the .500 mark all season while Toronto's league-leading Maple Leafs are coasting along with a .612 average. But by taking a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs yesterday, 7-3 and 6-2, Rochester moved into a tie with Syracuse for fourth place—a lot higher than the Wings have been most of the season.

Donnelly, who pitched Sunday, came back with only one day's rest, to start last night's first game. He lasted five innings before Fred Schmidt relieved him and, although touched for 10 hits, had only one bad inning. Hutchinson hung up his 11th victory of the season in the second contest, scattering a dozen hits while the Red Wings scored five runs in the first inning.

Newark's second-place Bears improved their position even more than Rochester by taking a doubleheader from Buffalo Bisons, 4-2 and 4-3. For Toronto lost a single 4-2 decision to Jersey City and third-place Montreal took a double drubbing from Baltimore Orioles, 3-2 and 4-1.

Jersey City, breaking a four-game losing streak, pounded Luke Hamlin for six hits and all four runs in the first inning then coasted home on the effective flinging of Bobby Coombs.

Steve Rosar's five-hit hurling and Gene Corbett's fifth homer of the season were the big factors in Newark's first victory. The second game, a duel between Joe Page and Mike Roscoe, was decided by Newark's two runs in the seventh and last inning. Joe Dwyer's pinch double was the big blow.

Baltimore took the first game despite five-hit pitching by Montreal's Deforge and home runs by Dom Castro and Bibby Brack. The second tilt saw both managers, Fresco Thompson of Montreal and Tommy Thomas of Baltimore, ousted for arguing with the umpires. The Orioles got only five hits this time, but Ed Klieman, who gave eight, was effective as he won his 18th game of the season.

Dies Overseas Campbellford Flier Gets D.F.M.

OTTAWA, July 28.—(CP).—The R.C.A.F. yesterday made public citations covering the award of three Distinguished Flying Medals, three Distinguished Flying Crosses and a Bar to the Distinguished Flying Cross including the D.F.M. to Sgt. Cameron McKenzie Goudy of Galt, Ont., who hid fatal wounds from his crewmates until after the aircraft was out of the danger zone.

Goudy, 26, was wounded over Cologne early in July and died a few days later. His wife lives at Campbellford, Ont., and his father, Edward O. Goudy, at (127 Grand Ave. S.) Galt.

Goudy's R.A.F. pilot FO. J. Hall, is not a Canadian but he trained in Canada under the British Commonwealth air training plan. He received the Distinguished Flying Cross for his role in the same raid.

Rare Courage.

Sgt. Goudy—"One night in July, 1942, FO. Hall and Sgt. Goudy were captain and rear gunner respectively of an aircraft detailed to attack Cologne. When nearing the target area, the bomber was intercepted by enemy fighter but FO. Hall evaded it. A few minutes later the aircraft was illuminated in a cone of searchlights and hit by anti-aiar craft fire, but FO. Hall held to his course and pressed home his attack.

"Almost immediately the bomber was hit by gunfire from an enemy fighter and sustained severe damage. Skilful evading action enabled FO. Hall to fly clear of the defences and course was set for base.

"At the beginning of the action, Sgt. Goudy was seriously wounded, sustaining a fracture of the hip bone and pelvis, splinters of which pierced organs in the abdomen. In spite of this, Sgt. Goudy refrained from informing his captain of his injuries until another wounded comrade had received attention.

"During the return flight he remained constantly alert to the possibility of enemy interference and gave reassuring replies to his captain's repeated inquiries as to his welfare. On reaching the English coast, morphia had to be administered to him, as the pains from his injuries were unendurable.

"FO. Hall succeeded in reaching an airfield where he landed without the assistance of flaps. In the face of a trying ordeal he displayed outstanding skill, courage, and determination, while Sgt. Goudy's indomitable spirit, fortitude and tenacity were worthy of the highest praise."

alone. Speedy Mosquito bombers carried forward the attack Sunday and Monday nights.

In addition to the heavy assault on Hamburg medium bombers swept across the Channel last evening to attack the airfield at Schipol in Holland. Four enemy fighters were destroyed in combat but no Allied aircraft were lost, the Air Ministry said.

R.C.A.F. Spitfires flew with the bombers as escort, an R.C.A.F. communique said today, and destroyed two enemy fighters. All Canadian planes returned safely.

France Hit Too.

Allied aircraft maintained the terrific schedule of attack upon German targets throughout the day yesterday. United States medium bombers protected by Canadian fighter planes staged a daylight raid upon the airfield at Triqueville in France while twin-engined bombers pounded other targets in northern France.

Light bombers escorted by R.C.A.F. fighters struck at Zeebrugge on the Belgian coast in another daylight attack and returning pilots said that there was no opposition from enemy fighters. An R.C.A.F. communique said one Canadian fighter was missing but the pilot was safe.

Five hundred-pound bombs were dumped upon airfields in Courtrai, Belgium, and Woensdrecht, Holland, by bombers escorted by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Spitfires. Other Spitfires swept over German territory from Ypres in Belgium to Hulst in Holland.

The Air Ministry news service reported Allied aircraft destroyed 15 German planes yesterday and last evening. A German bomber was shot down over the Channel and nine Focke Wulf-190's were destroyed by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Spitfires escorting American medium bombers to the Tricqueville attack in addition to four Messerschmitts shot down as they attempted to break up the raid on Schipol. The fifteenth plane was shot down over the Channel by Spitfires on rescue patrol.

encirclement and capture of Orel.

The outflanking tactics were working well, the Russians said. One unidentified railroad station was reported seized by encirclement when terrific land and air resistance halted the Russian frontal attack. The Russians feinted a frontal attack and sent the main forces around the flanks and to the rear. The threatened Germans retired to escape capture, the Russians said.

Smash 14 Tanks

The Red army war machine captured an important hill and several villages on the drive north of the city toward the Bryansk railway, the communique said, killing about 400 Germans and smashing 14 tanks and four armored cars.

East of Orel the Germans launched several counter-attacks which were beaten off, the Germans leaving 800 dead and 18 tanks and six self-propelling guns on the field, the war bulletin added.

The Nazis were reported striving to hold an intermediate line south of Orel to bar the way to the right flank of the Russina pincer movement but were giving ground under Red army pressure.

The war bulletin said Germans had counter-attacked Russian positions in the area southwest of Voroshilovgrad but that all were repelled with heavy losses.

South of Izyum in the Donets Basin Soviet gunners smashed 40 German firing positions, two six barrelled mortars and searchlight installations.

captured Poles as saying there were 300 Poles in an artillery regiment opposing the Canadians.

Allied aircraft swept over a number of airfields on the Italian mainland, bombing those at Capodichino and Monte Corvino Ravella on Monday night and the airdrome at Catua Scalea by daylight yesterday. Hits were scored on hangars and runways and among parked aircraft.

Railway communications in Southern Italy also were attacked by light bombers.

In sicily light bombers raided the small port of Milazzo on the Northern tip of coast and raked roads and rail communications.

Intruder aircraft operated over Southern Italy Monday night.

In all the air activity five enemy oirplones were shot down and three Allied planes were lost, the communique said.

The Americans are slashing forward on a deep front along the north coast, and have also captured Alimena, 25 miles southeast of Cefalu and four other towns behind a line from Cefalu to Alimena.

The other four are Petralia, nine miles north of Alimena; Collesano, nine miles southwest of Cefalu; Calteveturo, 17 miles southwest of Cefalu; and Polizzia, just forward of Calteveturo.

More prisoners have been taken it added, without specifying the number.

The British 8th Army at the outskirts of Catania sent patrols exploring the German lines, but there was no sign when General Montgomery might launch a powerful offensive.

American pressure along the north coast obviously was mounting against newly-established German positions. The communique itself had "nothing to report" from this 7th army sector.

Oft - bombed Capodichino airdrome near Naples sprouted huge fires Monday night when R.A.F. Wellingtons delivered heavy attack. Returning airmen saw explosions 20 miles from the target.

R.A.F. Liberators and Halifaxes from the Middle East pounded the air field at Reggio Calabria on the toe of the Italian boot Monday night and Tuesday morning in another blow to knock out Axis air power. Beaufighters also struck at Axis shipping in the Aegean Sea. Both operations were completed without loss to Allied planes.

American heavy bombers smashed at Capua air field north of Naples for the first time and destroyed three of 15 to 20 enemy interceptors. Scalea airfield on the toe of Italy was hit by American fighter - escorted medium bombers.

Post-War Job Too Big For Old Parties

GUELPH, July 28 — "The most important Provincial election in history," was the emphasis placed upon the forthcoming Ontario election by J. W. Noseworthy, C.C.F., M.P., for South York in an address in the City Hall here last night. Mr. Noseworthy was addressing a gathering in the interests of Leslie Hancock, B.S.A., C. C. F. candidate.

"We must keep two periods of history in mind," said Mr. Noseworthy. "The period following the victory of 1918, and the period of the 1930's. The problems confronting the Governments in power during those periods will be the problems confronting the government in power at the end of this war. But the old parties failed utterly to find any real solution to their problems during those emergencies."

He then asked the audience if any one present could point out any reason to believe that the old parties could do any better this time. "Both propose to meet the coming emergency by the same old methods. Both are not capable of making the radical changes necessary to handle the situation," he stated. "The end of this war will see the end of an era. The coming years will require a party with courage to make the necessary changes—that party is the C.C.F."

"Our basic organization is, and has always been completely democratic. We swear allegiance to no party leader, nor to any private interests," said Mr. Hancock, C.C.F. candidate. "I will act, not necessarily as I think I should act, but as you, my electors, wish me to act in the Legislature."

OBITUARY

OTTAWA, July 28 — (CP).—A. M. Shaw, chairman of the Special Products Board, said yesterday it seems likely the Dominion will have enough eggs for home consumption next winter.

Fliers Killed

MONTREAL, July 28 — (CP). — Names of two R.C.A.F. fliers killed in a crash Sunday near Pendleton, Ont., were released yesterday—Flt.-Sgt. B. T. Moffatt, Vancouver, and LAC. J. K. Stevens, Kingsbury, Que.

Prices Board Watches Fruit Costs

Prices of fruit and vegetables not placed under ceilings are being watched closely by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, it was stated to-day by W. E. Foley, local manager.

"But as yet no satisfactory method of controlling them has been devised," Mr. Foley said. "We are assured, however, that steps will be taken if the present high prices continue, even thought it may mean radical changes in present marketing methods."

The prices of onions, potatoes, oranges and bananas are under ceilings now.

Those who are planning to burn coal this winter, Mr. Foley said, are required to fill out special forms stating their willingness to accept 25 p.c. of their supply in soft coal. If a consumer is not agreeable to this, he must show in the form that he is willing to take only 50 p.c. of the amount used last year. Before coal can be delivered, it was added, each consumer must fill out a form agreeing to the arrangement. Forms are available at the local W.P.T.B. office.

Handwriting On Wall

MAIN STREET TOPICS

FALSE ALARM

Someone set off an alarm at Box 7 at the corner of Dalhousie and George street, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, but it proved to be a false one, the Fire Department reported.

BLOOD DONORS.

Sixty-nine persqons contributed their blood to the Red Cross blood plasma fund Wednesday morning. Among them were groups from Lindsay, Gore's Landing and Bailieboro.

COUNCILS TO CONFER.

The councils of North Monaghan and the city are meeting in the committee room at the Court House this evening "to discuss further the problem of annexing a part of the township with a view to reaching an agreement."

NO CONTAGIOUS CASES.

None of the beds at Queen Mary Hospital is occupied, Dr. R. B. Kelly, acting M.O.H., told the Examiner to-day. "Public health in Peterborough seems to be very satisfactory," Dr. Kelly said. "We have had few isolation cases since I took charge. Our Well Babies' clinic and immunization treatments have already shown increased attendance, and I hope mothers throughout the city will take full advantage of this service. We hope this increase will continue from week to week."

MILK FOR BRITAIN.

The Milk for Britain Fund has received a donation of $3.00 from the employees of the Brinton Carpet Company, making a total of $83.00 already contributed by the employees of this firm and bringing the total of the fund up to $11,705.74.

FARM COMMITTEE HELPER.

O. O. Simmers, teacher at the Peterborough Collegiate leaves today for the London district where he is combining pleasure with duty and is going to assist in the Commando farming tactics.

ONION BREATH PATRIOTIC.

The lowly onion to the front. According to a Columbus, Ohio, dispatch, onion breath no longer constitutes a social error. Anyone who has any kind of a garden at all has onion in it. Few vegetables are more succulent, more juicy, or more tasty than young onions. The effects of the onions on the breath? Forget it. This is war time. What is the use of a war garden unless you can enjoy the fruits thereof? When you detect a delicate onion odour on the breath of someone else, shake his hand, for he is a loyal toiler in a Victory Garden and doing his best to beat the Axis, ready to contribute his last, strong breath for victory.

Night Buying Of Beer Starts

Change in the hours of sale at the brewery warehouse, Water street, presumably accomplished in the first experience last night the purpose of meeting objections of factory workers who had complained that previously they were prevented from obtaining a share of the beer which was purchased in the day time by persons who were not restricted by factory hours.

The warehouse was open from 6 p.m. until sometime after 10 o'clock when the day's quota was disposed of.

According to the experiment of night sales the new hours are from 6 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays until the daily allowance is gone or until 11 p.m.

The warehouse will be open Civic Holiday and also the beverage rooms, but the liquor store on George street will be closed on Monday, Civic Holiday, and also on Wednesday, August 4, election day, when the warehouse and beverage rooms will all suspend business for the entire day.

Raps Duplessis

OTTAWA, July 28 — (CP). — Prime Minister King said yesterday in a letter to Maurice Duplessis, Quebec Opposition Leader, he would "be failing my duty to uphold the prerogatives of Parliament if I consented to the official intervention of a member of a Provincial Legislature" on redistribution of Federal constituencies.

Report Cpl. Shaw War Casualty

Word has been received by Mrs. Hiram Shaw, 607 Young street, that her son Cpl. Howard F. Shaw has received a gun shot wound in his right leg as a result of action in Sicily. He is the second Peterborough casualty.

CPL. HOWARD SHAW

Cpl. Young enlisted in 1939 at the age of 16 and went overseas at the age of 17 in 1940 and has been attached ot the 1st Division since that time. He had been with the Prince of Wales Rangers (R) since he was 14 up until he went active. His father is serving with the Veterans Guard of Canada and is at present stationed in Washington, D.C.

A week ago, Mrs. Shaw was notified that her son had been wounded and on Tuesday further word was received describing the wound as slight and giving the nature of it. The telegram stated that more word would be sent as soon as possible.

Promoted

TORONTO, July 28.—(CP).—Official word of the promotion of Wing Cmdr. Denton Massey of Toronto to the rank of group captain overseas was received here yesterday.

Stamp Out Clubs Give Help On Depth Charge

On the home stretch, no matter what the race or objective may be, there usually is an extra effort put forth to excel, and in the realm of all campaigns that this city has taken part in, this has proved to be the case.

This is the final week of the extra effort made to help the Navy through the purchase of war savings stamps, a well worth-while job, and particularly so when one remembers just what the Navy has meant to every living soul in this Dominion, and no matter what else is done, this particularly deserves the support of all who give their assistance which after all, returns to the giver with a good return on his money at a later date.

The Stamp Out Hitler Clubs were organized as a help to the general war effort, with the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund having a share to give assistance to the Empire cause in another direction, and when the special campaign started, they took up the challenge to help do their bit on filling this city's quota of Depth Charges, and incidentally in so doing for every certificate purchased there has appeared $1.00 in this column for the fund.

Fine Record

Their latest contribution through Bob Everett who has also been quite active in the campaign to make it such a success, is $11.00 which is listed today, which means that represents practically half of another depth charge has been purchased in this latest report from the clubs. This group has now given a total of $167.00 to the fund signifying that they have also bought 167 certificates of the $5 par value type to give assistance to the general war effort.

This week's winners were M. Welbourn and D. Cranley in the Deemer's Shoe Shine Parlor Clubs, N. Driscoll in the very consistent Canada Packers Clubs, Teddy Blackshaw in the Theatre Club, Capt. Jones in the Fire Dept. Club, H. Eastwood in the Empress Hotel Club, John Naples in the Police Dept. Club, A. Cauley in the Theatre Club, Fred McMillan and Orville Sellon in the Selkirk's Men's Shop Clubs and W. Richardson in the Kiwanis Club.

Saturday's market effort was one entirely by Mrs. J. E. Parker of Norwood who supplied the donations of cucumbers, beets, eggs, pie and huckleberries and then sold them herself at the stall to raise $3.30 for the fund. At this time it might be stated that Mr. Parker has taken a number of tickets to sell for the Gladiolus and Aquarium show to be held on August 11, another indication of how well this family is willing to help things along, their previous work now having made a total of $1,066.55 to help the people of Britain.

Love's Memory Helps

Another of those splendid tributes to those who have passed on is listed today under the heading of "In loving memory of my dear mother Mrs. George Sloan, who passed away on July 28, 1942 by her daughter Barbara". Truly a splendid way to pay tribute by giving help to those in need.

The penny box at the Empress Hotel continues on its weekly basis with another contribution of $2.60, being one of the foremost in this type of assistance through the beneficient supervision of Chris. Graham.

Soldiers Too Busy To Think Of Voting

CORNWALL, July 28 (CP)—Premier Nixon of Ontario said here last night in an election address that he had received a cable from Col. Colin Campbell, former Ontario Public Works Minister, saying that individual Ontario soldiers overseas show "little interest in the forthcoming Ontario general elections because their thoughts "are centred on other problems."

Col. Campbell is overseas with the Royal Canadian Engineers.

His cable said the distribution of voting proxies to Ontario soldiers overseas was "well done," and added:—

'Individuals have little interest in doing their part as their thoughts are centred on other problems. Nothing but compulsion can change this and this is not recommended. Looks at present like very small number of signed proxies."

Steady Buyers Will Get Priority

How is your standing in the honey trade?

Do any of the producers recognize you as a customer, with some ingratiating claim to priority when the new crop is being passed out?

If you have no rating in the front line, up with the primary producers, you will have to retreat to the secondary position, the retail stores. They will probably be enterprising in rounding up a share of the 1943 product, and that is about your last hope.

"If you haven't made friends of the mammon of iniquity" is a caution to remember even with the mild mannered and amiable avian fraternity. Human nature being as it is and always will be, places preferential regard in present importunity for a can of honey upon your past poundage purchases. In brief, if you haven't been buying enough heretofore to call the producers Allan or Barney or Offa or whatever his name is, you are going to miss the Hyblan sweetness the bees have made this season.

Know Right People

Comes to mind that little question of universal application, when you or a friend go questioning for honey: "Do you know anybody?"

For instance one of the bee men told the Examiner that some farmers have called at his place and bought up to fifty and sixty pounds. Probably most of them are neighbors, and as usual and by right of production they are close to the food line.

If there was any honey on the market Saturday the Examiner missed it. The main producers of the district, who in other years would be week-end distributors, are make some other use of their Saturday time.

Selling honey is a minor worry. The quality of new honey is excellent in its first run, but the weather and the winter cut deeply into some of the hives, and the industry has only a diminished stock on hand, although there is August to hear from.

Flooded With Calls

"You printed something in the Examiner a few weeks ago, and we have had so many callers and telephone callers since then that I have hardly been able to get my work done," said the wife of one producer. "For goodness sake don't write anything more about it."

The trade indicates that practically all the local crop has been sold already or "spoken for." There is some margin of supply that has been held from the earliest and keenest buyers, but it is not likely to last long.

Producers haven't enough honey to warrant them coming to market, but there may be a few "token" appearances just to maintain old connections.

Japs Carry On

NEW YORK, July 28 —(AP)—Domei, Japanese agency, in a broadcast by the Tokyo radio, said Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemutsu told the Japanese cabinet yesterday Japan's war policy will remain unchanged despite any new developments which may follow the resignation of Mussolini. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

They're Fired

TORONTO, July 28 —(CP)—Mr. Justice Gilanders of the Ontario Labor court ruled yesterday that one-time employees who went on strike from the Galt Brass Co., Ont., and not since re-employed can not vote to determine the plant's bargaining agency.

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 28, 1918—Allies advance on 20-mile front to depth of four miles, forcing the Ourcq River. Canadians made two successful raids near Gavrelle and British made raids in the Morlancourt sector. Anthenay and Olisy-et-Violaine villages captured by the French.

Rangers Given Special Drill At Connaught

The Prince of Wales Rangers (RF) arrived at Connaught Ranges Sunday evening to start an intensive two weeks' summer training course. Marching from the station in full battle kit they immediately proceeded to take over their lines. Everyone looked fit and healthy and was in the best of spirits.

The training program this year promises to be the most interesting and practical yet planned by the Rangers. It includes training by visual education, with training films to be shown on the screen of operations and manoeuvres that will afterwards be carried out in practice.

A full wartime-strength company has been formed, and the Rangers training will be carried out with as much realism as possible, thus giving all ranks an excellent notion of how they would operate and what would be expected of each in an actual theatre of war.

The training of recruits will be supplemented by special exercises which will bring them up to date with the rest of the battalion's ranks.

Better Conditions.

Officers and men arriving at the camp expressed pleasure and satisfaction at the improvement of conditions over those prevailing a year ago. Buildings have been erected providing toilet facilities and showers. A new and orderly system of messing has been devised, and no longer does a man have to wait in line to get his food. Chow comes piping hot from the kitchen, with one man detailed to serve the needs of each twelve, the men themselves taking turns at this duty each day. Formerly every man stood in line, too, to wash his own dishes, but now a different fatigue party does this job each day. By adoption of these methods time is saved and the men are able to get in more valuable training.

The day begins with a period of physical training at 6.15 in the morning, and many who have neglected taking regular setting up exercises back home, especially the senior officers, are now regretting it. A sports committee has been formed at the camp and teams for football, volleyball and baseball are being organized.

The camp at Connaught Ranges is under the command of Col. L. W. W. Slack, M.C.V.D. Lt.-Col. M. H. Park, V.D., commanding officer of the Prince of Wales Rangers, Major V. M. Eastwood and Major J. P. McGrath, M.M., are all busy organizing the two weeks' training program.

Peterboro Boy Seriously Ill

Pte. Frank Peters, first Peterborough soldier reported in the casualty list announced from Sicily, was seriously ill on July 22, according to word received here today.

Pte. Peters suffered a compound fracture of the upper arm, severe burns on the back, and a gunshot wound in the knee.

First word of his injury was received Tuesday by his wife, Eva Morrison Peters, Edison avenue.

Pte. Peters is with the Signal Corps.

Condition Disgrace

WINNIPEG, July 28 (CP)—Roxy Hamilton, member of the Manitoba Legislature for Rupert's Land, said here today that conditions among the Indian population of Canada are "a disgrace to any country which pretends to rank among civilized nations."

4 More Killed

WINNIPEG, July 28 (CP)—No. 2 Training Command, R.C.A.F., announced here last night a pilot and three crew members were killed yesterday when their training plane crashed near Paulson, Man. Next-of-kin have been notified and their names will be announced shortly.

Threshers Get Early Start In Otonabee

The harvest season has reached the stage of threshing, David McIntyre of Otonabee informed the Examiner Tuesday. He had expected to begin threshing yesterday afternoon, but the midday rain interfered with that plan, switching the start of operations until evening or this morning.

"We have our own wheat and alsike to thresh," Mr. McIntyre said, "and we have quite a lot of work among the neighbors. There is quite a showing of rust in the fall wheat and oats, and it is going to have an effect on the final yield. In a rough estimate I think the crop will be down 35% under last year's."

Rust reports have been trickling in from other sections of the county, but damage estimates generally were not quite up to the 35% mark mentioned by Mr. McIntyre, although his approximation may turn out to be correct.

Provincial Summary

The weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture which was received today says: "Most of the wheat is cut in old Ontario. Rust and winter killing in many cases has reduced both quality and yield. Many farmers still have hay to harvest although haying operations for the most part were suspended last week on farms where there was wheat to harvest.

The corn crop, for the most part, is late and uneven(although there are exceptions, such as Brant and Waterloo. Alsike is being cut for seed, and fairly good yields are recorded. Early and medium sown spring grains are doing remarkably well and promise average yields. Late sown crops are short in the straw, have not stooled well, and in many districts have been hit by rust."

Rye and wheat are practically all cut in Northumberland, and also some fields of early planted oats. Rust has appeared in Ontario county wheat.

Canning factories in Prince Edward are paying 20 cents a quart for blue raspberries and 25c for red. Apples are "sizing" well. Labor shortage is acute; men on 48-hour leaves from both airports are materially helping in the crisis.

Half-Crop

Victoria prospects for alsike seed are said to be poor; fall wheat is half cut; considerable rust is seen; spring grain is growing well.

Frontenac says second growth will be used for pasture for dairy cows. Most grains are heading with short straw. "Probably 20% of the hay will not be cut."

Fall wheat is out in Oxford and is only fair in yield. The peach crop in Lincoln will not be more than 50% of normal, but grapes are excellent.

Commando labor is doing an excellent job for farmers in Halton. Cutting of fall wheat and alsike was in full swing last week.

Provincial Officer In Sherlock Role

Albert Woodcock of Bancroft pleaded guilty in police court this morning to theft of a wrist watch from the store of Campbell and Best, and was remanded until Saturday.

By some means known only to himself Provincial Constable Price Morris learned that the watch had been stolen from the Hunter street store, but it was news to Ray Best that one of his "made in Peterborough" watches was missing. However, check of the stock in a show case near the front door verified the police information.

He Flew Back

MADRID, July 18—(AP) —Ettore Muti, former secretary general of the Fascist Party, who left Spain several days ago en route to Italy, returned to Barcelona Tuesday. Friends said Muti had reached Northern Italy when Mussolini's resignation as Premier was announced and that he immediately turned back across the frontier.

Fights In Sicily

Pte. Ernest Young, son of Earl Young of Bancroft, is reported to have been in the fighting in Sicily with the Canadian Army. He and his father enlisted in September, 1939, and they went overseas together. His father is now discharged and is at Ajax.

2 Wood Cutters Admit Gun Theft

Theft of an air rifle, "a couple of wrenches and saw set" was admitted in police court this morning by Joseph Wiggins, 37, and Maurice Tuttle, 22, of Cherry Valley, Prince Edward county, who were accused of "breaking and entering" in a prosecution by Provincial Constable Morris.

"The door was open and we just went in," said Wiggins, and Tuttle subscribed to that admission of their trespassing presence last February or March in a small wood camp owned by Daniel O'Brein in Chandos township.

"We didn't break in," the two men explained. They were employed in cutting wood up in the northern township during the winter, came across the O'Brien building which was occasionally used, and walked away with the airgun and few tools of negligible value. Constable Morris said some other articles were missing, but the two accused men told Magistrate Gee that they had returned the things they had taken.

They were remanded until Thursday, August 5, for enquiry as to whether they had any police record.

War Dads Convene

KANSAS CITY, July 28. —(AP)—The American war dads will hold their first national convention Oct. 26, 27 and 28. Nat Milgram, president of the year-old organization said in announcing the convention dates that 1,000 delegates probably will attend. Members are fathers of men and women serving in the armed forces.

Lions Carnival Starts Thursday Night

Rides on live ponies will be a feature of the Lions Club annual carnival which starts for a three day run on Thursday evening at the Ashburnham Bowl, near Riverside Park.

Faced with the problem of raising funds to complete the Wading Pool under the Hunter Street bridge on the Otonabee river, and with ever increasing demands being made for underprivileged child work, and other wartime charities and problems, the Lions are working hard to make their carnival a success.

During the year a record number of tonsil operations have been financed, and a substantial sum sent to Britain for British Child War Victims relief. On top of these two major activities, the Lions Club has not refused a single appeal in the realm of service work from people on whom Lady Luck has frowned and their activities branched into new fields during the year, including among other things the purchase of an artificial leg for a Peterborough man.

This year there are 15 carnival prizes, and five will be drawn for each night, with the major prizes including a ton of coal, radio, bicycle on the list for Saturday evening. The draw for the cedar canoe and paddles will take place Friday.

Four pound chickens will be raffled on the wheels as a gesture to customers who may be having trouble with their meat rationing, and all of the usual booths will be in operation again this year including bingo.

The carnival will run on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

If You Don't See What You Want --- Ask For It

Although the C.C.F. has been in existence for ten years there has never been a C.C.F. candidate elected to the Ontario Legislature.

That is rather clear proof that you can't fool all the people all the time.

So sweeping are the promises of the C.C.F., so much milk and honey and so many pots of gold at the end of the rainbow have they offered that it is perhaps surprising that somewhere they have not succeeded in causing enough voters to overlook the vagueness of their program, to elect a candidate.

In this election their promises have multiplied and expanded but the explanation of how they are to be carried out is still as vague as ever.

Perhaps it is because the Socialist section of the party and the Communist camp followers and the C.I.O. division cannot come close to agreeing upon what they are aiming at or how they hope to make good their if-you-don't-see-what-you-want-ask-for-it pledges.

The workers and merchants and employers of Peterborough and the farmers of Peterborough county are too level-headed to be swayed by that kind of stuff.

They see a chance for a new deal for Ontario within the walls of freedom as offered by the Progressive Conservative party and they are going forward with Drew to a greater province by voting for

MILLBROOK

Pioneer House Is Demolished

MILLBROOK, July 28—(ENS)—A landmark, dating back to pioneer days in the village, possibly for the past seventy-five years at least, was removed last week-end, when R. A. Ford demolished the small frame building at the west of his residence on King Street, which he has recently been using for a garage.

What the purpose in view was when the building was first erected none of the older residents seem to recall, but many know that the late William Carveth, for many years bailiff and insurance agent in the community, carried on a butcher shop there, and some time later Charles Cullum, an English resident in the village, used it for a store where he sold shoes, and particularly where he repaired footwear.

The adjoining house, which has a much improved outlook since the building has been torn down, is one of the oldest in the community, its history covering perhaps almost a century; it was the Carveth family homestead several years ago, and before that was owned and occupied by Dr. Might, physician of pioneer days, and in one of its upstairs rooms the local Masonic Lodge, J. B. Hall Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 945, was organized.

Personals.

Mrs. Wentworth Gray had a family party at her home on Sunday, the guests including her two sons, who are in the armed forces, Sig.-Sgt. Henry W. Gray, home on two weeks' furlough, and his wife (Della Mae Sisco), and Lieutenant George Gray, R.C.N.V.R., of Windsor, who with his wife is also on vacation; and the eldest daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Acton, and two little boys, of Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bothwell, of Centre Street, also had a family gathering on Sunday, including their only son, Sgt. Laird Bothwell, of Camp Borden, and his wife, of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Hunter, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Begley and little son, William, of Toronto.

Rev. E. R. James of Toronto took the services in Cavan parish on Sunday, and was the guest of his daughter and her husband, Captain and Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke, during his stay in town.

The many friends of the rector, Rev. A. E. Chevis, will be glad to learn that he has improved in health and has joined Mrs. Chevis for a vacation at Tait's Beach, Rice Lake, expecting to return to the village on Saturday.

The local battalion of the Midlands went into camp at the Connaught Ranges, Ottawa, on Sunday, under command of Lieutenant-Colonel E. H. Bounsell; the coming Provincial election is allegedly cutting short the camp from fifteen to ten days, including the two days spent in going and coming from the training site.

Michael McCarthy, of Peterborough, who is recovering from a very serious illness, is convalescing at the home of his mother, Mrs. E. H. Barnes. His sister, Miss Isabel McCarthy, of Buffalo, visited her mother last week.

Mr. E. H. Barnes, who went to camp with the soldiers on Sunday, spent the early part of the week holidaying in Toronto.

Postmaster T. H. Collins was in Toronto over the week-end.

A Lindsay boy, MELVILLE SCOTT, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Scott, wrote home recently that he had met and talked with Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, whom he found a most gracious lady. He is with the Royal 22nd Regiment Band and they were playing for an inspection of the Red Cross nearby. She liked the music so well, he said, that she came over and spoke to us. Melville went overseas in December, 1939.

AC2 BEVERLEY DAWE

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dawe, Water street, that their son, AC2 Beverley Dawe of the R.C.A.F. has arrived safely overseas. He is on the office staff personnel at present. A brother L Bdr. EVERETT DAWE, with the R.C.A. will have been overseas two years in August.

Three men and two women from Peterborough and district have enlisted during the past two weeks in the R.C.A.F. The men are: R. M. ALLISON, 281 Park street; M. W. COONES, 31 Benson street, and C. W. M. BAILEY, Eagle Lake P.O. The recruits in the Women's Division are: MISS B. G. KING, 267½ Oxford street; and MISS M. G. FORSYTH, 52 Murray street.

A soldier at an advanced training centre is saying prayers for his instructors in map reading at the Peterborough Centre, for their good teaching saved him from the wrath of his sergeant and a long spell of kitchen fatigue, the soldiers' most popular indoor sport.

During a map reading lecture at his new camp, this soldier drifted off to sleep, much to the indignation of the sergeant in charge who complimented his men at the end of the class and remarked sarcastically, that one of their number might just as well have remained back in bed. He continued saying that while the loafers might think they were putting it over him, he had a little surprise in store in the form of a 60-mile map chase the following day.

"The ones who have been paying attention today will get there all right, but those who have been asleep are going to have some trouble and will not even be able to find the place. Don't think they will get away with it either, for when they return they are going to be busy men after supper every night."

The soldier writes that the next morning the sergeant came over to him and gave him a map and with a beautific smile said "I'll be waiting for you, but don't get lost so badly that you can't find your way back to camp."

"But I foiled him. I took map reading at Peterborough and with that backing and lots of luck and speed I arrived first at the meeting place. The sergeant and an officer were sitting there in a jeep waiting for the trucks to come in, and I thought the sergeant was going to faint when he saw me."

What the sergeant thought or said has not been recorded, but it wouldn't be hard to guess.

LAC. RONALD A. RUSSELL, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Russell of Seymour, recently got his wings at Camp Borden, and a few days later he was granted a commission as pilot officer. He enlisted in July, 1942, and after spending some time in Toronto and Oshawa, finished his course at Camp Borden.

J. A. RUSSELL, another son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell, is now staff sergeant with the paratroops at Vermont, in the United States. He has been with the forces for nearly three years, one year of which he has served in the paratroops.

GNR. "HAP" GROSE of the Royal Canadian Artillery has been visiting his mother at 416½ George street. At the present time he is stationed at Petawawa and he is well known in Peterborough for his connection with senior baseball.

Among the group of wireless air gunners who graduated from No. 4 Bombing and Gunnery School, R.C.A.F., at Fingal on Monday, was J. W. C. FERGUSON, of Peterborough. Group Capt. H. O. McDonald, officer commanding No. 1 Manning Depot at Toronto pinned badges on the graduates.

During the last week two more district boys in the air force were granted their commissions while serving in Canada. B. E. J. JOHNSTON of Marmora is a wireless operator air gunner and E. F. G. HADDLESEY of Norwood is an air gunner.

CAPT. LORNE C. BATEMAN, 450 Rogers street, is one of several officers of Military District No. 3 at present taking a course at the Canadian School of Army Administration, Kempville. Capt. Bateman is liasion officer for a Canadian Division and was formerly branch manager of the Continental Life Insurance Company at Peterborough before his enlistment in 1942.

Three Peterborough boys, L. K. MOWRY, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mowry, 591 Gilmour street, W. H. YOUNG, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Young, 592 Chamberlain street, and T. J. WEAVER, 136 Park street north, all enlisted in the R.C.A.F. about the same time, took the same course as wireless-air gunners and graduated for the second time in six weeks from Mountain View on Saturday. The boys enlisted in August of 1942 and trained at Lachine, Moncton, Guelph and Mountain View.

CODER LEONARD PHILLIPS

Peterborough boys serving the Navy have been thrilled at the news that the city is going to sponsor a corvette under that name. Coder Leonard Phillips writes that he came across the item in the Peterborough paper and that he and the other men in the service are very proud. It would be grand to be home for the launching and to be a member of the crew, Coder Phillips wrote, but that would be wishing for too much. He also expressed his thanks to the Legion for cigarettes, and to others who have been sending parcels. His father is A. O. Phillips of Bermuda, formerly official weather reporter on the Examiner.

SGT. "BUD" WHITE of the Prince of Wales Rangers, is home on furlough until next Tuesday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David White, 319 Burnham street. He was recently given the British Empire Medal in the King's birthday list.

Home for 21 days' furlough is SGT. GEORGE NIMMONS, R.C.A.F., whose wife is at 182 Hunter street west. During the winter he and his crew were lost for several days while on an operational flight.

DON'T BE FOOLED BY C.C.F.

IT CANNOT HELP CANADIAN WORKERS

Contrary to the unthinking opinion expressed, if not actually believed in, by some workers, a C.C.F. government would be a retrograde step and against the best interests of all Canadian workers. Surely, good sound Canadians who have the welfare of Canada at heart, will profit by the lessons of the past and not be hoodwinked into supporting a party like the C.C.F. that has nothing to offer us except conflict and disruption.

We are speaking plainly and will admit that there are certain foreign elements within our midst that are using the C.C.F. for all it is worth to try to gain domination over our Canada. The bait being used, and it stinks because it is so rotten, is "something for nothing" and with this old, worn out, putrid temptation, they hope to ensnare enough good Canadians to vote for the C.C.F. to put the deal over.

Wherever they can get publicity, either free or paid for, the whole programme put forward is cheap, nonsensical and reeks of opportunist leadership. Promoters and satellites of the C.C.F. condemn the two old time political parties if they do and condemn them if they don't. All the social legislation on our statute books is no good, according to the C.C.F. despite the fact that Canada is one of the most socialistic countries in the world. C.C.F.'rs conveniently forget the marvellous progress this country has made since Confederation under the leadership of Conservatives and Liberals and ignore the fact that it is still the best country in the world in which to live. A C.C.F. dupe, writing a letter to the editor of a paper, blithely disparages the constructive policy of the Progressive Conservatives, while admitting it could not be duplicated by the C.C.F. and throws brickbats at the Liberals because they admit their limitations. The letter then continues to say that of course they will vote for the C.C.F. but advances no reason for so doing. Does not this typical case reflect the careless mental attitude of those who think they want a change no matter how bad that change may be and also bear out what we have maintained all along—that when people say they want the C.C.F., they really haven't thought about the subject at all, but have been led astray and hypnotized by the fantastic unrealities dangled in front of their eyes by C.C.F. barkers?

The truth is that the Progressive Conservatives do not make any promises that are not in the best interests of Canadians as a whole and that cannot be carried out, and the same applies to the Liberals. Promises made by either of these Parties have successfully brought Canada to its present triumphal pinnacle, and are promises based on Canada's ability to carry on. Promises made by C.C.F. opportunists are based on mirages, fantasies, fairyland stuff and what they think the people like to hear.

The sugar-coated hodge podge of drivel handed out by the C.C.F. is hard to stomach in these critical war days. To make sure that Canada does not land in a morass of dictatorship, confusion and poverty, Ontario will show the way on voting day, August 4th, by shunning like the plague, the candidate who has C.C.F. after his name.

Gas Explosion Kills 4 Sailors

CHICAGO, July 28 — (AP). — The captain, his young son and two crew members of the Canadian oil tanker, Bruce Hudson, were fatally burned in an explosion and fire aboard their gasoline laden vessel at nearby East Chicago, Ind., last night.

The victims were:

Capt. Ross L. Hindman, 43, of Midland.

His son, Stanley, 16, who was aboard on a pleasure trip.

William Goneau, 23, of 790 Princess street, Midland, Ont.

Arthur Pluffe, 29, of Wabashene, Ont.

All four died today in Saint Catherine's Hospital, East Chicago.

Several other crew members were burned.

The tanker, owned by the Lloyd Tankers Company, Toronto, did not sink and the damage was mostly to its superstructure.

United States Navy Public Relations officers said an electric spark may have set off the explosion of gasoline fumes.

As the vessel burned, the Coast Guard ordered all other ships to leave the vicinity.

KEEP THE LIGHT OF DEMOCRACY BURNING

IF the C.C.F. wins on August 4th, the light of Democracy goes out in Ontario.

THE C.C.F. proposes to take over: "The social ownership of all resources and the machinery of wealth production to the end that we may establish a Co-operative Commonwealth" (C.C.F. Regina platform).

BY an "X" on your ballot for a C.C.F. candidate, you give up the title to your farm, your business, your insurance and you vote away your freedom for regimentation of your life and that of your children.

THE C.C.F. leader in Ontario does not reveal the full Socialist aims of the fanatical group for which he is "fronting". If he did, few would accept the C.C.F. program.

OUR men and women are fighting overseas for Democracy; shall we in their absence, vote Democracy down in Ontario? Surely the least we can do is to preserve Democracy at home.

READ the names of the candidates of the C.C.F. Have any of them given proof of their ability to administer a one hundred million dollar government budget . . . not to mention the executive management of all Ontario's great enterprises, including the farms, mines, forests and factories?

ONTARIO ELECTOR—Think before you mark your ballot. When you vote next Wednesday, are you going to give the title to your farm, or the management of your insurance company, the enterprise in which you hold a share or the business where you work, to the untried men and women of the C.C.F.?

THIS is no time to venture upon dangerous experiments in government. Hold fast to Democracy—the Canadian way of life . . . Mark your ballot for the Nixon candidate.

Havelock Soldier Wed To St. Catharines Girl

HAVELOCK, July 28 (ENS) — A wedding of local interest took place in St. Catharines when Miss Mary Elizabeth McNulty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. McNulty was united in marriage to Sapper Bruce Jones, R.C.E., son of Mrs. Robert Jones and the late Mr. Jones of Havelock. The ceremony took place in St. Catharines church with the Rev. Bernard Belanger officiating. The beautiful main altar was banked with lilies and the wedding music was played by Mr. Clarence Colton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin, with a fingertip veil held to her head with a halo of net. She carried a white prayer book, a gift of the groom, from which fell a shower of white ribbon streamers and bouvardia.

Mrs. Agnes Te Desco was matron of honor, wearing a gown of orchid net over taffeta, a large hat to match and carried a bouquet of Talisman and Johanna Hill roses. Miss Dorothy Belford, senior bridesmaid, wore aqua marine net over taffeta, with matching halo. Miss Theresa McNulty, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and wore pink net over taffeta and a matching halo. Both bridesmaids carried nosegays of roses and sweet peas.

Mr. John Voyer, formerly of Havelock, was groomsman, and the ushers were Messrs. Ernest Aboud and Joseph McNulty. Mrs. Anne Ash sang "Ave Marie" during the ceremony.

A reception was held at the Welland House, when Mrs. McNulty, wearing a dusty rose gown with matching accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses, and Mrs. R. Jones, Havelock, wearing a powder blue gown with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses, received with the bridal party. For going away, the bride wore a dress of white gabardine with navy blue hat and accessories with a corsage of red carnations.

Spr. and Mrs. Jones left for a honeymoon trip in the Muskoka Lake district.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, July 29

An eventful and pleasant day, with all things advancing upon ambitious goals and gratifications. Such benefic promise of leading planets should be aimed at with all the resources, forces and faculties available. With noteworthy personal effort, others in influence may be found ready and graciously cooperative, attracted by merit and stability.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate many openings for success, happiness and gracious recognition, promotions or preferment from elders, superiors or others in high place. This bid for favor and cooperation may be definitely forwarded by propositions of exceptional originality, ingenuity, and novelty. The personal, domestic or romantic, is also to the fore as a factor for approach, to be used with finesse and prudence. Friendly feeling or sentiment may enter into personal experiences. Courtship, engagements, marriage, even elopements may be incited by dramatic and gracious vibrations, but share your joy and festivity with others.

A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with abilities of mind as well as grace of character and personality.

Dorothy Brack Weds Ralph E. Moore

St. Andrew's United Church, Oshawa, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Dorothy W. Brack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brack, Oshawa, became the bride of Ralph Edward Moore, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Moore, Lakefield. Rev. George Telford performed the service and Mr. C. J. W. Taylor was the organist. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Hollis Hurlbert sang "All Joy Be Thine."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her bridal gown a floor-length white silk jersey model. The frock which had a slightly draped skirt, was made in the peg-top style and had a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves that extended to a point over the hand. A single strand of pearls was worn by the bride. Her scalloped finger-tip length veil fell from a little Dutch-cap made of plaited net and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. Sandy Carlaw, sister of the groom, attended the bride as matron-of-honour, and was attired in daffodil yellow silk jersey, a rhinestone pendant, the gift of the bride, detailed the square neckline. This frock had elbow-length sleeves, and Mrs. Carlaw wore a watching pillbox hat with a snood of yellow veiling and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and bouvardia.

Gnr. John Brack, brother of the bride, was the best man and the ushers were Mr. Sandy Carlaw and Pte. Kenneth Brack, brother-in-law of the groom and brother of the bride, respectively.

Later a reception was held at 306 King Street West, Oshawa, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of mist-rose mossene with a matching hat. She wore a corsage of blue cornflowers and baby's breath. The groom's mother also received, and wore a two-piece dress in a dutsy rose shade and a hat of white flowers. She had a corsage of yellow roses and mauve sweet peas.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Muskoka and for travelling the bride wore a grey and white printed silk dress, a wine wool jacket and accessories. On their return will live in Oshawa, Ontario.

Woman Invades New Realm Starts Painting Houses

Peterborough, Ontario, believes it has the distinction to have in its midst, the only woman professional house painter in Ontario. "House painting" was thought to be in the male realm only, but here in Peterborough, a woman has invaded the field.

Mrs. A. R. Bennett of 793 George street, north, is not fond of publicity and it took quite a little bit of wheedling to get her to "give." It was explained that she was definitely an unusual individual and a person worthy of notice. Peterborough is proud to have her as a resident.

"What amazes me most" says Mrs. Bennett, "people seem to like a woman painter. I always have the feeling that perhaps the customers will not be satisfied and I am always pleasantly surprised when people take me in their stride as part of the new order and seem quite confident that I will do their work satisfactorily."

Mrs. Bennett is not what is to be expected in the way of a female brush wielder. One might expect a rather swarthy, tough and boisterous person, but Mrs. Bennett is just the opposite. She is gracious, charming and kind and a perfect hostess in her lovely home.

Married In Peterborough

As Miss Elva Jackson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Jackson and residing in the Otonabee township, Mrs. Bennett worked in a Peterbrough office as a stenographer. Mr. Bennett had been away from Peterborough for quite some time doing interior decorating and painting in Florida, Long Island and Great Neck, N.Y., but came home around 1929 for an Old Home Week. He happened to go into the office where the then Miss Jackson was working and evidently Dan Cupid got busy right then and there and soon Miss Jackson became Mrs. Arthur Bennett.

They went to Flushing, N.Y. to make their new home. They were more or less strangers in a new land and Mrs. Bennett, not having very much to do, persuaded her husband to let her tackle the house painting along with him, more for fun at the beginning, but as time went by and help was scarce, Mrs. Bennett was almost always by his side. Having been brought up on a farm she had a failing for the great outdoors and grew very fond of the work. Mrs. Bennett says: "It is simply marvellous to know what can be done with paint. Colours can be blended so beautifully and new designs originated by the use of paint."

Lived In Windsor

In 1935 Mr. and Mrs. Bennett returned to Windsor to make their home. Mr. Bennett started in in the painting and interior decorating business here and in recent years, especially when experienced painters and decorators are so scarce, Mrs. Bennett has gone back to giving him a helping hand again.

Mrs. Bennett, who is very attractive, cuts quite a figure when she dons her working clothes, which are: overalls, sweat shirt or blouse, running shoes and no stockings. She says she generally gets paint all over her hands and face, but believes that women are more careful about "splashing and things" than men. Also, they take more care about getting into corners and crevices. Possibly the men won't like this, but carefulness, tidiness and cleanliness are pass-words with the "weaker-sex." Mrs. Bennett doesn't worry about the paint all over herself, because turpentine will take it off, and better still, she says there is nothing like ordinary "nail-polish remover" to remove the stains.

When asked if she had had any funny experiences, Mrs. Bennett replied that everyone laughs when a woman painter shows up, but she is used to this by now. An eye, ear and nose specialist, Dr. Curtis Muncie of New York City, was so intrigued with having a female house painter, that he took a series of pictures and movies of Mrs. Bennett.

A Part Time Job

Mrs. Bennett doesn't work steadily at this "career", just when she can help her husband, but which has been quite a lot of late. When working, they start out together at 7:30 a.m., tote their lunch-pails (made up the night before) and then home for dinner about 5:00. Even though they might lose a little of their vitamin value, Mrs. Bennett pulls her vegetables fresh from the garden and prepares them for dinner the night before, then there is not too much to do on coming home from work because it is natural to expect that any one would be tired after such a hard day's work.

In her spare time (?) Mrs. Bennett looks after her large Victory Garden, makes her own curtains and drapes and a few dresses, is secretary of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., and sings in the choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Saturday afternoons and Christmas and Easter holidays she helps her sister-in-law, Elsie Bennett, in her shop on George Street. In the Winter time she likes to skate, and instead of working on the outside, assists with the paper-hanging on the inside.

Incidentally, Mrs. Bennett is a true woman, she said. "I always let my husband be the boss regarding colour schemes and ideas, and in "our" opinion, the customer is always right. We never like to change their ideas, unless, of course, they ask for advice."

The Bennetts haven't a family of their own but have three nephews in the services. Flight-Lieut. Lloyd Parnall (overseas), Lieut. Max Parnall and LAC. Bob Parnall.

Mrs. Bennett must have been reading Margaret Culkin Banning's "Letters from England" wherein she states that a "Woman of Leisure is an Outlaw in England Now."

HELP THE SHOPS KEEP PRICES DOWN

Another constructive step by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has been the establishment of "Management Service" to show the little businessmen who are the backbone of the country how they can reduce costs and thus still sell at a profit under the price ceiling. You can help in this important work by not making unreasonable demands of the stores where you shop!

WISHFUL THINKING IS WOMAN'S GREATEST BLESSING, AND HER WORST CURSE

Affords Escape From Reality to World Made to Their Order But May Bring Sorrow.

Women's ability to do wishful thinking is at once their greatest blessing and their worst curse. It is their greatest blessing because it is their escape from reality that enabls them to live in a world that is tailor-fitted to their desires, and in which their every wish will be fulfilled.

Somebody has said that faith is believing something that you know is not true. Wishful thinking comes in the same category. Many of the women who spend thir lives in day dreaming must be secretly aware that no Fairy Godmother is ever going to come along and wave her magic wand over them and transform them from kitchen drudges into glamorous princesses, wearing mink coats and riding in high-powered cars. But they keep themselves so drugged with the belief that somehow the impossible is going to happen to them that it makes them happy and content frying chops and hopping buses.

Genius Helps Population

Nor is women's genius a blessing that pertains only to themselves. It is the prop and stay of the census, for most of us would have been drowned at birth, as runty pups are, if our mothers had seen us as we really are, instead of beholding us as they desired us to be. One of the eternal wonders at which we never cease to marvel is the proud, unlifted, contented expression on a mother's face as she contemplates her offspring.

They may be homely enough to stop the clock. They may be knock-kneed or bandy-legged. They may have adenoids and buck teeth and tow-colored hair and be dull and stupid. But she sees none of these. When she looks at her uncouth little Johnny, she is seeing a future president of the United States, and to her Susie is no ugly duckling, she is the coming Miss America.

But there is no other luxury in which women indulge themselves that costs so much money as wishful thinking, for it is their unquenchable belief that they can make themselves young and slim and glamorous that makes the beauty shop one of the most profitable industries in the world. Millions of fat women spend millions of dollars annually on reducing treatments. Other millions invest their hard-earned earnings in facials and permanents and being painted up like barn doors. Still others invest in girlie-girlie raiment in the fond belief that they can camouflage age by wearing young clothes, and that if they dress like granddaughter no one will recognize them as Grandma.

Women Always Hopeful of Marriage

Another solace that women get out of wishful thinking is the firm conviction, that neither time nor experience ever shakes, that somewhere down the pathway of life a Fairy Prince is waiting for them. No woman ever really believes she is going to be an old maid. She doesn't give up hope until she is laid in her coffin. She may have no pretense to beauty or any of the charms that allure men. She may live in an Adamless Eden. But she is sure she is going to attain her heart's desire and have a husband and a home and children. And the husband is always going to be handsome and a great lover, the home luxurious, and the children angels instead of little brats.

But if their wishful thinking is a blessing that often gilds a drab life and makes it endurable, it is just as often a curse to women, for it keeps them from grappling with reality and making the best of now and here. We all know women, for instance, who are poor, lonely, half-starved old maids, struggling to support themselves, when they might have married good, honest, prosperous men who would have given them every comfort and luxury, but who said "no" to all the plain Toms, Dicks and Harrys because they were dreaming of being wooed and won by some romantic cinema hero.

Lives Wasted Wishing For Great Careers

And we know oh, so many, many tragical cases of women who have wasted their whole lives in wishful thinking about careers that Nature never intended them to fill. I had a friend who wanted to be a great writer, and who spent forty years of slaving over a typewriter without ever getting a single line published. I knew a woman who dreamed of herself as a great Metropolitan star, and who bankrupted her family taking singing lessons from high-priced teachers, but whose piping little canary voice never even got her into radio. And I have known more than one woman who literally starved to death in Hollywood at the gates of the movie studios they never crashed.

And most pathetic of all are the women whose husbands and lovers tire of them and desert them, who spend weary, lonely, heart-breaking years in wishful thinking that someday, someway, their men will come back to them, and that they will relive the old romantic days when they were young and beautiful and happy.

Wishful thinking. Women's blessing and their curse. But it is a gift. Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Food Shortage Blamed On Liberals

TORONTO, July 28 —Full blame for the disastrous food crisis in Ontario, and its consequent serious implications for city-dwellers as well as farmers, was placed on the present Liberal Administration last night by Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew in an address at Lakeview Hall in Toronto.

Because Premier Harry Nixon has promised a continuation of his present policies, his Government must be replaced by an administration pledged to aid the farmers by manpower, machines and prices, if Ontario is to play a full part on the food front, Mr. Drew said. Otherwise there will be a complete breakdown of planning for 1944 comparable to that of this year, for which Mr. Nixon "must assume full responsibility."

The Progressive Conservative Leader spoke at a meeting predominantly of women voters in High Park, the riding he will contest on Aug. 4, and he was accompanied by Mrs. Drew. He reiterated his pledge to reform school taxation by relieving municipalities of one-half the elementary school costs, and he also challenged the C.C.F. leaders to publicly express a "belief in the British connections provided by the Commonwealth and in British institutions which many of their present members and spokesmen have assailed so violently in the past."

"In the last 24 hours we have seen the startling proof of the utter failure of the Government of this Province to maintain the food production of our farms," said Mr. Drew. "When Mr. Nixon opened his campaign in this election in London on June 28, he had on that occasion as his main speaker the Federal Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Gardiner. Mr. Gardiner ridiculed my statement that there was a real danger of a food shortage in Canada. I quote from the report of the Toronto Daily Star of that meeting: 'Mr. Gariner, speaking later at the association, gave assurance that Canada would never face a food shortage.' Mr. Nixon supported him in everything he said."

Killed Opposition Move.

Now, through utter lack of planning by Mr. Nixon and Mr. Gardiner, Canada had withdrawn canned fruits and vegetables from sale, continued Mr. Drew. Yet last February the Progressive Conservative group in the Legislature had demanded the the Government take steps to assure manpower machinery and prices for farm production. A resolution to this effect was overthrown by the Government. Government spokesmen said there was adequate manpower and nothing needed to be done about prices or machinery.

To-day the Government showed there was a shortage of food with its order to stop canned fruit and vegetable sales. This, said Mr. Drew, was due entirely to a breakdown of Selective Service and an utter absence of an attempt of any kind by the Ontario Government to deal effectively with manpower on farms. Mr. Nixon, he said, must share full responsibility so far as Ontario was concerned, having not raised a hand to meet the crisis which others could see approaching. On the contrary, said Mr. Drew, he had opposed every effort to take steps to meet it.

The same Mr. Gardiner, who spoke for Mr. Nixon, had also spoken in London on Jan. 13, 1941, and had said: "We do not want any more hogs in Canada." Yet he was shortly forced to eat his words and call for maximum hog production. Yet, having called for that production, no planning had been done for coarse grain hog feed, with the result that farmers were slaughtering brood sows at a time when more hogs were needed.

Seen As Major Issue.

It was clear that Mr. Nixon would continue the same policies, because he has said he would not change his course, Mr. Drew said. That, then, made food production a major issue in Ontario. If electors believe in organization of food production, and that the disastrous situation revealed in the order freezing canned goods demands early action to meet 1944, it was th duty of voters to elect a Progressive Conservative Government which had long ago promised, in its platform, to call a meeting of leading farmers from every county to aid in planning all-out food production.

Heenan Improves

KENORA, July 28—(CP). — Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario Minister of Labor and Liberal-Labor candidate for Kenora riding in the August 4 election, is expected to be released within a few days from hospital here. He has had a bronchial condition.

EVERY BIT HELPS

FRED DOES his bit by spending his summer on a farm. "It's hard work, but not too hard . . . especially if you get a good start in the day," says Fred. "I start with a big bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes. They're everybody's favourite here." Yes, Kellogg's are the favourite in a majority of Canadian homes. Ready in 30 seconds, no pots and pans to wash. Save time, save fuel, save work! Get some tomorrow. Made in London, Canada.

Look Over Enemy Equipment

A British tommy inspects an Italian pill-box camouflaged with wicker work, but guarding this strong point was a dummy gun which was made of wood. This was viewed by the British troops when they entered the Italian island of Sicily. Perhaps the Italians haven't enough equipment or maybe they really didn't want to fight.

Ottawa Releases New Pay List

OTTAWA, July 28.—(CP).—Defense headquarters made public last night a schedule showing the new basic pay for members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps on the basis of increases announced last Saturday by Defense Minister Ralston which lift the pay of servicewomen to 80 per cent. of men's pay from the existing rate of 66 2-3 per cent.

Under the new schedule, a C.W.A.C. private receives $1.05 a day against the old rate of 90 cents a day and her pay may be increased to $1.10 after four months' efficient service and to $1.20 after six months' efficient service.

Trades pay, formerly 25, 50 or 75 cents a day according to grade, now is two-thirds of the male trades pay rate.

The new schedule of daily rates, retroactive to July 1, follows:

Rank	New Pay.	Old Pay.
Private	$1.05	$0.90 (On enlistment.)
Lance Corporal	1.30	1.00
Corporal	1.35	1.15
Lance Sergeant	1.50	(No old rate.)
Sergeant	1.75	1.50
Staff Sergeant or Company Qaurter-master-Sergeant	2.00	1.70
Company Sergeant-Major WO.2	2.40	2.00
Quartermaster-Sergeant WO.2	2.50	2.10
Sergeant-Major WO.1	3.35	2.80
2nd Lieutenant	3.40	2.85
Lieutenant	4.00	3.35
Captain	5.20	.435
Major	6.20	5.20
Lieutenant-Colonel	8.00	6.70

Dependents of members of the C.W.A.C., as well as those of the Wrens and the Women's Division of R.C.A.F., other than husbands and children, now are eligible for dependents' allowances at the same rates and under the same conditions as apply to dependents of men.

Ivan Maisky Gets New Appointment

MOSCOW, July 28—(AP).—Ivan Maisky, Russian Ambassador to London who is now in Moscow, has been appointed Soviet Vice-Commissar of Foreign Affairs, it was announced today.

The significance of the appointment was not immediately ascertainable, but it was said it would not preclude Maisky's return to London.

It was recalled Maxim Litvinov also was named a Vice-Commissar at the same time he was sent to Washington in the role of Ambassador.

There are at present five other Vice-Commissars besides Maisky.

Canadian Sailors Fight Sub Action On Dry Land

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, July 28 — (CP). — Just a few steps away from where the fighting vessels tie up after the convoy runs, a new ship is being put together on dry land. She'll never taste the salt Atlantic, but many a sea battle will be fought from her bridges.

This new addition to the Royal Canadian Navy is an "action room"—the last word in the shore training of submarine killers. Within its walls— it's actually a sizeable building —convoys will be attacked, freighters torpedoed and subs sunk, all in replica of what goes on out beyond the harbor gates.

It is the R.C.N.'s answer — or part of it — to the problem of how to instill sub-hunting experience into its crews before they have actually met up with a U-boat. Under development for months, the "action room" system has reached its peak in the new structure that is expected to go into operation in a few days.

Actual Conditions

Its predecessor has been in action for a considerable time at H.M.C. dockyard here, but it has now been far outmoded. The new "room" simulates the sea at night with friendly and enemy ships on the surface. In the centre is a full-size warships bridge, revolving on a turret in response to its captain's commands.

Training officers pose particular problems of warfare by manoeuvering the convoys, other escort ships and attacking submarines. Other training officers watch the results as they are mechanically diagrammed on paper.

Match Brains

The officers on the bridge—men who have been chosen for the command course leading to ships of their own, or bridge staffs of ships in from the sea for a while —try to outwit the attackers, to sink the sub if possible.

Often enough, it is the battle-wise training officers who learn something. Under the stress of the imaginary battle, a trainee may come up with some new manoeuver that looks like a useful addition to the navy's bag of tricks. If he does, it is quickly absorbed by the navy and passed along to where it will do the most good.

MEAN ENOUGH, TOO

The mean distance of the sun from the earth is 93,000,000 miles.

IN MEMORIAM

NEWNHAM—In loving memory of my dear Mother, Margaret J. Newnham who passed away one year ago to-day, July 28, 1942.
Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because she was one of the best.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by her son Hugh and Blanche and family.

SLOAN — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Maria J. Sloan, who passed away July 28, 1942.
At home in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of peace so fair,
Some day, some time, when our work is done,
With joy we'll meet you there.
— Lovingly remembered by her husband and family.

SLOAN — In loving memory of Mrs. George Sloan, who died, July 28, 1942.
Sweet memories will linger forever;
Time cannot change them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
My loving remembrance of you.
—Ever remembered by granddaughter Edna.

WINDRIM — In loving memory of a dear husband and father L. Roy Windrim, who passed away five years ago today, July 28, 1938.
There is an open gate at the end of the road
Through which each must go alone,
And there in a light we cannot see
Our Father claims His own.
Beyond that gate, our loved one
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought
That a loving God knows best.
— Lovingly remembered by his wife and son.

WILDMAN— In loving memory of my grandfather, Mr. J. W. Wildman who passed away one year ago to-day, July 28, 1942.
He had a cheery smile, a pleasant way,
A helping hand to all he knew,
He was so kind, so generous and true.
On earth he nobly did his best,
Grant him — heavenly rest.
—Ever remembered by Vera.

Nixon Promises

outlined by Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservatve leader, was patterned on Britain's system.

The Premier quoted Lord Beaverbrook, former British Minister of Aircraft Production, as condemning the British system on the ground that "farmers had to spend half their time filling out forms instead of farming."

"So I am not enamored of the suggestions from Mr. Drew," said Mr. Nixon.

At Alexandria, Mr. Nixon said the Ontario general election had been called so his government could keep faith with the electors, its mandate having expired.

He declared that at the end of the war he would seek the return to the provinces of all the taxing powers surrendered by them to the Dominion government as a war measure.

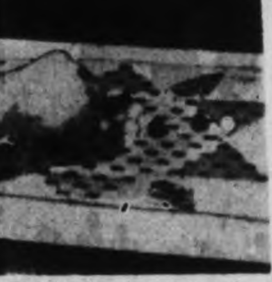
Have Some Games on Hand For Two or More



PLAY CHINESE CHECKERS

Almost everyone has at one time or another played Chinese checkers—it's a game that can be played equally well with just two people or five or six, if you like. The winner is the one who gets all his glass marbles away first—and it's fun trying to think of ways of out-witting your partners.

However, you don't need a game of Chinese checkers to keep your friends amused. If they drop in suddenly to see you, all you need is a piece of paper and a pencil and there are lots of pencil and paper games. The only other equipment needed is mental.

Particularly these days when you're entertaining servicemen to such an extent in your homes, you should be prepared and have a few games on hand.

Our 32-page booklet is full of games that need little preparation at all. There are quiet games and active ones; baffling stunts and magic—planned for such times when one or more friends call in, or for small parties and family gatherings.

Be prepared — don't let your friends be bored when they come to see you!

For your copy of GAMES AND STUNTS FOR TWO OR MORE send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

TELL WHEN TO PLAY IT

KILLING THE dummy's suit, and thus annihilating the declarer's chance to make his contract, hinges often on the question of exactly when you play your one winner in that suit. If you do it too soon, he can return to the dummy and run the suit. If too late, you let him gain a trick which could have been safely prevented, and in addition may allow him a valuable chance to lead from the dummy toward a finesse in his own hand. So in such a crisis, watch your partner's cards carefully for clues which may guide your decision.

North: ♠ Q 9 7 6 3 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ K Q J ♣ 8 2

West: ♠ K 4 2 ♥ Q ♦ A 9 3 ♣ A Q J 7 5 3

East: ♠ J 8 ♥ K J 10 9 8 2 ♦ 10 8 7 ♣ 10 9

South: ♠ A 10 5 ♥ A 6 4 ♦ 6 5 4 2 ♣ K 6 4

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	3 NT

West would have been sounder, of course, if he had bid only 2-No Trumps, leaving leeway for East to bid a mere 3-Hearts, if he felt that was necessary, and then dropping the bidding there at a contract which could be made even against a diamond lead. But perhaps West knew his opponents. Anyway, his bidding produced a game, with their help.

North opened the spade 6, South taking the 8 with the A and returning the 10, the Q dropping the J, and the 3 then forced the K. The Q of hearts was led and overtaken by dummy's K. South felt properly that his job was to block those hearts, so to save his A for that purpose, he put on the 4. West then led the club 10 for a finesse, next the 9 to the Q and then the A, killing the K. He went on then in clubs to make his contract, with six club tricks and one in the other suits.

South should have looked closely when West led the heart Q. His partner played the 3 on it. Among fine players, a high-low would have been given if North had any number of cards except exactly three. Hence that 3 was either a singleton or bottom of three. If a singleton, West would have had three and doubtless would have supported the hearts. So it was surely bottom of three. If South had figured thus, he would have played his A at once and slaughtered the contract four tricks thereby. The 3 should have told him West's heart Q was a singleton.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ Q 7 5 3 ♥ A 3 ♦ K J 9 ♣ Q 10 9 3

West: ♠ A K J 9 8 ♥ J 8 5 ♦ 10 8 6 ♣ A 5

East: ♠ 10 4 ♥ Q 9 6 2 ♦ Q 7 4 2 ♣ K 6 2

South: ♠ 6 2 ♥ K 10 7 4 ♦ A 5 3 ♣ J 8 7 4

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

After West bids 1-Spade and East 1-No Trump, which is passed all around, what is South's best opening lead and why?

Girls Of Durham Hold AchievementDay

MILLBROOK, July 28 (ENS).—Achievement Day, for the Girls' Clubs of Durham County, marking a summary of the year's work, was held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, Friday, with morning and afternoon sessions. Miss Jean Scott, coach for nine counties of the province, was in charge, with Miss Verna Banbridge of Toronto, whose field is Kent and Waterloo counties, also assisting.

Owing to wartime restrictions the attendance was not as large as in previous years. Six clubs were well represented, these including: Millbrook, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong leader, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Ball; Cavan, Mrs. Donald Tinney leader, assisted by Mrs. Oakley Carley; Blackstock, Mrs. Arthur Barley leader, assisted by Mrs. Albert Wright; Maple Grove, Miss Mildred Snowren leader; Newtonville, Mrs. S. J. Lancashire leader; and "The Bluebirds," Newtonville Junior club, which while not entered in the day's competitions, had a nice exhibit of work.

Discuss Menus

The morning session was given over to a study of the Record Books, which were on display, and to "Menu Building," the leaders suggesting a sample menu for spring meals, and the girls continuing then with menus suitable for different seasons of the year. In the afternoon Miss Banbridge gave some constructive criticism on this theme, commending what the girls had done, and showing where improvement might be made.

In the afternoon three clubs had exhibits arranged, with a lecturer to explain what was shown. Millbrook had been given tea biscuits, and variations on the basic recipe. Jessie Dawson, the speaker, told what tempting changes could be evolved from ordinary tea biscuit to strawberry shortcake, all the varieties on exhibition. The value of using whole wheat, particularly in these war days, was especially stressd in one variety of the biscuits displayed.

Supper Dishes

Cavan Club, with Wilda Armitage as the speaker, had a supper menu displaying the main dish, a vegetable plate, rich in vitamins, and looking tempting in its arrangement.

Maple Grove, "Merry Menu Makers," had the third exhibit in the form of a poster, showing the supper menu in bright colors, Dorothy Snowden making the explanation.

Demonstrations followed, after Miss Scott had given some helpful comments, Millbrook taking "Table Setting and Service for the Farm Family." Audrey Armstrong and Melba Ball did the talking and demonstrating, arranging the linen, placing the silver, floral centre, dishes and food. The correct manner of service, for the two courses, and the removal of the dishes in proper rotation, concluded the exhibition.

Jean Toms, of Blackstock, demonstrated the making of tea biscuits, giving the recipe and mixing the ingredients, and the Maple Grove club, represented by Lenore Collacut, Doreen Jeffrey, and Audrey Greenham, chose the same theme as the Millbrook girls had done, making some variation in the manner of table setting, etc.

Praises Girls

Miss Scott spoke on the record book which she commended, and also praised the girls for the way they had signed up for the Farm Service again this year, badges and certificates being promised. The highlight of the afternoon was reached when the certificates for completing two or more units of study were presented, the list being: From the Bowmanville "Eat Well Club," Doreen Jeffrey, Dorothy Snowden, Pearl Collacutt, Betty Stevens, Lenore Collacutt, Audrey Greenham, Marian Foley; from the Millbrook Supper Club, Marjorie and Ethelda Hubbeard, and Audrey Armstrong; from Cavan, Margaret Elson; and from Blackstock, Mrs. Sandy Moore (Irene Coates), pin and certificate for winning county honors, having completed six units; Jean Toms.

The Newtonville girls, by request, sang their club theme song, and Maple Grove also sang its club song, with original verses. Miss Scott urged the girls to give continued co-operation with their leaders, who, she said, have given freely of their time, experience and ability for your improvement. The project chosen for next fall and winter is: "Being well dressed, and well groomed," and the training classes will be held as usual.

Oats Is Important In Daily Diet

BETHANY, July 28.— (ENS).—The Women's Institute held their monthly session in the town hall on Monday, Miss Staples, president, presiding.

It was reported that $5 had been sent to the Chinese Relief Fund and Mrs. Price told of the war work done for Red Cross in the last two months and sent to headquarters. Miss Richardson entertained with a reading, 'The Courtship of Hamlet.'

Miss L. Ballantoyne, of Toronto, was guest speaker of the evening, introduced by Miss Staples. She stressed the value of oats in the everyday diet, giving recipes in which rolled oats were used, used in meat dishes in lieu of bread crumbs and stretching the rationed meat.

Prizes were won by the following ladies, consisting of five lbs. rolled oats: Mrs. A. Driver, Mrs. H. Bristow, Mrs. L. J. Jackson and Mrs. A. H. Monk.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker, moved by Miss Jackson and seconded by Mrs. Price.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes of Brampton, were guests of their sister, Mrs. Isaac Fallis and family on Thursday.

40,000,000 RATS

LONDON (CP). — Food Minister Lord Woolton, announcing a "colossal" offensive against rats, said that rats and mice each year destroy or foul 2,000,000 tons of food. "The rat population of this country has been estimated at 40,000,000," he said.

MILLBROOK

Speaker Tells How To Stretch Rationed Foods

MILLBROOK, July 27—(ENS).—Mrs. L. Valentine, Toronto, director of home-baking, was the guest speaker for the July meeting of the Women's Institute, held in the Town Hall on Saturday at 8 p.m., with the president, Mrs. D. Olan, in the chair, and a fair number of the general public in attendance.

"Meat Stretchers" was Mrs. Valentine's theme, and her talk included valuable information on the vitamin content of various foods, with suggestions for meat loaf, meat casserole, and other dishes, with emphasis on the use of rolled oats, or oatmeal, in place of bread crumbs to 'stretch' the meat in the recipe, as being more highly nutritious. All present who gave their names and addresses will receive leaflets containing recipes that will prove useful in these days of meat rationing.

In the business part of the meeting, which preceded the introduction of the speaker, the resignation of Mrs. W. H. Armstrong as leader of the junior girls for the past few years, in which she has been highly successful, was regretfully accepted, Mrs. Armstrong's health making the action obligatory.

No picnic will be held this year, and the August meeting will be at Mrs. D. L. Lunn's home. The roll was answered with a cash contribution to the jam fund, $5 being the amount sent from the local branch, and it is hoped more individual contributions from members will come in. A suggestion from Mrs. Valentine that found much favor with her listeners was that oatmeal cookies, or oatmeal bread, for which recipes were given, be used for dessert with fresh or canned fruit, as a wartime measure.

Dieppe Casualty Helps On Farm

TORONTO, July 28 —(CP). — Harry McCann, member of the 11th Army Tank Brigade wounded at Dieppe, was among a number of city residents who helped a crippled farmer wtih his haying operations during the week-end.

McCann, also a veteran of Dunkirk, has been in military hospital here for some time recovering from a broken shin bone. His leg still is in a cast.

He overheard a conversation at a picnic. John Taylor, 14-year-old "hired man" on Peter Gooderham's farm near Ariole, Ont., was telling his parents, his employer was unable to bring in the hay and that he was having trouble getting it in alone. He said Mr. Gooderham was almost 70 and crippled.

Both parents volunteered to help during the week-end and so did McCann.

Red Advance Overruns Thirty Towns

2,500 Nazi Dead Litter Roads In Orel Suburbs

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 29 —(AP)—The Russian column advancing upon Orel from the south drove over the bodies of 2,500 Germans yesterday to force that claw of the giant pincers tighter about the vital city and keep pace with the northern and eastern onslaughts, the Russians said today.

Front line dispatches indicated the masses of Red army troops and tanks, in general advances of from 2½ to 4 miles, now had battered down the Germans other hedgehog defence systems and were storming the enemy bastion's strongest defences.

Russian advices said the column advancing on Orel from the north was fighting its way through swamps and across streams raised to flood stage by recent rains.

Slowed Down

The going was said to be heavy and the Russians acknowledged the offensive in this area had inevitably been slowed down but declared that even so the advance was continuing.

The Russian half-circle thrown about the bitterly resisting German army last was reported nearest the city on the north, where it encompassed Optukha. The column attacking frontally from the east had overrun Zolatarevo at last reports, 13 miles away.

Altogether, the Russians said they overran 30 occupied places, left more than 2,500 dead upon the field, and knocked out 29 German tanks yesterday in the Orel sector alone.

(The Berlin radio yesterday acknowledged the German withdrawal from Bulkhov, 31 miles above Orel, which the Russians announced last week they had captured. It was evacuated, the broadcast said, as a part of their "elastically conducted defence fighting."

(Another German broadcast attributed the Russian successes to "greatly superior" forces but said the Red Army had been unable to pierce German positions either at Orel or east of Leningrad. It also said 164 Russian tanks were knocked out in Tuesday's fighting.)

Canadian Government's Plan To Rehabilitate Returned Soldiers Copied By United States With One Exception Speech Indicates

OTTAWA, July 29 (CP)—Pensions Minister Mackenzie said today that President Roosevelt's six-point plan, announced last night for helping returned soldiers, sailors and airmen after demobilization followed closely the lead given by Canada.

"With one exception," Mr. Mackenzie told The Canadian Press in an interview, "every point proposed by the President for American war veterans already is in effect in Canada. The exception is credits for old-age pensions and survivors' insurance, which are on a contributory basis in the United States.

"Our old-age pensions are non-contributory and we provide veterans with corresponding protection in other ways."

Mr. Mackenzie discussed the President's six points one by one and described what Canada had done along the same line.

The president's proposals and their Canadian counterpart follow:

1. Mustering-out pay to cover a reasonable period after a member of the fighting forces has been honorably discharged.

Canada provides that before a soldier, sailor or airman is discharged he receives one month leave of absence with pay in which to visit his home and decide what branch of civilian life he wishes to enter. Then he is discharged with one month's rehabilitation pay and six other benefits. The same applies to women in the forces.

Gets Insurance

2. In case no job is found after diligent search, then unemployment insurance is to be provided if the individual registers with the United States Employment service.

Canada provides that a veteran is to be given credit in the Unemployment Insurance fund equal to the amount he would have in the fund had he been contributing on a civilian basis since July 1, 1941, when the act was set up.

3. An opportunity for members of the armed services to get further education or trade training at the cost of the United States government.

Canada provides education or training for its returned men and allowance for them and their families while they are in training.

Allowance of credits in old-age pensions and survivors insurance.

5. Improved and liberalized provisions for hospitalization, rehabilitation and medical care of disabled members of the armed forces and merchant marine.

Leads The World

Mr. Mackenzie said Canada has gone farther than any other country in the care of sick veterans. In addition to hospitalization provisions, the government hsa embarked on a series of reconditioning centres which will be farm homes where men not quite fit may stay for an indefinite period to rehabilitate themselves.

6. Sufficient pensions for disabled members of the armed forces.

Mr. Mackenzie said he believes Canada's veteran pension scheme is the most generous in the world.

Canada has built up an extensive system of rehabilitating returned men, including voluntary committees in all larger centres to help returned men to be placed in satisfactory jobs.

In addition to these assistances, Canada two years ago passed the Veterans Land Act to help locate veterans on the land.

Italians Wreck Nazi Trains

MADRID, July 29—(AP).—Gen. Francisco Franco has cancelled plans to leave for his summer home in Galicia, it was disclosed today, as unconfirmed reports of fighting between Italian and German troops in northern Italy emphasized the growing seriousness of the situation.

The Madrid dispatches said the fighting broke out after the Germans were reported to have sent 10 divisions from France in an apparent effort to take over the Po line. Italians at the Spanish capital said that regular troops, aided by civilians and railwaymen turned saboteur, were trying to block the entry of the Nazi forces north of Milan and Turin.

Italy's new government was said to be in a delicate position, trying to determine actual German intentions—whether the troops actually are to defend southern Italy or pull a double cross in the north.

(The role of Italian military forces in North Italy was a subject of conflicting reports, some indicating they were endeavoring simply to restore order and co-operate with German expeditionary divisions and others that they were battling Nazis newly shipped from France and Germany.

(A Madrid dispatch last night said Italians in the Spanish capital reported regulars and civilians were fighting the Germans in Northern Sicily after Hitler had dispatched 10 of his divisions there from France. Estimates by these sources of German strength in Italy ranged from 100,000 to 300,000 men.

Clearing Highways.

(Italian army patrols ignored Allied radio broadcasts blaring out to sidewalk groups or stopped to listen themselves, it was reported at Madrid. Their main job was to expedite train movements and clear highways for troop movements.)

The Geneva newspaper La Suisse said prisons in the Domodossola region were bulging to capacity, so numerous have been the new ar-

283 Candidates Competing For 90 Legislative Seats

TORONTO, July 29—(CP).—Ontario's first wartime election campaign plunged into its final week today with 283 candidates seeking popular support for the August 5 Provincial election in which about 1,500,000 voters are expected to cast their ballots.

The official nominations yesterday as compiled by The Canadian Press found Lt.-Col. George A. Drew's Progressive Conservative forces leading in the number of nominations with 90—one for every seat in the Legislature—while Premier Nixon's Liberal election strength was 89. The only riding in which there is no Liberal candidate is Elgin, where Mitchell F. Hepburn, former Premier, is running as an Independent Liberal against Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. opposition.

Make Serious Bid.

For the first time in the Province's history, the C.C.F., led by E. B. Jolliffe, is making a serious bid for power with 86 candidates in the field, compared with 37 in the election of 1937 and 37 in the election of 1934. Seats the C.C.F. is not contesting are Grenville-Dundas, Kent East, Ottawa East and Renfrew South.

There are 18 other candidates — four Socialist-Labor, four Independent Liberal, three Independent, two Independent Labor, two Independent Soldier, one Independent Conservative, one Labor and one Independent C.C.F.

Three-cornered fights are scheduled in 75 ridings and in 73 of these the contest is between a Liberal, a Progressive Conservative and a C.C.F. In only three ridings are there two-way contests between Lib-

Rommel Arrives At Salonika

LONDON, July 29—(CP).—Coinciding with reports from Turkey that German forces have seized direct military command from Italian troops throughout Greece, the Berlin radio said today that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, former Axis commander in North Africa, had arrived at Salonika.

The German broadcast said that pictures published in Berlin newspapers showing Marshal Rommel's arrival ended the "secret" surrounding his whereabouts.

Mussolini's resignation as Italian Premier was the signal for Nazi occupying forces to take over all commands formerly held by the Italians, who had been doing a great part of the police work in the rebellious area, dispatches from Istanbul said.

Greece, gateway to the Balkans and a possible invasion route to Germany, has been the target of recent Allied aerial blows aimed at knocking out her Axis-held airports, and a heavy attack recently was launched against the Island of Crete just off the southeast coast.

Nicosia Falls to Americans Crack German Troops Retreat Through Mountains

Leonforte Falls To Canadians; Strong Air Aid

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 29 —(AP). — Canadian and American troops, pushing steadily into northeastern Sicily under raging aerial support, have captured four more towns, including the vital central road junction of Leonforte and have inflicted heavy casualties on stubbornly-retreating Axis forces, the Allies announced today.

Canadian columns smashed their way into Leonforte, eight miles northeast of Enna, in fierce fighting while the American 7th Army, pounding eastward down the coast from Palermo, captured the towns of Pollina, Castelbuono and Gangi.

With the occupation of Pollina, representing a one-day advance of about eight miles from the port of Cefalu, which was taken the previous day, the American armored spearhead had reached a point 75 miles from Messina, jumping-off place for Axis forces defending the island.

Inland Towns

Castelbuono and Gangi are inland towns, on an approximate line between Polina and Leonforte and announcement of their fall disclosed the American-Canadian co-ordinated, dovetailing advance the enemy apparently was powerless to stop.

To-day's brief Allied communique telling of the "steady progress" of this drive made no mention of the fighting around Catania, southern anchor of the Axis Mount Etna defence line, where the British 8th Army has been feeling out the enemy's stubborn defence for nearly a week.

The right wing of the American onrush over a 40-mile front was about 12 miles from Leonforte, from which the Canadians were driving forward.

Beating back Elite regiments of the German 15th Armored Division, the Canadians found Nazi dead piled in heaps on the outskirts of one unnamed city, an official report said.

Capture of Leonforte cut the important north-south highway which is well behind Axis lines on the north coast and has been a major artery for movements of troops between the enemy centre and left wing.

A German prisoner was officially reported to have said that the Nazis were killing their Italian allies whenever the latter attempted to surrender.

San Stefano, northern anchor of the Axis defence line, is 10 miles east of the American forward elements. This town and Nicosia, seven miles east of Leonforte, are the next key points along the American and Canadian advance. Their capture would just about clear the entire central and northern areas of the Etna line and initiate the final critical stage of the campaign in the complex foothills and mountains near Messina.

Candidates Overseas

TORONTO, July 29 (CP). —A survey of the election picture across Ontario reveals that all three major parties as well as the independent soldier group have candidates from the services. Among those on actual service overseas are two Liberals, Lt.-Col. Colin Campbell, former Minister of Public Works, who is seeking re-election in Sault St. Marie, and Capt. Alex. Elliott, seeking re-election in Peterborough; and two Progressive Conservatives—Col. E. J. Young, candidate in Nipissing, and Hon. Capt. the Rev. A. W. Downer, a chaplain seeking re-election in Dufferin-Simcoe.

Crisis Brewing In Balkans; Riots Continue

BERNE, July 29 — (CP).—Italian and German troops were reported rushed to Fiume and Trieste, where Croats and Slovenes were demonstrating for separation of the Istrian Peninsula from Italy and the situation in other sections of the kingdom was described as tense.

Swiss newspaper dispatches told of the crisis in Istria, soil which Italy annexed from Austro-Hungry after the last war. It juts into the Adriatic Sea between Italy and the Croatian coast.

The Berner Tagwacht said Croats and Slovenes, who number 600,000 on the peninsula, were demanding the inclusion of Istria in a South Slav state.

Additional clashes between Fascists and anti-Fascists were reported as Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio struggled to maintain order and save the country from chaos.

More Strikes

News of an insurrection in Milan was partly blacked out today by Premier Badoglio's military censorship. However a dispatch from Chaisso, Switzerland, said strikes in the Milan industrial region had assumed important proportions, with Communists attacking the monarchy.

Walls in Northern Italy — despite Badoglio's restriction of placarding and slogans—were reported plastered with inscriptions bearing the words: "Mussolini is liquidated—now the war must be liquidated. Long live the Social Republic."

(A BBC broadcast recorded by CBS said today the families of numerous Fascist officials were reported to have arrived by plane in Berlin.)

Sicily Campaign Nearing Critical Stage

WASHINGTON, July 29—(CP)—Canadian troops in Sicily have taken Agira, Robert Patterson, acting U.S. war secretary, announced today. Agira is about 12 miles east of Leonforte.

Patterson said also that the Americans, operating to the north of the Canadians in their joint drive northeastward toward the German Mount Etna line, have taken Nicosia.

(A German propaganda agency report, heard in London, said that the Germans had withdrawn from Nicosia.)

Rugged Country

Nicosia and San Stefano, to the north, have stood as the next key points along the line of the advance of American and Canadian forces northwest of Catania and a dispatch from Allied headquarters emphasized their importance today in the following words:

"Their capture will clear virtually the entire central and northern areas of Axis control and initiate what is expected to a critical stage of the campaign fought in complex foothills and mountains."

The conquest of Sicily probably will be complete in a few days, Patterson said, despite the strong resistance of German troops in the northeastern part of the island and evidence they have been reinforced recently.

Resistance Continues

Patterson said the ouster of Mussolini "was a political development, and its military significance is not yet clear.

"So far as we know," he said at a press conference, "no formal or informal overtures looking to peace have been made to the Allies by the new Italian regime.

"Until there is an offer to surrender, you may be sure the Allies will continue to press the war on Italy with all the vigor of which we are capable. There is no doubt, I think, that that might accelerate their speed in trying to get out of the war."

"There has been no evidence of diminishing resistance by the Axis in northeastern Sicily, where the enemy appears to have more than three German mobile divisions and at least as many Italian divisions. Patterson said the British, Canadian, French and United States troops now control four-fifths of the island.

EXAMINE PEACE PROPOSAL

BERNE, Switzerland—The Swiss Telegraphic Agency said today it had received a dispatch from Chiasso stating it had been "learned from Rome that the Badoglio Government is examining the conditions of peace sent by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower."

U.S. Bombers Smash Nazi Plant

Range Inland Near Berlin Set Raid Record

LONDON, July 29.—(CP).— Boldly defying Hitler's fading air strength, swarms of American heavy bombers flew unescorted and in daylight yesterday to within 80 miles of Berlin to smash the Nazi aircraft plant at Oschersleben. R.A.F., R.C.A.F., and other Allied planes provided fighter protection on the last lap of the return trip.

Squadrons of R.A.F. fighters crossed and recrossed the channel this morning in a continuation of widespread sweeps over northern France and Belgium and later Allied bombers headed over the coast with more squadrons of fighters.

British fighters destroyed three enemy fighters this morning without loss.

The Oschersleben raid was the deepest daylight thrust of the war into Germany.

Indicating that the round-the-clock bombings had extended into last night, the Berlin radio reported early to-day that R.A.F. planes had made scattered "nuisance raids" on northwestern Germany during the night. There was no immediate confirmation.

Kasse, site of a big Focke-Wulf assembly plant about 200 miles southwest of Berlin, also was battered by the big bombers, which were reported to have shot down upwards of 60 Nazi fighters attempting to beat them off. Twenty-three bombers were lost during the round trip of more than 1,000 miles, a communique said. One Allied fighter plane also was lost.

Drop 2,300 Tons.

The American blow at enemy aircraft production followed a massive raid by the R.A.F. and Canadian planes on smouldering Hamburg in which more than 2,300 long tons were loosed — the greatest bomb load in history.

The raid on Hamburg, submarine centre and North German industrial port, was the sixth on that city on a series of British, Canadian and American day and night attacks which began Saturday night.

In bombing Oschersleben, the bombers flew almost 200 miles into the German territory Hitler once said would never fear the shock of an enemy bomb.

Badoglio Bans Political Units

LONDON, July 29 (CP) —Italy's Chamber of Fasci and Corporations has been dissolved by order of Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio's government, the Dome radio announced to-day.

The Chamber of Fasci and Corporations (Camera Dei Fascie E Delle Corporazioni) took the place of the Italian Chamber of Deputies after that 90-year old legislative agency was dissolved December 14, 1938.

It was made up of the 150 members of the National Fascist Council, headed by Benito Mussolini as Chief of the Government, and 500 members of the National Council of Corporations.

The Rome radio announced the dissolution of the Chamber in a broadcast which said Badoglio's Government had banned the formation of any political party for the

F. D. R. Curtails General's Political Power

Eisenhower Has Temporary Authority To Make Terms For Italy

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press War Analyst

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who would much rather confine himself to fighting, is on the political spot again.

Just a few months ago, caught in the trap of experiency, the general was dealing with the French Admiral Jean Darlan for the capitulation of North Africa when President Roosevelt announced that, so far as the United States is concerned, the former Vichite was being used on a strictly temporary basis.

This morning the general broadcast a statement to the Italians that they can have the peace for which they are rioting. Throw the Germans out and we will look after you royally, was the gist of Gen. Eisenhower's message. But even as he spoke the Italians were awakening to find word from President Roosevelt that, once again, the United States considers the authority with whom the general will have to deal as only temporary.

People's Choice

Eventually, said the president, the Italian people will reconstitute their country under a government of their own choosing. Meanwhile, Gen. Eisenhower suggests, the Allies will deal with anyone who can deliver the country. Not a very hopeful situation from the standpoints of King Victor Emmanuel and Marshal Badoglio, unless they are confident that, by taking the country out from under the power of Germany, they can generate sufficient good-will to make them the people's choice.

No Difference

Gen. Eisenhower's reference to the "honorable conditions" for peace "already offered" conflicts in no way with the president's reiteration of "unconditional surrender." But the general makes a strong point in referring to Allied policies in Sicily, where unconditional surrender has meant food, and peace, and freedom from the dictates of Both Nazism and Fascism.

The double-barreled forensic attack by Mr. Roosevelt and Gen. Eisenhower also contained other statements calculated to have strong effect in a country where revolution threatens to embarass the Allies almost as much as the Germans, who were reported receiving shot and steel instead of co-operation in their effort to set up a defence line in northern Italy.

The Italians are a highly civilized and sentimental people. They are sensitive to casualties and are heart-stricken over their missing husbands and brothers. Gen. Eisenhower's word that surrender will mean a complete exchange of prisoners must have a profound effect.

State Secretary Cordell Hull indicated today the United States relies on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of the Allied forces, to obtain Italy's unconditional surrender.

Asked at his press conference if the Italians had made any approaches, Hull said there was none to his knowledge.

He tacitly endorsed Eisenhower's declaration to Italians today, with an assertion of his confidence in the Allied commander's sound judgment in dealing with military affairs at the front.

115,000 In Soldier Vote

Totals To Be Added In Each Riding

TORONTO, July 29—(CP).—Vote of Ontario service personnel in next Wednesday's Provincial election will be included in the total for each constituency reported on election night. But details of the serivce vote—the proportion cast for different parties and candidates—will not be known for several days.

Servicemen in training camps or on active or operational duty within the Province vote where they are stationed. Polls will be set up in any camp where there is sufficient personnel to warrant a poll.

The total number eligible to vote by proxy—that is, service men and women outside Ontario—has been estimated at 115,000. With the total number of Ontarians in the service estimated roughly at 300,000, this would leave a possible Camp Vote of 185,000.

However, servicemen posted in their home consituencies may vote at civilian polling stations if they are on the voters' lists. Such votes will not appear in service totals.

Totals of the proxy vote and the Camp Vote will be communicated to the clerk of the Crown in Chancery and made public by him, probably five or six days after the election.

In the 1942 manpower plebiscite 1,452,954 Ontario civilians voted. The service vote was not segregated by provinces. The combined Quebec-Ontario service vote was about 114,000.

5 Fliers Decorated At Sea

All Cited For Courage During Bombing

An East Coast Canadian Port, July 28 (CP)—The brief ceremony in the ships crowded main lounge took only half an hour, but three nations were involved in the incident that probably made history at sea.

Five United States army airmen were decorated in the ceremony, believed the first ever held aboard a black-out shrouded transport.

Four of the five airmen, all staff sergeants, were awarded Distinguished Flying Crosses, while the other received his fourth Oak Leaf cluster to the Air Medal. All waist gunners in big B17 bombers raiding Hitler's European fortress, the airmen had been cited for their "courage and skill" in action.

The decorations were to have been awarded in Britain, but the men had been rushed aboard the transport at the last minute for a coveted furlough at home. So the necessary was done after the ship left England.

An R.A.F. guard of honor was provided by the ship's air force commandant, Group Capt. A. K. Aspden of Ottawa, and his second in command, Sqdn. Ldr. A. S. Turnbull of Galt and London, Ont., both of the R.C.A.F.

Col. Ralph W. Duesenburg, (home town unavailable) senior American officer aboard, and Col. W. Barrett of New York made the presentations.

ITALIANS ARE ADVISED TO EXPEL GERMAN OCCUPATION FORCES

Honorable Peace May Be Had Eisenhower Claims 4 More Sicily Towns Taken

Promises Italians Prisoners Will Be Released

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 29—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told the Italian people in a broadcast message today that the presence of German troops in Italy is the only obstacle to an honorable peace.

The commander of Allied forces promised that the hundreds of thousands of Italian prisoners held by the Allies would be returned to their homes provided all Allied prisoners now in Italian hands were restored safely and not taken away into Germany.

He said the Italians would have immediate peace under "the honorable conditions which our governments have already offered you," and pledged the occupation would be "mild and beneficient as in Sicily."

"Your men will return to their normal life, productive avocations," he said. "The ancient liberties and traditions of your country will be restored."

Gen. Eisenhower brought out these five points:

1. Only the Germans in Italy are blocking peace.

2. Cessation of hostilities is possible immediately under honorable terms.

3. Discontinuance of assistance by the Italians to German armed forces is a prerequisite of peace.

Lauds Italians

4. A pledge that Italian war prisoners will be returned if Allied prisoners in Italian hands also are returned.

5. If hostilities cease, the liberties and the House of Savoy for ridding stored.

"We commend the Italian people and the House of Saviy for ridding themselves of Mussolini, the man who involved them in the war as a tool of Hitler and brought them to the verge of disaster," Gen. Eisenhower said.

(This was the first official message from any Allied leader commending the Royal House of Italy for its part in Mussolini's removal. It was disclosed in London this week that Gen. Eisenhower had been entrusted with full authority to deal with any peace offers.)

Gen. Eisenhower told the Italian people that in removing Premier Mussolini from power they had removed the greatest obstacle dividing the Italian people from the United Nations.

The only remaining obstacle on the road to peace is the German aggressor who is still on Italian soil, he said.

(A London dispatch reported that "heavy jamming," by Axis radio interfered with reception of the broadcast in the British Isles.)

"We are coming to you as liberators," the American commander of Allied forces in North Africa and Sicily told the Italians, and he added:

"Your part is to cease immediately any assistance to German military forces in your country. If you do this we will rid you of the Germans, deliver you from the horrors

WHY NOT HAVE BABY SLEEP THROUGH NIGHT

YOU and your baby both need sleep. There is a sure and easy way to get it. Let Mrs. B—, Jr., of Winona, Ontario, tell you in her own words: "Night after night, as soon as we would get settled in bed, 'Baby' would start crying. . . . Baby's Own Tablets changed all this. What a blessed relief."

In no sense are these "sleeping" tablets. They contain no opiates or stupefying drugs and are absolutely harmless. But they promote healthful sleep by promptly making the ill baby well. The well baby sleeps soundly.

Baby's Own Tablets bring quick relief from teething troubles, constipation, simple fever, diarrhoea, upset stomach, colic, simple croup and colds. Try them. 25 cents. Your money refunded if they are not effective.

Flier Gets Wings

Sgt. Pilot Jack Thompson, son of Mrs. C. S. Thompson, 50 McDonnel Street, got his wings at Moncton last week. He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. while he was still at Collegiate in June, 1942, and trained at Manning Pool, Victoriaville, Que., Three Rivers and Moncton. Before he enlisted, he worked in Roy's Studio in his spare time.

Rioting Grows In Italy; Casualties Soar

BERNE, Switzerland, July 29 (AP)—Italy, wracked by anti-Fascist outbreaks and under mounting pressure from Germany to stay in the war, faced today one of the most critical situations in her turbulent history as Premier Pietro Badoglio strove to maintain order.

Reports reaching the Swiss border said hundreds of persons had been killed in widespread riots and that tension was growing hourly.

The anti-Fascist outbreaks, paralleled by massed peace demonstrations, occurred in widely separated cities.

Badoglio assumed control of the government five days ago in the hope of organizing and stabilizing a new authoritarian regime, advices from Rome indicated, but the country-wide demonstrations for peace, the rioting and fighting, strikes in Italy's most important war and industrial factories, combined with increasing political agitation apparently has brought the country on the verge of incipient civil war.

Internal Crisis

The crisis in Italy's internal affairs has reached the stage where even a spokesman for the Bedlin Foreign Office reportedly admitted the probability of a new government in Rome before the end of the week.

Canadians Inflict Heavy Losses On German Forces

By RELMAN MORIN

Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 29 (AP)—Allied troops, supported by increased masses of aircraft, have captured four more Sicilian towns and "heavy casualties have been inflicted on the enemy," authorities announced here today.

The communique again told of "fierce fighting" on the sector of the front where the Canadian 1st Division led by Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds is battling northeastward toward the German Etna line.

Canadian troops have taken the town of Leon Forte, 25 miles due south of San Stefano on the Tyrrhenean Sea which is the next major objective of the American 7th Army.

Speaking of the Canadian front, the communique said that "heavy casualties have been inflicted on the enemy. Steady progress is being made. The town of Leon Forte is now in our hands."

On the northern, or American, front, the communique said that "the advance of the 7th Army continues and the towns of Pollina, Castelbuono and Gangi have been captured."

Aircraft subjected enemy defences and communications to heavy assaults yesterday and were credited with the destruction of at least 30 motor vehicles.

Air Umbrella Strong

(The Italian high command said in a communique broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press that Allied pressure in central and northern sectors of Sicily had been renewed "more violently, with masses of planes in support." It described the fighting as bitter.)

Medium bombers hammered Regalbuto, important tactical position at the centre of the Axis line and Milaezo. The air forces concentrated mainly along the battle zone and against enemy supply points in Sicily. Ground forces were getting heavier air support.

Meanwhile a recapitulation of reports of the Rome raid said it was "one of the most successful of the war."

Towns and roads around the base of Mount Etna, near the east coast north of Catania, received the heaviest fire from Allied fighters and fighter-bombers.

Hits were scored on Axis merchantman at Riposto and barges and landing craft were bombed at Reggio Calabria, mainland city on the Strait of Messina.

(The Rome communique said Allied airmen raided the suburbs of Naples and localities in Salerno province, southeast of that major port. It said "the damage caused was slight and casualties were few." In all operations, the bulletin said, 12 Allied aircraft were shot down.

(German bombers were claimed by the Italian communique to have damaged six Allied merchantmen totalling 29,000 tons during a night attack on Gela, Allied-occupied port of southern Sicily.)

It was announced that the release of political prisoners— of whom thousands had been rounded up under Mussolini's rule— was already in progress.

Reports of spreading revolts suggested that cnotrol of Italy might be wrested from Badoglio and that he might be compelled to sue for an immediate peace.

rests. A Rome writer said more than 4,000 political prisoners had been released and that many exiled under the Fascist regime were expected to return to Italy.

Border controls were reported tightened. A correspondent of La Suisse said the Italians had stopped a rather high Italian diplomat who was seeking to join his son in Switzerland.

A roundabout report published by Libera Stampa of Lugano said some high Fascists had been killed at Turin.

A new proclamation by five anti-Fascist parties demanding that Badoglio end the war was published in Turin newspapers.

It told the people that clarification of government policy was awaited and asked reassurance that the government would "indicate the road to social and political reconstruction."

The five parties said the difficulties confronting Badoglio's ministry were recognized, but that the parties were aware of the Itaians' feelings and aspirations, "the most urgent of which is the immediate liberation of political victims."

Roosevelt Says Speed Up War In Radio Talk

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Reporting Italy on the ropes, Germany blackened by bombs, and Japan losing the initiative in the Pacific, President Roosevelt called on the American people and their allies today to follow through with the knockout punch that spells "total victory."

The President, reporting to the United States o the war effort abroad and at home for the first time in almost six months, told a radio audience last night that:

1. The United Nations may not take time out to gloat over the downfall of dictator Mussolini and the obvious plight of Italy, but must go on to demand unconditional surrender. Then Japan and Germany must be whipped on home grounds.

2. The Axis leadership must eventually be hunted out and prosecuted for war guilt. No mere resignation, such as Mussolini's, may interfere with this.

All this will command increased effort at home, the President emphasized.

While current problems are mighty, he asserted, it's not too early to think of the future. Hence, he thought it was time to lay down a specific policy for taking care of the men and women of the armed forces when they return so there is no wholesale idleness or lack of attention. In this respect, Mr. Roosevelt recommended mustering out pay, unemployment insurance, vocational education and training, medical care and pensions. He included the merchant marine as part of the armed forces.

For Americans, Mr. Roosevelt suggested harder work on the daily job, the fullest possible attention to food production, and purchase of war bonds to the limit.

Lauds Russians

He paid high tribute to the Russians. Their success has shown, he said, "it is dangerous to make a prophecy about them—a fact forcibly brought home to that mystic master of strategic intuition, Herr Hitler."

He also praised the accomplishments of the British 8th Army and the Canadian troops in Sicily, terming them a "magnificent fighting force which has made the Germans pay a heavy price for each hour of delay in the final victory."

Continuing, he said "the dauntless fighting of the British people in this war has been expressed in the historic words and deeds of Winston Churchill — and the world knows how the American people feel about him."

The president, too, mentioned the fine spirit of co-operation being displayed by the Allies. "You have heard," he said, "some people say the British and Americans can never get along well together. . . . That real co-operation between them is impossible. Tunisia and Sicily have given the lie, once and for all, to these narrow-minded prejudices."

Helping China

Mr. Roosevelt mentioned fighting China to say "We are delivering planes and vital war supplies for the heroic armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and we must do more at all costs."

He said "We are helping the Italian pepole in Sicily" and will continue to help Italians reconstitute their government as they want it—there will be no pillage or starvation — conquered peoples will be restored "to the dignity of human beings entitled to freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want, freedom from fear."

"We are pushing the Japs around from the Aleutians to New Guinea. We have taken the initiative and we are not going to let go of it. . . . The Japs have lost more planes and more ships than they have been able to replace."

Meantime, the president declared, this war of attrition is pushing the Japanese back from their over-extended lines from Burma and Siam to the Dutch East Indies, Australia and Guadalcanal.

An Albanian report said Albanian Prime Minister Ekrem Libohova had left Albania and Vice-Premier Ilyas Agushi had delivered a proclamation urging the people to maintain discipline. The Italian general representing the King of Italy also was said to have left the country.

From Greece came reports of increased guerrilla activities on the heels of Mussolini's downfall along with indications some of the Italian garrisons were moving north toward Albania.

Christopher de Kallay, son of the Hungarian prime minister arrived in Turkey on a special diplomatic mission. He was believed carrying urgent dispatches from his father to the Turkish Government.

Producers Plan Fair Allotment Of Honey Supply

Ceiling prices for honey, fixed by Wartime Prices and Trade Board, are 37 cents for two pounds; 72 cents for four pounds and $1.46 for the eight-pound tin, Allan T. Brown informed the Examiner today.

Producers have been requested by the Board, in a recent Order, to distribute the new stock as equitably as possible, having regard both to the orders from established customers and also to the hopes of the general public to share in the 1943 yield.

"That means," said Mr. Brown, "that producers should not sell one or two hundred pounds to one house and leave the next with none at all."

Big Orders

Some of the orders received prior to the announcement from the W.T.P.B. were as high as two hundred pounds. Many were for fifty pounds, and this volume of demand has been generally experienced by producers throughout the district.

"Acting on the order from the Board we will have to make the revision of these orders ourselves in an effort to spread the supply of honey more evenly in public buying," said Mr. Brown. "Of course every producer has established customers whom he has a right to supply with a reasonable quantity. The recommendation from the Board is that our present sales should be based on those of the season of 1941."

Mr. Brown said that the public should remember that it will be impossible for producers to crowd into the next six weeks the business that ordinarily spreads over half a year or more.

First Comers Served

"Personally, I am going to fill orders in rotation," he added. "Those I received first will be filled first, and according to the wishes of the W.T.B.P., so that the public as far as possible, may have a chance to get some part of this year's crop."

Mr. Brown also emphasized this phase of demand, that producers have at present orders for their entire supply. There may be some who have put aside part of their new stock for general sales, but demand has been in excess of the bees' production.

Premier Nixon, who has represented his Brant seat in the Legislature continuously since 1919, is opposed by Sydney Rogers, Progressive Consrvative, and William Cuthbert, C. C. F.

Progressive Conservative Leader Drew has three opponents in Toronto High Park— W. E. Hendry, Socialist-Labor, L. A. Leslie, Liberal, and W. H. Temple, C. C. F. C. C. F. Leader Jolliffe is a candidate in York South riding where his opponents are G M. Dix, Progressive Conservative, and Edward Evans, Liberal.

Six Women in Race.

Six women are among the candidates, five C. C. F. and one Liberal. Heading the C. C. F. group is Agnes Macphail who was U.F.O. member of the House of Commons for Grey South from 1921 to 1940 and is contesting York East. Others are Helen Carefoot in Works Minister Farquhar Oliver's riding in Grey South, Mrs. Charlotte Brown in Prince Edward-Lennox, Elsie Rakes in Simcoe Centre, and Mrs. Rae Luckock in Toronto Bracondale. The Liberal is Mrs. George Fulford who is running in Leeds where her husband is the Federal member. No woman has ever sat in the Legislature although six women were candidates in 1934 and two in 1937.

All three major parties as well as the Indepedent Soldier group have candidates from the services. Among those on active service overseas are two Liberals—Lt.-Col. Colin Campbell, former Minister of Public Works, who is seeking re-election in Sault Ste. Marie, and Capt. A. Elliott, seeking re-election in Peterborough—and two Progressive Conservatives—Col. E. J. Young, candidate in Nipissing, and Hon. Capt. the Rev. A. W. Downer, a chaplain, seeing re-election in Dufferin-Simcoe.

The number of candidates —283 — is the largest since the Legislature was cut to 90 seats, 17 more than the 226 in 1937 and 21 more than the 262 in 1934. In 1923, when ther were 111 seats, the candidates numbered 293.

Harley A. Walker, an employee of Canadian Department Stores in Peterborough for ten years, died suddenly at the Woodstock General Hospital Wednesday after a week's illness. He was 39 years old.

For 24 years an employee of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., Mr. Walker came here from Toronto in November, 1932 and was in charge of the hardware sales department In November, 1942, he moved to Kirkland Lake to take up the position of assistant store manager, and remained there until a month ago, at which time he was transferred to Woodstock.

While in Peterborough he was a warden in St. John's Church and very active in church affairs. He was a Mason, and in his youth an active ball player in the Kew Beach League.

He is survived by his wife, Marjorie McIntyre Walker; a son, Jack; his mother, Mrs. N. Burns of Toronto; and two sisters, Mrs. William Eagle and Mrs. Kenneth Harris.

Cobourg May Get New Industry

COBOURG, July 29 — (ENS) — Possibility of Cobourg securing a new industry is suggested in the following notice issued by the Mayor:

"Business men of Cobourg will be asked this week to discuss a new industrial proposition. This is the result of negotiations which were carried on about a year ago with an entirely different Company. Mr. W. A. Fraser has assisted in securing certain essential conditions from Ottawa. You business men will be notified by phone on perhaps a few hours notice and I trust that every man invited will cancel any other engagements he may have and give his attendance and assistance. This is a first class corporation in every respect and mean to do business here or elsewhere."

Theatre Staff Honor Nurse-in-Training

COBOURG, July 29 —(ENS)—A pleasant event took place at the Capitol Theatre when the staff assembled to pay honor to Miss Estelle Kewin who has been the efficient cashier for some time but who has resigned to enter Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, as nurse-in-training.

Mrs. R. J. Harrison read an appreciative address and Mrs. F. Rouse presented Miss Kewin with a handsome umbrella. The recipient in an appropriate reply thanking them all and the staff reciprocated with kindly wishes for her future success and happiness.

Prisoner Escapes

KINGSTON, July 29 — (CP).—Henry Jensen, 27, escaped yesterday from Kingston Penitentiary while building a stone wall on the east side of the prison.

G.L. Brackenbury Reappointed At Port Hope

PORT HOPE, June 29 (ENS) — The curtain has finally descended on the famous Port Hope High School tangle which turned the town upside down last year and caused a municipal political upheaval which resulted in new slate being elected in town council and school trustee board.

The former principal was re-hired after a new school board took office and the high school staff and principal who had been hired by the board were dismissed.

The former staff along with Principal George L. Brackenbury will be back next fall. All this transpired this year but the final chapter was written when J. T. George and W. E. Bonneville resigned this week from the board. Mr. George and Mrs. Bonneville still had unexpired terms when the board was revamped at the elections last January.

Magna Carta of Ontario Labor

SET UP BY THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT AND OPERATING NOW FOR LABOR

The Collective Bargaining Act passed at the last session of the Legislature was the Liberal Government's answer to the plea of labor and provides for the differences between labor and industry being adjusted by negotiation and settlement. It has been hailed, by the American Federation of Labor, as being a highly favorable Act, and meriting the support of Labor.

The Act makes it illegal for employers to refuse to deal with the trade union organizations chosen by the majority of their employees.

Since a considerable number of Labor disputes arise from refusals of employers to deal with Trade Union Organizations, the Labor Court is the machinery by which industrial peace may be maintained.

Conservatives Refuse to Study the Question

The Conservative opposition refused to sit on the Committee of the Legislature to deal with the Collective Bargaining Bill, which shows Colonel Drew's lack of interest in organized Labor. As a matter of fact, he has never shown any anxiety to help Labor, except in his "Twenty-Two Promises" made after the election was announced.

The Collective Bargaining Act empowers the Labor Court to recognize as collective bargaining agencies those unions which are not "dominated, coerced or improperly influenced by the employer in any manner by way of financial aid or otherwise." And the machinery for the administration and management of the policy, where it cannot be agreed upon by the parties, will be decided by the Judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who will sit as a referee and a judge to settle the differences between the contending parties. Colonel Drew objects to a Judge sitting as a referee, his objection being, of course, because this is now the law.

Col. Drew and the C.C.F. suggest that there should be three arbitrators—one appointed by the employer, one by Organized Labor, and the third one to be appointed by the two if they can agree upon it. This means that the arbitrator appointed by the employer would, of course, stand by the claims of the employer. The arbitrator appointed by Labor naturally would lean towards and support the contentions of Labor, and the third man would be the only one who is actually independent and he would be the judge as a matter of fact, so that the whole thing simmers down to exactly what we have now, and that is—one man who settles the differences between the parties upon definitely ascertained principles and rules besides being directed by an oath of office, which every judge takes.

Experience Will Show If Changes Necessary

If in the experience of the Labor Court, certain changes should be made, these can be done in the Legislature, but only by friends who are willing to stand by this "Magna Carta of Labor" and not by the Conservatives who ran away from it or by the C.C.F. whose suggestion is to establish a board "to dicker" between employer and employees. The Liberal Government was responsible for this forward step and this board is already at work hearing C.C.F.-C.I.O. appeals.

Vote ELLIOTT and Protect the Rights of Labor

Conscription To Come Raymond Claims

MONTREAL, July 29 (CP)—Maxime Raymond, Leader of the Bloc Populaire Party and member of the House of Commons for Beauharnois-Laprairie, said in a radio address last night that conscription for overseas service will be imposed by the Federal Government when casualties suffered in the invasion of Europe have whittled the ranks of the Canadian Army.

Mr. Raymond said that Prime Minister Mackenzie King a year ago had Parliament pass a bill authorizing conscription for service anywhere and "he will conscript your sons for service." Mr. Raymond spoke for 15 minutes from a private station (CGAC) in support of Bloc Populaire candidates in the Aug. 9 Federal by-elections in Stanstead and Montreal Cartier.

The Government, Mr. Raymond said, will enforce its conscription law "the day the invasion of Europe, which is progressing rapidly but which is costing thousands and thousands of lives, will have soon gaps in the Canadian Army. To fill those gaps they will come and get soldiers where they find them.

"The Bloc Populaire Canadien is anti-imperialist," he said. "It is opposed to the billion-dollar gifts. But no one British Dominion, save ours, has given a billion to England. It is against conscription, but neither Australia, peopled with citizens of British origin, nor South Africa, nor Ireland has conscription for service anywhere.

"The Bloc is Canadian. The Bloc attacks Imperialism. The Bloc recommends, and with your votes will succeed in obtaining, a truly Canadian political policy."

Balkan Passkey—Allies Might Pass This Way

Scutari, quaint Albanian town on a large lake adjoining Yugoslavia's southern frontier, has strategic value as the gateway for a possible Allied drive across south-eastern Europe. The aim of such a drive would be to cut the Balkans off from Germany as the prelude to an invasion of the Reich itself.

Cannington Rink Captures Quaker Trophy

BY HERB MARTIN

If it had not been for Harold Freeman's rink, the Peterborough bowlers in the Men's Open Tournament on Wednesday would have been completely whitewashed. So thoroughly did the visiting rinks dominate the day's play, that not only did the two major prizes leave town, but three of the four minor one went the same way.

To Bill Livingston's boys from Cannington go the honor of lifting the Quaker Oats Co. Trophy and first prize and to Norman Kingsbury, Cobourg, went the honor of winning the Peterborough Canoe Trophy and second prize.

In opening the tournament His Worship Mayor James Hamilton extended a welcome to all on behalf of the city and the club. He said no matter what government would be at Queen's Park, the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club would always be here.

President R. F. Downey also spoke a few words of welcome.

Rinks were present from almost every bowling club in the district.

Play commenced around two o'clock and kept right on going till eleven o'clock.

The games were, in many cases, close and were witnessed by many spectators. During the presentation of prizes many compliments were paid to the organization by visiting bowlers.

The draw was run on the "plus" system and was ably handled by Judge Smoke.

General Smuts Back In Power

PRETORIA, South Africa, July 29—(AP)— Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts and his war policies won a clear majority in the July 7 General Election, still incomplete returns indicated to-day.

With 109 seats decide out of the total of 150 in the House of Representatives, the Coalition Government had won 85 against 24 for the various opposition parties which have opposed participation in the war.

Results were delayed for more than three weeks because, first, time was required to gather the soldiers votes from various theatres of oppostion, and secondly, by opposition attempts to have the courts rule many soldier ballots were inacceptable because of alleged irregularities.

Field Marshal Smuts himself was re-elected for Standerton and all members of his cabinet were re-elected.

Germans Plan To Abandon Southern Italy

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Reports of revolts spreading through Italy suggested today the possibility the country's destiny may be wrenched from the hands of Premier Pietro Badoglio and that he may be compelled to sue for an immediate peace.

While Badoglio's position in the confused situation was not entirely clear, there were indications he might be calling for time in an attempt to get German troops out of southern Italy and get Italian forces back from the Balkans before appealing to the Allies for an armistice.

There have been repeated reports from European listening posts that Italian garrisons have been moving out of the Balkan countries and dispatches from Madrid last night told of an outbreak of fighting in northern Italy between German and Italian troops, who apparently were trying to prevent the Nazis from taking over the Po River defence line.

Hitler has been represented as taking the stand that any defence of Italy must be made on the Po line.

Whatever the significance of these reports there seemed no doubt Badoglio was facing a critical situation, though the Rome radio continued to insist that it was the new government's intention to continue the war.

Only a few hours before President Roosevelt delivered the address last night in which he asserted the United Nations will be satisfied with nothing less than Italy's unconditional surrender, a Rome radio commentator declared:

"Whatever Roosevelt says will not influence the Italian people one jot."

U.S. Transport Crashes, Kills 20 People

NEW YORK, July 29 — (AP).— American Airlines reported early to-day that a Louisville-Nashville transport plane crashed at Trammel, Ky., killing 20 persons.

Airline officials said that there were two survivors — both passengers— who were taken to Bowling Green, Ky.

Officials were not to immediately determine the cause of the crash.

The transport left Lousville, Ky, for Nashville, Tenn., at 10:50 p.m. (EDT) piloted by Capt. Harry A. Stiller of Cleveland, Ohio, according to American Airlines. The plane was last head from at 11.30 p.m. (EDT) at Smith Grove, Ky.

The dead included two crew members, the pilot, a pilot acting as an observing member of the crew, and 16 passengers, among the latter was a baby.

At Bowling Green, Ky., policeman William A. Lyle said the plane crashed about 11 p.m. (EDT) last night in an open field and burned.

He quoted G. H. Claypool, a storekeeper at Trammel, Ky., as saying he heard the plane "coming down with a mighty roar," and ran out of his house to see it strike the ground.

Trammel is about 20 miles from Bowling Green, near the Kentucky-Tennessee border.

The Italian Enigma

The downfall of the Fascist regime in Italy, rapid developments in Sicily, and the strength of the Russian counter-offensive have all combined to hurry Hitler into decisions which may prove disastrous for him. Any false move which he makes now may precipitate a train of events which will bring him a sudden debacle. Caution and speed are hard to combine, but he must do what he can to minimize his reverses.

Of these, the Italian must be the most vexing. Hitler may or may not have known that Mussolini was near the brink of disaster, but he was unable to do anything to save his partner. At present the Italian situation is clouded: some reports tell of assurances that the war will be continued; other reports, equally credible, say that Italy has already taken the first steps toward negotiating a peace. If Italy chooses to fight we may be sure that the furious war which Mr. Churchill promised will be waged against the peninsula; if Italy chooses to capitulate it will be on condition that the United Nations are able to use her as a base for operations against Germany. The former alternative would give Hitler a few more months of time in which to prepare for the battle of Germany; the latter would confront him with that battle in a very short time. The reports from Switzerland that German troops are hastening to establish a line north of the Po gives the impression that the Germans forsee the worst.

Their situation in Sicily grows steadily worse, but it appears that their former intention of retrieving as many of their men as possible from that front has been abandoned. The original German idea was that they should pull their men out of Sicily while Italian rearguards were sacrificed to the Anglo-American forces. That suggestion was at least one of the things which brought about the fall of Mussolini. But now it looks as though the Germans, who are always ready to sacrifice great numbers of troops for a brief advantage, meant to leave their men in Sicily to stage a fight to the finish, in the hope of gaining time in which to prepare for the fight in Northern Italy. If, and when that fight comes, it will be of shocking proportions, with the Germans working on a very short line of supply and probably with first-rate air support.

Tuck Your Shirt In

In the town of Ingersoll, we observe, the police chief has warned a group of high-school boys that they must not go about the streets with their shirt-tails hanging out. The chief, apparently, means to put up a fight for a reasonable standard of trimness of appearance; whether he will win or not, we cannot say, but we are not betting on him. For the trend of the times seems to be toward extreme informality of dress, and there are great numbers of people who cannot distinguish between informality and slovenliness. As for this shirt-tail business, it began with high-school girls; having borrowed slacks from their brothers they decided to borrow their shirts as well, and as women are not so patient as men about wearing uncomfortable clothes they let the shirt-tails flap in the breeze instead of tucking them in. Thus one of the most slovenly fashions in the history of style was born.

In theory there is nothing wrong with shirt-tails. The Chinese have always worn their shirts outside their trousers, and so have the Russians. A man is cooler and more free to move if his shirt is not tucked in. But the fact remains that our shirts were not made to hang out, and their tails lack the fullness and kilted affect of the Russian blouse and the Chinese tunic. When we let our shirts hang out we look half-dressed and untidy, and that is what we are. Our advice to the shirt-tail boys is either to tuck their shirts in, or to get shirts which are properly made to hang out.

Sometimes we are depressed by the lack of style shown in most modern dress. Well-dressed men and women are pleasing to the eye, but they are rarer with each year that passes. The war cannot be blamed; the trend has been noticeable ever since 1929. Good clothes help morale; they are usually an outward sign of self-respect. At the turn of the last century dress was a matter of keen interest to all classes of society, and in the annual Labour Day parades the award for the "best-dressed union" was eagerly sought by industrial workers of all kinds. Wages are far higher today, but has any industrial worker a silk-faced overcoat or a natty pair of cloth-topped boots? We doubt if even John L. Lewis owns such sartorial glories. The idea that it is a social duty to be as well-dressed as possible has almost died out and the streets are drabber because of it.

We think that the sort of harmless vanity which makes people dress as well as they can is an excellent thing and should be encouraged. The spirit which finds its outward symbol in a drooping shirt-tail will not take us far. If male dress is to be reformed, made lighter, more comfortable and more pleasing aesthetically, very well. But while it remains as it is, let us keep our shirts tucked in.

See For Yourself

For some reason, which has never been satisfactorily explained, parents who are expecting an addition to their household always seem to hope that it will be a boy. Why boys should be preferred to girls, particularly during the first year or two of life, we cannot say, but the prejudice exists. There are few more anxious moments in a father's life than those immediately before the physician makes the great announcement.

This irrational desire for boys has contributed something to the wrath of Harry James Hardwig of Los Angeles, whose wife bore a child on June 27. The doctor told Mr. and Mrs. Hardwig that they had a son, and the child's identification bracelet plainly read, "Sex—male". The Hardwigs were elated, but they cannot have been possessed of much curiosity or scientific spirit; obviously they are not from Missouri. For it was not until Mrs. Hardwig had brought her baby home and proceeded to give it a bath that they discovered that their boy was a girl. Mr. Hardwig rushed to the hospital and demanded his son; when no son was forthcoming he demanded damages of $500,000 and charged the doctors and hospital staff with the abduction of Richard Allen Hardwig.

Mistakes happen in the best hospitals, and the Hardwig mix-up may prove to be no more, though it is hard to believe that a doctor, of all people, does not know the difference between a boy and a girl. But the lesson for all young parents is clear: Don't believe everything you hear; see for yourself.

Our Hoity-Toity Artists

In the weekly paper News (the only out-and-out Tory paper left in the Dominion) Mr. A. Y. Jackson, one of Canada's best painters, airs his views on art and politics. Speaking of an exhibition of Mexican art to be shown at the National Gallery in Ottawa, he says that Mexican artists are keen politicians, and goes on to say "Few Canadian artists are much concerned with politics or social reform. Their emotions are not stirred by the petty differences and selfish ambitions of those who seek election. We don't have raids and shootings and executions, or one party taking a flight to save their lives from another. But wouldn't it be fun for the artists if we did?"

This is hoity-toity talk indeed. From our observation, sometimes at close quarters, our Canadian artists are too deeply engrossed in petty differences and selfish ambitions among themselves to take much interest in anything else. With a very few exceptions our Canadian artists are as intellectually lethargic a group as any to be found in the Dominion. What the artists of the rest of the world thought forty years ago, Canada's artists will think tomorrow. God forbid that they should interest themselves in politics if that interest is to show in their art! Tendentious art is poor stuff. But could they not rouse themselves from the semi-stupor in which they paint conventional portraits, maple trees in autumn, jagged rocks at Georgian Bay and villages in the snow? It is true that our politicians need more dash, more technique and more depth, but as our artists need precisely these same qualities we do not think that criticism comes gracefully from them. Intellectual lethargy and a love of bickering are curses of the nation, and not of any special group within it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A statistician has estimated that it cost about 75 cents to kill a man in one of Julius Caesar's wars; the price rose to $21,000 in the first great war; and in the present war it is $50,000. Let us hope that we shall soon see that killing is entirely beyond our means.

Why Tall Men Are Modest

By ROBERT LYND
(London News-Chronicle)

LORD GEDDES, speaking in the House of Lords this week, uttered what seemed to me a well-timed warning against regarding a growth in inches as a sign of good health. Referring to the taller young people of the present day, he said: "We are too ready today to measure health by gross outward appearances.... We were always being advised to drink more milk and measure the result in inches."

As I read this, I could not help congratulating myself on the fact that since my fairly early childhood I had seldom drunk a glass of milk voluntarily.

I disliked milk, probably through an instinctive feeling that, if I acquired a taste for it, I might grow up to the height of a September hollyhock. "Ill weeds grow apace" was one of the proverbs that I had to write down again and again on a page of my copybook, and I had no desire to be an ill weed.

I grew tall in spite of my abstinence from milk, but I could see no reason why anyone should wish to grow tall. The Little Man is supposed by many people to be a twentieth-century invention, but even in my nursery days my favourite hero was a Little Man, then known as Jack the Giant Killer, and I would much rather have been Jack than any of the Giants he killed with their fee-faw-fum nonsense.

In the Bible again I read a story about a Little Man called David, who went out armed with only a few pebbles in a sling and ended by cutting off the head of an all but invincible giant called Goliath.

Hence, as I grew taller, I never felt particularly proud of my inches. As a matter of fact, they made me again and again feel awkward and conspicuous.

More than once, as I was walking home in the darkness of a Saturday night street, I joined a crowd of sightseers surrounding a violently drunk man, and the drunk man observing my head peering above the heads of other people forced his way towards me and, merely because I was the most conspicuous person present, challenged me to combat, saying: "Come on, come on." And as he shook his fist under my nose shouted: "Smell it. Smell it." As the last thing in the world I wanted to do was to smell his fist—which, probably, had no smell at all—I could only look blank. Even as I looked blank, however, I had enough presence of mind to wish that I were no more than 5 ft. high.

Further investigation into the question of the relative good of being short or tall all made me decide that it was a gross disadvantage to be a six-footer. Nearly all the great men of whom I read seemed to be of moderate or of low stature. In war there were Napoleon and—the greatest soldier of my own boyhood — Lord Roberts. Among the poets Shakespeare was no giant in height, and Keats was a comparative midget.

Even in the farmyard a bantam cock always seemed to have a spirit beyond that of a Goliath cock four times his size.

I do not wish to discourage any of my tall contemporaries, but we who are on the tall side must recognize the fact that the tallest race of men in the world are the Patagonians, whose average height when grown up is six foot one inch. The next tallest race in the world are Polynesians, who grow in manhood to a height of nearly five foot ten inches. Yet what have the Patagonians or the Polynesians contributed either to the arts of war or to the arts of peace?

The answer is "Nothing." If there has ever been a Patagonian Shakespeare, you and I have never heard of him. If there has ever been a Polynesian Pericles, you will not find his name in the "Enciclopaedia Britannica."

The only objection I have to small men is that they are inclined to be uppish. As the blood has so much shorter a journey to make from the heart to the head and heels, they are more quickly vitalized than their taller fellows, and, as a result, become pugnacious and dictatorial.

In the contemporary world the most tolerant statesman is President Roosevelt, whose height is six feet two inches. The statesman who started all the trouble in modern Europe, on the other hand, is a little fellow called Mussolini, who is only five feet seven inches or less. Mr. Churchill, I am sure, could never be a dictator, since he is five feet nine and one-half inches. To be a dictator one has to be more or less of the bantam breed.

One thing in favour of tallness is the fact that no extremely tall man has ever done the world much harm. In the fairy tales all the giants were ultimately killed by the little men, and in the modern world they seem to be quite content with being tall. Some years ago, a Dutchman, 9 ft. 3 in. high, came to London, not to conquer it by force, but merely to show how he could eat 15 eggs at breakfast. Tall men are like that.

The modesty of Scotsmen, I think, is largely due to the fact that they are the second tallest race in Europe, being surpassed only by that other tolerant race, the Swedes.

Tall men are so conscious of the disadvantages of being tall that, instead of acquiring a desire for domination, they long above all things for equality with the less tall men to whom, when talking, they have to stoop. The greatest advocate of equality in our time is a tall man, Mr. Bernard Shaw.

Even when we consider the few virtues of tall men, however, we must admit that short and medium men are luckier. We all must admit that it is better to be a Jack the Giant-Killer than a Carnera. I should not like to see the consumption of milk growing to such an extent that the world of our descendants would be incapable any more of producing a Nelson, a Keats or a Montgomery.

One of Culture's Conquests

One of the favorite themes of history is the story of young, uncultured people who overcome with their fresh strength an old civilization, only to be fascinated and ultimately weakened by the delights of the new culture to which they are exposed. This theme enters now in the story of the men from Arabia.

By the conquest (in the seventh century) of the Fertile Crescent and the lands of Persia and Egypt, the Arabians came into possession of the earliest seats of civilization in the whole world. In art and architecture, in philosophy, in medicine, in science and literature, in government, the original Arabians had nothing to teach and everything to learn. And what voracious appetites they proved to have! With sharp curiosity and latent potentialities never aroused before, these Moslem Arabians in collaboration with and by the help of their subject peoples began now to assimilate, adapt and reproduce their intellectual and esthetic heritage. In Ctesiphon, Damascus, Jerusalem, and Alexandria they viewed, admired and copied the work of the architect, the artisan, the jeweler and the manufacturer. To all these centers of ancient culture they came, they saw—and were conquered.—From "The Arabs," by Philip K. Hitti. (Princeton: Princeton University Press.)

THE TIMID SOUL

A Jumble of Beauty and Surprise

IT was with the greatest care that Mother selected the next gardener she engaged.... His name was Stein. He was much nicer to us children, and we were always at his heels. He had passed through schools of gardening and had been employed in castle gardens, was full of and plant. The boys soon wearied, but I persecuted me. He taught me the art of pruning rose bushes and fruit trees, and, at his suggestion, each of us was given a plot of our own to sow adn plant. The boys soon weared, but I persevered with great zest in the cultivation of mine. It was a regular jumble of edible things, beauty and "surprises." When I had laid out my berry bushes and ornamental shrubs and had planted flowers in the midst of vegetables or in the small patches sown with grain, I finally took all kinds of unknown seeds and jumbled them together in a bowl. Taking it in my hand, I planted myself in the middle of my little kingdom, closed my eyes and spun round, as when one is playing blind-man's-buff. And then I scattered my seeds "to the four winds," while chanting a little improvised charm. The seeds were duly raked down into the well-dug soil, and it was awfully exciting to wait and see what would come up. It might be "almost anything," if one only persevered in watering the ground. There was no question of weeding, as one could never be quite sure what was a weed—that was just where the fun came in.—From "In the Beginning Was the Light," by Amelie Posse-Brazdova. Not Merely A Writer

HE is not a poet and man of letters merely, but citizen, statesman, a great British worthy. Almost from the first moment when he appears, amongst boys, amongst college students, amongst men, he is marked, and takes rank as a great Englishman. All sorts of successes are easy to him: as a lad he goes down into the arena with others, and wins all the prizes to which he has a mind. A place in the Senate is straightaway offered to the young man. He takes his seat there; he speaks, when so minded, not without party faith and a sort of heroic enthusiasm for his cause. Still he is poet and philosopher even more than orator. That he may have leisure and means to pursue his darling studies, he absents himself for a while, and accepts a richly-remunerative post in the East. As learned a man may live in a cottage or a college common-room; but it has always seemed to me that ample means and recognized rank were Macaulay's as of right. Years ago there was a wretched outcry raised because Mr. Macaulay dated a letter from Windsor Castle, where he was staying. Immortal gods! Was this man not a fit guest for any palace in the world? or a fit companion for any man or woman in it? I dare say, after Austerlitz, the old K. K. court officials and footmen sneered at Napoleon for dating from Schonbrunn. But that miserable "Windsor Castle" outcry is an echo out of fast-retreating old world remembrances. The place of such a natural chief was amongst the first in the land; and that country is best, according to our British notion at least, where the man of eminence has the best chance of investing his genius and intellect.—From "Roundabout Papers," by William Makepeace Thackeray.

Whitehall Notebook

(By SCOTT YOUNG, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 29 —(CP)—An argument that probably would be repeated similarly in Canada each year should the Defence of Canada Regulations be subject to annual renewal, has ended with extension of the Emergency Powers Act in Britain for another year.

The Emergency Powers Act, similar to the Defence of Canada Regulations in that it provides for detention without trial of persons considered by the government to be taking part in activities prejudicial to the war effort, got its most effective defence from Home Secretary Morrison's statement that there are potential Quislings in Britain who must be suppressed.

"Parliament and the people conferred these powers to prevent our having our throats cut, or being blown up," he said. "I have let some people out whom I think are very doubtful customers, but who I think for mental or other reasons are not likely to be dangerous. But I would not like to put my hand on my heart and recommend them for employment."

A forecast that a vastly-altered attitude toward India by Britain will be necessary in the resumption of normal peacetime trade has been made by L. S. Amery, the secretary for India. He said Britain must face the fact that the old staple goods relied on to carry British trade in the past will be manufactured after the war in many other parts of the world, and that Britain must concentrate on newer types of production.

He said India has all the natural resources needed to become an industrial country, however, and that to fulfill a switch "desired by all patriotic Indians" from agrarian to industrial economy will involve a diversion in the character of India's import trade.

"It is not for usto deplore that diversion because it may effect some established British export lines, but to be before others in taking full advantage of it," he said. "In the immediate post-war period our opportunity for co-operating most effectively with Indians requirements and aspirations will, no doubt, be in the provision of capital goods.

"Our success will correspond directly to the extent to which our trade policy is one of whole-hearted co-operation in India's effort to raise herself on a higher plane of economic efficiency."

Britain's greatest master of understatement, Prime Minister Churchill, scored with some ponderous double-talk at a luncheon given him by backbench members of parliament.

The chairman, Erskine Hill, recalled the prime minister's statement during the latter stages of the North African campaign that the "end of the beginning" had been reached. He asked if Mr. Churchill would consider the Sicilian campaign "the beginning of the end."

Mr. Churchill hesitated.

"I could not go so far as to say that it is the beginning of the end," he said, "but (and here he paused for several seconds while his audience waited breathlessly)....on the other, I will not go so far as to say it isn't."

Lobby notes: Lord Linlithgow is likely to be made a Knight of the Garter when he returns from India in the fall....The order is restricted to 37 knights, and as there are only 35 holding it at present it would be possible to make such a presentation....The present members comprise many walks of life, starting with the King, the Queen, Queen Mary, down to Prince Paul of Yugoslavia, an acknowledged friend of the Axis who now is under mild detention in South Africa.

A Bible Message

The Lord did not set his love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were more in number than any people; for ye were the fewest of all people: but because the Lord loved you, and because he would keep the oath which he had sworn unto your fathers, hath the Lord brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house of bondmen, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt. Know therefore that the Lord thy God, he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a thousand generations....

Wherefore it shall come to pass, if ye hearken to these judgments, and keep, and do them, that the Lord thy God shall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy which he sware unto thy fathers. And he will love thee, and bless thee, and multiply thee. (Deut. 7: 7-9, 12, 13.)

And thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee these forty years in the wilderness, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments, or no. Thou shalt also consider in thine heart, that, as a man chasteneth his son, so the Lord thy God chasteneth thee.

Therefore thou shalt keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, and to fear him. (Deut. 8: 2, 5, 6.)

Ralston Given Outline Of Sicily Fighting

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 29 (CP Cable)—Col. J. L. Ralston, Canada's Defence Minister, heard a first-hand report today of the fighting in Sicily from the Chief of the Canadian General Staff, Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, who recently visited the battle area.

Col. Ralston's arrival by plane from Canada was announced today. The minister went into conference in a downtown London hotel room with Gen. Stuart. He said he expected to see the press "soon."

One source said Col. Ralston's trip—one of several he has made to Britain during the war—is "more for the purpose of giving information than getting it."

Gen. Stuart had much to tell his Chief. The General's presence in England had not been made public before today when he was seen in London with Col. Ralston's party. Canadian newsmen had known for some time that Gen. Stuart was here and had recently visited the Mediterranean war theatre with Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of Canadian overseas forces.

Move Expected

In Sicily the two generals saw how their long training in England had fitted the Canadians for front-line action against Axis troops.

Only the Canadian 1st Division is fighting in Sicily and Col. Ralston's arrival here to "give information" gave rise to conjecture that his trip might concern the use of the rest of the army Canada has sent and still is sending to Britain.

In any even his visit so soon after the Canadians went into action is taken to mean big things are in the offing for the Canadian army as a whole. Canadian troops still in Britain are watching enviously the accounts of the 1st Division's doings in Sicily and are anxiously awaiting their turn to face the enemy.

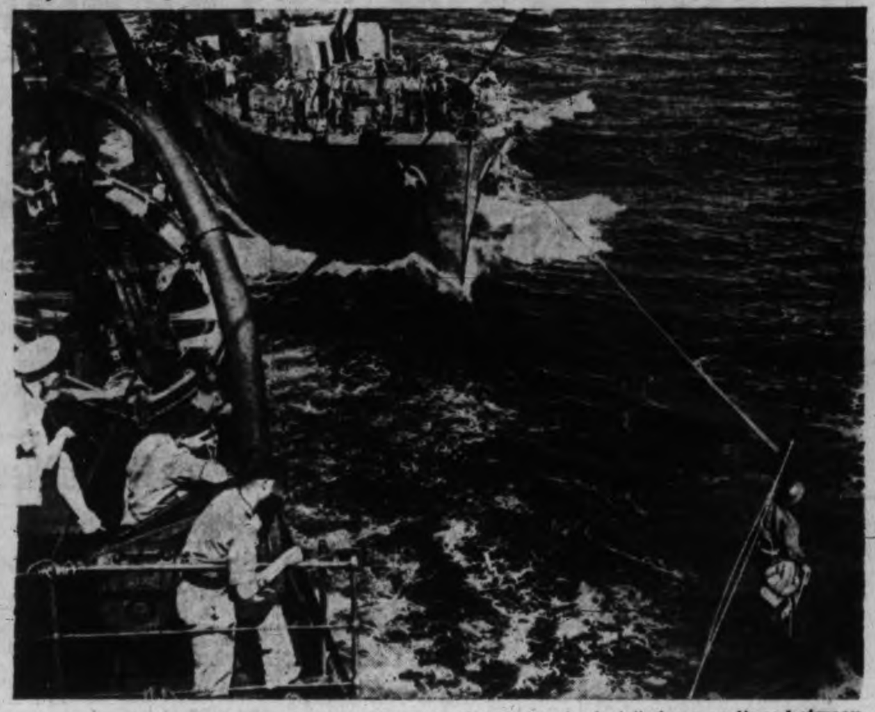
Ship To Ship Transfer For Canadian Officer



Just before Canadian forces started their assault landings on the beaches of Sicily it became necessary to transfer Major J. M. Robinson of Ottawa from the ship in which he had travelled from Britain to the destroyer H.M.S. Wheatland. This picture was taken as the transfer was made—by means of a "bo'sun's chair" slung on lines between three vessels. Even in calm weather transfer at sea from one ship to another is a hazardous operation. This operation took place while the convoy was steaming in waters where enemy attack was a possibility at any moment.

Navy Artillery Captures Town Of Pozzallo

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

Allied Headquarters, North Africa, July 27—(Delayed)—(CP Cable.)—A young Canadian naval officer, Sub-Lt. Bob Drennan of Westmount, Que., who was aboard the first British destroyer to go to the Sicilian landing beaches with Canadian troops July 10, told to-day how naval shelling alone took the town of Pozzallo, east of the Sicilian landing point.

Now on leave in North Africa, Drennan said he watched the whole show through field glasses from about a half mile off shore, "as near the shore as we could get without touching bottom."

"We were the first ship in with the Canadians southeast of Pozzallo," Drennan said. "The landings started at 2.45 a.m. We started shooting at 4.00 a.m. We shelled shore batteries and covered the troop landing with our guns. Only two shells were fired at us.

Night and Day.

"After it got light we stayed there all day and fired back at any of the guns bothering the troops. That night we kept on shelling three shore batteries and the enemy there. Another destroyer joined us.

"We refuelled at sea and came back next morning. We shelled Pozzallo for about two hours. We saw the town square filled with civilians waving white flags. Then one of our officers, Lieut. P. E. N. Griffiths, D.S.C., went ashore with 10 ratings and took the town.

"Griffiths and his men brought back 20 prisoners, then turned 150 others over to the Canadians when they got to the town about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Real Welcome.

"I saw the whole show through my field glasses. When the officer went ashore civilians walked up to him, gave him flowers and clapped their hands.

"Then a little later I saw the Canadians coming over the hill in lorries. They drove into the square and took charge of all prisoners. I saw them going around, searching for snipers and possible enemies of any description.

"On the third day one destroyer stayed around as an anti-aircraft ship. "Then on the fourth day when all troops were landed we helped convoy big ships back to base."

Italian Held When Farmer Finds Skeleton

MONTREAL, July 29 — (CP).—Luigi Stabile, 60-year-old farmer was scheduled to be arraigned on a charge of murder today sequel to the violent death of his brother in law, Carmino Festa, 27 years ago.

Stabile, father of 12 children, was held criminally responsible for Festa's death at an inquest yesterday resulting from discovery of a skeleton under the cellar of a farm-house in nearby St. Hubert last week.

For a week police had investigated the finding of the skeleton.

At the inquest medico-legal expert Dr. Rosario Fontaine testified the skeleton was that of a person who had met a violent death. He said it was evident from a deep laceration in the skull the man had died violently and added the death blow probably was dealt with an axe.

Then Mrs. Raphael Costello, daughter of Festa, identified the skeleton as that of her father who had been missing for 27 years. Identification was made by rotted boots and bits of clothing and by a fracture scare on the skull that correspond with a fracture Festa had suffered before he left his native Italy to come to Canada.

Love Angle

Police were already holding Stabile, but he was not called to the stand at the inquest as a witness. Instead, he heard his niece, Mrs. Costello, and a nephew, Joseph Festa of Rochester, N.Y., testify they had seen their father enter the farm-house with their uncle 27 years before and that their father had failed to come out again.

Evidence at the inquest was that Stabile had leased the farm on which the skeleton was found, and that Festa was working as his hired man shortly after coming here from Italy. When Festa disappeared, after Stabile had seen him and Mrs. Stabile in what he considered an intimate position, the Festa family made no report of the disappearance to police because they "were new to the country."

Some time later both families moved from the farm, and another family took it over. A farm-hand found the skeleton last week while digging in the cellar.

RECORD CROWD SEES TORONTO TIP TOPS TRIM PETERBORO TEAM

Villain Katan Slated To Meet McCready

The question has frequently arisen in the minds of the local fans as to where a man could be found who could beat big Earl McCready on a wrestling mat. The "Moose" has appeared here three or four times and each time has demonstrated such a superiority over his opponents that it had begun to look as if McCready was pretty well supreme in this neck of the woods. That is, it looked that way until Monday night when one John Katan appeared on the Brock Street Arena mat. Katan has earned for himself the gentle nickname of "Killer" among other such as "Black Jack" and the "Palermo Panther."

The huge Canadian-Ukrainian is obviously a top-notch wrestler but is not a bit adverse to throwing in some of the most ruthless back-alley stuff we have ever seen perpetrated on a mat. Katan is making a desperate bid these days for a shot at Whipper Watson's British Empire title and will put up with no opposition in the path of a championship match if he can help it. Promoter Frank Tunney last night announced that he had signed Katan to wrestle it out with Earl McCready here on Monday night and that match should be one of the highlights of the season. Regardless of how they boo him, the fans quickly realized the other night that Katan is a great wrestler, possibly as good or better than McCready. So the results Monday night are expected to make some mat history.

Tired, Aching, Perspiring Feet

Relieves Pain and Soreness Great For Offensive Odors

One application of Emerald Oil and you'll get the surprise of your life. Your tired, tender, smarting, burning feet will literally jump for joy.

No fuss, no trouble; you just apply a few drops of the oil over the surface of the feet night and morning, or when occasion requires. Just a little and rub it in. It's simply wonderful the way it acts, while for feet that sweat and give off an offensive odor, there's nothing better.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics—so marvellous that thousands of bottles are sold annually. McDermid & Jury.—(Advt.)

Genelecs Meet Soldiers To Break Tie

Genelecs and Soldiers meet tonight at Riverside Park in a sudden-death game to decide first-place in the men's loop. The winner of tonight's tilt will meet the Battery in a sudden-death game. The ultimate winner of this series will have Switchgear for their opposition in the playdowns, while the other two teams will meet.

Tonight's battle should be a thriller as both clubs are evenly balanced and receive good pitching. Soldiers will have Johnny Walker, Jack Wilson and Tommy Parsons for mound duty, while Genelcs have Ron Akers, Terry More and Bill Moorhead ready for action.

Manager Harry Morgan of the Soldiers says his squad is in good shape and he will field his top team for the engagement. Ted Johnston has been keeping the Genelecs primed for this series with a number of exhibition games and will have his full lineup on hand.

The game is billed for 7:00 o'clock sharp at Riverside Park and should attract a large crowd.

Generals and Electrics Meet

Two teams from the C.G.E. plant tangle at the Bowl tonight at 7:00 when Generals and Electrics hook up. Both clubs will be looking for a win with playoff time drawing near and the fans can expect a keen tussle.

Smashing Success

Last night's Tip Top-All Star game drew the largest crowd to attend a sporting event in years when over 1,600 people crowded into Riverside Park.

The game, staged for the Kinsmen's Milk for Britain Fund was a honey. The Toronto stars were easily matched on the field by the local squad who played errorless ball throughout and received good pitching from both Cam Ecclestone and Louis Rainford. "Ekky" was a trifle wild in the first frame but levelled away and was given perfect support by the Petes. He found it unnecessary to bear down and the fans only got an odd glimpse of his blinding speed.

Eddie Starr handled both Toronto hurlers in flawless fashion and also contributed a couple of hits. His first one scored the locals' only run. Every member of the squad played good ball. Howie Dalton playing at short, not his regular position, had six chances and George Hawks at third handled five. Sandulak and Tucker looked after the keystone position. Jimmy Ellis had 15 chances at first base without a slip. Harry Morgan piloted the local outfit and was more than pleased with their showing.

Tip Tops had their full team with the exception of 'Suz' Turner who could not make the trip on account of illness in his family. Tommy Stewart twirled for the Toppers and showed plenty of speed with a nice breaking hook. Leo Deadey and Andy Kowalik, two former Peterborough players, were given a big hand by the crowd as they came to bat.

Turner A Daddy

Manager Ken Sloan of the Tip Top Tailors reported that he had a phone call from Toronto this morning informing him that Mrs. Harry Turner had presented her husband 'Suz' with a 9-pound baby boy. It was born at 6 o'clock Wednesday night.

One of the most widely-known authorities of the lawn bowling pastime, Lt.-Cmdr. N. C. Hart of the Faculty of the University of Western Ontario Lawn Bowling Association in conjunction with the tournament which attracted 144 bowlers to the Forest City.

When the Hamilton Jockey Club swung into action 50 years ago, the president of what was called the track association was the late William Hendrie. In the first three-day meeting, chief rivalry developed between the Seagram and Hendrie stables. Next Saturday the club opens its 50th annual meet with the $3,000 Jubilee Handicap as the feature.

Sets Record.

Driven by Morley McDonald, Miller Brooke, fast-stepping pacer of the J. T. Saint stable, established a half-mile track record of 1.03¼ in the free-for-all harness feature at Listowel yesterday. The old record of 1.04 was made many years ago by Tommy Dillard.

Winning by such a margin in the first heat of the $2,500 stake that he was barred from the Mutuels on the next start, Phonograph, three-year-old owned by Joseph Burke of Plainfield, N.J., and driven by Tom Berry, outclassed the field yesterday in the harness meet at Old Orchard, Me. Nutcracker was a poor second.

Asks For Leave.

According to the Connecticut Athletic Commission, Secretary Frank Knox of the U.S. Navy has been asked by Chairman A. J. Greene of the National Boxing Association to grant leave to Willie Pep from naval duties in order to meet Jackie Callura of Hamilton, featherweight champion.

Two rinks of the London Thistles were unbeaten in the rink competions which opened the 48th annual tournament at London yesterday on the greens of the London Bowling and Rowing Club. Peter D. McCallum's four copped the Free Press trophy with a plus 24, while Frank C. Wilson's rink took the Labatt silverware with plus 22.

Swim Records Broken At Montreal

MONTREAL, July 29—(CP)—Verdun swimmers captured team honors in the Quebec Provincial swim championships at Verdun Natatorium tonight, but they were hard-pressed by a visiting delegation from Toronto High Park.

The Verdun swimmers compiled 25 points, for a two-point margin on the Toronto swimmers, while Montreal A.A.A. placed third with 21 points.

Four records went overboard, with Toronto swimmers smashing two of them. Margaret Harrington and Edythe Marshall of High Park came in one-two in the 100 yards free style junior event, with Miss Harrington hanging up a new record of 1.06.6, two seconds better than the old mark.

Ross Charlton of Toronto clipped half a second from the 100-yard junior back stroke mark when he covered the distance in 1.18.3, ahead of Gerry Meadows and Bill Cameron of Montreal, Ruth Black of Toronto took the 100 yards' senior women's back stroke in 1.21.7, finishing ahead of former Champion Eleanor Roche and Eileen Brophy of Montreal.

Charles West of Montreal set a new record in the 150 yards medley swim when he nosed out Norman Ashton of Montreal and Charlton in 1.57. The other record fell to Lorraine Fischer of New York, holder of 19 records in the United States, when she clipped four and six-tenths seconds from the 100-yard breast stroke mark in 1:22.2 to edge out Phyllis Allat of Montreal.

Rhona Wurtele of Montreal took the 100-yard free-style for senior women, with Barbara Hunt of Toronto second and Rhoda Wurtele third.

'Bruiser' Katan Returns To Wrestling

Classy Display Aids Kinsmen Fund

Tip Top Tailors of Toronto Fastball League last night defeated Peterborough All-Stars 3 to 1 in an exhibition fixture at Riverside Park in aid of the Kinsmen's Milk for Britain Fund. A bumper crowd was in attendance to witness the Toronto softball artists, featured by the presence of Cam Ecclestone, hurling for Peterborough, as they went into action. As far as fielding was concerned, the locals were equal to Tip Tops and failed to commit any errors while the Toronto squad were responsible for three. Pitching by Stewart of Tip Tops who held the All-Stars down to four hits while Tip Tops collected five from the combined offerings of Ecclestone and Rainford, who replaced Ecclestone in the seventh.

An excellent brand of ball was played throughout the fixture and fans were keenly interested but failed to show much vocal enthusiasm.

Opening the first innings, Eckler singled and Jeffers, who followed him was walked. Box walked and Eckler scored on Harrison's single. Jeffers was out at third on a force. Box and Harrison each crossed later to close the innings with the only run of the game scored for Tip Tops.

Dalton for All-Stars reached first on an error, McIlveen struck out and Dalton scored on Eddie Starr's hit. Ecclestone and Ellis each grounded out to close the last half of the first.

All Stars had five men reach first in the remaining eight innings on three hits and two errors. Tip Tops had four men reach first in the remaining innings on three hits and a walk.

Bowlers Stop To View Catching Of Lunge

CAMPBELLFORD, July 29 (ENS)—Interest in bowling suffered for a short period last evening as club members interrupted a game to eye a ten pound lunge pulled from the water a few yards away. Ken Cairns and Russell Bale were the fishermen and they had been paddling around in the canal for only a short time prior to making the catch. Several of the bowlers caught sight of the fish as it was being pulled from the water and the game was called while an inspection was being made as most town residents still find it hard to believe that large fish inhabit this part of the canal. The catch was made by Mr. Cairns on a double spoon.

Henley Regatta Gets Underway With 19 Events

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 29.—(CP).— Rowing representatives from Ontario and several points in the United States assembled here to-day for the opening of the Royal Canadian Henley regatta sponsored by the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen.

Four were named to contest the opening event of the three-day regatta, held annually for the last 60 years. They were W. Durnan of Toronto Argonaut Rowing Club, A. Walker of Nereid Boating Club, Belleville, N.J., T. Chilcott of Argos and R. Steiger of Detroit Boating Club. All were slated to compete in the 145-pound quarter-mile dash

The feature race of the 19-event regatta is expected to be the championship singles; scheduled for Saturday. Entries are Harve Hutcheon, Toronto R.C.A.F.; H. Miller, Argos; and the Association singles champion, Bob Reynolds of Ecorse, Mich.

Also schedued for closing day is the half-mile event for navy whalers between Toronto H.M.C.S. York and H.M.C.S. Star of Hamilton.

Theo Dubois, winner of the senior singles last year, will not compete this time because of an infected tendon in his hand.

DODGERS DROP BACK TO THIRD PLACE, LOSING TWO TO CHICAGO

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 29 —(CP)— An era in sport when every trick was good if it worked is recalled by Tommy (Hamilton Spectator) Moore's account of the rivalry between Toronto Argos and Toronto Rowing Club. Years ago, on the eve of a "grudge" match between the clubs, Joe Wright, Sr., sent his Argo eightover Toronto Bay in dazzling time. Jim Rice, coaching the rowing club, asked Wright not to remove the markers. Wright consented and the next evening Rice's crew shaved 15 seconds off Argos time over the 1½-mile trial course. When the time came to bid for the big Bullion, Rowing Club supporters got down everything they had—but Argos won by two lengths. It developed afterwards that an impish Argo attache had shortened the trial course by 100 yards—under cover of darkness of course—just before Rowing Club took its trial spin.

Sissies??

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll was piqued when Branch Rickey the Brooklyn Dodger boss, referred to sport scribes at the "handmaidens of sport." Dictionary definition of handmaiden: "Female servant or attendant."

Match Race

George Irvine, the Vancouver horseman whose fast steeds and immaculate attire stunned Ontario turfites, tells Johnny (Vancouver Province) Park he may stage a match race against time between Palmera T. and Over Drive. Palmera T. won a handicap at Hamilton and Over Drive cracked a 32-year mark for 5½ furlongs at Woodbine. Irvine says "I think you can name the sprinters in America on five fingers capableof beating the grey flash (Over Drive) at six furlongs."

Leafs Shutout Jersey City In 11 Innings

(By The Associated Press)

Toronto and Newark, the International League's No. 1 and 2 teams, prepared for their weekend crucial series yesterday by shutting out their opponents, the Leafs needing 11 innings to blank the Jersey Giants, 1-0, but the Bears romping off with an easy 8-0 verdict over Buffalo in a morning game.

The clubs aren't scheduled for today but they open their final series of the year on Jersey soil Friday, follow with another single game on Saturday and close their present warfare with a twin bill Sunday.

Right now the Leafs have a five game spread over the Bears and the Newarks have no chance of moving out front during the coming frays but the Meyermen are hoping for three victories in the series and a grasp on first place when they leave their home grounds on Aug. 8.

While the Leafs are at Newark, Passaic friends of Frankie Zak will honor the Toronto shortstop.

Scoring in the Toronto-Jersey City game last night was at the absolute minimum for the first 10 innings, but in the 11th Jimmy Ripple found Ken Trinkle for a single, Lee Handley was walked and Catcher Dewey Williams doubled for the decisive run.

In the circuit's only other game, Montreal waltzed off with a 12-2 decision over Baltimore behind Wes Flowers' steady hurling, although the club was helped by five Baltimore errors.

AmericanLeague Has Six Teams

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 29 — (AP)—President Maurice Podoloff announced today the American Hockey League would operate this year with at least six clubs and possibly seven.

Back from a league meeting held in Atlantic City, N.J., Podoloff said 1943 campaign would get under way Nov. 3 with Buffalo, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Providence and Washington as starters.

Whether Hershey, Va., a member last year, will operate this year, Podoloff said, will depend on the gasoline rationing situation.

Orlando Takes Witness Stand

DETROIT, July 29 (AP)—Jimmy Orlando, Detroit Red Wing hockey player on trial on a charge of violating the Selective Service Act, testified yesterday that during the hockey season his work at the Lincoln Tool and Die Company consisted of picking up blueprints and chauffeuring customers.

Orlando was given a draft deferment in 1942 as an essential worker at the company. He is being tried on five counts, among them falsification of his industrial status and his previous industrial experience.

Taking the stand for the first time yesterday, Orlando said he left an essential job as a machine operator at the Lincoln Company at the start of the hockey season and pleaded ignorance for not having notified his draft board. He said he worked on the machine from August to November.

His attorney, John R. Watkins, asked him, "from the time you registered have you been willing to serve in the United States Army?"

"Yes," Orlando answered.

May Amend Rules

PORT ARTHUR, July 29 (CP)—Frank Sargent, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced here yesterday that a joint meeting of the Rules Committees of the C.A.H.A. and National League will be held in Toronto, August 14.

Sargent said possible changes in the rules would be made but offered no comment. Members of the C.A.H.A. Rules Committee are W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, E. Vic Johnson of Winnipeg, Alphonse Therien of Montreal, and Sargent.

Cards Beaten 6 to 4 By Philadelphia

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Before the whole thing gets out of hand, this is a plea to William D. (I used to play for Yale) Cox and his Phoolish Phillies to please leave Brooklyn with its Brooklyn accent.

Things have been going wacky lately, what with the Dodgers dumped into third place in the National League yesterday. First there was the series of player deals cooked up early this year by William and Branch the Reverend Rickey. Then the Phils fired Bucky Harris and took their new manager, Flatbush's own Freddie (Fat and 42 today) Fitzsimmons, off the Dodger griddle.

Players Strike

And last night, the Phils gave it the final humiliating touch by even borrowing the Bums' idea of a player strike, a stunt that took the play practically completely away from Baseball's War Relief Day which saw eight games produce an estimated $199,733.55, along with an appearance of Babe Ruth as manager and pinch-hitter.

This time, the Phils—24 of 'em—signed a petition that they would strike unless Cox reinstated Harris as manager and gave him a chance to resign.

Faced with a walk-out of practically all his able-bodied hired hands, Cox apologized to Harris before the entire club for "an unfortunate incident." He told Bucky the dismissal "is not intended to reflect in any way on your ability as a baseball manager"— which left you wondering just what Bucky was fired for, then.

Anyway, his apology apparently satisfied one and all, because the Phils went out and made Fitzsimmons' debut as manager a merry one by clouting the Cardinals 6-4 to snap St. Louis' winning streak at 11 and climb back into sixth place themselves.

Yanks Drop One.

The standings in both leagues generally got a tossing around. Pittsburgh Pirates climbed into second place by knocking off New York Giants 8-3. The Bums were clubbed twice by Chicago, 8-7 and 4-2. The Boston-Cincinnati night game was postponed.

After a four-run first inning, it was easy for Cleveland to whip the New York Yankees 6-2. Then the Tribe and Yanks combined under Ruth's managing to take an 11-5 whipping at the hands of the North Carolina pre-flight cloudbusters, during which the Babe batted as a pinch hitter and drew a walk.

The Tribe's victory, plus a double defeat for Detroit and Chicago's win over Washington left a three-day second place tie in the American League among the Indians, White Sox and Tigers. Oscar Judd served up a five-hitter to give the Boston Red Sox a 4-1 opener decision over the Tigers and a four-run spree in the eightht lef the White Sax sprayed 21 hits around the landscape for a 12-7 victory. St. Louis Browns belted the Athletics. 5-1.

Angry Jockeys Threaten Strike

DETROIT, July 29 (AP)—Jockeys at the Detroit Fair Grounds talked strike yesterday over the suspension of Johnny Adams, the United States' leading rider, but a settlement seemed on the way last night.

The jockeys met with State Racing Commissioner William J. Dowling during the afternoon and told him that they considered Adams' 25-day suspension for not filling an engagement here last Saturday as "unfair."

John Swisher, general manager of the Jockeys' Guild, met with Dowling before racing opened yesterday and told him 15 jockeys were planning to strike. Dowling persuaded them to ride yesterday, pending further discussions.

Promises "No Injustice."

Later Dowling told the jockeys that "no injustice would be done," and indicated that Adams' suspension would be eased.

Adams was suspended Saturday after he went to Chicago to ride Charles T. Fisher's Amber Light in the Arlington classic. He also was scheduled to ride Earl H. Beezley's Grasshopper II at the Fair Grounds. Beezley had a written agreement with Adams for the second call on Johnny's services here. Earl Wyat has first call.

The Jockeys' Guild contended that Adams had a verbal understanding with Beezley that he would be permitted to ride in the Chicago race.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 29—(AP)—First reaction here to the Dodgers' announcement that the Phillies had a new manager was that it supported the rumors rampant in Philadelphia that Branch Rickey really is the guy behind the Phils . . . After letting the idea stew a while, we figure it just the other way — though Rickey and Bill Cox might find it easier to have a special phone for their conversations . . . We can't see a man with as much baseball wisdom as Rickey firing a good manager for no other apparent reason than that he insisted on doing the managing himself and keeping the owner in his place.

The only change necessary to get the Empire City racetrack ready for the harness meeting that starts this evening was nailing a strip of boards on the inner rail as a hub rail . . . Empire originally was a harness track but the trotters haven't performed there since 1915 . . . Latest tip is to watch out for Rochester University, come football season. They've got 74 Fordham, among the Navy and Marine trainees—also a Sept. 18 spot on the Yale schedule.

Guest Star

Arch Ward, Chicago Tribune: "Johnny Schiechl, former centre from Santa Clara, has been rejected by the Army because of a perforated ear drum, a trick knee, a touch of sinus, high blood pressure and a slight concussion . . . which leaves practically nothing for him to do but play professional football."

Allied Strategy May Call For Yugoslav Drive

Heavy, increasing Allied air offensives against enemy forces on Crete may be a forerunner of an invasion of the Axis-held island off the coast of Greece. Military experts say the capture of this island, coupled with the fall of Sicily and an Allied drive across the toe and heel of Italy, would advantageously place United Nations forces in position for a two-pronged drive into Yugoslavia. Hitler greatly fears such moves, for then his troops would have to fight in the Balkans, "Europe's powderkeg." Large-scale uprisings against the Nazis would break out, making it hard for them to wage war effectively.

Returning R.C.A.F. pilots said Tuesday night's raid on Hamburg lasted 45 minutes and was "even more destructive than previous raids on the port." The raiders encountered smoke from the stricken rising almost five miles and said that fire glows were visible for 200 miles.

Photographs of the seared city made on Tuesday, before the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. went back that night to finish the job, revealed great damage and fires still licking the docks, the Air Ministry said. At least nine "very important buildings" were hit in the submarine yards, the announcement said and damage done the city of more than 1,000,000 population even before the Tuesday night raid extended to hundreds of acres.

Rioting Grows

Berlin political circles went so far as to mention Crown Prince Umberto as a rallying point for a new regime.

Milan, Turin and Genoa, according to information reaching Berne, were centres of peace demonstrations, open fighting and political revolts. In all three of these industrial cities gangs of Fascist militia were reported resisting regular army units striving to maintain order and enforce Premier Badoglio's decree abolishing the Fascist party. Significant also was the suppression, after two days of free expression, of republican newspapers which had been under the Fascist ban for 20 years.

(Dispatches from Madrid last night night reported that Virginio Gayda, former editor for Il Giornale d'Italia and chief spokesman for the now defunct Fascist party, had been slain during "revenge hunts" which flared in Italy after Mussolini's downfall. The report was not confirmed.

(BBC, however, in a French language broadcast recorded here by United States Government monitors, said Gayda and three other Fascist editors had been arrested by the Badoglio regime and charged with high treason. Arrested with Gayda were Giovanni Ansaldo of Count Ciano's Il Telegrafo of Leghorn and the editors of Il Popolo di Roma and La Stampa, the broadcast said.)

Promises Report

Badoglio, in response to petitions asking assurances that liberal and democratic ideals would prevail from now on, was reported to have promised an early declaration of a "positive nature."

The crux of today's tense situation, as analyzed from all reports, was that Badoglio appeared determined to carry on the war against the Allies in accordance with his original proclamation last Sunday.

Official Italian circles, according to other reports reaching here, have made it known that Badoglio hopes, in accordance with his discussions with Nazi leaders, to fight a "slowing down action" against the Allies in Sicily, in order to give the Axis time to extricate itself from the precarious situation created by Mussolini's abrupt removal from power.

Meanwhile, it was reported, discussions are continuing in Vatican City looking toward an armistice despite all denials to the contrary.

One of the greatest impediments to peace now, so far as Italy is concerned, was said to be Badoglio's reported ambition to win something better than unconditional surrender in order to create an authoritarian regimé similar to that of France.

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet—you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Canadians Play Big Part In Hamburg Raid

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. BOMBER GROUP SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 29 (CP Cable).—Canadian fliers are in the forefront of the R.A.F.'s continued searing and blasting of the great German port city of Hamburg.

There was activity all through the Canadian group as the Dominion's Halifax and Wellington squadrons whipped away for the mass attack on the Nazi port centre. Names of two of the squadrons—the Lion and the Goose—were disclosed. They are part of the Halifax force.

Altogether the night's operations cost the combined R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. force 18 planes, of which two were Canadian.

Bombs Concentrated.

An official communique issued after intelligence officers had interviewed fliers at various stations said visibility was excellent and that preliminary information "showed the attack was concentrated and effective."

While the bombers were over Germany, R.C.A.F. Mosquitos undertook offensive patrols over northern France, attacking three airfields and a number of railway targets.

Returning pilots reported great columns of smoke that rose more than 2,000 feet hanging over Hamburg as the bombers turned for home after last night's attack, understood to be on practically the same scale as "the first of the present series" when 2,300 tons of explosives were dropped on Hamburg Saturday.

Fires Didn't Stop.

There were some hundreds of bombers engaged in the latest attack. And as R.C.A.F. crews clambered from their four-engined craft here early today they were emphatic Hamburg was blazing even more furiously than after Saturday's blitzing. As a matter of fact, the crews said Hamburg hadn't had an opportunity to stop smoldering since the series of bombings started.

They reported one great pillar of smoke, believed to be a direct hit on some oil installations. Fliers said the smoke was so thick it entered the bombers and almost choked the crews. Other airmen reported they could still see blazing Hamburg while 200 miles away on their homeward flight, so effective were the explosives and incendiaries dropped there.

Some crews arriving over the target early found the opposition heavier than that tossed against them on Saturday, but others, arriving over the target later, said the defences of the battered port were completely swamped by the terrific attack.

OBITUARY

EDWARD J. WILDMAN.

Edward J. Wildman, Havelock farmer and life-long resident of the Peterborough district, died Tuesday evening as a result of injuries suffered in a fall four weeks ago. He was 74 years old.

Mr. Wildman, who was riding on a load of hay about a mile from his home one day last month, took a weak spell and in falling behind the horses caught on a whiffletree, sustaining serious internal injuries. He was taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gordon MacArthur, in Havelock, where he passed away.

Born in Asphodel the son of the late John C. Wildman and Mary Ann Scott, he spent all his life in the Peterborough district. He was a member of the Norwood Baptist church and a lifelong member L.O.L. Belmont No. 277. His wife, Margaret Buck, died three years ago.

Surviving Mr. Wildman are three daughters and one son, Mrs. Gordon MacArthur, Mrs. Lloyd Van Valkenburg, Mrs. Mordon McMillan and Fletcher Wildman, all of this district. He leaves as well three brothers, Samuel and Harry of Norwood, and Scott of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Thursday at 2 p.m. from the home of Fletcher Wildman, Highway 30, Seymour township, with services at the Pentecostal church, Havelock. Burial will be in Norwood cemetery.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Davidson.

Italian Armament Inferior Using Rifles From Last War

By MAURICE DESJARDINS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN REINFORCEMENTS IN NORTH AFRICA.—(Delayed) — (CP Cable). — After eight days of the invasion of Sicily the morale of his battalion was "excellent" and their physical condition "perfect" an army captain from Quebec City told me after his recovery from an arm injury following three days aboard a British hospital ship.

"Our battalion," he said, "didn't lose a single man during the debarkation, in fact the entire debarkation went off like clockwork. After eight days when I left the battalion the morale of the men was excellent and their physical condition perfect. On the eighth day not a single officer was missing from the roll."

The captain, who acted as invasion transport officer for his battalion, told of his impressions during the rapid advance north.

Travel Fast

"I passed through Pachimo, Ispica, Modica, Valtagrione, Monterosa, Crammichele, Piazza and Armerina. At the latter town, situated in a valley, the battalion met its first real opposition.

"The battalion was 10 miles from the beach when I debarked with my trucks, jeeps and universal carrier. I rejoined the regiment 24 hours later at Burgio, a small hamlet of only a few houses. The vehicles were greeted joyously.

"Before my arrival the boys had carried everything on their shoulders. However, some of the smart fellows — and there are lots of them in the battalion — had requisitioned mules and dump-carts.

"We marched day and night. The marches were made in the strictest silence and all we heard was the braying of the mules . .

"We knew the country by heart from photograhps which we had studied during the crossing. The High Command had designated what roads would be used for one way traffic and there wasn't a single traffic jam."

"It is hellish hot in Sicily, but the dry heat is bearable. The nights are cold..."

The captain said Italian soldiers gave themselves up in large numbers.

"I saw hundreds and hundreds, sometimes directed by their own officers, waving white flags and marching toward our prison camps on the beaches.

Montgomery Glad.

"At Caltagirone, I saw the bodies of three German soldiers—the only Germans I saw during my eight days in Sicily. Toward the end of my stay our advance was so rapid that all travel was in vehicles, with the men even riding on tanks and Bren gun carriers."

A highlight, he said, was the visit of Gen. Montgomery.

"Monty was in an American amphibious tank. After passing us in review he told us to break ranks and gather around him. He said he was happy to find Canadian friends again in the Eighth Army, to find them so young and so healthy. He ended by saying: 'Canadians, wherever I lead you, we will be sure of routing the enemy'."

The captain said Italian armament was inferior, and that in some cases the Italians were using rifles from the last war. "Their hand grenades were the size of prunes," he added, "and a group of Canadian engineers took only 24 hours to repair the runway on the airport at Pachino, which had been ploughed up like a potato field by the Italians.

A few Italian civilians who had lived in Montreal at one time, he recalled, told him "We should never have left Canada."

One Too Many Makes Cadet Brigadier But To FBI He's Still AWOL From Army

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 29 (CP).—A young cadet from an officers' training school near Brockville, Ont., was picked up here last night by United States Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, charged with being absent without leave from the Canadian army.

He was arrested in a cock-tail lounge of the Mayflower Hotel where, despite his cadet's uniform he was announcing to every one within range that he was a brigadier in the Canadian army. When he started to walk out on the check police were summoned and he was turned over to the F.B.I. In the confusion, an attractive blonde woman who had been with him disappeared.

He was questioned for 2½ hours by the F.B.I., and later turned over to Canadian army officers here. His name was withheld and he will be escorted back to Canada.

Minor Traffic Crash Occurs In Hastings

HASTINGS, July 29 — (ENS)—On Tuesday evening a car driven by James Davis of Havelock who was accompanied by his wife and family and his brother-in-law was travelling south on Bridge street when a car driven by Cecil Hopkins of Hastings which was coming up Front street, collided on the four corners in Hastings.

No one was seriously hurt. Mr. Davis' brother-in-law was the only one needing medical attention with gash on the forehead. Constable Wellman investigated the accident.

Councils Probe Annexing Part Monaghan Area

Members of the city and North Monaghan councils discussed with one eye on their respective ratepayers the proposed annexation of the Western avenue strip between Lansdowne street and the south margin of the Weller street lots.

This conference was just another verbal episode and accretion to the conversations that have been going on now and then for years, but especially since Wartime Housing Limited followed upon Hitler's heels into the affairs of this community

Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan council undertook to call a meeting, if it can be arranged, of the township body before the city council meets on Tuesday night. Otherwise, the question will be deferred to the regular meeting of the township council for their consideration of various aspects including a proposal that the ratepayers should be directly consulted at least through the means of expression of a public meeting.

And again in the meantime, as an alternative, representatives of the two municipal bodies may meet as a joint subcommittee for deliberation of the problem aggravating on the western fringe of the city, but continuing essentially unchanged in its bristling challenge: "Who's going to start things?"

Opinion varies in a wide arc of outlook from Alderman Curtis' blunt renewal of his sharp opposition to any further annexations of the neighboring townships to Mayor Hamilton's recognition of the township's problems steadily growing beyond its capacity to bear them.

Some of the members of both councils raise the point of ratepayer approval.

The township council has been getting additional petitions for sewer and water services. People have more money to spend on their foremost desires. One of the works that is being mentioned is a sewer on Monaghan road from New Romaine street to Frank street.

City Engineer Parsons estimated its cost for 1,324 feet at $12,851. He admitted he feared water and sand in that area, but Deputy-Reeve Archibald was positive that the water disappeared from the subsoil down in Lundy's Lane area.

That sewer would have to be thirteen feet deep to accommodate a Frank street connection.

Members of both councils clearly see the expanding suburban problem as the area become residentially congested. Harold Cassan enquired about agreement as to debenture obligations and payments, especially on the school property.

Councillor W. J. Grady asked about the authority of the council to proceed with steps toward annexation, and Alderman Bradburn said there was not much use talking about the city undertaking sewer construction in the face of the reality of lack of labor. He suggested that these projects might be left in abeyance until after the war when they might be included in a program of rehabilitation works receiving financial contribution from the governments.

NEW YORK, July 29 (CP). —Dispatches from Madrid last night reported that Virginio Gayda, former editor of Il Giornale d'Italia and a top spokesman for Italy's now-departed Fascist Party, had been slain during "revenge hunts" that flared in Italy following Mussolini's resignation.

Drunk Driving Charge Brings 7 Days

Marvin Armstrong of Smith township was sentenced by Magistrate Langley this morning to seven days in the county jail on a conviction of being intoxicated in charge of an automobile near Kendry siding on Highway 28 during the night of June 1.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., defending the accused, announced that he would appeal the judgment.

Evidence in the police court trial indicated that Jack Andrews, employed by Armstrong, met him on the market square here. Armstrong asked Andrews to drive him to Port Hope. Something went wrong with the car near Kendry siding, on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway. Andrews parked it on the highway and went back to get mechanical help, leaving Armstrong on the front seat.

In the absence of Andrews, James Dutton, Jr., driving towards Peterborough, noticed a car parked with its lights out and the front part of it on the Canadian Pacific Railway. He got out to investigate, saw Armstrong sitting behind the wheel, and pushed the car out of danger. In Peterborough he reported the incident to Provincial Traffic Officer McClure.

Magistrate Langley found on the evidence that Armstrong "did actually operate the car" causing it to move a few feet, "up to within a few inches of the rail." The car had been left two or three feet from the railway.

Jack Coursey Wins $10 Prize

A boy's elation on winning first prize on the admission draw tickets last evening at the Toronto Tip Tops vs. Peterborough All Stars baseball game, was the crowning touch to an already very successful evening. "Boy, Oh Boy," said young Jack Coursey. "This makes $60.00 I now have in War Savings Certificates." Lady Luck certainly shone on one who already has made quite a contribution in helping his country. Jack is only a lad, probably about thirteen years old.

The people of Peterborough were certainly out en masse last sight for this spectacular ball game sponsored by the local Kinsmen Club in aid of the Milk-for-Britain Fund. The grand-stands were packed and people were milling onto the diamond; in fact, never before in the history of Peterborough has a baseball game garnered so many fans. It is understood that approximately sixteen hundred were present.

The winners of the ten prizes and their donors are as follows:—

1st prize, $10.00 War Savings Certificate, donated by the Peterborough Hotel Association, won by Jack Coursey.

2nd Prize, $10.00 War Savings Certificate, also donated by the Peterborough Hotel Association, won by Ken Beavis.

3rd prize, Sweater, donated by Selkirk's Men's Shop, won by Jack Law.

4th prize, Hat, donated by Grafton and Company, won by Grant Wilcox.

5th prize, Basket of groceries, donated by Mason's Stores, won by Lorne Dennie.

6th prize, Basket of fruit, donated by DeCarlonis Fruit Stores, won by Jack Brown.

7th prize, 100 cigarettes, donated by J. W. Steinkraus, won by Dick Shaw.

8th prize, 2 double tickets to the Capitol Theatre, donated by the Capitol Theatre and won by George McHoull.

9th prize, 2 double tickets to the Regent Theatre, donated by the Regent Theatre, won by Fred Welford.

10th prize, 2 double tickets to the Centre Theatre, donated by the Centre Theatre and won by Owen McKee.

Wants It Strong

KEARNS FIELD, Utah, July 29.—(AP).—A private at this United States army training centre invariably bought two bottles of Utah 3.2 beer. He poured them together before he drank—and explained, one day, to a bystander: "I'm used to six per cent. beer."

Wheat Rates High

WALLACEBURG, Jly 29.—(CP)—Local grain dealers have reported some unusually fine samples of wheat grown in the northwest section of Kent county this year. Two samples of red wheat tested 62 and 63 pounds to the bushel, and one sample of fine wheat tested 60 pounds.

Girls Make $25 From Bazaar For War Victims

Less than two weeks ago, two girls on Park street north were reported as having raised over $14.00 with a Bazaar at 583 Park street to give aid to the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, and while the writer is entirely unaware as to whether there was a competition thereby aroused, suffice it to say that today's report chiefly concerns a younger sister of one of them, who with two others held almost an identical event in exactly the same place, which has yielded the fine return of $25.45 listed in their name today.

Helen Goodfellow and Barbara Hall started out to organize this event just as the other two girls were making a successful conclusion to theirs, and later they were joined by Jean MacDonald, who shares with them the credit that comes from doing a job real well.

With a donation of a blouse from Chesler's, they sold tickets for a draw which was made by Mr. Nichols, and won by Mrs. Middleton of Park street; then they held a similar event on a luncheon set donated by Dickson's Store, the draw for which was made by Dolly Weaver, and the prize went to Muriel Byers who also lives on Park street.

War Worker Draws

A third draw was also held on a cup and saucer donated by Schneiders Jewellery Store. A war worker on his way home from work drew the ticket which resulted in another Park street resident, Mrs. Smith, being the winner.

Included in the returns was a cheque for $2.00 given them by Chown's Hardware Store and the proceeds of the sale of varied articles from their stand, which included a donation from the H. S. Routley China Shop on George street.

In a monetary way, this ranks the top event of its kind held by school children since the recess from school duties commenced and perhaps might serve as an inspiration to other ambitious young folk who would like to do something themselves to help along the war effort through this fund.

Are you interested in the lovely Gladiolus flower or Aquariums of tropical fish, if so, an exhibition and showing of both is to be made in the Market Hall on Wednesday, August 11, and all who may so wish can enter their gladiolus or aquariums without even the payment of an entrance fee, with a chance to win a prize in either open or novice classes.

Sponsored jointly by the Eastern Ontario Gladiolus Society and the Peterborough Aquarium Society, this is the first time an event of this nature has been held in this city, and with the judging open to spectators it should prove a most interesting event indeed.

Tickets, which give free admission to the show besides a chance to win five good prizes, are now on sale at 25 cents each or five for $1.00, and can be secured from the members of either society or at the Examiner Office, The Peterborough Pet Stock Store on Charlotte street, N. T. Routley Store at Park and Brock, or Welch's Barber Shop on Hunter street, or from John E. Parker at Norwood.

Peterboro Corvette Being Built

KINGSTON, July 29 (ENS)—T. G. Bishop, general manager of the Kingston Shipbuilding Company, said today two corvettes under construction here for the Canadian Navy will be named after Peterboroug and Trenton. Their municipal councils have agreed to sponsor the vessels and it is expected that they will be represented at the ceremonies of launching.

The first corvette, which will be launched on September 1, will be named Trentonia, and immediately after it is committed to the water, the keel of the ship to be named for Peterborough will be laid.

Organizations in Peterborough have been co-operating for some time in preparations to obtain the extra equipment with which the corvette "Peterborough" will be furnished. Gordon Miller is chairman.

At the city hall this morning, City Clerk Outram said that the council had made several applications for the honor of its name being borne by a ship of the Canadian navy. The intention of the council was that the county of Peterborough would be asked to associate itself in this honorary contribution as soon as it is definitely known that a vessel was allocated to Peterborough.

De-Bunking Those Subsidies

Trying to bolster up a shaky claim of financial achievement the Nixon propaganda bureau has been making extravagant boasts about the municipality subsidy, telling the electors that it has returned to the municipalities of the province over $21,000,000 since 1938.

This has reduced their property taxes by a mill or a mill and one half annually from 1938 on to a total of $21,500,000 exclusive of the present year's payments."

There never was a greater sham than this until the proxy vote policy was launched.

What has happened is that the Liberal government deprived the municipalities of income taxes as a source of revenue, and appropriated hat revenue to itself. It then returned a par of this confiscated revenue and forced the municipalities to inscribe on their tax bills a statement that was deliberately untrue, a statement that reads "General tax rate has been reduced one mill by reason of provincial subsidy to the municipalities. That is a bare-faced lie.

Property taxes have not been reduced a particle by this hocus-pocus; as a matter of fact where the return did not equal the amount of the confiscation property taxes were increased.

That kind of bunk should be rebuked on August 4th. Vote Progressive Conservative and help elect a government that will give the municipalities a new deal.

Hepburn Says Change C.C.F. Name

ST. THOMAS, July 29—The Cooperative Commonwealth Federation should change its name to the Canadian Control Federation if it ever got in power and carried out the program of regimentation, Mitchell F. Hepburn, Independent Liberal candidate, said Wednesday at the meeting in the Masonic Auditorium which followed the official nominations. All three candidates spoke for 15 minutes each, John Handford, Progressive Conservative, leading off; Elisha Lazenby, C.C.F., following, and Mr. Hepburn finishing.

Mr. Lazenby charged that the capitalistic system had been responsible for the last three wars, and that during the last century, with the capitalistic system in vogue, there had been more conflict and bloodshed and suffering than in any other period in history.

War Responsibility

Mr. Hepburn reminded them that those responsible for the present war were the Fascist Government of Italy and the National Socialist Government of Germany, which had been designed on socialistic lines like the C.C.F., but had put everything under State control and regimented the people into virtual slavery.

The meeting was the quietest in local history, with only about 125 persons in attendance. The absence of heckling and other interruptions caused Mr. Hepburn to ask the cause.

"I don't know whether it's due to the heat, the stress of the times or the war," he remarked.

May Support Drew Ideas

He told the meeting he had an open mind, and if Mr. Drew in his 22-point program has anything that will be of benefit to Ontario and can be carried out on an economically sound basis without adding a tremendous burden to taxation, he would readily support it, but he could see nothing in the C.C.F. program except complete regimentation of the people, and he still believed in individualism and individual effort.

Jolliffe Says Advance Poll Run Improperly

HAMILTON, July 29 — An example of the Nixon Government's 'botching' of the election was an advance poll for soldiers at Exhibition Park, Toronto, yesterday, at which the men were handed "so-called ballots and instructed to mark their political party preference by initials on the back of the slips," E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader charged here last night.

"The Liberals talk about experience in government; they can't even run an election properly," Mr. Jolliffe said in prefacing his remarks about the Toronto advance poll. He contended the soldiers at Exhibition Park were instructed to mark their names on one side of the "so-called" ballots and their party preference on the other side of the "so-called" ballots and their party preference on the other side by initials—C for Progressive Conservative, L for Liberal, and C.C. for the C.C.F. The speaker claimed it was contrary to the Election Act to make any reference to political parties on ballots and charged it was done at the direction of Queen's Park.

That wasn't the only instance of "botching" by the Liberal Government, the C.C.F. Leader declared. He charged that "thousands of working people in the Sudbury district were deliberately left off the voting lists because the Liberals knew the workers wouldn't vote for them and International Nickle, but for the C.C.F."

Mr. Jolliffe told the meeting the "old parties know the C.C.F. has been making terrific gains; we are going to win many ridings, especially in the industrial areas like Hamilton." He urged the workers to get out and vote, because "many votes have already been taken away." He charged that the Nixon Government, "which poses as the defender of democracy, knows that many proxies will not be exercised."

The C.C.F. program is the issue in this election, Mr. Jolliffe continued, adding that 'the old parties are directing their fire at us. They don't talk about our program because they have no answer to it. By their abuse and misrepresentation they are giving us recognition. They are desperately worried the C.C.F. will get a majority."

In contrast to the C. C. F. 15-point program approved at the April convention, Mr. Jolliffe said the Liberals have no program "preferring to stand on their record and I'm happy to leave it at that" and the Progressive Conservatives have no program in that "Drew uncorked his 22 points after the election was announced."

Outlining the C.C.F. platform, Mr. Jolliffe said his party aimed to "allow the people to manage their own affairs on a co-operative basis. We will encourage the growth of cooperatives and unions of the worker's own choice."

Canadians Take Village In Fierce Fight

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 29.—(CP).—In a dispatch last night from the 8th Army's front, Alan Humphreys, special correspondent of Reuters News Agency, said that Canadian troops has wrested a mountain village from the German 15th armored division after a day and a night of hard fighting.

Clifford Webb, London Daily Herald war correspondent, said in a dispatch from the "Sicilian battlefront" that Canadians and British troops combined to capture a mountain village. It was not immediately clear if he was referring to the same mountain village that Humphreys said had been taken by the Canadians.

Webb spoke of strong artillery support in the operation he described, saying:

"There was hand-to-hand fighting in the streets until after dark, but by midnight our troops were well established.

"Heavy and concentrated artillery fire preceded the first series of infantry attacks. Two hundred Germans and Italians surrendered. They were suffering visibly from the effects of the terrific artillery pounding the town had been taking."

Bulgaria Faces Serious Crisis

By FRANK J. O'BRIEN,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

ISTANBUL, July 29 —(AP) —A serious Bulgarian crisis appears to be developing as a result of Mussolini's downfall and there are indications Bulgaria may be the first Balkan satellite to break away from the Axis if Italy surrenders.

Bulgaria's position, and that of the other Balkan powers to a lesser extent, is reported to have changed rapidly since the Italian upheaval.

What direct news from the Balkans is available indicates clearly the people there believe Italy is finished.

Bulgaria, one of Germany's most favored lesser Allies, now holds all of Yugoslav Macedonia and part of Grecian Macedonia, and an Italian collapse would affect her quicker and more directly than any other Balkan State.

The Bulgarians have always regarded Italy as their main barrier against invasion.

Shock To Morale.

Official Bulgarian propaganda has repeatedly assured the people Italy was capable of resisting any invasion aimed at her mainland, and Allied successes in Sicily, together with the overthrow of the Fascist regime, are viewed here as a great shock to Bulgarian morale.

Other hints of Bulgarian difficulties have been dropped by officials here on Government business. They are said to have indicated their belief the Bulgarian Government is in "serious trouble."

Another recent traveller predicted flatly a general uprising would follow an Italian collapse.

In the light of subsequent developments, considerable significance has been placed on the extraordinary session of the Bulgarian parliament called on July 20, the first ever called in July.

In a speech quoted by the Sofia press, Premier Bogdan Philov urged the uassage of appropriation bills on the grounds the police needed more funds to combat "terrorism."

It seemed possible parliament was warned during the session of the Italian crisis and that most of the work was devoted to preparations for an expected uprising against the German Alliance.

The eyes of the nation are focused here every day

People today want all the news, all the facts, all the details they can get . . . to help them understand the events that are reshaping the world . . . to help them do their part in winning the war. • That's why they're reaching so eagerly for their newspapers these days . . . and reading them more thoroughly than ever before. They know that nowhere else can they satisfy their hunger for news that's full and clear and graphic. And nowhere else can they get so quickly and completely the wartime regulations and instructions they must have to guide them in their homefront tasks. • This intensified interest in both the news and the advertisements in today's newspapers, attested again and again by exhaustive scientific studies, is what makes newspapers so effective a medium for the informative and helpful messages of wartime advertisers.

Drew Barrage Labels C.C.F. Dangerous Party

BRANTFORD, July 29—Warning that dictatorship, "which our young men are fighting and dying to destroy," lies in the doctrines of socialism being preached in Ontario today, Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew last night urged electors to pay no heed to the "evil geniuses" of the C.C.F. who suggest that the "old parties have had their day and the new party should have a chance."

Recalling that Mussolini had first risen as a Socialist, and that the very word "Nazi" is the abbreviation of German National Socialist Party, Mr. Drew declared that since the dawn of recorded history the plea of State ownership and abolition of monopoly had been used to dupe people into loss of freedom and to establish tyranny.

At the very hour when dramatic proof of the power of democratic Governments to lead their people to victory is being seen, the determination should be greater than ever to make that system work to solve the problems of peace rather than turn doctrines which are being disproved.

Issues Warning

The Progressive Conservative Leader spoke in Victoria Hall and devoted himself to his first full-dress attack of the C.C.F. campaign. He referred to Professors G. Grube and Frank Underhill of Toronto as "the evil geniuses" behind C.C.F. Leader Joliffe and warned that history showed that if, by any unhappy chance, they had an opportunity to put their doctrines into effect they "would soon wield a power which they could not control."

"Many sincere people are inclined to listen to the arguments of Mr. Joliffe and his Socialist advisers because of the fact that they have constantly repeated in their speeches that the old parties have had their day and the new party should have a chance," said Mr. Drew. "The truth is that the doctrines preached by Mr. Jolliffe and his evil geniuses of the party in Ontario, Professor Grube and Professor Underhill, are older than Canada, older than Britain and go back to the dawn of recorded history.

"Centuries before the beginning of the Christian era similar appeals were made for State ownership of production, and then, as now, any attempt to carry out those policies also resulted in disaster."

To-day the world was seeing the latest folly o those doctrines, he continued, with the dissolution of the Fascist Party in Italy, where had been shown the constantly recurring sequence fo socialism carried into bureaucractic dictatorship, excesses of governmental power and finally the decay that results from suppression of personal freedom. This, he continued "is a good day to remember that Mussolini was a Socialist, and that fascism was only the Italian name for concentration in government of all the power of the State. It is also a good day to remember that Hitler was also a Socialist and that Nazi is only the abbreviation of the words National Socialist, the party name in Germany."

Sees Danger.

In each case, he continued, the same doctrines calling for the end of all monopolies and the nationalization of all production led to a centralization of power that could only continue by protecting itself from criticism by denial of free speech and finally by use of force. Thus it had been all through history, declared Mr. Drew. It was probable that Alexander, Caesar, Tamerlane and Gengis Khan were all fairly normal men in their appearance who gave no evidence of excesses to which power could lead them. It was most unlikely that they or their successors, including Mussolini, ever dreamed at the outset of the evil course which growing power would in itself produce.

"I do not suggest that Mr. Jolliffe or his supporters realize the dangerous parallel between their doctrines and those which produced such distastrous consequences in the past," he continued. "The simple fact remains that if by any unhappy chance they had an opportunity to put their doctrines into effect they would soon wield a power that they could not control.

Vacationing—1943 Style

Having a picture taken first, packed and ready to start on their annual holiday, the young couple shown here will travel under their own steam. Canadians are being asked to avoid unnecessady travel this summer on trains and by car. Bicycles, for those who have them, offer an ideal means of transportation for a healthy, outdoor vacation.

Liberal Program Includes Forestry Plan

TORONTO, July 29—"There is no system of administration that will of itself immediately solve the forestry problem in Ontario," Hon. N. O. Hipel, Minister of Lands and Forests, declared last night in a radio address. "To assure you that overnight changes will make trees grow bigger and faster is a cruel illusion," he said.

"The forest crop takes a century to replace. We are reaping now what our forefathers left. The steps we have taken now will bring results in the years to come."

If the Liberal Government is supported at the polls Aug. 4, he pledged the following program would be carried out:

"We will protect your existing resources, the men who work in the forest and those who invest their saving in that forest. We will assure, first of all, supplies of timber to existing industries before we attempt to start new developments in any new area. We will balance the cut of each lumber industry against the growth on the area, so that while planning for continuous forest production, we will have some permanency for existing communities. We will study our forests and find the facts upon which to base our policies. We will manage, in the broadest sense of the term, the forest, the land and the waters, so that they will produce to the people the greatest return in health and prosperity throughout the ages. We will provide to the best of our ability, gainful and useful work for the men and women of our armed forces when they return home."

Plan to Carry On

He declared his department had had the full support of Premier Nixon and the Cabinet and "we propose after the election, to carry on our program without fear or favor."

Revenue of the department, he said, had reached an all-time high under the Liberal Administration, with revenue this year reaching $6,000,000.

First consideration in handling forest resources, Mr. Hipel said, "has been to provide from our forests all materials needed for the war effort, not only of our people, but of our Allies."

Postwar planning had been done under two phases, he continued. First was the employment of large numbers of men and women immediately following the war and secondly, for forest management, developments of new industries and further use of forest products. Extension of present services would give gainful employment to thousands of men, he said.

Mr. Hipel continued. He outlined the procedure whereby all applications for pulpwood are scrutinized by himself and senior officials of the department; sealed tenders are opened in his presence and that of the officials, all documnts are initialled and filed for inspection by any authorized person "at any time."

"It has been said that we are exploiting our forests and that this must stop," he went on. "Unfortunately, many people do not understand that trees like wheat or fruit or any other crop must be harvested at the proper time. After a tree reaches maturity it begins to rot and it should be harvested before that happens."

Takes No Orders From Globe Nixon Declares

BROCKVILLE, July 28.—Premier Harry Nixon concluded his campaign tour of Eastern Ontario here to-night when he spoke before a Leeds riding meeting on behalf of Mrs. George T. Fulford, wife of the Leeds member in the House of Commons.

Mr. Fulford was defeated in the 1937 election by W. B. Reynolds, who has served in municipal office in Brockville for 35 years—six of them as mayor. Mr. Reynolds was again named the Progressive Conservative candidate at the party's convention.

There is a three-cornered fight in Leeds, with Mayor James G. Lawson of Gananoque representing the C.C.F. His entry in the field is reported to have narrowed Mrs. Fulford's chances. Mayor Lawson made some kind of political history by attending the Liberal convention, receiving a nomination and retiring. He then made a shift to the left and shortly afterward emerged as the C.C.F. candidate.

Attacks Drew and Patform.

Arthur G. Slaght, of Toronto, Federal member for Parry Sound, appeared on the Fulford platform last night and directed an attack upon Opposition Leader George A. Drew and his platform. Premier Nixcn expects to wind up his Provincial campaign with a rally in Peterborough on Saturday night.

"No one should regard seriously the Progressive Conservative platform that was hastily nailed together in the office of The Globe and Mail on the eve of the election. I venture to predict that the planks in the platform will form the coffin of the Progressive Conservative Party," said Mr. Nixon.

"When the time comes when I would have to go down to The Globe and Mail, with my hat in my hand every morning to get my orders, I will gladly retire as Premier of this Province. I will not be pushed around by any group or newspaper that is seeking power.

No Back Bencher

He declared tnat, if Mrs. Fulford is sent up to the Legislature "you will not be sending a back bencher. I can promise you that."

He charged that the Opposition—both Progressive Conservative and C.C.F., was seeking to buy votes by "making outrageous promises to the cost of the public treasury." He attacked Mr. Drew as being a "destructive critic of everything that the Federal government has done in the war effort.

"I have been a constant supporter of that Adminirtration," added the Premier. "I feel that they have done a marvellous job, and I will continue to offer every cooperation, every resource and every asset of Ontario to the end that victory may be won."

Mr. Nixon called "unfair" the Progressive Conservative proposal to contribute a "blanket 50 per cent of the schools costs." Some municipalities had an assessment of $50,000 behind every school child and other as little as $200." We will continue our policy of grants on the basis of need, a course that is obviously the fair one," he said.

Appeal to Farmers.

In an appeal to farmers, Mr. Slaght, the Toronto lawyer, urged them to support Mr. Nixon, the farmer. "One who knows through experience your every problem. But if you elect either of the other two parties, what would be your choice as leader?" Two Toronto lawyers, that is what you farmers would have to represent you."

The body of fabulously-rich Sir Harry was found, burned and battered, in one of the rooms of his 20-room Nassau mansion on July 8.

House Members Use Fists To Settle Dispute

LONDON, July 29.— (CP) — A sizzing feud between two members of Commons, Capt. Alec Cunningham-Reid, Independent, and Oliver Locker-Lampson, Conservative, came to a climax with fisticuffs in the corridor near the entrance to the House of Lords yesterday.

The incident followed an oral exchange in Commons centring around questions put by Locker-Lampson, who once called Cunningham-Reid — a friend of the heiress, Mrs. Doris Duke Cromwell —a "cad."

Cunningham-Reid asked Foreign Secretary Eden in Commons the nature of the disability Prince Paul of Yugoslavia was suffering which necessitated his removal from Kenya to South Africa, but before Eden could answer, Locker-Lampson put in:

Make Cracks.

"What medical disability was Capt. Cunningham-Reid suffering when he left England in the blitz?"

Cunningham-Reid retorted that Locker-Lampson reminded him of the cuckoo which "makes a nuisance of itself in other people's nests."

Cunningham-Reid on another occasion had been charged by Information Minister Brendan Bracken of "beachcombing" in Honolulu during the Battle of Britain.

Explaining the fighting, Cunningham-Reid said later he drew Locker-Lampson aside after the session and asked if he was going "to continue making these personal attacks on me." An argument followed.

When he called Locker-Lampson a "nasty old man," the latter demanded: "Take it back or I'll hit you."

"Well, hit me," Cunningham-Reid said he replied.

"He (Locker-Lampson) ran at me and struck me on the chest. I retaliated by hitting him on the head. He went down on his knees. I helped him up and by that titme other members had got between us."

Locker-Lampson is 63; Cunningham-Reid 47.

Ballyduff Community Decorates Graves

Decoration Day was fittingly observed in the village of Ballyduff situated near the centre of the township.

Ballyduff get its history from the early settlers, who in hewing down the forest reserved a plot on the Porter farm as a cemetery and once a year they gather from many localities to honor departed friends.

The Presbyterian minister, Mr. Jameson, conducted a short service in the open air. Speaking briefly, based his remarks on the book of John concerning the many mansions prepared for saints below who sorrow, but not without hope of reward when Christ in judgment shall appear.

Pretty Wedding Ceremony Takes Place in Perrytown

St. Paul's Anglican Church, Perrytown, was the scene of a pretty wedding recently, when Christina Edith, old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Clarkson, of Garden Hill, became the bride of Robert John, son of Mrs. William Elliott and the late Mr. William Elliott of Port Hope.

The service was performed by the Rev. Lloyd Delany, assisted by Rev. John Goforth Hornsby, Belleville. Mrs. Edwin Wilson played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a picturesque gown of white marquisette over satin with a finger-tip veil falling from a matching halo. Her cascade bouquet of white roses and blue cornflowers blended with the summery flowers that decorated the church.

Mrs. V. L. Jennings of Long Island, N.Y., sister of the bride, was matron-of-honour, and wore a Queen's blue gown. This frock had a fitted waist with full skirt over a taffeta foundation, and a matching hat with shoulder length veil completed her ensemble. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mr. George Elliott, brother of the groom, was the best man and the ushers were Leigh McClenaghan, Fraserville, and Walter Kelly of Port Hope.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony, where the bride's mother received wearing a flowered blue sheer dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Elliott, mother of the groom, chose for her son's wedding, a navy dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott left later for their wedding trip to Balm Beach, Georgian Bay, the bride travelling in a two-piece red polka dress with grey accessories. On the return couple will reside in Port Hope.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, July 30

FAST-MOVING events, decisively grasped with skill, ingenuity and vim should hold dramatic moments as well as high rewards for cleverness. Keep the tempo moving in high spots until desired aims and objectives keep coming in with choice cargoes of things desired. While business, professional and financial channels may move to top goals, there are other adventures and experience in the realm of the romantic and affectional to be as graciously and generously taken advantage of. It is an auspicious time for adroit maneuvers in all pleasant and prolific directions. But keep the festivities within bound of reason and good taste. Shun show and extravagance.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of conspicuous and dramatic performance in the realm of business, finance and the professional as well as affectional life. It is time for advanced goals, pursued with skill, agility and bold adventure. It may take direct and positive action with swift and sagacious moves to reach exceptional and exciting climax. Pleasant and lucrative denouement may await happy ideals or ideas out of the mediocre.

A child born on this day should be generously equipped for a rich, happy and dramatic life, both in business and romance.

This Weeks Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE:— You have been featuring meat stretching recipes so I thought I would send you mine. I guess lots of people have thought of it, but I have not seen it on the cooking page yet, and some of the younger housekeepers might be glad of it.

Meat Fritters (Contributed by Mabel Blackless)

One cup sifted flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 beaten egg, ¾ cup chopped cooked meat, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon chopped celery, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 sliced chopped broiled bacon. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Combine egg and milk and add, blending smooth. Stir in other ingredients. Let fall from tablespoon into deep hot fat of 350 degrees Fahr. and fry until golden brown, about two minutes. This amount provides 10 fritters — enough for five average eaters — my family consists of four adults and one adolescent.

Mabel E. Blackless

Thank you, Mrs. Blackless. This same fritter method may be used for hard cooked eggs, or corn, or flaked fish. If you do not care to cook by the hot fat method, it may be formed into moulds on greased baking dish and baked at 450 degrees Fahr. for about 15 minutes. Any of the fritters mentioned are good with a sauce — all but the corn fritters are good with tomato sauce. Thanks for this because it is economical besides being a good way to stretch rationed meat.

Young—Thompson

A quiet wedding was solemnized Wednesday afternoon in St. John's Anglican church, when Patricia Anne (Reg. N.) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thompson, was united in marriage to Sgt. William H. Young, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Young. Canon W. P. Robertson officiated. Frederick Mann presided at the organ and during the signing of the register Miss Jean Cameron sang "Beloved, It Is Morn."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Sgt. W. E. Thompson, was nattily attired in a street-length dress of blue crepe with which she wore a small matching hat and veil and corsage of roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. J. M. Kirkwood attended her sister as matron of honor and wore a street length frock of pink silk jersey with matching accessories. She had a corsage of white roses and cornflowers.

Mr. Ken Young was the best man and Capt. J. M. Kirkwood and Sgt. Harold Matthews were ushers.

A small reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip.

DOROTHY DIX

MOST MOTHERS IGNORE GIRL'S CHIEF CAREER—HOME-MAKING

Daughters Should Be Able to Support Selves But Also Need to Know How to Sew, Cook.

DEAR MISS DIX—I wonder if a lot of us modern mothers, who have tried so hard to give our daughters what we call every "advantage," are not finding out that we missed teaching them many of the homely things they need more than they do the higher education? I, for instance, sent my daughter through college, and saw that she had dancing lessons and music lessons and lessons in appreciation of this and that, and that she was taught a profession; but now that she is about to be married I suddenly realize that she does not know how to sew, or cook, or market, or run a budget, and I am wondering if I have not failed in preparing her for life, after all.

A MOTHER.

Erred in Training Girl

ANSWER—I think that you have, and that the mistake that you have made is one that most of the mothers of today are making. They seem to ignore entirely the fact that wifehood and motherhood are women's predestined careers now, just as they have been from time immemorial, and that while it is true that the average girl may work at some trade or profession a few years after she leaves school, she soon gives it up for marriage. Yet mothers spend their time and money having their daughters taught some occupation that they only follow for a year or two, but make no effort to prepare them for the work they will have to do for the balance of their lives.

In the past every girl was Mother's little helper from the time she was big enough to stand on a box and help wipe the dishes. She was taught how to sew and to cook, how to sweep and to dust, and all the details that go to the making and keeping of a comfortable home. But nowadays from the time girls are out of kindergarten they are so busy with their home work and their clubs and their parties that they have no time for any domestic duties, and they grow up practically ignorant of what the inside of a kitchen looks like.

Besides, Mother is trying to save her girls from all the drudgery she can, so she shoulders the whole family burden and lets them keep their finger nails polished red while her hands are soggy from dishwater and calloused from scrubbing.

Also, she holds to the curious theory that while a girl has to study typing and stenography if she wants to be a secretary, or get a hospital training if she wants to be a nurse, or take a course in selling if she wants to be a saleswoman, a knowledge of cooking will come to her by inspiration as soon as the marriage ceremony is said over her.

Hence the average girl, who also thinks that running a house must be a job that any moron can pull off since Mother does it so well, goes into marriage without the slightest preparation for the role she is undertaking, and by the time she has learned to make bread that is edible and coffee that doesn't taste like poison she has ruined many a dollar's worth of good food and shed many a tear, and wished that she had practised more on the gas range and less on the piano.

Also, she is lucky if she hasn't lost her husband, for the first disillusion that many a young husband gets is when he finds out that while his bride was all his heart would wish as a sweetheart, she is a rank failure as a wife, and that the little home he set up with such dreams of happiness and peace and pies like Mother used to make is a place of turmoil and discomfort and food that would kill an ostrich, and that half of his salary is going into the garbage can.

It is all right to give girls the best possible education. It is being prudent to teach them some way of supporting themselves if they are never lucky enough to get a man for a meal ticket. But is is also common sense to teach them how to cook and sew and run a house, for these are things that every woman is going to need to know at some time during her life, no matter whether she is rich or poor, married or single.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a man of 32, married nearly eleven years and have two children. After all of these years of happily married life my wife has decided that she does not know whether she loves me or not. Throughout most of the depression years she helped me get started in business and sacrificed herself to my future, and I am now a success. Things I couldn't afford to give her before I am able to give her now, but her attitude towards me and her absolute disinterest in my business and our home, even in the children, worries me.

About six weeks ago she deserted me to join the WAVES under an assumed name, but she was turned down and two days later returned home, and I forgave her, but her conduct broke my heart. Now she demands that I allow her to go away alone for two months to find out if she really loves me. I refused, but consented to let her go to work. She keeps all of her money and has lost all interest in me, although a spark of motherhood is still evident.

The only thing that keeps her from going away again is my threat of having her arrested for deserting her children, but to hold on to a woman with a threat goes against my grain and I only do it because of the children.

Is it possible that my wife will change and make our home happy once more?

A BROKEN-HEARTED HUSBAND

Liberty May Bring Back Wife's Love

ANSWER—Very likely, but your only chance to hold her is to let her go, if you get what I mean. Sometimes women get fed up with domesticity, just as men do. They think they have ceased to love their husbands. Their children have gotten on their nerves. They are weary of the routine of home duties and feel that they will perish if they cannot break away from it all.

The only remedy for the situation is to let them go and get it out of their systems. A pentup longing is like a dammed stream, it grows greater and greater all the time until at last it bursts the confining wall and sweeps principles, and the inhibitions of a lifetime, and affections away, and does damage that can never be repaired.

So my advice to you would be to let your wife go and have the couple of months' soul communing that she desires. Tell her you will also do some heart-probing while she is gone and see how you stand on that matter of continuing your marriage. Don't write to her while she is gone. Don't let her hear from the children. Let her find how the lovelessness and homelessness that seem so alluring to her now would be if she were separated from you and the kids and all the old ties. And I think that you will find that she will come back and be glad to slip into her old place in the home.

Tall Fashion Stories

By ALICE ALDEN

WHILE QUITE a bit of attention has been devoted to clothes for the short woman, her taller sister has had to shift for herself. That some tall girls can handle their clothes problems beautifully is demonstrated by lovely Bunny Walter who is over six feet tall but who doesn't look it, thanks to her clothes sense. Here she wears a study in figured and monotone fabrics. The waistcoat jacket and skirt are of black and white checked woollen, the blouse of black crepe. The diagonal line of the vest is interesting as is the sporty checked cap.

Filling Meals Needed For Family at Camp

By MARY MOORE

We are not on the map but our trout stream is—it is a little spidery line and we fish almost at the source of it.

We fish and swim until we're starved, then walk about 1½ miles home and wait a half hour till the kettle boils on the coal-oil stove, then another half hour until the potatoes cook, fish fry and other things assemble. We eat an average sized meal and are still starving so we start slicing bread and eating it with marmalade to fill the yawning spaces. Indeed it is a great life . . . for two weeks.

There are eight of us and we had wild strawberries for dessert last Sunday night. I'm boasting for I was half the team who picked them. It took two hours of peering and creeping along the roadside but it was the best kind of fun for my kind of a vacationer. The children wanted to know why strawberries that came in boxes didn't taste as good!

This week I've discovered a mock mayonnaise that is smooth and good and requires only 1 egg yolk for ¾ of a quart.

Emem's Mock Mayonnaise

Two tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 ¼-grain saccharin tablet, ¼ cup vinegar, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1 cup boiling water, yolk 1 egg, 2 cups cold salad oil. Mix together the dry ingredients, except the saccharin which dissolve in a little of the vinegar by crushing, and mix to a paste with the vinegar and add 2 tablespoons salad oil. Stir into 1 cup boiling water stirring and cook 15 minutes over boiling water after it is thick, stirring frequently. Cool a little and add the egg yolk stirring well. Chill thoroughly. Whip into it the 2 cups oil, adding it in a very fine stream OR 1 tablespoon at a time, beating with rotary beater constantly. Keep cool and covered.

Because the children are eating so much bread I'm trying to devise means of making the butter stretch further and remembered because we had some nice ham fat left over to fry it in.

Toasted Egg

Cut white or brown bread in ½-inch slices and cut out the centre with top of a round 1-lb. cocoa tin (nothing else will do of course). Have hot fat in pan and drop in prepared bread, and then break a raw egg and drop it into the hole. Fry until bottom of egg is set then turn over, and brown top slightly and serve immediately. This way the toast does not need any butter.

We have to walk ½ mile to get our milk and the mother of the farmer's wife is very much the matriarch type and after we sniffed the air, she showed us her delicious smelling pot full of boiled dried peas, all buttered, salted and peppered for dinner.

Don't forget dried peas ladies. They are cheap and good for you. They are delicious done any way you might do dried white beans.

Baked Pork and Peas

Two cups dried peas (chick, marrowfat, or yellow-split), ½ cup cubed salt pork, ¼ cup molasses, ¼ teaspoon mustard, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter. Rinse the peas in colander in cold water. Cover with cold water and soak 12 hours. Drain. Cover with boiling salted water and simmer slowly 1½ hours. Drain. Put in greased baking dish or bean pot with salt pork scattered through. Mix molasses, mustard, pepper, and 2 cups hot water and pour over the peas. Dot with butter. Cover and bake in moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until peas are soft—about 3 hours. Uncover last 30 minutes of cooking to brown top of peas.

If you double the above amounts you will have enough for two days—and I think they are better on the second day.

The youngsters had raided our cookie supply and we had no flour or other supplies to make more, but we did have rolled oats, and in an old-fashioned cook book I found this:

Oatcakes

One cup rolled oats, 1 egg, ½ cup honey, 1 tablespoon butter. Beat the egg and honey together, add the oats and a pinch of salt. Melt the butter and stir into the mixture. Drop by spoonfulls on a hot griddle and brown both sides. Delicious with cold applesauce made from 1½-inch green apples!

We finally bought some flour so I could make some cheese dishes and this one came out of the same old-fashioned cook book:

Cheese Pudding

Three-quarters cup well-packed grated cheese, ½ cup flour, 4 eggs, 2 oz. (¼ cup) butter, 1½ cups milk, ¼ teaspoon salt. Mix the flour with half the milk, bring the rest of the milk to the boil with the butter, and the flour and cook, stirring all the time until the paste will leave the sides of the dish. Cool a little, add the grated cheese, salt and the beaten yolks, and then the whites "beaten to a snow." Butter a mould, fill with the mixture and steam for an hour. This is delicious with cooked vegetable salad of green peas, green or yellow beans, potatoes—trimmed with radishes and cucumbers.

Watermelons at as high as One Dollar apiece are a comparatively economical buy when you think of the price of other fruits this season. We made one stretch for three meals for eight people by eating it "ear-to-ear" fashion for two meals and in a fruit cup for another. It is the fruit cup I want to give you for none of the ingredients is rationed, or in short supply. If you use saccharin, see note.

Melonmint Fruit Cup

For six people prepare 3 cups watermelon balls using ball cutter, or ¾-inch dice. Make a syrup of ½ cup sugar, 1 cup water, grated rind 1 lemon, and 10 crushed mint leaves, boiling it 10 minutes then straining. Chill. Add watermelon cubes or balls to the syrup when cold and let stand 2 hours, covered, in ice box before serving. If you double the amount you will have enough for two meals—the second meal's fruit could be varied by adding a few fresh raspberries.

NOTE — If you use saccharin omit sugar, and add 8 ½-grain tablets after syrup boils.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION:— I would like to know if the tablets known as fruit keep are all right for canning red currants and plums. I think I will have enough sugar to do what peaches we can get and as many pears as I want, but would like to use fruit-keep for currants and plums if it is allright. I thought I could make pies out of them in the winter. Please let me know as soon as possible as the red currants are ready to do now, but won't hurt to stay on the bushes for another week or so. — Mrs. Frances Pugh.

ANSWER:— The people making the product to which you refer have a new cook book ready for distribution, copies of which may be obtained by writing to the manufacturer in Toronto. Their address can be found on the package. The two fruits you refer to can be successfully preserved with fruit-keep, and all other Canadian fruits, too. The cook book will give you directions for preserving the fruit and for preparing it when ready to eat.

QUESTION:— Would you mind repeating the recipe for making lemon syrup and mixed lemon and orange syrup that you printed last year? I made it then and have made two batches this summer without the recipe and would like you to set me right for mine is not very good. Is it lemons and oranges that contain vitamin C.? My husband's doctor says he must have as much of it as he can get into him. Thanking you, Susie Cue.

ANSWER: Vitamin C is plentiful in all the citrus fruits, lemons, oranges, limes and grapefruit and in a lesser amount in tomatoes and tomato juice.

Lemon Syrup (For lemonade)

Two cups sugar (or 1 cup sugar and 10 saccharin tablets), 2 cups water, grated rind of 6 lemons, juice of 6 lemons. Boil the sugar and water together with the grated lemon rind for 5 minutes, stand syrup off heat and strain into it the lemon juice. When cool bottle it and keep cold. Use about 3 tablespoons of this syrup to each glass of lemonade.

NOTE: If saccharin is used add AFTER syrup is boiled.

Orange Syrup

Make Orange Syrup the same as above, but reduce the sugar (or saccharin if used) by half.

QUESTION: In a very interesting book written by a famous chef all about food, he refers to some delicious little cheese balls he served with fruit salad at the coming out party of a debutant,—and adds that he doesn't know why they are not served oftener because they are cheap and easy. Do you know what he is talking about? I would like to serve them with fruit salads to my sewing group. — Mrs. Angus McL.

ANSWER: This mixture is similar to a cream puff mixture and easy as your author suggests.

Cheese Cream Puffs

One - quarter cup shortening (preferably butter), ½ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne, ½ cup grated old cheddar cheese, 2 eggs. Bring shortening and 1 cup hot water to boiling point. Add flour, salt, and cayenne, STIRRING CONSTANTLY, and cook until mixture leaves sides of pan. Add cheese and mix well. Cool. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating well after each egg is added. Drop by teaspoons on a greased pan, making small balls. Bake in moderate oven at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 to 40 minutes, or fry in deep fat at 370 deg. Fahr.

1 tablespoon bacon or sausage fat
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup Libby's Evaporated Milk diluted with
½ cup water (or liquid from can of vegetables)
2 tablespoons Libby's Prepared Mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Melt fat and add flour; blend. Add diluted milk. Cook stirring constantly until smooth and thick. Add seasonings. One tablespoon Libby's Catchup may be added. Serve hot over meat or fish. Makes 1¼ cups.

NOTICE

IN THE MATTER OF THE MUNICIPAL ACT AND IN THE MATTER OF A PROPOSED BY-LAW OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH FOR THE STOPPING UP AND CLOSING OF AN ALLOWANCE FOR HIGHWAY AND SELLING THE SAME TO DONALD E. EPHGRAVE.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, Pursuant to Section 498 of The Municipal Act, that the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough proposes to consider and if deemed advisable to pass at its Regular Meeting to be held at the Council Chamber in the City Buildings, in the City of Peterborough, on Tuesday, the 3rd Day of August, 1943, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., a By-law to Stop Up and Close that part of Antrim Street in the said City lying immediately north of and adjoining the northerly limit of Lot Number 10 south of Antrim Street and west of George Street, bounded on the east and on the west by the northerly productions of the easterly and westerly limits of the said Lot and on the north by a straight line drawn westerly and parallel with the southerly limit of the said Lot Number 10 from a point in the northerly production of the easterly limit thereof distant 19 feet 6½ inches northerly from the north-easterly angle of the said Lot, subject and reserving unto the persons entitled thereto a right of way in, over, along and upon the westerly 12 feet of the said parcel, and to sell the said part of the allowance for road above described to Donald E. Ephgrave.

AND TAKE FURTHER NOTICE, That before passing the said By-law at its Meeting to be held at the time and place above-mentioned the Council of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough shall then and there hear in person or by his counsel, solicitor or agent any person who claims that his land will or might be prejudicially affected by the said By-law and who applies to be heard.

DATED at Peterborough, this 7th Day of July, A.D. 1943.

E. A. OUTRAM,
Clerk.

400 People Back Hospital Plan

Employees of the Utilities Commission and of Co-Operative Services have subscribed to the Plan for Hospital Care. Letters explanatory of the Plan are at present before the employees of Peterborough Lumber Company, Stocks Bread and Silverwoods' Dairy.

George W. Ralph, representing this co-operative service, informed the Examiner today that more than four hundred persons in Peterborough have become subscribers, and he added the hope that the eventual registration would be around six thousand.

On his lists of prospects he has included the large body of employees of the C.G.E.-Genelco.

Five groups including the two announced today have signed for the Plan for Hospital Care whose purposes and details of membership have been published in the Examiner.

Nuisance Beavers

DUNDALK, July 29. — (CP).— Which is the busier—the beaver or the bee? It's an epithet applied to both. Joseph Lougheed, through whose McIntyre district farm a tributary of the Mad river runs—and overruns—would doubtless vote for the beaver. Reason: Members of the beaver ilk recently engineered a 90-foot dam, flooding more than 40 acres of land to a depth of two or three feet.

Sgt. Russ Elliott Arrives Overseas

AN EAST CANADIAN PORT, July 29.—(CP).—A large group of Canadian airmen arrived in this port recently from overseas, repatriated for medical reasons, instructional tasks and for further training. They were accompanied by a small number of Canadian soldiers.

The army men said they missed out on the Sicilian invasion by a matter of hours, some of their own regiments and corps being among those now taking part in the Mediterranean battle.

Also included were R.A.F. personnel, here for training purposes, Australia and New Zealand airmen and about 500 English merchant seamen.

Two ground crew members back to take flying courses were Sgt. Russell Elliott, of Peterborough, Ont., and Cpl. Ray Lauzon, Windsor, Ont.

There Are Many Smart Things Made With Paper

SMART LAMP-SHADES

Here you see a young lady with very little material, making a smart lamp-shade. Not as difficult as it seems, this is just one of the many attractive things you can make with paper.

Our 32-page booklet tells you how to be an artist with paper. Even if you cannot draw, you can use a ruler, snip with scissors, apply paste and paint.

Easy directions are given in the booklet for making things to brighten your home; to add a smart note to your wardrobe; to amuse the children; to give your next party that different touch.

Clever paper sculpturing and silhouettes are also included in the booklet.

You'll be surprised and delighted at the many things you can make with paper—smart things that will cause your friends to exclaim!

The amount of material needed is practically negligible depending on the type of paper you wish to use. All materials are discussed in the booklet.

... ur copy of DECORATIVE A... ...EFUL THINGS TO MAKE WIT... PAPER send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Church Ladies' Quilt Brings Society $44

OMEMEE, July 29 — (ENS). — The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Robert McConnel with about 20 present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. W. Everson in the absence of the secretary Mrs. W. Thruston. Mrs. Everson gave a report of the District Annual at Burnt River, also Mrs. Magee.

Readings were given by Mrs. R. Williamson, Mrs. A. Rutherford, Mrs. Bruce Findley, Mrs. MacPherson. The president read pieces from the scrap book, Mrs. Woods sang. Mrs. William McConnel reported selling tickets on the red, white and blue quilt donated by Mrs. Walter Magee which a lady in Lindsay received and which made over $44 for the Society. The quilt committee reported one quilt to quilt. The committee in the booth for July 12 reported making $43.50. Community singing was part of the program.

The hostess Mrs. McQuade, Mrs. Acerman and Miss McConnel served lunch.

"MUSCLES UP" ACROSS OCEANS

LONDON — (CP). — The sound of a soldier in Britain flexing the muscles of his arms have been broadcast for the first time by the BBC. One arm was damaged by a gunshot wound, the other unwounded, and listeners in Australia and New Zealand could tell from the sound which arm was injured and which was normal.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE CAN BE AN ENTRY

AS BETWEEN two four-card suits, for an opening lead against a No Trump contract, the choice should usually fall upon the one which does not contain an ace or king. Keeping that card on the side may make it a valuable reentry for bringing in a card which gets established in the weaker suit. If you lead the stronger suit, it usually has to do all of its own work, with no help from the other, which contains no card likely to be a re-entry.

This deal got into several different contracts in a duplicate, with a number of 1-No Trump contracts bid as shown. Sound leading paid dividends in a peculiar way. Where South opened his club 4, to save the heart K as a possible re-entry, East took that trick, finessed the spade 10 and then the 9 to the Q. North returned the club 10, knocking out the A, and East then cashed the dummy's other three spades. That made only six tricks for him, however, and when he then led a diamond the defenders took the other tricks with top cards, setting him one.

Where a heart was led to the A and returned to the K, then a shift made to clubs, the declarer got the same two tricks in clubs and four in spades, plus one which had been set up for him in hearts. In other words, the leads away from heart honors proved costly, as they generally do except when setting up some long cards.

One declarer was beaten after a heart lead to the A because North switched at once to a club. His side therefore set up low club tricks before East could establish one in hearts. So the defenders there took one trick in spades and two in each other suit.

War Labor Board Gives Workers Pay Increase

TORONTO, July 29 (CP). —An official of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) said today the union has been informed the Ontario Regional War Labor Board has approved an application by the management of the Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton for a basic rate of 55 cents an hour plus full cost-of-living bonus. The new rate, retroactive to June 26 compares with the previous rate of 46½ cents.

The board's ruling also provides for other adjustments in the wages of hourly-rated employees which will bring other increases of at least four cents an hour, maintaining the wage differential between different classes of employees, the official said.

He added that the union now is applying to the National War Labor Board for a 55-cent rate in steel mills at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Trenton in Nova Scotia where the rate now is 50 cents an hour plus full coat-of-living bonus. The application will ask for other adjustments to preserve the wage differential.

Canadian Officers Plan Sicilian Operations

On board one of the ships which carried Canadian forces into the attack on Sicily, three Canadian staff officers are pictured working over maps as they planned the operations to come. The perfectly timed and executed landings and the speedy advances made by Allied forces after the beach defences were overcome, proved the care that went into preparations for the assault.

Party Pledge Reorganization Of Hydro System

MARMORA, July 29 (ENS). — In support of Richard Arnott member of the last legislature, a Conservative rally was held in the Town Hall on Monday. The chairman was Reeve W. R. Linn.

George A. Reid, ex-mayor of Belleville, was the first speaker, who discussed the question of Hydro. He saiad that the Liberals are doing today what they denounced Mr. Cooke for doing. They condemned the Madawaska deal and now uphold it. Mr. Reid said it was the policy of the Conservative party, if elected to power, to cut off service charges.

He showed the difference in horse power charges in the various villages of Hastings county which, to his mind was unfaiar. The market should be brought to the door of the people of Hastings county. The cost of power is holding back the development of local projects. More manufactures should be taking place in the county instead of raw materials being sent elsewhere for manufacture. The Ontario government headed by Mr. Nixon, is selling Hydro in different places at different prices, which should not be.

Can't Leave Farms.

W. E. Tummon, ex-M.P. and now an agriculturist, said he supported Mr. Arnott because he stands for Col. George Drew and his 23-point program. He declared there were hundreds and thousands not present at political meetings because they are working from dawn to dark on their farms. "With the increased production asked for the farmer is doing a pretty good job under difficult conditions. But there will be casualties on the food fdont the same as on the other front. He saiad the man who brings on this election is a farmer. Can you measure his interest in the farm by that? The election is on.

Definite Stand.

Richard Arnott, the candidate, addressed the gathering. He said that in 1937 the Conservative party was accused of having no platform and was making no definite stand. The criticism received in this election was that they had a platform. The program had been in preparation for the past four years.

Touching upon the 22 point policy of Col. Drew, he continued his remarks chiefly to an elaboration of the point upon agriculture. He referred to the slogan, "Keep Nixon at the wheel" and added, "Keep him there at the wheel of that tractor and not at the wheel of the province of Ontario." Launching an attack on the proxy vote, he said that the men of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and the Argyle Light Infantry which went to camp on Sunday would not have the proyy vote, an unbelievable thing.

Not Organised.

F. G. Gardiner, K.C., of Forest Hill, said he never saw an election in which there was so much confusion. The elecction had been called in such a hurry because Nixon knows the soldier vote to be against him, so he is disenfranchising it. He predicted that there would not be five thousand proxy votes cast. The two great issues of the election in his mind should be to win this war with least sacrifice of life and to give leadership to the rehabilitation of the soldiers returning from it, which would be more fair than that following from the last war, as well as to rightly absorb the million industrial workers into other employments when the need for their present work ceases.

Vote Unfair.

George S. White, M.P., in a short speech, touched upon the proxy vote and the charges of the Hon. Louis St. Laurent concerning George Drew and the former's recent utterances about the Union Jack and the National Anthem. He also referred to the fact that 52 boys from the riding went to Hong Kong.

Some day, he declared, the censored Drew letter will be published. It is to the eternal credit of George Drew that he had the courage to make the allegations concerning Hong Kong. In conclusion he wondered how Mr. Nixon could explain how the boys in Sicily could have got their proxies and be able to return them. 'If they are not entitled to vote, we are not entitled to vote."

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN, July 29 (CP) —Few awards of the D.F.C. are greeted as warmly as the one announced behind the name of Flt. Lt. Donald Morrison, D.F.M., of Toronto.

Morrison, you see, is a very popular guy. The fact that he is a prisoner of war in Germany, recovering from burns and the amputation of a leg, has not dropped his name from the conversation of those who knew him.

They remember him over Dieppe last August, attacking a FW190 despite his badly damaged aircraft, shooting it down, and then bailing out. He spent the day in a rescue launch and twice jumped overboard to rescue members of the crew of another launch which was sunk by enemy aircraft.

They promoted Morrison from Pilot Officer to Flight Lieutenant shortly after. He had jumped from a sergeant only a short time before.

He was taken prisoner last fall when he was shot down in a terrific dogfight over France, but only after he had shot down another enemy plane. His record stands at six destroyed and many probables.

They don't go up much faster than Sqdn. Ldr. Charles Semple of 27, Hastings avenue, Toronto. The 26-year-old airman joined a Canadian Spitfire squadron early in 1942 as a sergeant and recently became its commanding officer.

He took over when Sqdn. Ldr. B. D. Russel, D.F.C., Montreal, was promoted Wing Cmdr. Sqdn. Ldr. Semple enlisted as an AC2, leaving a job in the T. Eaton Co. Annex at Toronto.

Wing Cmdr. Russel fought the Battle of Britain with the 1st Canadian Fighter squadron.

Recently awarded the D.S.O. to add to a D.F.C., Sqdn. Ldr. R. G. Lane of Victoria, B.C, really knows his Europe He has made 50 operational sorties, all with a Halifax bomber squadron, over practically every target raided in Germany and Italy. He now is instructing future "pathfinders" at a navigational training school. Of his tours, Lane says, "I really enjoy them."

News from the Red Indian squadron is that FO. Norman Fowlow of Windsor, N.S., 21, has stepped over from the Wolf Squadron to take over command of a flight. The new "Flt. Lt." has three enemy planes to his credit.

Another promotion in the Canadian Fighter Wing is that of FO. Russell (Rusty) Bragg of Calgary, engineering officer of a Spitfire squadron—to Flight Lieutenant. A permanent force man, Flt. Lt. Bragg came overseas in 1940 as a corporal.

Attacks on two enemy U-boats during one patrol and a reputation as a "thoroughly reliable captain of aircraft" were cited in the award of the D.F.C. to Flt. Lt. A. Brent Howell, Boissevain, Man. Damage and casualties were inflicted on the submarines.

Boost In Pay Delights Women In Army

KINGSTON, Ont., July 29 (Special)—Extreme satisfaction over the increase in basic rates of pay for the Canadian Women's Army Corps as announced by National Defence Headquarters, is general among members of the C.W.A.C. in Military District No. 3.

From Kitchen helper to laboratory assistant and radio technician, all of the girls expressed surprise and delight. News of the salary boost spread like wildfire.

The increase is to 80 per cent of that paid men in the armed forces instead of the 66 2-3 per cent as in the past.

The pay increase, retroactive, to July 1st this year, means that members of the C.W.A.C. will start at $1.05 per day with a jump to $1.20 per day at the end of six months good conduct and efficient service. Trades pay equivalent to that paid men, as well as staff and special duty pay, are also being provided in the new plan.

"This is the best news I have heard since I joined the army," was the way Cpl. Stella A. Wilson, of Pembroke, summed up the announcement. "It's wonderful and we all appreciate that our services are gaining further recognition in this way."

Women who join the C.W.A.C. in most cases replace men who can then be released for more active duties or be sent overseas. Their contrigution to the national war effort has been outstanding.

Private Grace McFaydan, of Morse, Sask.; Cpl. Betty Reid, of Shawinigan Falls, Que., and L-Cpl. Patricia Dewey, of Hamilton, who are all employed at district headquarters, said they are "thrilled," "considering that we get free board and lodgings, free clothing, medical and dental care and in addition have the satisfaction of knowing that we are doing something to help win the war. This pay increase is a mighty kind vote of confidence in us," Cpl. Reid said.

Applies to Married Women

The department's announcement that women in the services whose husbands are also in service, are eligible for dependent's allowance was greeted with enthusiasm by married C.W.A.C.'s in this area. This increased financial benefit applies to all married women serving with the armed forces provided their income including dependent's allowance but excluding assigned pay does not exceed $2,100.

Cpl. Mary Steiber, of Peterborough, whose husband is in service with the army is one of several in the district who will enjoy the considerable boost in her monthly income. Some members fo the C.W.A.C. in M.D. 3 have dependents other than husbands and children and will therefore benefit from the new arrangement whereby dependent's allowances will be paid. By the changed policy, a dependent mother or other close relative, will recieve allowances at the same rates and under the same conditions as apply to the dependents of men. The only suggestion of complaint about the new financial boost came from a C.W.A.C. transport driver, "When the fellows hear about this," she said, "they will expect us to go 'Dutch treat' on our dates." She asked if the announcement couldn't be made quietly.

Most of the girls in the army are subscribers to the recent Victory Loan and are paying for their bonds by the installment plan. They are delighted that they will not have to "pinch" so hard in future.

Pope Denounces One-Man Rule

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—The B.B.C. reported today that a Vatican broadcast to Spain last night said: "The Pope denounced those who misuse the people and claim the right to ignore the foundations of law."

The British broadcast, recorded by C.B.S. here, said in part: "The Pope denounced those who dare to lay the fate of an entire nation into the hands of a single man so that everybody becomes a victim of passions, efforts and fantastic imaginations.

"That does not mean, however, that the Pope denounces all movements existing in a nation, such movements can very well arise out of the necessity to liberate the nation.

"It is absolutely necessary that there are fundamental laws which are beyond the ruler and untouchable by any arbitrary action."

CANADIANS PENETRATE NAZI FLANK

Red Cavalry Used In Orel Attack

Russians Advance 6 Miles Take 40 Villages

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 30.—(AP).—Germany yesterday but failed to check hold Orel at all costs brought in fresh units from France and Germany yesterday but faialed to check the crushing Soviet drive, the Russians announced to-day.

When knee-deep mud and driving rain threatened for a time to slow their massive tanks and infantry, the Red Army turned to a cavalry charge to throw the Germans from three fortified positions, front line dispàtches said. Nazi forces were reported to have left 600 dead and large quantities of arms behind.

A Soviet communique said upwards of 3,000 Germans were killed at Orel's approaches and gains up to six miles were registered as 40 additional villages were occupied.

The Germans counter-attacked east of Orel but the Russians said they beat off the waves of infantry and forged ahead after inflicting heavy losses.

Wipe Out Regiment.

A German regiment of 1,500 to 1,800 men was wiped out in another Orel battle when Nazi infantry supported by 30 tanks struck back at the advancing Red columns, the communique said. Ten of the attacking tanks were burned or disabled.

(A Berlin broadcast admitted the German defenders of Orel were on the defensive all day Wednesday, but said Russian attempts to break through inner defences were repulsed and 186 Russian tanks were destroyed, 100 of them north of the city.)

In the Belgorod area 165 miles to the south, where the Russians have regained territory lost to the Nazis in the first phases of the summer campaign, the Soviet war bulletin said Red Army forces went on the offensive again and drove the Germans from a village. Another battle raged for a short time near Belgorod but ended with a German withdrawal.

The Wednesday toll on all fronts was 38 enemy tanks and 63 planes, according to the bulletin.

Troops Creeping Close To Munda

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, July 30 (AP)—Allied troops, inching relentlessly forward through the jungles of New Georgia, have moved 200 yards nearer the Munda airbase and Allied Headquarters today described their progress as satisfactory and according to plan.

The ceaseless pounding of the Munda area by sea and by air, the communique said, has cut the enemy's supplies to the bone. Bombers have dropped at least 700 tons of explosives there in the past four weeks and United States warships have poured more than 400 tons of shells upon that central Solomons stronghold.

Fourteen Japanese pillboxes were destroyed yesterday by the advancing soldiers and marines, now within 1,900 yards of the airdrome.

Japanese forces at Bairoko, 10 miles north of Munda, have been hemmed in by Americans who landed a few miles away at Rich anchorage July 5. The enemy still holds coastal strips west and north of Munda, but their beachheads in this area are commanded by Americas artillery on Rendova Island, eight miles south of Munda.

Ontario Unit Captures Assoro

Unit Believed Hastings and Prince Edward Dislodges Germans

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent.

ASSORO, Sicily, July 24—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—Clambering up a 2,500-foot precipice, an Eastern Ontario regiment stormed the crest in a pre-dawn attack, captured the town of Assoro and drove a strong German force from the mountain peak on which it is situated.

The attack, carried out in moonlight up the sheer face of a cliff which the enemy thought it was impossible to scale, took the Germans by surprise.

The exploit, which took place during the night of July 21-22, was one of the most daring and heroic of any performed by the Canadians during the invasion of Sicily. The regiment is being praised for its accomplishment by the whole Canadian formation.

After reaching the peak, which juts out like a pinnacle amidst the cliffs and mountains of this part of the island, they fought outside Assoro and on the nearby mountain slopes.

They were heavily shelled during the day but held their ground with determination. The regiment was cut off for most of one day but two members of the unit went through the enemy lines to get supplies.

After a steady fight of more than 30 hours the Germans were beaten off the position and the weary Canadian troops manned the crest as other Canadian units passed through to continue the attack.

Yesterday (July 23) I reached the regiment on its new positions at the front. Officers and men told me of the storming of Assoro's cliffs. Then I went to the cliff top with the commanding officer and he described the gallant actions that gained so much for the Canadians in the drive through this mountain citadel of rocks and peaks.

Prominent Landmark

It took half an hour to drive to the cliff top from the valley. This peak is the most prominent one in this mountain district and has been a landmark for the past week during the fighting in the area northeast of Enna.

From the summit of the peak, on the outskirts of Assoro, I could see 50 miles, with a magnificent view of Mount Etna and the valleys and hills to the southwest over which the Canadians had advanced and of more hills and mountains to the north and northeast, where the Germans were located.

The Germans were dug in strongly on the slopes south of Assoro and

Neutral Countries Warned To Keep Axis Leaders Out

WASHINGTON, July 30—(AP).—President Roosevelt issued a virtual ultimatum to neutral countries today not to offer asylum to Axis leaders.

He also told a press conference that he does not care with whom the government deals in Italy as long as it is not a definite member of the Fascist Party. He expressed a willingness to treat for peace, when the time comes, with a king, prime minister or even a mayor of a city.

In a formal statement, the President took cognizance of rumors that "Mussolini and members of his Fascist gang may attempt to take refuge in neutral territory." One day, he added, Hitler and his gang and Tojo and his gang will be trying to escape from their countries.

"I find it difficult," he said, "to believe that any neutral would give asylum to or extend protection to any of them. I can only say that the government of the United States would regard the action by a neutral government in affording asylum to Axis leaders as inconsistent with the principles for which the United Nations are fighting and that the United States government hopes that no neutral government will permit its territory to be used as a place of refuge or otherwise assist such persons in any effort to escape their just deserts."

Nissoria Taken In Night Raid

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With Canadian Troops at Nissoria, Sicily, July 27. — (Delayed)—(CP Cable.)—Behind an intense artillery barrage that stunned the Germans, Canadian infantry and tanks have finally smashed enemy positions east of here in a fierce night attack and with strong fighter-bomber air support have advanced more than six miles in a daylight follow-up to the outskirts of Agira.

Italian Airfields Plowed By Allied Bombs

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 30—(AP).—Allied air fleets in shattering new blows by day and night pounded the Axis reinforcement ports of Messina and Milazzo in Sicily, routed a convoy, and blasted airfields near Naples and Rome, it was announced today.

R.A.F. Beaufighters attacking a convoy off the Italian coast left a merchant ship sinking, and a destroyer and motor torpedo boat on fire.

R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Wellingtons left huge fires blazing at airfields at Capodichino and Monte Corvino Ravella, near Naples.

American heavy fighters smashed airdrome installations at Viterbo, 50 miles northeast of Rome, meeting light anti-aircraft fire. U.S. medium bombers hit the airdrome at Aquino near Naples.

New Peak of Fury.

The air war reached new peaks of fury as the Sicilian campaign entered its final stages.

Four Allied planes were lost in the far-ranging attacks, and one enemy plane was destroyed, headquarters said.

The R.A.F. Beaufighters, which in one recent week sank 11 ships, including three destroyers, pounced upon a small convoy 20 miles from Cape Palinuro. The torpedo-carrying planes hit a merchant vessel, leaving it sinking, and fired a destroyer and a motor torpedo boat with cannonfire.

Another Beaufighter sweep destroyed an Italian SM-82 east of Aranci, Italy.

Swooping down on Messina harbor where enemy reinforcements again are reaching the besieged Sicilian garrison from Italy, R.A.F. fighter-bombers hit a large merchant ship, damaged the quay and a ferry.

American invader planes swept Sicilian roads behind enemy lines, concentrating on the Randazzo area in front of the American 7th Army's advance. Thirty to 40 trucks were destroyed in the savage strafing.

The invaders also destroyed a bridge at Maletto.

Baltimore bombers pounded Milazzo, the number two enemy reinforcement port on the island.

Many Peterboro Soldiers Now In Sicily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 30.— (CP). — Allied Headquarters to-day identified officially nine Canadian battalions in the 1st Division which is fighting in Sicily under Maj.-Gen. Guy Simonds of Kingston, Ont.

The regiments:

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Picton, Ont., designated territorially as an Eastern Ontario regiment, and in which many men from Peterborough and district are serving.

The Royal Canadian Regiment of London, Ont., Toronto, St. Johns, Que. and Halifax, a permanent force unit.

The 48th Highlanders of Canada, Toronto.

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Winnipeg and Victoria, a permanent force unit.

The Seaforth Higlanders of Canada, Vancouver.

The Royal Edmonton Regiment, Edmonton.

The Royal 22nd Regiment, Quebec, a third permanent force unit.

The West Nova Scotia Regiment, Bridgewater, N.S.

The Carleton and York Regiment, St. Stephen, N.B., part of the Territorial New Brunswick Regiment

Besides these nine battalions, Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent with the Canadians in Sicily, has mentioned in his stories a Saskatchewan Machine Gun Battalion, Canadian Light Anti-Aircraft Forces, Canadian Artillery, a Quebec Tank Unit, none of which have been identified.

(Yesterday the next-of-kin of Lt.-Col. Bruce Sutcliffe, of Belleville, officer commanding the Hasting and Prince Edward Regiment, were advised he had been killed in action.)

While the fact the Canadian 1st Division was participating in the Sicilian drive was announced early in the campaign, the identity of the units was not made public officially until to-day.

Germans Driven Back 20 Miles In Latest Push

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 30 (AP).—Canadian and United States troops have driven into the central and right flanks of the German's wavering Mount Etna line, Allied headquarters announced today as the Nazis strove desperately to repair the breach.

A communique said the Canadian 1st Division had "advanced farther against strong opposition," and that the U.S. 7th Army front from the north coast inland to captured Nicosia was "advanced in several places."

The American assault had driven the Germans back about 20 miles in two days and threatened to trap the Nazis around Catania or force a general retreat toward Messina. The 7th Army was advancing beyond the strategic prize of Nicosia and exploiting the breakthrough made in temporary Nazi positions.

Menace Regalbuto

Canadians who captured Agira to the southeast, central pivot of the Mount Etna line, were menacing Regalbuto, six miles to the east and facing another bitter struggle.

Allied air power struck repeatedly in heavy new blows to shatter port facilities at Messina and Milazzo in Sicily and ranged over Italy to blast airports near Rome and Naples.

The British Eighth Army continued its probing patrols into the powerful German defences below Catania, the communique said.

(A BBC broadcast recorded by CBS in New York said U.S. troops were "battering the main enemy defences on the outskirts of San Stefano," northern coastal anchor of the Mt. Etna defences.

(The Italians declared that their motor torpedo boats "in waters east of the island repulsed threats carried out by enemy E-boats against Italian convoys," but did not indicate whether the convoys were rushing reinforcements to Sicily or pulling troops out of the island.)

Stopped By Artillery.

Still stymied by wide minefields and dominant enemy gun positions on the lower slopes of Mt. Etna, the 8th Army fought a number of small engagements with forces of the Goering Division and Elite Nazi parachute troop battalions. These were successful, the communique said.

The bulletin's terseness could not hide the fact that the climatic struggle of the campaign was in progress, with the Americans capitalizing their strategic positions on the weakest sector of the German line.

The veteran U.S. fighters scaled three 1,000-foot ridges in tropical heat and outflanked German batteries by circuitous mountain routes, exerting relentless pressure on the hastily-entrenched enemy.

Hand-To-Hand.

Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's orders to "keep striking" were carried out to the limit by bayonet-wielding infantry and skilled crews of mechanized field guns as they surged forward across terrain that in other circumstances might have been an impregnable defensive line.

The Canadians' dash and spirit were undiminished by more than a week of the hardest kind of infighting with desperate German armored troops. They have done to new successes which the communique with its usual official hesitancy has not yet disclosed.

Hamburg Site Flattened In Big Raid

28 Bombers Lost; Seventh Attack Since Saturday

LONDON, July 30.—(CP).—R.A.F. and Canadian bombers dropped more than 2,000 tons of explosives on Hamburg last night, it was announced to-day, giving that great North German port its seventh pounding since Saturday night.

It was learned a great many Canadian bombers participated in this attack, as they have in every Hamburg raid since the round-the-clock bombings began last week-end.

The Air Ministry said the attack was made "in very great strength" and that delivery of explosives was accomplished despite increased ground defenses and numerous German fighters.

Twenty-eight bombers were reported missing. A half dozen enemy planes were destroyed on this and other raids, the Air Ministry said.

An R.C.A.F. communique said squadrons of the Canadian bomber group participated in the Hamburg raid and that two of the 28 missing bombers were Canadian. R.C.A.F. Intruders also bombed air fields and rail target in France.

An Experiment.

The massive attack stirred speculation that Hamburg is being made the subject of an Allied experiment to determine whether a city that large can be paralyzed completely from the air.

Results achieved in the persistent day and night bombing of Germany's largest city and submarine nest were viewed as likely to determine the pattern of the air war for the next few months.

In this connection it was noted that lengthening nights will bring Berlin itself within the range of heavy day and night bombings by October or November.

Last night's attack was the 105th of the war carried out on that city by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F., but this week's concentrated assault on the city apparently was aimed at blowing it off the map.

American medium bombers swept out at daybreak today to continue the round-the-clock aerial attacks on Germany and occupied territory in the war's greatest air offensive by blastings at the German airdrome at Woensdrecht in Holland this morning.

Swift British Mosquito planes hit at other targets in Germany during the night while R.A.F. fighters strafed airfields and railways at Merville, Coulommiers, Mantes and forces in France, and Schleswigjagel in Germany.

Fascism Was Forced On Italian King

Monarch Tolerated Trend To Avert Civil War But Kept Upper Hand

By JOHN EVANS
Associated Press War Analyst

King Victor Emmanuel's hold on his war-torn throne seems to be strengthened by the very shocks that might be expected to unseat him.

That is because the Allied world just now asks: "Who is Italy " Not long ago Mussolini was Italy, but to-day Gen. Eisenhower tacitly recognizes the King as the one to accept "honorable conditions" of peace.

At first thought it would seem that rumored riots and insistent popular cries fo. "peace" might shake the throne and start a revoution.

Compromised.

..It still seems to some the King and Badoglio are touched with the tar of Fascism because they tolerated it, recognized it and worked with it. On the other side are these facts:

1.. The King accepted Mussolini and Fascism because he couldn't help himself. He tried the wily Premier Giolitti and others in short-lived governments in vain efforts to stave off a revolution. He finally gave in to Mussolini and summoned him as Premier, as the King said, to avert civil war. Badoglio at that time assured the King the army could defeat the Fascists marching on Rome, but the King took the costly, easy way out.

King Still In Power

However, once Mussolini was in, the King had to decide either to abdicate and leave everything to the Fasciste or to hang on as best he could, biding his time. He bided. Now Mussolini is out and the King is in.

2.Rioting and all the demands for peace may seem to shake the throne, but instead they increase the importance to the Allies of having in Italy a real head, respected by the people, supported by the Italian army, thoroughly in touch with conditions, and knowing the political complexion of all those speedy converts to democracy who will be trying to raise themselves to power by their bootstraps.

Has Leadership

If events suddenly should force out the King, Badoglio also would go and Italy would be a country in chaos without leadership, easy prey for the Germans and other kinds of trouble.

3. One of the strongest factors in all this mess is the spiritual one. Pope Pius XII may or may not be active in trying for peace but he most certainly prays for the end of the war, especially in his own country. Upon him, as devout Roman Catholics, the King and Badoglio can rely for aid and comfort in any proper search for peace.

Emergency Session Called

Discussion May Touch Italian Situation

LONDON, July 30.—(CP).— The War Cabinet met twice Friday amid speculation over the possibility of Italy's asking peace terms.

Prime Minister Churchill called the first session at 1.30 a.m. and a second meeting was held later in the day.

There was no official indication of what was discussed, but the Ministers presumably were concerned with some major turn in the Italian situation.

Speculation arose immediately over the possibility that Premier Pietro Badoglio of Italy had asked for peace terms, but despite the hour it was stated reliably it is "not unusual for such meetings to take place at any time."

A spokesman added "it would not necessarily be correct to attribute any special significance to this early morning meeting in connection with the immediate war situation."

One source said the meeting was believed connected with military developments, rather than political.

Nevertheless, it was noted events were moving fast in floundering Italy and were under close scrutiny by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

Germans Use New Defence

Searchlight Barrage Greets R.A.F. Planes

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. BOMBER GROUP, England, July 30 — (CP Cable)—German efforts to combat Allied aerial fleets systematically destroying Hamburg by increased use of searchlights were reported today by Canadian fliers participating in their third raid on the giant port this week.

"There were three times as many beams last night as on the second raid, and the Jerries have a new technique," said Sqdn. Ldr. John Mahoney of Ottawa.

"They are moving the lights slowly as if each had its own bit of sky to search. There is no rapid swinging about and the lights apparently are working for the night fighters."

Several squadrons of the R.C.A.F. bomber group were on the raid, including the Moose squadron and one led by Wing Cmdr. Don Smith of Preston, Ont.

Most of the pilots echoed the observation of PO. Gordon Barnholden of Moose Jaw, Sask., a bomb aimer, that "Hamburg seemed absolutely burned out and I don't see what would be the sense of owning real estate there."

BADOGLIO REGIME STUDIES TERMS OFFERED BY GEN. EISENHOWER

Rome Claims Peace Terms Too Drastic

Badoglio Ponders Eisenhower's Armistice Terms

By FRANK BUTTO
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, Switzerland, July 30 — (AP). — Despite sharp measures taken by Premier Badoglio to prevent its dissemination, General Dwight D. Eisenhower's peace offer kept talk of an armistice alive today in an Italy fretting under new restrictions reminiscent of the old Fascist regime.

A definite stiffening of governmental discipline was described in reports reaching Berne. Badoglio's army - enforced decrees sharply limiting freedom of expression by newspapers aroused bitterness among Liberal and Leftist political leaders.

Badoglio, however, did not succeed in keeping the Eisenhower speech from the public. While countless thousands listened to it on the radio, mimeographed copies appeared on the streets of the principal cities a few hours after its publication was banned.

Travelers from Rome, Milan, Genoa and other centres said the peace speech was the sole topic of conversation in homes, streets and cafes.

Eisenhower's broadcast came while Italians paraded in Milan and other cities carrying banners inscribed with the slogans "We want peace." and "We want our sons back.'

The Italian populace, reports received in Berne said, were becoming increasingly worried over the failure of Badoglio to ask the Allies for an armistice.

There was no doubt that the first concrete terms offered by the Allies through Eisenhower were commanding the attention of the Badoglio regime, yet the fact that government officials have insisted that relations with the Germans would be carried on as before and that the war would be continued increased the feeling of frustration and uneasiness.

Fighting Continues

In one of the few newspaper dispatches that have been allowed to come out of Rome under the new censorship regulations, the Swiss Telgeraphia agency today quoted government circles as saying the Churchill-Rosoevelt speeches had not modified the Casablanca formula of unconditional surrender which Italy "could never accept without renouncing the most elemental sense of dignity."

(The Rome radio carried on this argument in a broadcast apparently directed at the Allies. The broadcast said the Allied peace terms were too drastic, and complained Great Britain was asking for a "Carthaginian peace"—a peace that would completely wipe out the defeated.

("Britain," the broadcast added, "...wants to destroy Italy as a vital, progressive and history-making nation." The broadcast was recorded by The Associated Press.

(Berlin and Tokyo joined Rome in the argument that the Allies were not fighting Fascism alone but were fighting the entire Italian country.)

Meanwhile, strikes continued in

in the battle for Sicily:—

Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment

The regiment went overseas in 1939 as part of the 1st Infantry Brigade and was selected to go to France in May, 1940, to support the Dunkirk evacuation. It was there it lost its famous mascot, "The Little Chief," huge Indian figure which towered atop a Picton, Ont., canning factory for 50 years.

The regiment was the first to be mobilized in Military District No. 3 (Kingston, Ont.) after the outbreak of war. It carries on the traditions of the old 16th Prince Edward Regiment and the 49th Hastings Rifles and the battle honors of the First Great war: Somme, Hill 70, Amiens, Ypres, Hindenburg Line and the Pursuit to Mons.

48th Highlanders

The 48th Highlanders have a history extending back 52 years. The regiment first saw active service in the South African War when a detachment of 17 was chosen for the first Canadian contingent.

In 1914 the 48th immediately volunteered for service and the regiment was designated the 15th Battalion of the 1st Division. Other 48th Battalions in the First Great War were the 92nd and 134th.

The battalion won 21 battle honors and 10 of these are inscribed on the colors. During the First Great War 61 officers and 1,406 non-commissioned officers and men of the 15th gave their lives.

Princess Pats

P.P.C.L.I. was formed Aug. 10, 1914, when a charter was signed naming the regiment in honor of Her Royal Highness the Princess Patricia of Connaught.

Of a total strength of 1,098, there were 1,049 who had been with the colors before and they held a total of 771 decorations and medals. Every regiment but one of the British regular army was represented, and the composition of those "originals" was said to be unique in British arms.

At St. Eloi, Jan. 7, 1915, the regiment got its baptism of artillery bombardment and heavy casualties were suffered. The Princess Pats won fame at the battle of Frezenberg, when they held Bellewaerde Ridge through an inferno of fire. When finally relieved, the regiment had only a remnant of survivors, but the action saved Ypres.

The P.P.C.L.I. received a total of 369 awards, including three Victoria Crosses. Casualties in the field numbered 4,076.

The regiment was reorganized in the permanent active militia and in the 21 years of peace was stationed at Winnipeg and Victoria.

Princess Pats Fighting Near Mount Etna

By ROSS MUNRO.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CENTRAL SICIILC, July 24 —Delayed (CP) —The Canadians are within sight of towering Mount Etna, around which are strung the last strong defensive positions of the enemy of Sicily.

The mountain strongholds of Leonforte and Assoro, neighboring towns 15 miles northeast of Enna, were captured by the Canadian 1st Division Thursday (July 22).

(This despatch was apparently held up by the military field censorship until yesterday (Thursday) for the announcement by Allied Headquarters in North Africa of the capture of Leonforte).

For the last four days heavy fighting has raged around these towns.

The Canadians finally stormed into Leonforte, and the Princess Patrica's Canadian Light Infantry ousted the last Germans from the town after a battle that was in the balance for hours.

The fall of Leonforte consilidated our positions and gave the Canadians great advantages for further operations. This new position dominates the roads leading to the east toward Mount Etna and Catania.

Germans Cooped Up.

The Germans are being cooped up in the Mount Etna area slowly but determinedly by the American and Canadian advances in Central Sicily and by the pressure of British 8th Army forces to the southeast.

I believe there is the equivalent of 2½ German divisions opposing the 8th Army and the Americans on strong defensive lines.

Quite possibly the Germans may were in strength in the town.

They apparently counted on the cliff on the eastern side of the town as a natural defence and an obstacle no army would assault. But the Canadians did what the enemy thought impossible.

On Tuesday afternoon, July 20, a careful but dangerous reconnaissance of the Assoro cliffs was made by officers who crept into an orchard a mile from the base of the precipice. Details of the attack were completed for this back-door surprise. After dark the Eastern Ontario Regiment moved forward as a single column to the vase of the cliff.

"We weren't intercepted en route but an Italian civilian gave us a scare when he loomed out of the night driving a bullock before him," the commanding officer laughed.

He said one company was stripped down to bare essentials as an assault company, armed with a large number of automatic weapons. Capt. Alex Campbell of Perth, Ont., led this company with another one up the left side of the cliff. He took the rest of the battalion through a steep gully on the right and led it up the precipice there.

The men started to climb silently in bright moonlight at about 4 a.m. July 21. By 5:05 they had reached the top of the 2,500-foot crest, just as dawn was breaking.

Surprised Germans

"The Boches weren't expecting us to come up the cliff and we made the top without a shot being fired," the commanding officer said.

"The only Germans we found on the peak were three observation men who were directing the gunfire against our troops the day before."

The crest was rapidly cleared and the Canadians took over the German trenches. By this time it was broad daylight and the Germans on the forward slope and in the town realized the Canadian battalion had performed a near-miracle and scrambled up the cliff to catch them on the flank. Then the fighting started.

The town was situated only 200 yards from the peak where the troops were concentrated, many of them in caves and holes in the rocks. There were sharp exchanges of fire between the Canadians and the Germans in the town, a jumble of buildings barely clinging to the mountain side.

Guerilla Warfare

"The Huns were milling around the town and our men shot up truckloads of them when they tried to clear out of the narrow streets," the C.O. continued. "There was sniping such as I have never seen before. It was guerilla and mountain war-fare rolled into one."

The Germans then began to shell the Canadians on the crest and kept it up for hours. Nazi machine-gunners got the range and the sniping became fiercer. There was mortar fire too.

The artillery even performed as snipers, with 88 mm. guns shooting practically with open sights, trying to dislodge the pockets of infantry. Canadian transport tried to come up a road leading to the crest but was ambushed by German artillery fire. The vehicles were not only blocked by a huge crater but also stopped by shells.

The regiment was cut off by mid-afternoon and running short of food and ammunition, for they were unable to bring large quantities with them up the cliff.

Set Out For Supplies

Capt. Bill Stockloser of Madoc, Ont., and RSM. Angus Duffy of Trenton, Ont., set off on foot through the enemy lines to get supplies. They got through and Duffy explained it by saying "we ran like hell over the open spaces."

Wednesday night (July 21) supplies and ammunition were packed up the cliff by two companies of a Canadian regiment who were supposed to be resting but who pitched into this tough job to help out.

One officer said they tried to use a mule for the climb up the cliff and loaded it down with supplies. But the mule got as far as the base of the cliff and then died. Everything had to be placed on the backs of men. By this time the men on the clifftop were breaking into the town and turning out the enemy.

Germans Forced To Clear Out

The Germans on the forward slope could not dent the Canadians' positions and were forced to clear out.

The Canadian artillery fire was effective and many harassing German guns were silenced. Finally the Canadians occupied all of Assoro and established a firm grip on the hard-won clifftop.

But yesterday (July 23) when I was there the peak was being shelled occasionally by heavy guns. Beside the ruined, shell-blasted church, a padre was burying four Canadian soldiers killed by a shell a few hours before I reached Assoro.

The officers in the cliff assault and the fighting on the peak included Capt. Stockloser, Maj. Bert Kennedy of Owen Sound, Ont.; Capt. Rolly Cleworth of Oakville, and North Bay, Ont.; Capt. Jim Bird of Picton, Ont.; Lieut. Len Hyslop of Kingston, Ont. Signals officers included Lieut. Roy N. Burness of Woodbridge, Ont.; Lieut. Jack McKibbon of Trenton, Ont., and Capt. Les Yates of Brockville, Ont.

Among the N.C.O.'s were CSM. George Ponsford of Picton, and QSM. Cecil Yearwod of Madoc.

In Great Spirits

Many of the crack infantrymen that followed the officers through to victory came from Cornwall, Belleville, Brockville, Trenton, Madoc and other eastern Ontario cities and towns. I talked with a few of these men. They are in tremendous spirits now after getting a rest. Cooks were preparing stews and gallons of steaming tea in the caves and trenches they were occupying.

There were numerous incidents of individual gallantry and there will probably be a number of awards as a result of this first big action the unit has fought as a regiment.

They were supposed to be resting when I visited them July 23 but they still were keeping in the fight voluntarily. When I climbed the crags to their camp, the first persons I saw were Kennedy and Maj. Clinton Nickle of Madoc, crouched with field glasses on an observation post with artillery officers.

They had spotted a detachment of German machine-gunners in an orchard a mile off, who were waiting, apparently to ambush another Canadian unit going along a road.

From the observation post the watching officers wirelessed back to the guns and a few minutes later the orchard was bursting with shells and the Germans fled in disorder.

Back on the Assoro cliff top the officers and men took pains to point out their battleflag fluttering from a tree branch. This flag was put there as soon as the troops reached the peak and remained there throughout the battle.

The Canadians were given close support in the air and medium bombers and fighter-bombers made several heavy attacks on the withdrawing enemy and his defended localities around Agira.

Terrific Barrage.

In addition work of the Canadian adtillery has been magnificent. The infantry of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and the Seaforth Highlanders of Candian artillery has been magnificent. port.

From 8 p.m. to nearly 11 every gun in this sector let the Germans have it. Sheets of flame flashed over gun positions for half a mile or more. Whole regiments fired simultaneously, sending high explosive shells hailing down on the Nazi defenders astride the Agira Road. Several hundred rounds a gun were fired in this three-hour concentration and single batteries or regiments kept up the shooting most of the night as new targets developed.

The terrifying artillery concentration was too much for the Germans. They could not stand it. Prisoners taken were so stunned they could not speak. Some of them came over to our lines by themselves, dazed and numbed by shells bursting around them every 10 feet or less.

Blasted to Bits

The whole German area was literally blasted to pieces. The strength of our artillery here is enormous and Canadians are taking every advantage of this.

Two Western Canada infantry regiments, the P.P.C.L.I. leading with the Seaforths next, supported by tanks, followed the barrage just a couple of hundred yards behind it. The Pats stormed hills that balked the Canadians for three days and took them in night fighting. Then the Seaforths went through to advance to within rifle shot of Agira. Tanks were in action, destroying three German tanks without loss. It is believed the Canadians met some elements of the Georing Division in this battle.

Throughout the day the Seaforths pressed ahead toward Agira and infantry, tanks, machine-gunners and artillery kept beating up the shaken Germans as they tried to get out.

Vehicles were machine-gunned, concentrations of troops, guns and tanks were shelled and bombed. Everything the Canadians had available poured lead into the enemy—aircraft, guns, mortars, and bren-guns.

It was great after such difficult fighting for three days to break through. The Germans threw back mortar bombs to cover their retreat. The attack began at eight last night (Monday) when all our guns warmed up with a 17-minute concentration on forward German positions outside this town.

Cadets Begin Training

COBOURG, July 30 —(ENS)—Training of the sea cadets of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Skena" will start on Thursday next, it has been announced by H. Van Everdingen, commanding officer. Applications are sought from boys 14½ years and over, at least 5' 4" tall, and application forms are available in Cobourg from the Lincoln Shoe Store. They will train with the sea cadets at Port Hope and transportation is being arranged to take the boys to Port Hope who will leave at 7.10 Thursday evenings.

Contract Not Valid

COBOURG, July 30.—(ENS). —Judgment in favour of the defendant was handed down by Judge J. C. M. German in connection with the action brought by the Bell Telephone Co. against Frank and Goldie Morgan of Murray township. The plaintiffs sued for specific performance of a contract which it was claimed existed between the two parties to the action, covering an agreement whereby the defendants gave the company certain rights in regard to their telephone lines going over the Morgan property. Judge German ruled that contract was not binding for the reason that one of the mortagees had not been a party to it.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 29 — (CP)—Further substantial sales of Canadian wheat to the United Kingdom were reported yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Approximately 1,300,000 bushels were taken, which brought sales during last four days to well over 7,000,000 bushels.

Wheat futures moved irregularly on flurries of buying and selling and at the close ranged unchanged to ⅜c higher.

Buying attributed to Southern account was reported to rye futures where values ranged ¼c to 2⅛c a bushel higher.

Scarcity of offerings restricted trading in cash wheat market, but exporters took the bulk of 200,000 bushels sold. No important business was transacted in cash coarse grains.

Price Ceiling Lowers Lambs By $2.75

TORONTO, July 30 — (CP). — Cattle prices dropped 25c to 50c cwt., calves and hogs were steady, in trade on the livestock market here this week. Lambs were down $2.75 to $3 cwt. owing to the new price ceiling becoming effective. Sheep were steady.

Buyers did their best to get the price of cattle down to the ceiling. Beef was scarce in city retail stores while several hundred head of cattle were unsold at the market close each day. Cattle prices were still above the ceiling after a drop of 50 cents cwt. on steers and from 25 to 35 cents on heifers and cows. Supplies of cattle during the week, including directs, were moderate. Weighty steers sold $12 to $13 with two loads of prime heavies $13.25 to $13.35. Dry fed steers were scarce. Butcher steers and heifers sold $12.25 for tops. Butcher cows $8 to $10. Butcher bulls $10.25 to $11.25 with light bolognas downward to $8.25. Fed yearlings closed at $12.50 to $13.50. Good stockers dropped 50 cents with plain to medium $8.50 to $11.25. Milkers and springers steady at $125 to $160 each for good supply.

Calves steady on light supply $14.50 to $15.50 for good and choice quality. Common vealers downward to $10 and grassers mostly $9 cwt.

The new price ceiling of 30 cents per pound dressed sent lambs down from $19 cwt. on Monday to $16 on Tuesday. There was a reaction to $16.25 on Wednesday's light run. Bucks sold at the usual $1 discount.

Sheep steady $5 to $10 cwt. Under present Prices Board ruling, lambs are to remain at present levels until Sept. 1 when the dressed price will be 22 cents per lb., or the equivalent of 11 to 12 cents liveweight.

Hogs unchanged $16.75 to $16.90 off-trucks at yards and packing plants. Sows were $14.50 to $15 dressed.

Weekly Summary of Receipts

This week: cattle 4,797, calves 2,542, hogs 2,995, sheep and lambs 2,946.

Last week: cattle 3,934, calves 2,464, hogs 2,931, sheep and lambs 2,091.

1943 to date: cattle 121,672, calves 54,630, hogs 98,044, sheep and lambs 35,422.

1942 to date: cattle 145,753, calves 77,943, hogs 115,666, sheep and lambs 36,068.

This Week 1942: cattle 6,342, calves 2,828, hogs 2,900, sheep and lambs 2,685.

Drew Launches Criticism Against C.C.F.

TORONTO, Ont., July 29 — The German and Italian radios have been telling their people of the remarks of Speaker James Clark of the Ontario Legislature, suggesting political union with the United States, George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, declared last night in a radio address. Mr. Drew made the statement in the course of comments on both the Liberal and C. C. F. Parties and their attitude toward the British connection, which he held vital for Canada.

Of the C.C.F. Mr. Drew said any one who thought of voting for that party on Aug. 4 should ask himself "what any member of our fighting forces would think about a ballot being cast for candidates of a party whose leaders have made it clear that their purpose is to dissolve the British partnership."

Of the Liberal Party, Mr. Drew asked: "What do you think those gallant lads from Ontario who are now fighting with Montgomery's glorious 8th Army in Sicily would have to say about ballots being cast in support of any party which is unprepared to state its position in regard to the preservation of the British connection?"

Recalls Statement.

Mr. Drew recaled that Speaker James Clark had made the statement "that he believes the time had come to end our British connection and effect political union with the United States."

"I immediately called upon Premier Nixon to assemble the Legislature so that the members might, by their own vote, dismiss the Speaker," the Progressive Conservative Leader said.

"Mr. Nixon not only refused to comply with this request, but defended Mr. Clark from the public platform. So, following accepted custom, Mr. Clark will be the Speaker of the next Legislature if Mr. Nixon is returned to power," he continued.

"The Minister of Justice, Mr. St. Laurent, can tell you," Mr. Drew went on "that his department has information that the German and Italian radios have been telling their people exactly what Mr. Clark said and have been assuring them that this is clear evidence that Canada is going to lead the other Dominions out of the British Empire.

"At an extremely critical hour for the Axis nations, their people are being comforted by the assurance that the British Empire is also in immediate danger of collapse.

By this refusal to act," Mr. Drew charged, Mr. Nixon has made this a direct issue. No matter what personal regard you may have for any Liberal candidate, the simle fact remains that a vote for any Liberal candidate who supports Nixon is a vote to return as Speaker of the Ontario Legislature a man who has repudiated the very institution he has sworn to preserve. That is something which I think should be kept in mind on Aug. 4."

Quotes Prof. Underhill.

Of the Socialist Party, Mr. Drew pointed out that Prof. Underhill, its chief adviser in Ontario, had said in London before the war that, in the event of war, Canada should remain neutral. Canada's neutrality will spell the break-up of the British Empire," Prof. Underhill had said.

On another occasion Mr. Drew said Prof. Underhill had stated: "We must, therefore, make it clear to the world and especially to Great Britain that the poppies blooming in Flanders Fields have no further interest for us."

Prof. Grube of the C.C.F. had been equally emphatic in his criticism of the British connection, he said, and Miss Agnes Macphail (C.C.F. candidate in York East) had taken the same position.

"In the House of Commons in 1938 she made this simple and understandable statement," he said: 'Our British connection is our gravest danger.' Mr. Coldwell, Dominion C.C.F. Leader, in the most critical hour of the war, had criticized Britain severely for her handling of the Indian situation.

"Yet," he said, "the man who sought to undermine confidence in Britain at that dangerous time is now daring to ask those men and women who have played some part in this struggle to place their confidence in the party which he leads."

1,200 People Hear Premier Harry Nixon's Address

TORONTO, July 30 — Asserting that the promises made by his political opponents would, if implemented, bring Ontario to the "ragged edge of bankruptcy," Premier Harry Nixon told 1,200 persons in Massey Hall last night that if he had to make such pledges in order to gain power he would not want to hold office.

The Premier made his first Toronto address of the campaign in the presence of many of the Toronto and Yorks candidates. The other speaker was Arthur G. Slaght, M.P.

Mr. Nixon offered the record of the Liberal Administration since 1934 to the electors, declaring that he had no promises to make "other than the promise of continued good government." The promises made by the opposing political parties amounted to bids for public support with the taxpayers' own money, he charged.

Treasury Not Bottomless

"The treasury of Ontario is not bottomless," said the Premier. "The only money it contains is that which comes from the people. I look askance at these specious promises which would once more put Ontario on the ragged edge of bankruptcy within two years."

Mr. Nixon recalled the plight of the Henry Government in its last year of office, and declared that the Henry regime was forced to accept dictation from financial interests in order to obtain monetary assistance. Acceding to the demand of these interests, said Mr. Nixon, the Conservative Government reduced the grants for educational purposes.

"The credit of Ontario today is in such good shape that we will be able to draw on it to the fullest extent in the postwar period under our rehabilitation plans," said the Premier. "The sound budgetry position of the government has not been attained at the expense of social services, for Ontario is among the leaders on this continent in its advanced legislation."

Turning briefly to the Progressive Conservative platform, Premier Nixon said Mr. Drew was "posing as the greatest authority on agriculture there is." He ridiculed Mr. Drew's suggestion that farm committees be set up in Ontario to aid agriculture, remarking that the farmers of Ontario knew where to place their confidence and did not need to have committees to tell them what to do.

"We have actually done something for the farmers, whereas Mr Drew is only promising them a committee," continued the Premier. "We will not permit farm standards to degenerate under disastrously low prices, as was the case when the Ferguson and Henry Governments ruled at Queen's Park, and when Mr. Bennett was Prime Minister at Ottawa. The farmers of this country suffered a set back then from which they have not yet fully recovered. Measures can, and will be taken to ensure that never again will conditions become so disastrous for our primary producers.

Plan to Reclaim Province's Rights

"We are accused of being a puppet Government because we propose to extend every aid to Ottawa in the prosecution of the war," said Mr. Nixon. "I have always been a strong believer in Provincial rights, and we will see to it that the rights temporarily handed over to the Federal authority in wartime, are returned when the emergency is over. We will not be swayed or pushed around by any high pressure group, or any newspaper, either.

"Toronto is a meeting place of many nationalities and many creeds," Mr. Nixon declared. "The Liberal Party stands for freedom of religion and freedom of speech and minorities in our midst have in the Liberal Government a good friend at court." And here the Premier added: "As our friends the Communists well know though they show small appreciation."

"Why should the people of Ontario seek to change a Government which has given this sound administration? The people are being urged to make a change and the inducements held out are promises and bids at the expense of the public treasury. They are asking the electors to throw out the present Government and put some one else in its place and then everything will be fine. I could match the bids of Messrs. Drew and Joliffe. Where they offer 50 per cent, I could offer 100 per cent, and thy could hardly top that. But I am somewhat cramped when it comes to making promises. If I have to make promises that will bankrupt Ontario in order to get back into power, then I don't want power.

"The only party in a position to give strong Government after Aug. 4 is the Liberal Party," declared Mr. Nixon amid applause.

Deals With C.C.F. Platform

Mr. Slaght dealt mainly with the C.C.F. platform and singled out Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew for lengthy criticism. Earlier, he delivered a radio address much along the same lines as his Massey Hall remarks. He described C.C.F. Leader Jolliffe as "an unexperienced young lawyer" who sought to have entrusted to him the business of running the Province. The C.C.F. was practically "an isolationist outfit" when war broke out, he asserted, and quoted from speeches made by C.C.F. members of the House of Commons in support of his contention.

"Is this a party that is fit to govern this Province?" he demanded, after relating the "no military participation" stand of the C.C.F. "Do we want people who refused to come to the aid of the Motherland when she had her back to the wall, governing this Province?"

Turning to Mr. Drew, the speaker described him as "a versatile gentleman when it comes to changing his party coat." Mr. Drew was a nagger without a single constructive suggestion, he said.

"He is the No. 1 nagger of Ontario," continued Mr. Slaght. "I have an idea the electors of High Park will take care of him on election day. He has yet to win an election in this Province." Since the first month of war down to the present day, he has been condemning and belittling the war effort of Canada as carried out by the Government of Canada, chosen at the election of 1940 by the people of Canada and by the most overwhelming majority that any Government has ever had since Confederation. He has sniped and quarrelled with nearly every constructive effort the Government has adopted."

A Prison Charge

MONTREAL, July 30.— (CP).— Eugene St. Pierre, physical instructor at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, pleaded guilty to-day to a charge of "handling a prisoner's letter" and of providing his own address outside the penitentiary as a means of having articles, particularly money, delivered to a prisoner.

He was fined $50 and costs or two months in prison. Police said they were continuing an investigation of a possible letter and money-smuggling ring at the penitentiary.

10 Japanese Merchant Ships Sunk Four Damaged By US Submarines

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP)— United States submarines have sunk 10 more Japanese merchant ships and damaged four in their war of attrition against enemy sea power, the Navy reported today.

The vessels destroyed included two large transports. The 14 successful attacks raised to 297 the number of Japanese war and merchant ships which have been reported successfully attacked since the United States entered the war. Included in the total are 210 ships sunk, 29 probably sunk and 58 damaged.

While the Navy communique, giving the latest reports on submarine activities in the Pacific and China Sea areas, contained no details of the operations it was regarded here as further evidence of the success of United States strategy in reducing sharply Japan's ability to maintain her far-flung Emipre, which is dependent on shipping for its existence.

President Roosevelt emphasized this aspect of the war in the Pacific in his address last night, declaring that the Government has "good reason to believe "that the enemy's shipping and airpower actually has been slashed to the point at which it is virtually incapable of maintaining the line of island positions running east and west in the waters north of Australia.

The Japanese, the President said, have lost more planes and more ships than they have been able to replace.

In addtion to the two large transports sunk, the Navy reported to-day that two large and three medium-sized cargo vessels, two medium-sized tankers and one small cargo vessel were sunk. Listed as damaged were a large cargo vessel and three medium-sized cargo ships.

No More Women Subject To Duty

LONDON, July 30—(CP)—British Women's Auxiliary Services are nearly up to full strength and no further age groups will be conscripted under the National Service Acts, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin told Commons today.

All women in groups now subject to conscription will be asked to enter aircraft factories and the government will extend the registration age of women available for employment to include those of 50 years, Bevins said.

To ease the labor shortage in the coal mines, Bevin said, all men eligible for military service will be given the option of entering the mines. Heretofore this option had been extended only to men over 25.

Answering questions on the recent announcement that the government may have to conscript youths of 16 to 18, for work in the mines, Bevin said he would not take such a step at present but it might be necessary later if older men do not volunteer for the work.

Mines' Value Drops

VICTORIA, B.C., July 30—(CP).— Mines Minister Carson yesterday reported products of B.C. mines in 1942 were valued at $75,551,093 — a decrease of $2,928,626 from 1941. Gold mining showed the greates loss—that of $4,000,000.

Once again, motorists cast a "landslide" vote in favour of GOODYEAR TIRES

Nation-wide, independent poll* shows preference for Goodyear tires greater than that of all other makes combined.

Hundreds of motorists, in every province of Canada were asked this question: "If you had a tire permit, what tire would you buy today"? By a huge majority Goodyear was again elected Canada's first choice tire!

This simply proves that motorists, forced to keep their old tires running, have learned that Goodyear's "extra mileage" is not merely a claim or a catch-phrase; but a definite reality.

Never before, since motoring began, have tires come through such a testing-time as during the past eighteen months. Never before have motorists been compelled to extract the very last mile from tires. Therefore when Canada's first choice tire, Goodyear, comes through that period and remains, by all odds, the first choice tire, there is abundant proof that motorists have found, by practical experience, that Goodyears do give a "bonus in miles and service".

When peace time comes—"Go Goodyear" —and get EXTRA MILES

The Nature Of Secrets

Men in high places naturally know secrets about the war which will not be common property until many years after peace has been made; then statesmen will write their memoirs, state papers will be made available to historians, and it will be possible to tell the whole truth about many figures now prominent on the international stage. But these secrets will almost all be of a diplomatic nature; they will not concern campaigns and concentrations of troops; about those matters the average keen newspaper reader knows all that it is possible to reveal. Not long ago Prime Minister King paid a handsome compliment to the press when he said "there is no way the Government can be better informed than the press upon day to day operations". And on Tuesday Prime Minister Churchill told the British Commons:

> "Very complete, vivid and excellent accounts are appearing in newspapers of all operations. An immense army of correspondents move with the troops and carry their cameras into the heat of the fighting. An immense volume of material of the deepest interest and of a very high level of quality and accuracy fills the public press from hour to hour, and there is at present very little I could add."

The recollection that Mr. Churchill was once a war correspondent himself gives added grace to this acknowledgment.

But the diplomatic side of the war is cloaked in secrecy, and in the palaces and cabinet rooms where its drama unfolds there can be no correspondents and no cameras. The action which Italy is taking now is known to few men, and they have excellent reasons for keeping their own counsel. Anything that can be said in the newspapers or by commentators and colunmnists must be the result of deduction. Italy has been told more than once by agents of Badoglio that the Italians will fight on, and Mr. Churchill has said "So far we have had no approaches from the Italian government". But the ability of the Italians to fight on effectively is in doubt, and the grounds for believing that they will seek peace as soon as they can are still strong. But if they mean to seek peace, they will take care that their peace moves do not go amiss, and the party they have most cause to fear at present is Germany. If Germany learned that the Italians were making a bid for peace German forces would make a determined effort to seize Italy, or a great part of it and reduce the Italians to the status of a conquered race. Therefore Badoglio's assurances of the continued warlike intentions of Italy may be taken with a grain of salt.

Italy must choose her mediator before she can treat for peace. The obvious mediator is the Vatican State, but there are political reasons why a very small state, occupying a special position in the diplomatic world, might not do. Switzerland also might be rejected, for Switzerland's neutrality has been of the strictest sort, and she might not prove "sympathetic" in the role of mediator. But Turkey would suit Italy admirably, and it is notable that Badoglio's Foreign Minister is Rafaele Guariglia, the former ambassador to Turkey. What is more, Guariglia lost no time in boarding the Italian embassy launch in the Sea of Marmara in order to have a long talk with the Turkish Foreign Minister Turkey has been neutral, with a United Nations bias, for some time.

It would be presumptuous to attach too much importance to deduction of this sort, but it may contain a germ of truth. The details of what is happening in Sicily can be given to you by the newspapers, but what happened on Guarilglia's yacht will be a secret for many years to come.

The Language Question Again

The editorials of our contemporary, the St. Thomas Times-Journal, may be faithfully depended upon to reflect the thought of a large section of the Ontario public. That is why we were particularly struck with an editorial called "They Speak English Well", in which our contemporary expresses strong approval of four visitors to Alma College, all of whom speak good English although two of them are Swiss and the other two French. The Times-Journal invites its readers to compare the erudition of these young ladies with the failure of thousands of people in Quebec who go through life without a knowledge of English, which is described as "the dominant language of Canada". And—in somewhat indifferent English—it continues: "One can motor into sections of Quebec and he will find few persons who are able to converse with him in the simplest English. He is like a stranger in a foreign land if he does not know a smattering of text-book French".

Is it heinous to expect a British Canadian to know a little French? After all, that language is taught in our schools, at considerable expense. As we have pointed out many times, it is up to us to pluck the beam from the eye of Ontario before troubling about the mote in the eye of Quebec. In Europe, a knowledge of three or four languages is the mark—not of an educated man, for every tavern-keeper is a linguist—but of a sensible one who wants to know as much as possible about what is going on. In Canada we should not be contented with an indifferent knowledge of one language.

The use of the word "dominant" in the editorial is significant. The desire to dominate is strong, but we want to dominate without making any effort. If Ontario wants to dominate Quebec it should begin by learning the language of Quebec. Has the Times-Journal and the body of opinion to which it appeals never heard it said that knowledge is power?

Fruit Prices And Conservation

The fresh fruit situation in Canada is thoroughly out of hand and presents us with a bad example of bungling by the controllers who are supposed to be protecting us from the evils of unrestricted price rises. We have, at Ottawa, an official called the Foods Co-Ordinator: well, why doesn't he co-ordinate?

In the spring the women of this country were asked to fill out a form stating their need of sugar for preserving; much time and trouble were spent in distributing, completing, returning and collating those forms. Unfortunately the demands of many houswives were exorbitant and the Government abandoned the information contained in the forms and allotted an arbitrary, and small, amount of sugar to every woman who wanted to do preserving. At the same time a strong appeal was made to the women of Canada to preserve all the fruit they could with their bit of sugar, in order that the crop might not be wasted, and in order that the small supplies of canned goods might be made to go farther. And now the Foods Co-Ordinator has stopped the movement of canned goods from warehouses to retail stores, and has made the August and September sugar coupons valid before their time, in order that housewives may get on with their preserving.

But what are they going to preserve? Unless they have an elastic domestic budget they cannot afford the fruit which is offered for sale now. In a year fruit has doubled its price in many communities, and has gone even higher than that in some others. Strawberries were commonly sold at 40 cents a quart and in some place rose to 70 cents; raspberries now sell at 38 and 40 cents in places where they are cheap, and 50 cents and up in places where they are dear; red currants are 25 cents a quart and cherries are $2.50 a six-quart basket Who does the Food Co-Ordinator expect to help him to save the fruit crops at those prices? He has made a statement that with the best possible advice the Food Administration has been unable to evolve any practical plan for dealing with the situation.

That means, simply, that the Foods Administration is afraid, for some reason, to put ceilings on fruit prices, and the reason may be pressure from the Department of Agriculture. Whatever it is, the result is, incidentally, to show us how badly we should be stung if we had no price control at all. But the situation makes the Foods Co-Ordinator look powerless and foolish, and will result in the waste of much fruit which could be saved.

Miss MacPhail on Farm Economics

By
R. J. DEACHMAN

MISS Agnes MacPhail, a former member of the House of Commons, a present candidate for the Provincial Legislature of Ontario, spoke recently over the radio, in the city of Ottawa.

Miss MacPhail is, so it seems, Chairman of the Farm Program Committee of the C.C.F. She still retains her keen interest in agriculture despite the fact that she is running now for a constituency, part rural, part urban.

The new role must have fashioned the tone of her address. She lamented the fact that only 10.7 per cent of the farmers had bathrooms. Only 37.3 per cent had farms equipped with hydro power. If only the farmers could afford bathrooms and hydro what a tremendous increase of employment would result from this development. Such was the tenor of her remarks.

WE are sorry but Miss MacPhail forgets something. It will be noted that she spoke not from the standpoint of the gains which would accrue to the farmers from possessing these amenities and advantages, but rather from the employment that would be given in the factories to the men who produced them. This is hardly correct. It would not add, in any marked degree, to total employment.

Everyone desires that a farmer should have a bathtub. He needs it more than a bank clerk needs it, but the installation of this equipment on a farm is rather costly, under present conditions and, if the farmer, out of his own income, purchases and maintains a bathtub and a modern water system, he must either go into debt or reduce his purchases of other commodities. These are the alternatives which must be faced. Miss MacPhail protests against present farm debts—even wants them cancelled. If he reduces his purchases of other things in order to provide a bathtub, how does this increase total employment? The bathtub makers may be helped—the makers of other things may be hampered.

In the case of hydro, there is a slight difference. Hydro power might enable the farmer, if his farm happened to be fairly large, to cut his costs. It is, therefore, a part of productive equipment and the question is whether or not this investment would pay the farmer better than some other investment and whether it would produce sufficient to meet the interest payment, depreciation and maintenance and leave him with a balance on the right side of his accounts.

MISS MacPhail may talk on these things as much as she likes, but ultimately the important thing for the farmer is a higher income—it is the thing which matters. Given this, the farmer will choose his own way of spending it and whether he uses it to purchase a bathtub, install hydro or build a new pigpen, will be a matter of judgment in which he is as capable of reaching a decision as Miss MacPhail or any other of his numerous advisers.

Coming back to the other remarks of Miss MacPhail, it is interesting to note how, always, she looks at things from the standpoint of labour. She wanted, of course, production for use and not for profit. At least, she went so far as to seek to eliminate profit and expressed the opinion that certain commodities could be produced for less if profit were eliminated. The suggested means of doing this was by a change of ownership. Industry was to be owned by the state, the province or municipality. It would be necessary to take over the plants, the money for doing so would have to be borrowed. The lenders would have to get interest though that may not always be a valid assumption. We recall the suggestion of the C.C.F. that loans should be compulsory and without interest. Nor did she explain her plan for dividing the savings which, in her opinion, could be obtained from government and municipal ownership of public utilities, a rather vital factor, by the way, but wholly ignored by Miss MacPhail.

THAT is an interesting question. By her absence from the House of Commons, Miss MacPhail missed the opportunity of hearing how labour, the vital partner of the C.C.F. would divide the gains. On July 7th, the Committee of Reconstruction and Re-establishment listened to the representatives of labour who are attached to the political party to which Miss MacPhail belongs. On that day they urged the establishment of a 6 hour day and a 30 hour week with weekly wages remaining the same as they are for the 40 and 44 hour week. They were to receive the same weekly wage as they previously received, despite reduction of hours, thus providing for an hourly wage rate from 33 to 46 per cent higher than they had before.

If Miss MacPhail had been there she would have supported labour in this attitude because the party to which she belongs is composed of two groups, one labour and the other farmer and it would be quite impossible for her to leave one and cling to the other. So she fights for a bathtub and hydro equipment for the farmer, laments his inability to get either and supports a party which promises to see to it that the bathtub and everything else the farmer gets will cost him more than ever before. Economics and politics are usually difficult to mix—sometimes impossible.

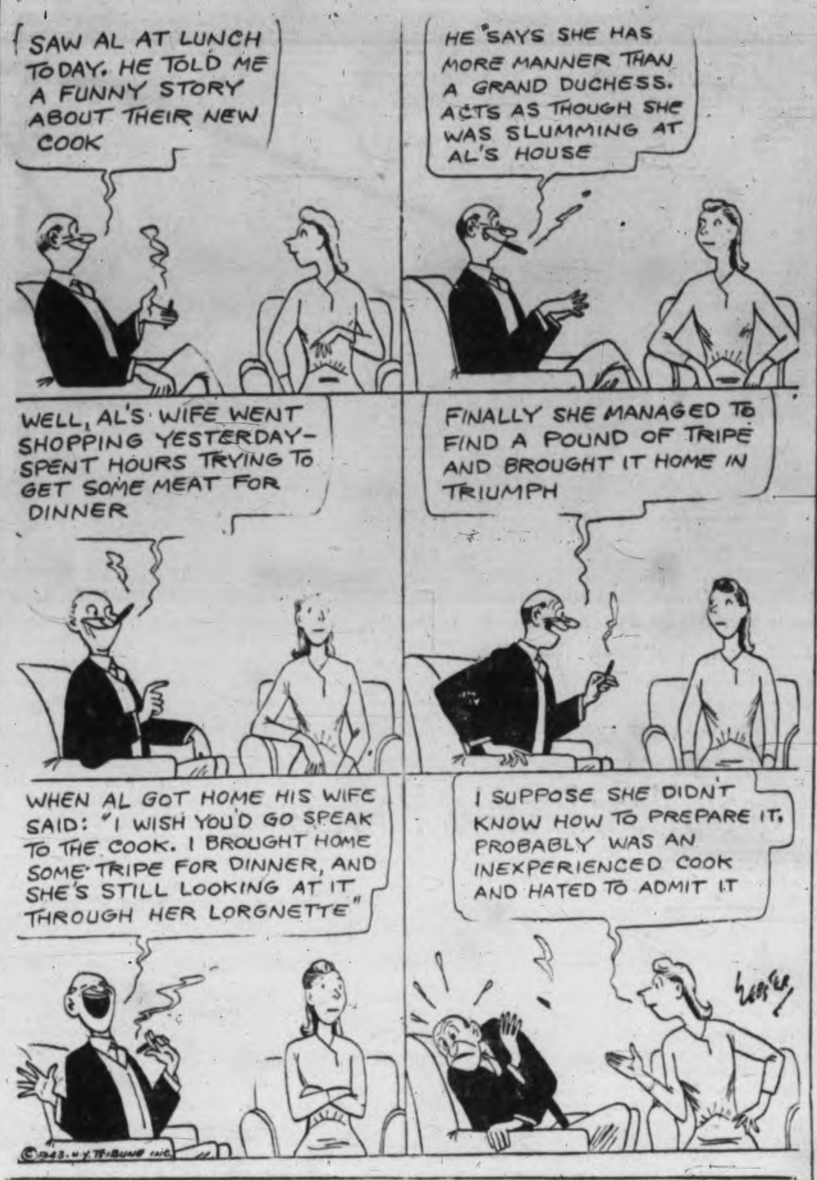
AND NOTHING CAN BE DONE ABOUT IT



The Feast of Tabernacles

MY earliest succah was my mother's. In those days—how many years ago I do not care to count—my summer holiday lasted exactly nine days a year. We needed no train to take us to our country destination—we just stepped into our little city garden. In brief, our one and only annual outing was spent in our succah, and we young boys and grils enjoyed our change of scene far more than I have relished longer and more distant excursions in recent years. It has been said that the pleasures we make for ourselves are fuller and fairer than the pleasures which are given to us.

Perhaps this is why we loved our succah, for we made it ourselves. We did not employ a professional carpenter to put in a single nail, or plane a single beam....

Our succah was much admired, but no critics were more enthusiastic than we were ourselves. It goes without saying that we had many visitors, for people in those days had a keen eye for a succah. People who neglected us all the year, rubbed up their acquaintanceship as Tabernacles came around. We did not wonder that our succah was popular, for we really believed that our architectural design was an original one.... We put it together in this fashion. Four upright beams were connected at the top and bottom with cross bars of wood, and thus was obtained a hollow shell of substantial strength. Our next step was to put in the flooring. How we wasted our wood by ingeniously cutting the boards just three-quarters of an inch too short! But that difficulty was overcome, after many councils of war, and we then put on the roof, not flat, but sloping. The sloping roof was a great conception. It did away almost entirely with the rain difficulty, for the water glided off the thick leaves at the top and saved us from the necessity of tarpaulins or glass super-structures. Most people make the succah roof flat and then build a sloping wood or glass frame above the roof. Our plan was not only prettier, but it enabled us to remain in our succah without closing the top in all but very heavy showers. We had a tarpaulin ready in case of exceptional rain, but I can only recollect one or two occasions on which we scaled the garden walls and placed it in position over the greenery. But our master stroke lay in the walls. There were no walls at all. A few lines of stout string made a latticework on which we fixed thick layers of fragrant myrtle branches and laurel leaves. The effect was fairy-like, and we did not spoil it by attempting to "paint the lily." The only decorations which we introduced were clusters of grapes, which trailed their luscious path along the very walls, a few citrons in their own early amber yellow, which hung from the bright roof, and an odd chrysanthemum or two still growing in their mould, which added the necessary streaks of color. All this was not so costly as it may sound, for we bought in very cheap markets, and saved much of the wood from one year to the next.

Over the way, our neighbours had their succah too. This was also very pretty, and many preferred it to ours. It belonged to a more conventional and ornate type, for it was really a sort of summerhouse which stood all the year and was dis-roofed when Tabernacles drew nigh. We boys liked to have a hand in their decorations as well as in our own, though it went to our hearts to see the beautiful apples and pears be-tinselled with wrappers of gold and silver paper. The gilder in those days was the only "proper" beautifier. Then, reams of colored papers were cut into strips and twined into chains. Finally, out came the samplers which the girls worked with their own fingers. These samplers contained the succah benedictions embroidered and crocheted in the drollest of droll Hebrew letters, but somehow as they were brought out year by year, and were hung in position on the walls with the mizrah facing the west, a silence of mingled gladness and tenderness fell upon them all. It seemed like a stock-taking of past memories, and a renewal of past, forgotten loves. But we loved best our own little bit of nature unadorned. —From "A Festival Reverie," by Israel Abrahams, in "Memoirs of My People," edited by Leo W. Schwarz. (New York: Farrar & Rinehart.)

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, July 30 (CP)—According to a former friend of his, Ezra Pound, the American poet who has been broadcasting for the Fascists from Rome and this week was indicted on a charge of treason against the United States, was an early convert to the Social Credit theories of Maj. C. H. Douglas.

According to this story, Pound thought Fascism an ideal avenue for a tryout of the Douglas monetary theories, hence moved to Rome where he forgot all about Social Credit and became a Fascist.

NO BOMBS TODAY

The death in London this week of Lord Wedgewood reminded this reporter of possibly the finest example of moral courage has ever seen. It was that Sunday afternoon, back in September of 1939, when Britain declared war against Germany.

Lord Wedgewood then was a Labour member of the House and after the formal declaration of war had been made by Prime Minister Chamberain the air raid signal sounded out on the streets and throughout Westminster. The members and the men from the press gallery trooped down to an improvised parliamentary shelter.

I happened to be near Lord Wedgewood, a man of deep convictions who never feared to express them. He calmly announced it was a practice raid because no bombs would fall on London for six months. Members heard what they thought were bombs falling in the east end of London and anti-aircraft gun firing at German raider. Lord Wedgewood refued to believe them, repeating that no bombs would fall on London for six months.

An argument developed. Finally Lord Wedgewood offered to bet money that no bombs would drop in London for six months. To my knowledge, he put up at least £25 to back his opinion and would have wagered more.

Finally, the all clear sounded and one or two of the men who had covered Lord Wedgewood's money looked for an early payoff. They weren't paid off that day, nor the next, nor in the six months that followed. They finally paid him.

LOOK TO ATHABASKA

The United States faces a serious shortage of crude oil within a year and possible exhaustion of known reserves within 20 years, leading to speculation here that Canada eventually may become a major source of supply for American requirements.

There are experts here who believe the Athabaska tar sands, the biggest known reserve in the world, containing perhaps three times as much oil as the total crude discoveries of all time, may be developed some day to ease an oil famine in the United States.

The U.S. domestic oil supply is becoming serious, due to a combination of war's amazing thirst for oil and a frightening diminution in the discovery of new fields. Interior Secretary Harold Ickes has said: "We are consuming oil content of a major field every five days."

Washington observers would not be surprised to see Spain as the scene of the next big political blowup in Europe. They say that another revolution, to overthrow dictator Franco, is a distinct possibility while the restoration of the monarchy is regarded as almost a certainty. Franco is supposed to have applied for American lend-lease assistance a short time ago—and been turned down cold.

A Bible Message

And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou? And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.

And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live. But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour?

And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead. And by chance there came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side. And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, and went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him....

Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise. (Luke 10: 25-34, 36, 37.)

Letter To The Editor

ANOTHER FARM PROTEST

Editor, Examiner.

Sir,—Where are all those people who proclaimed so earnestly a few years ago, that they would be pleased to see the farmers getting a decent price for their produce? Talk is always cheap, and now when we read such letters as City Dweller writes, we know just how cheap it is.

It ill becomes any city consumer to mention farm prices when they lived off our labour for ten years at prices that caused scores of farmers to lose their places. What if you are paying a high prices for berries? Average it up with the year you got them for ten cents a box, and don't say they were never that cheap for I know they were and I bought them myself at that price—ten boxes for a dollar. And what about twelve-cent eggs? Many a dozen eggs I sold at that price at the store and took the proceeds in groceries too. If you think that only a few are doing the howling now, just try selling on the market for a few weeks.

If City Dweller finds berries too dear why doesn't she stir herself up some day and go out to some of the growers and pick for a day? I've no doubt they would sell them back to her, less the usual price paid for picking. And if she thinks there is gold to be had on the farms for the digging she might think differently after spending half a day crawling on her hands and knees picking strawberries under a broiling sun. Who ever heard of anyone running away from a gold mine no matter how hard the work? So how can one account for the general exodus from the farm if it is such a wonderful place? How about getting out and doing a bit of digging yourself, City Dweller? You would have no trouble buying a farm.

Just now there are scores of tons of hay going to waste in the country because there is not sufficient help to get it safely in the barns between rains. It would look a great deal better, and be more to their credit, if the able-bodied men of the city would put in their time helping instetad of holding golf tournaments. Any man who can walk miles around a golf course chasing a scrap of rubber, could get his exercise in a hay field or potato patch. But if anyone accused one of these men of being unpatriotic, whew! Perhaps next winter when potatoes are scarce and dear and dairy products are scarce too they will think of the spuds that weren't hoed and the hay that rotted in the field that would have been manufactured into milk. But don't blame us. When one sees women and children working in the fields while men amuse themselves we wonder if this is a slave country.

Canadians En Route To Sicilian Theatre

The rigid training which the Canadian Army overseas has maintained during three years of preparation for action was kept up during the long voyage which finally carried troops into the Sicilian operations. Of necessity shipboard training included many lectures. Here a group of the Canadians on board one of the convoy ships gets a lesson in Italian geography from Lieut. J. Charters of Toronto.

Send Four Cartons To Red Cross

HAVELOCK, July 30 (ENS). — The shipping committee of the Havelock-Belmont Red Cross were busy on Tuesday afternoon and 4 large cartons were sent to the warehouse.

Twenty-two large quilts and one crib quilt were sent, also part of the seamen's quota, containing 15 pair of 18-inch seamen's socks and 20 pair of 26-inch long seamen's stockings and 6 turtle-neck tuck-ins. A cheque was received from a Montreal firm for 370 lbs. of bottle caps which had been recenttly shipped, and had been collected by the Junior Red Cross members.

Mrs. H. Roche presided for the meeting. The annual report of the Women's War Work Committee in Toronto was reviewed by the secretary, and special attention was paid to contents of "Comfort Bags" for women in the services, 'Survivors' Bundles' and 'Capture Parcels' for which appeals for needed artciles are being made.

Need Blood Donors

One quilt was completed and two coats finished, as well as labelling of blouses and jumpers. Volunteer blood donors are urgently needed and are asked to communicate with any of the executive.

Eight beautiful quilts were completed by the Belmont Women's Institute and brought in by the convener, Mrs. George Smith. Next meeting will be held on August 10, in the work rooms, but anyone needing wool for knitting or sewing material can contact the convener of that work.

Fascist Leaders Murdered By Mob

LONDON, July 30 (CP). — Italians reaching Spain said to-day that anti-Fascist demonstrations which surged around the offices of the newspaper Il Popolo D'Italia in Milan following Mussolini's fall had developed into a pitched battle.

A number of Fascist district leaders had gone to the newspaper offices to get news from Rome, they said, and after the announcement of the Duce's resignation a mob formed quickly before the building.

As the mob tried to break through the doors and hurl paving stones through the windows Fascists inside the building tossed hand grenades at them.

Soldiers were said to have joined the attackers and sniped at the defenders until the commander of the army garrison of Milan arrived with orders fdom Marshal Badoglio to obtain the surrender of the defenders.

Before he could act, however, the mob, encouraged by the presence of soldiers, rushed the building, broke in and killed the Fascists, the Italian travellers reported.

Joliffe Claim Soldiers Voting Branded False

TORONTO, July 30 — (CP). — Major Alex Lewis, chief election officer for Ontario, said to-day that no vote has been taken in Ontario yet for the August 4 Provincial Election and "anyone who says soldiers have been asked to sign ballots indicating their party preference must be mistaken."

Major Lewis was discussing a statement by E. B. Jolliffe, C. C. F. leader, who said in a campaign speech at Hamilton last night that voters at an advance poll at Exhibition Park in Toronto yesterday had been instructed to mark their name on one side of the "so-called" ballot and the initials of the party they chose on the other.

"This mistake may have occurred over the signing of application forms which active service voters are ased to sign to get on the voters' list," said Major Lewis. "If any military officer supervising the siging applications asked soldiers to designate the party of their preference, he would be quite wrong. I am having my assistant look into the matter.

"There is no possibilty of any active service ballots being out yet. Those ballots are in the hands of returning officers and will not be used until the first advance polls are opened."

He added that soldiers going on leave or being posted to other Provinces will have an opportunity to vote at advance polls beginning Friday evening.

Refuse Drew Right To Talk At High Park

TORONTO, July 30 (CP).— The official nominations chamber in Toronto High Park Riding was the setting for an argument on precedent Wednesday.

Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative leader and party candidate in High Park, waited nearly an hour with FO. William Temple, C.C.F. candidate, under the impression that officially-nominated candidates would be allowed to speak.

But Returning Officer J. Talbot issued no such invitation. He said afterwards that his action created no precedent, "for in 1933 the returning officer (in High Park riding) refused to allow the use of the hall for speeches following nominations."

Fred Crawthorne, agent for Col. Drew, said "It is time-honored custom at nominations of the past that all officially-nominated candidates go on the platform if they wish to speak."

Both candidates left the hall without speaking.

Former Army Leader Now Nazi Prisoner

LONDON, July 30.—(CP).—Reuters News Agency said a Tass dispatch received in Stockholm today reported Fied Marshal General Walther Von Brauchitsch, former commander-in-chief of the German Army, had been confined in a fortress by the Nazi government.

Von Brauchitsch frequently has been reported at odds with Hitler. He was reported in 1941 to have been fired from the supreme German command, but advices received last summer he had been restored. Last December he was reported to be the leader of a military clique bent on "isolating" Hitler and making peace with the Allies.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

Women Receive Same Pay As Men

OTTAWA, July 30 — (CP). — Trades pay for members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps now is the same as that for servicemen —an additional 25, 50 or 75 cents a day according to grade—under a new schedule announced Tuesday night by Defence Headquarters.

The servicewomen formerly receieved only two-thirds of male trades pay but their pay generally has been increased, retroactive to July 1, in line with an announcement last Saturday by Defence Minister Ralston.

(The Canadian Press reported erroneously Tuesday night that the new trades pay rate was two-thirds of male trades pay.)

The FARMER - The WORKER The SOLDIER Can Depend On

HAROLD SCOTT

HE HAS COME UP THE HARD WAY

CAPT. HAROLD R. SCOTT
PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

If there are three classes in the community who should be able to mark their ballots for Harold R. Scott, Progressive Conservative candidate in Peterborough, with the utmost confidence, they are the farmers, the workers, the men and women in the armed services.

Harold Scott knows their problems because he has been close to them. He was brought up on a farm. He knows what the farmer is up against and how badly he needs a new deal. He knows what it is to work because his first job was in a saw mill at 16 years of age. He knows the life of the soldier because he was in France in the last war before he was old enough to vote. He, best of all three candidates in this riding, is in a position to understand the great post-war problem of re-establishing the men and women in the armed services. He has been through it all. He gave up four years of his early manhood to serve overseas and came back to face the task of starting life all over again. He knows how tough it is.

When Ontario buckles down to the tremendous job of absorbing all her sons and daughters who come back from the far-flung battle lines and the seven seas, who should be better qualified to play an important part in that task than Harold Scott, who has been through the mill himself?

You can trust Scott; his attitude to the problems of the farmer, the worker and the soldier is sound because his approach to those problems is based on his own experience on the farm, in a sawmill, in the trenches.

THERE IS ONLY ONE CHOICE

Peterborough electors should have no difficulty in deciding how to mark their ballots on August 4. You have three alternatives. You can vote for HAROLD SCOTT, Progressive Conservative candidate, and for the clean-cut definite program of George Drew and the Progressive Conservative Party. You can vote for Alex. Elliott, who cannot possibly represent this riding at Queen's Park and be overseas at the same time, and who stands for the Hepburn government minus Hepburn, the Conant government minus Conant, and the Nixon government minus everything that Ontario needs to meet the problems of today and tomorrow.

You can vote for Bruce Johnston and the promise of everything under the sun without the slightest chance of the pledges being implemented.

Under those circumstances the choice is clear—

Vote for Harold Scott and a New Deal

NIXON IS THROUGH; ONLY THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CAN WIN!

GENELCS-SOLDIERS TIE IN OVERTIME STRUGGLE BEFORE BIG CROWD

Katan Gunning For Empire Wrestling Title

"Black Jack" John Katan, one of the biggest and certainly the roughest wrestler Canada has ever produced will test out Earl McCready in the main bout here on Monday in the Brock Street Arena. Katan is gunning for the Empire title for which McCready is No. 1 contender and Katan feels that a win on Monday will definitely put him in the driver's seat in the championship race.

Matching the big Canadian-Ukrainian's ambition and roughness however will be the super power and mat ability of "Moose" McCready. Earl the "Moose" is quite a man on a mat and during the past year has been knocking off the rough-house members of the wrestling clan with almost monotonous regularity. But that doesn't mean that he won't have a real problem in disposing of Katan. Black-Jack gained a decision over McCready in New Zealand several years ago and has been red-hot with ambition to repeat the dose ever since.

Popular Pat Flanagan will be back on this card after an absence and this time runs full-tilt into that rugged sailor Dick Hogan. Hogan may not be the most scientific wrestler in the world but he certainly can mix it in a style that would make a dock-walloper look like a sissy.

Toronto Argos Score At Henley

PORT DALHOUSIE, July 30 (CP)—The Royal Canadian Henley's third wartime regatta went into its second session today with Toronto Argos leading a smaller pack than usual in defence of their Henley aggregate championship won last year.

In two point-scoring events on the regatta's opening day Thursday Argos scored one first and a second for 11 points, two more than the nine gathered by the Belleville, N.J. Nereids.

Nereids points came through Art Walker who recently won the United States 145-pound title. He repeated in the same event here, defeating Ted Chilcott of Argos by two feet, and garnered a third in the open quarter-mile sprint, trailing Argos' veteran Bill Reid and Harv Hutcheon in that order.

Hutcheon, now a member of the R.C.A.F., formerly sculled under St. Catharines' colors.

The meet, Henley's 61st, is expected to brighten up today when 10 events are scheduled including the Association singles and the Junior eights with the major events, the heavy eights and the senior singles slated for Saturday.

Replay Game Friday To Break Tie

Genelecs and Soldiers tied 6-all in a ten innings game last night at Riverside Park in a game that failed to break the deadlock for first place in the men's loop. Genelecs were off to a fine start when they scored four runs in the first and second innings. Genelecs coasted along until the ninth with a two-run lead when Soldiers, on four hits and an error had four men cross. Genelecs came back in the last half with two more runs to tie the game up and the tie failed to be broken in the tenth innings.

Both teams were playing a good brand of ball Soldiers having one error and Genelecs two. Parsons, pitching for the Soldiers, was touched for five hits. He walked five and struck out six. Hurling for Genelecs, Akers allowed twelve hits, walked three and struck out one.

The game was enlivened considerably in the first of the ninth when Tony McIlveen for Soldiers brought in the tieing run. Genelecs argued he was out at home and a heated discussion followed but Herb Payne, plate umpire, upheld his own decision. Intermittently throughout the game, both teams were arguing points.

Opening the game, Dalton for Soldiers walked and scored on McKeraghan's single. McKeraghan was forced at second, McIlveen grounded out and Herrick popped up to retire the side.

McNabb, first man up for Genelecs, was out at first. Holmes doubled. Tucker walked as did Mowry. Playford was out at first, Holmes scoring. Cadd doubled, driving in Tucker and Mowry and later crossed himself when Hawks reached second on an error. Aker singled but Giardino flied to right for the third out.

Soldiers scored their second run in the first of the second after Taylor walked and later crossed on Mason's single. Sandulak forced Mason at second and Morgan and Dalton grounded out.

A smart double play featured the last half of the second. Holmes singled. Tucker hit into a double play, McKeraghan to Sandulak to Morgan.

A Hawks to Giardino to Cadd twin-killing was reeled off by the Genelecs in the fourth. There was no further by either club from the second to the ninth when both teams went to town.

Soldiers scored four runs to put them two ahead in the first but Genelecs came back with two more to tie the game up. There was no scoring in the tenth.

The two teams play right back again tonight the winner to meet the 4th Battery next week.

Umpires — Herb Payne, plate; Harold Dormer, bases.

Soldiers and Genelecs will clash tonight at Riverside Park in a replay of last night's tie game. Both teams agreed to go right back tonight. The league had decided to send the teams back the first of next week but Managers Ted Johnston and Harry Morgan asked for the fixture to be staged tonight and the league agreed.

These two teams turned in one of the best games witnesed at Riverside this season and another great game is promised this evening.

Johnny Walker will likely get the call for mound duty for the Camp while Terry Moore will in all probability do the tossing for the Electrics.

The game will start at 7:00 o'clock sharp and a big crowd is expected.

Lana's a Mother

A daughter weighing 7 pounds 14 ounces has been born at Hollywood hospital to Screen Actress Lana Turner, who is the wife of Stephen Crane, a U.S. Army private and former broker. Her physician reported Miss Turner was doing fine. The baby, suffering from anemia, is said to be responding to treatment which included a blood transfusion.

Brown Finds Himself Safe At Third

This close action at the third sack shows Browns' Clift sliding into third base, a close second to the ball. Joe Gordon of the Yanks scooped up Gutteridge's grounder and threw to Bill Johnson for the out. This was the third inning action at the Yankee stadium, New York, in the contest between the St. Louis Browns and the Yankees.

Trenton Fliers Shut-out Toronto Seniors

TORONTO, July 30—(CP)—Pilot Officer Pete Wright subjugated Morse Jewelers of the West Toronto Senior League on two hits last night as Trenton R.C.A.F. Fliers recorded a 5-0 victory in the first game of a tripleheader in the Toronto district playdowns of the National Baseball Congress tournament.

Trenton launched an eight-hit attack on Sammy Sulzman, opening with two runs in the first inning and adding single tallies in the third, fifth and sixth.

In the other two games the defending champions, Toronto Tip Tops, throttled Mahers of the West Toronto League 4-1 and Toronto Army invaders of the Congress Services League edged Brantford Army 3-0 despite Jack Ramsden's brilliant pitching. Ramsden struck out six of the first nine men to face him but derived little hitting support from his team-mates.

The victories advanced Trenton and the two Toronto clubs into the semi-finals and one of the three clubs will draw a bye into the finals, slated for Saturday.

The Toronto District winner will enter into the National finals against Lachone Airmen and the unbeaten Halifax Navy nine here next week. Jack Stewart, Syd Abel and Harry Watson, last year with Detroit Red Wings, Stanley Cup champions, play for Lachine.

Cockburn led the Trenton attack in the first game last night, rapping out three base hits. Matthews, Trenton rightfielder, had two hits in four trips to the plate. Eddie Geraldi, Art Upper, Wright and Alexander connected once apiece.

McGarry and Bridgeman were the only members of the losing team to solve Wright's offerings, hitting safely once apiece.

Pilot Officer Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene, Ont., former star pitcher with Philadelphia Athletics of the American League, was introduced to the 2,000 fans who attended the games between innings.

The Trenton-Morse game was long-drawn out but the Fliers had little difficulty disposing of their rivals.

Genelecs Play Oshawa Colts

Oshawa Colts, 1942 provincial softball champions are scheduled to play the Genelecs at Riverside Park at seven o'clock on Saturday evening.

The Genelecs at the top of the City League with 4th Battery and Soldiers tied 6 all with the Soldiers on Thursday night in a ten-inning game to decide the team which would meet the 4th Battery.

Oshawa are reported to be a real smart outfit of players and worthy of the provincial title which they hold.

Westclox-Aircraft Play Final Game

The Westclox and Aircraft teams will meet tonight in the final scheduled game of the season. Playoffs between these two outfits will commence next week.

Westclox-Aircraft battles are well known to the fans and the brand of ball played is of high calibre. In their last three starts the scores have been very close.

Norma Strickland, Aircrafts, will likely have Marg Watson as her opponent for pitching duties, although the Clockmakers may send Isobel Bullock to the mound.

The game will start at 7:00 o'clock and will be played at the Bowl.

Volomite's Sons Rate High At Hambletonian

NEW YORK, July 30 — (AP).—The $40,000 Hambletonian still is nearly two weeks away and the rich trotting rave never has been a happy hunting ground for favorites but you can put this down in your future book— its at least one to a hundred that the winner will be a son of Volomite.

When the dozen or so three-year olds get away Aug. 11 at Empire City, where a 34-day meeting opened today, facing the barrier will be three highly regarded offsprings of that famous sire, who heads the famous Walnut Hall farm stud at Donerail, Ky. They are, in order of their current odds, Bill Strang's Volo Song, Joseph F. Burke's Phonograph, and the only non-musical member of the trio—Mrs. James B. Johnson, Junior's Worthy Boy.

On the basis of times, Phonograph, who cost his Plainfield, N. J., owner $5,000 as a yearling, figures to be the favorite. Volo Song was the champ two-year-old of 1942 and has been the most consistent winner of the three this season. He set the Brooklyn warehouse owner back $5,000 as a yearling, but it'll be money well spent if he gives Bill his second straight triumph in the buggy horse derby. Strang won last year with the lightly regarded The Ambassador at Goshen, from which track the classic was transferred after thirteen years because of transportation problems.

The trio dominated the three-year-old stakes at North Randall, where Volo Song trotted his fastest mile in 2:03½; Phonograph turned the distance in 2:02¾ with Srang's ace on the sidelines and Worthy Boy trounced Burke's colt in 2:04¾.

Volo Song showed that he was in shape by working a mile in 2:05, the last quarter in 29 seconds at Old Orchard Beach, Me., yesterday. He and Phonograph will tangle at Maine's kite track next week before moving on to Empire where Worthy Boy is already quartered.

But if you don't string along with one of the three choices, the word is to watch out for Austin Hanover, a son of Mr. McElwyn owned by Thomas B. Graney of Sparkhill, N.Y.

Russo Handcuffs Indians For 11-1 Win

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

James Joseph Dykes and his White Sox are in second place in the American League this morning, and before he starts getting grand ideas about bowling a 300 game as the next miracle, somebody'd better get him down from the clouds.

Right now, it looks like the Sox are going to wind up as Dykes' sixth first division White Sox club in the nine years he's been steering the southsiders.

Dykes has been saying all along that Gordon the Schmaltz Maltzberger is a handy guy to have around—and he proved it last night. Gordon had won only two games but last night, with the tying run on third and the winning run on second, Gordon fanned Bob Johnson to give the Sox a 5-4 decision over Washington Senators.

Going into yesterday's games, the Sox, Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers were all tied up in second place. Then the Indians were given the old Yankee treatment in New York and the Tigers were postponed in Boston—and there you are. The Indians got the usual Yankee lumps yesterday. Lefty Marius Russo handcuffed them with a two-hitter and beat them 11-1 with the help of homers by Charley Keller, Joe Gordon and Bud Metheny.

That was the only fun in the Junior League yesterday and last night, since the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Brownies wound up on the short end in a couple of rassles with old man weather in Boston and Philadelphia.

But over in the National League, the Phoolish Phillies' new manager, fat Freddie Fitzsimmons, found out the score in a hurry. His Phils chalked up two runs for a 2-1 decision over St. Louis in a play-off of their protested game continued from June 5. Then the Cardinals got peeved and what with a nine-run fourth inning, they pegged it on Fat Freddy's phantastics 13-5 in yesterday's regularly scheduled shindig.

The only other taffy-pull saw Johnny Vander Meer fan 14 and walk nine to bell-cow, Cincinnati Reds to a 4-3 decision over the Boston Braves.

Orioles Split Verdict With Wings

By The Associated Press.

All that noise you hear coming from the lower depths of the International League are the moans and groans put out by the suffering Tommy Thomas of Baltimore Orioles.

In mid-July he lost Bob Repass, considered by many to be the best shortstop in the circuit, to the armed forces and it wasn't until Wednesday that Jim McLeod broke into the lineup to fill the gap.

Now Thomas, whose club is within a few victories from the first division, has been informed that Ted Sczepkowski, one of his few remaining infielders, has been accepted by the coast guard and will report to the Curtiss Bay station next Tuesday.

The club went out and divided a twin bill with Rochester last night dropping the first by an 8-1 score but taking the second with an 18-hit barrage, 19-7. In the only other game played in the circuit last night, Montreal handed Syracuse its fourth shutout of the year, 3-0, with Hal Gregg doing the flinging.

Sczepkowski was stationed at second base in the first game and went hitless as Fred Schmidt twirled his 10th triumph of the campaign.

But in the second fray, With Kemp Wicker, manager Pepper Martin, outfielder Paul Wargo and catcher Jerry Burmeister all sharing the Rochester mound duties, Sczepkowski cracked out two blows as the Baltimore nine won easily.

Toronto and Newark, the league's two top clubs, were idle last night and open their crucial first place series to-night.

Ottawa Gridders Will Be Strong

OTTAWA, July 30.—(CP).—Plans to start their training season at Lansdowne Park about Aug. 15 were made last night at a club meeting of Ottawa Combines of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Various details connected with opening of the next football season were also discussed and Dave Sprague and Staff McCartney were elected to represent the club at the O.R.F.U. meeting in Toronto next week when the league schedule will be adopted.

Hopes that the Lansdowne Park playing field would be improved were expressed by club officials. Col. F. C. Garneau, Ottawa area commandant, inspected the playing field yesterday in view of giving the Athletes a suitable gridiron.

Club officials said they were confident of presenting a "formidable aggregation" as far as player material is concerned, although the make-up of the club will not be known unitl the training session is in full swing. It was pointed out that several of last yead's Rough Riders are available along with many service Athletes stationed here.

C.C.F. Pacifists Claims Hon. F. Oliver

TORONTO, July 30 — E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. Leader, "has yet to dissociate himself from the remarks of the Federal Leader of his Party when he said just two years before the war that young Canadians should be ready to go to jail before enlisting in wars which involve Canada." Farquhar Oliver, Minister of Public Works and Welfare, declared in a radio speech last night.

"The pacifist group in the House of Commons voted solidly against sending Canadian troops to England. This party is now loud and insistent in its demands that our whole wartime economy be upset in order to give effect to its platform, even while thousands of our boys are overseas and not here to speak for themselves. After the conflict is over and peace has returned to our land, then will be the time to consider and implement social reforms and drastic changes in our economic set-up which we will agree must be brought into effect,' he said.

"No one argues the point that never again shall we go back to the state of affairs which existed in the early thirties. But let us do first things first. The war is not yet won and the people of Canada have their hands full now. This it not the time to place additional tremendous burdens on our people who are responding so nobly in providing the huge sums necessary to wage war successfully. We need stability in wartime, not experiment," Mr. Oliver said.

Turning to the C.C.F. platform, he said: "The C.C.F. has as its socialist goal for agriculture the eventual nationalization of land. It may protest that it has dropped that plank from its original platform. But plank or no plank, the industrial life of the cities and towns cannot be controlled while rural life remains free. It is possible that at first the socialists would leave the farmers in control of their own land while proceeding to take over the operation of industry.

"But long before this confiscation of land began farmer would be sick and tired of the meddling with the farms. You would be told what to grow and what not to grow. They would regulate your going in and coming out. Today farmers accept without complaint strict regulations and controls because they are so necessary in wartime. When the bells of peace have rung, however, they look for the removal of these controls."

Lower Figures

OTTAWA, July 30—(CP).—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics yesterday reported 4,910 new and used motor vehicles financed in June at a value of $1,769,361—28 per cent. lower in number and 23 per cent. lower in dollars than June, 1942, figures.

Using Propaganda

MONTREAL, July 30—(CP). — Kosta Todorov, Bulgarian anti-Axis political leader, said last night recent rumors that King Boris of Bulgaria and Prime Minister Bogdan Philof had quarrelled were "nothing but propaganda circulated by the King."

Six Miners And Mule Calmly Await Rescue

BRIDGEVILLE, Pa., July 30—(AP)—Six miners trapped in the Ollett Coal Company mine by a flash flood were found safe and well today after 43 hours underground.

After hearing their shouts, E. E. Quenon, U.S. Bureau of Mines engineer, swam 500 feet to reach the men, and found them sitting calmly on an upward slope above water level. Safe with them was a veteran mine mule, "Queenie."

"Because there is only six inches of clearance between the water and the mine room, the men won't come out yet," Quenon said.

All night long pumping crews worked doggedly to lower the water level. Quenon reached the men before the water was low enough to send in a rescue raft.

Get 30 Nazis

The night thrusts followed heavy daylight attacks on the submarine slips at Kiel and the Heinkel plane factory at Warnemuende by strong forces of Americna bombers which shot down more than 30 Nazi fighters attempting to intercept them.

Supporting the American attacks, a Canadian Spitfire fighter squadron destroyed three enemy fighters during operations over Holland. The enemy aircraft were chalked up to the credit of PO. Karl Linton of Plaster Rock, N.B., FO. W. Harten of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Flt. Lt. Norman Fowlow of Windsor, N.S.

One Canadian fighter failed to return from the sweep, and R.C.A.F. communique announced.

"Good bombing results were observed on both targets," the United States communique said in describing the sweeps over Germany.

Indicating the power and scope of the week's raids, the air ministry said yesterday that 7,000 tons of bombs had been dropped on Hamburg, Essen and other German targets during the week ended July 28 at a loss of three per cent of the raiding forces.

In the same period, it said, there was not a single casualty on the whole British Isles from enemy attacks and damage had been negligible.

ed Wednesday night against Capodichino, near Naples, and Montecorvino. Allied crews reported rolling blankets of smoke covered all these targets.

Airdrome facilities of Viterbo, 50 miles northeast of Rome, were shattered by precision bombing of the heavy bombers, which encountered no enemy fighters and only a small barrage from ground batteries, officers said.

On the ground, the Canadians' success yesterday in taking Agira and the victory of their American allies at Nicosia, about 12 miles to northwest, were termed the most important strategical developments of the past week.

The Canadians' advance through Agira placed them within 20 miles of Catania, where the famous British 8th Army has been engaged in bitter trench warfare with powerful German forces.

The Americans' break-through placed them within 50 miles of Taormina, on the east coast about 28 miles north of Catania.

Thus the German defenders of that important city must fall back up the coast or be trapped on the south by the 8th Army, on the west by the Candaians and on the north by the Americans.

In taking Agira, the Canadians attacked frontally and cracked the 15th German Armored Division after bitter fighting culminating in a bayonet charge against Nazi machine-gun positions.

(Yesterday the London Evening Standard, saying the "main fighting continues to fall on the shoulders of the Canadians," reported that the Dominion troops had advanced some 12 miles Wedesday despite heavy demolition and mining.

(In another dispatch, delayed by censors, Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported the fall of Leonforte and Assoro to Canadian forces July 22. He said the assault on Assoro was made up a sheer cliff that the Germans had considered impossible of scaling, while the Leonforte action saw the Canadians resort to vicious house-to-house fighting.

Blast Nazi Hopes

(For the first time, too, Munro was able to identify a regiment taking part in the Sicilian campaign, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.)

Seizure of Agira and Nicosia blasted the Germans' hopes that they could dig in along the base of their triangular defence line backed by Mt. Etna and force the Allied invaders into a prolonged campaign of trench warfare.

Nicosia's fall also threatened the collapse of the northern Axis flank at Stewano Di Camastro on the Tyrrhenian Sea, just as the Canadian capture of Agira threatened the eastern anchor at Catania.

The Allied successes also cut the last two inland highway links between the opposite flanks of the Axis forces now pressed into the northeastern tip of the island

Meanwhile, other forces of the American 7th Army were swinging eastward along the island's northern coastal road toward Messina, the last escape hope of the Axis armies.

The Americans thrust their armored spearhead deeper into the northern salient Wednesday with the capture of Pollina, Castelbuono and Gangi, and were now within a few miles of San Stefano, which lies less than 70 miles west of Messina.

Report First Canadian Killed In Sicily

BELLEVILLE, Ont., July 30 — (CP). Lt. Col. Bruce Sutcliffe, one of the youngest officers commanding an infantry regiment in the Canadian Army, has been killed in action, presumably in Sicily, according to word received by his wife, who is summering in Trenton. He was 38.

Col. Sutcliffe went overseas as a major with the 1st Canadian Division in December, 1939. He was born in Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sutcliffe, but lived in Trenton for a number of years.

He was active in the Canadian militia before joining up.

His widow, three small children, one born after his departure for overseas, and his parents survive.

counter-attack anywhere along this sprawling, fluid front in attempts to delay the final Allied offensives. But it would take strong attacks to dislodge the Canadians from these positions captured from the Germans.

The Germans seem tohave fallen back on a general line running from north of Leonforte to the Tyrrhenian coast. The principal enemy stand — and the final battle for Sicily—is likely to be fought further to the northeast, around Mount Etna.

As I write this despatch in the early morning in a camp just behind our front line, Allied guns are firing a steady barrage on German held areas north and east. Batteries of Canadian field guns make the ground tremble with their salvos.

Steady Boom of Guns.

There is a continual boom of distant guns and the blood-chilling crack of 25-pounders on our very doorstep. In the cool night the sweating bodies of the Canadian gunners, who wear shorts as they work, can be seen by the muzzle flashes.

Scores of guns are thundering simultaneously to-night, each weapon belching its red ball of flame and tongue of white light. There was no sleep for any one in camp.

Far to the east on the Catania front, the star-flecked sky is flashing with more artillery fire.

Now our guns are going at the Germans with rapid fire. There is a steady boom, boom, boom, and crack, crack, crack, as if some giant was hammering the earth.

Yesterday (Friday, July 23) I drove up hairpin roads leading to Assoro, which had been bashed to pieces by German artillery. But the shelling failed to stop the Canadians from capturing the town.

During the morning the Nazis lobbed a couple more shells in and around the town. Walls of the houses had gaping holes, streets were blocked with debris and a church in the centre of the town was wrecked.

Most of the town was deserted except for a few Canadian troops wandering through the streets that rise in steps to a peak on which are the ruins of a Norman-style castle.

This front-line town has taken the worst beating of any I have seen on the route of the Canadians' 125-mile push from their original landing at Pachino Peninsula.

From the edge of Assoro we could see the black mass of Mount Etna rising from the hills and plains to the east. It looked very close.

The German positions in the valleys and the lower hills a few miles from Assoro could be discerned through binoculars. They were well dug in.

Later I went down a cliffside road into Leonforte, where the Canadian infantry had battled so hard. The road curled along the hills overlooking a wide valley carpeted with green trees and rising to high hills from which the Germans had withdrawn. Leonforte was steaming in heat and dust, which was getting worse as hundreds of vehicles churned up the earth.

The Canadians were burying many German dead. German helmets lay around the street, with some Nazi machine-guns, rifles and ammunition. The sniping and street fighting were ferocious. A colonel told me that his battalion fought for hours before overcoming the Nazi opposition.

One position on the north side of the town was overrun three times by German tanks and infantry, firing at point - blank range. But the Canadians resisted and fought back, eventually driving the enemy into the hills.

Leonforte is going to be on the battle honors of some of these Canadian units. It was a vital action.

Peterboro Men Believed In Bitter Fight

By ROSS MUNRO

ASSORO, Sicily, July 24 (Delayed) — (CP). — An Eastern Ontario Regiment scaled a 2,500-foot precipice to outflank the Germans holding this town, perched on the side of a hill, and drove them from it after hard fighting.

The dangerous ascent, which took the Germans completely by surprise, took place in the early hours of July 21.

The unit was cut off for most of one day and underwent heavy shelling by the Germans. But two members of the regiment went through the enemy lines to bring back supplies.

They were Capt. Bill Stocklosser of Madoc, Ont., and R. S. M. Angus Duffy of Trenton, Ont. Duffy explained how they eluded enemy fire by saying: "We ran like hell over the open spaces."

On the night of July 21 two companies of a Canadian regiment pitched in to help get the needed supplies to the beleagured regiment on the cliff top.

After a battle lasting more than 30 hours the Germans were finally driven out and Assoro itself was captured.

The exploit was one of the most daring and heroic of any during the tough fighting in which the Canadians have been engaged in this mountainous Central Sicily region. The whole Canadian formation has praised the regiment's feat.

Plane Workers Plan To Strike On Tuesday

MONTREAL, July 30—(CP)—A meeting of about 1,200 members of Montreal Aircraft Lodge 712 of the International Association of Machinists (A.F. of L.) decided last night that aircraft workers in Montreal district would go on strike next Tuesday if the Federal Government does not grant their demands for back pay of a cost of living bonus and for one week's holidays with pay.

The members at the meeting represented the workers of Canadian Vickers Aircraft, Fairchild Aircraft, and Noorduyn Aviation Limited. The three companies employ between 20,000 and 25,000 workers.

Convicts Riot

MONTREAL, July 30.—(CP). — Authorities at Montreal jail said last night there had been a "slight disturbance" at the prison but that "everything is all right now."

Officials would not comment further but it was learned unofficially that the disturbance occurred Monday night when a group of veteran convicts stood in their cells and shouted for "more meat and more tobacco."

Norway's King Honored Peterboro Girl

By DENISE DOLTROFF
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 30—(CP)—"Telegrafistinnen Fern Sunde—Norske Krigsmedaljen."

Norway's King Haaken VII, standing on the quarter deck of a trim little Norwegian motorship docked in a British west coast port, read out the words with grave deliberation. Then, suddenly realizing the young Canadian woman whom his words were chiefly intended might not understand, the king, with friendly smile said in English: "Mrs. Fern Sunde, will you come forward please and receive the Norwegian war medal."

So, five days before the first anniversary of her marriage to the young ship's master, the former Fern Blodgett of Peterborough, Ont., now Chief Wireless Operator Fern Sunde, received from the hand of her husband's king the medal which has been specially instituted by the Norwegian government during the present war to acknowledge "loyal and devoted service to the Norwegian cause by persons serving either in a military or a civilian capacity."

Ceremony Soon Over

The simple ceremony was soon over. Fern Sunde disengaged herself from the group of her male colleagues, received the medal and a few quiet words of congratulation from King Haaken, and then slipped back to the side of her husband, who was looking at his own decoration, the Medal of the Order of St. Olav, with oak leaves.

Mrs. Sunde is a woman with a friendly smile. She seems to fit perfectly with her husband's ship. She has dark wavy hair sweeping over a clear brow, keen blue eyes, an oval face tapering down from high cheek bones to a small but determined jaw. Her neat dark blue suit, with a white shirt blouse open at the neck, also seemed perfectly appropriate for her shipboard task.

The captain's cabin was not only an office, with the captain's roll-top desk, typewriter and filing cabinet, but also a homely sitting-room with flowers, Dresden china and gaily embroidered cushions. The chief wireless operator is very much a woman when she is off duty.

Wanted To Help.

"When the war came I thought that I ought to do something to help," she said. "I had never studied wireless telgraphy before, but it seemed to me something that a woman could learn just as easily as a man. So while I worked in an insurance office in Toronto in the daytime, I attended radio classes in the evening. Later I was able to go to the Canadian Electronics Institute. I got my wireless operator's certificate on the 5th July, 1941, and on the following day I met my future husband on board the ship to which I had been posted."

That was the first time she saw "the captain." She expected him to be a big, heavy, weather-beaten sea dog, but he is a lean, blond, 31-year-old whom she married at Saint John, N.B.

Their little Norwegian motorship has made over 50 trips across the Atlantic since Norway entered the war and has carried more than 50,000 tons of food supplies from Canada to Britain. Mrs. Sunde was on 37 of those trips "and fortunately" she said, "I haven't once had to send out an S.O.S.

"Our real honeymoon is still to come," said Mrs. Sunde. "That will be when we go to Norway. I am quite ready to settle down if my husband does. But if he goes to sea again, well, I will be with him too. But whatever happens I want to see something of the country which I have heard so much about."

Allan Lewis Held On Arson Charge

TORONTO, July 30—(CP)—Arrested in Peterborough, yesterday on a warrant charging him with committing arson, Allan Lewis, 32, Peterborough, was brought back to Toronto last night by Detective John B. Houston and locked up at Court Street station. Lewis, so police say, is charged with starting a fire in a barber shop at 1320 Bloor street west, on May 9 last.

Miners Return To Job

STELLARTON, N.S., July 30 — (CP).—Dozens of former coal miners now working in the Trenton Steel Works, Trenton Industries, Eastern Car Company, Maritime Steel Company and the Canadian National Railways, reported back to the mine office Wednesday and Thursday, in compliance with a recent National Selective order, which requires former coal miners to terminate their employment at other jobs by July 28.

Fighter Withdraws

CLEVELAND, July 30—(AP). — Because of an injury to his ear sustained in his bout with Chalky White here last week, Lulu Constantino, lightweight, has announced his withdrawal from a scheduled scrap with Beau Jack next month. Constantino reported he would not be able to enter the ring until September.

Puts One Over Boys

NANCY LEITH, Examiner newspaper carrier, doesn't have to take a salesmanship course when it comes to selling War Savings Stamps. Nancy has been more or less the "black horse" in the Depth Charges Drive but yesterday she came out of seclusion and dropped $540.00 into the laps of the committee of the aforesaid drive. This makes a total of $600 turned in by this young lady and represents 6¾ depth charges. This wonderful spurt has earned for her the coveted promotion to Lieut. General of the Commandos and she now leads all her fellow workers. She is, indeed, to be congratulated.

Nimmons Faced Two Blizzards

Sgt. George Nimmons R. C. A. F., is an airman who knows what it's like to be lost. Flying over Labrador January 17, the plane, in which he was a crew member, was forced down in the bleak northern wilderness, and he and his buddies were marooned for 10 days before being rescued.

Sgt. Nimmons has been home on leave for three weeks and departed Thursday for Mountain View Air Station, where he will receive his new posting. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nimmons of George Street, and his wife lives at 182 Hunter Street.

Compelled by engine trouble to come down on the snow-covered tundra an dmuskeg fields of northern Labrador, their radio sending set jarred into uselessness by the force of the crash landing, Sgt. Nimmons and his companions found themselves completely out of contact with civilization. They were 65 miles away from the nearest settlement and surrounded by mountains.

Reduced Rations.

Sleeping in the plane and living off one can of bully beef divided among three men daily and a hardtack biscuit each, they endured two blizzards and temerature as low as 42 degrees below zero. Finally a plane sent out from their air base in search of them spotted them, but not being equipped to land in such country was compelled to return. But before turning back it dropped the stranded airmen food. Eventually a plane with ski runners came in alongside them and brought them back to civilization.

"It gave you a very lonely feeling being marooned up there," Sgt. Nimmons said. "If that's the only unusual experience I have in the Air Force, it's still enough."

School Costs Given Aldermen

Information relating to educational costs in a letter from the Board of Education to the finance committee of the council set out several facts which are obviously of interest.

The approximate average cost yearly for each public school pupil attending local schools is $69.44.

The average cost, to the city of Peterborough, of each public school pupil is $61.48.

The approximate cost annually of each pupil at the Collegiate Institute is $167.01.

The approximate cost, to the city of Peterborough of each pupil, at the Collegiate Institute, is annually $116.49

As to the proposed contributions from Wartime Housing for the education locally of their non-resident children there has been a suggestion that W.H.L. would pay to the board $12 a year for each house of two bedrooms and $15 for each house of more than two bedrooms.

The communication from the Board of Education was not discussed by the committee, but presumably it tends to emphasize the disparity in prospective receipts for education of beyond the border W.H.L. pupils and the actual yearly cost of education to the citizens.

Mayor Hamilton suggested that the latter be held over for later consideration, and inferentially it seemed that His Worship expected some progress on the Monaghan township front. He suggested that a letter be sent to the Board informing them that the council's position was unchanged, but that negotiations had been continued with postponement for a week or two.

Street Bazaar Makes $10 For War Victims

In the years to come, quite a number of school children of this present day and generation are going to be able to look back on their exploits to help the war effort with a great deal of satisfaction, for a good deed is something always a pleasure to recall, and especially when it had such an unselfish motive as that of helping others rather than themselves. While they may not visualize it as such, in most cases it does return to them in goodness some time or other, and often in the most unexpected manner and time.

Since the beginning of July, no less than fourteen donations have appeared in the receipts for the Peterborough and District War Victims' Fund which were the direct result of the work of school children in this city, who have spent their time and freedom from school lessons to such good advantage as to reflect not only to their own credit, but also to their parents, whose upbringing undoubtedly plays its part in inspiration and moral support, which will be of inestimable value to these children in later life.

The latest contribution to come from school children to the fund is the proceeds of a street bazaar held at the corner of Reid Street and Parkhill Road on Wednesday of this week by Rita and Helen Caravaggi, and Cecelia and Gracie Record, in conjunction with which they held two small draws.

The first of these was for a lace dresser scarf donated by the Record Store which was won by Roy Sanderson, and the second a doll donated by Miss Margaret Rose, and prettily dressed by the girls themselves which was won by Mrs. C. Reid of Stewart Street.

Altogether the girls realized the nice sum of $10.15, which is listed in their name today, and when these girls return to their classes in the fall, they will all be able to say that they had done something worth while to help the war effort along.

Two penny box collections are listed today, the one at the United Cigar Store containing $1.25 when collected on Wednesday night, and the other in Grafton's, Ltd. Store yielding $1.85 when collected on Thursday afternoon by the secretary of the fund.

The copies of "Come Wind, Come Weather," by Daphne DuMarier which were given to the fund, have produced another $1 through the Trebilcock's Book Store, this now making a total of $2.75 received from this source to-date.

90,180 Articles Are Given To War Relief

The Christian Scientists in Ontario, through the Ontario Christian Science War Relief Committee, have sent to Great Britain, for the relief of suffering in bombed areas, 81,194 articles of clothing bedding and other comforts. They have contributed to Russian Relief 2,511 garments of warm clothing and bedding to the men in the armed forces 6,475 knitted garments; making a total of 90,180 articles distributed for war relief. The total estimated value of these articles is $71,950.

The garments, knitting and bedding are made by committees formed from the membership of the various branch churches and societies throughout the Province. These are sent to headquarters in Toronto where they are inspected, classified, and packed into cartons ready for shipping. A large staff of workers is busy every day preparing the cartons for overseas.

The Christian Scientists in Ontario joined with other citizens of the Province in contributing to Russian Relief during the recent campaign.

Runaway Hurt Driver

SIMCOE, July 30 (CP).—Attempting to save several small children from injury by a runaway team and binder on his farm, R.R. 4, Waterford, Julian Huszcko, 44, suffered severe injuries which necessitated his removal to hospital. Huszcko was driving the team and binder when the horses became frightened and started to run away.

Norman Dwyer Reported Killed Overseas

Pte. Norman Dwyer of the Hastings Prince Edward Regiment which is reported to be in Sicily has been killed according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Mary Dwyer, 231 George Street North. The telegram stated that he died July as a result of accidental injuries received overseas.

PTE. NORMAN DWYER.

A year ago when the Prince of Wales Rangers went active Pte. Dwyer enlisted and he was stationed with them for several months and in September 1942 he went overseas and was attached to the Hastings-Prince Edward Regiment, where he took a course in driving for some time.

Most of his family are serving in the Army. His sister, Pte. Ruth Masters (Mrs. Ken Masters) is with the C. W. A. C. at Brockville, and her husband, Kenneth Masters was with Norman overseas. A half brother, William Dwyer has been overseas with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders and a second, George Dwyer, formerly with the Highlanders, is now at Kingston.

Before enlisting Pte. Dwyer drove a truck for Harry Dinsdale. Since he has been overseas he has met nearly all the boys he grew up with and a cousin, Harold Little of Peterborough was a frequent companion.

Besides his mother and sister and half brothers, a brother Arthur of Peterborough and a brother Roy aged 4 survive.

Peterboro Boys At Swim Meet

Three Peterborough boys who went to Montreal to compete in the Quebec Provincial swimming championships Thursday night are coming home with accomplishments of which they and their instructor, Gordon Minty of the Y.M.C.A., may well be proud.

No less than four records were broken at the Montreal meet, and though Andy Brown, Gordon Gildner and Bill Lech were not privileged to be among the swimmers who contributed new records for the history books, they showed very good style and finished in the first group in their events.

Bill Lech, swimming in the 100 yards junior breast stroke event, finished third in a field where competition was so close that the first three swimmers came in with only a half foot between them. Bill is 16 years old, and this was his initial attempt.

Gordon Gilder, 18, formerly champion of the Broadview "Y," Toronto, was third in the 100 yards' senior breast stroke event, in a race which was won by the Qcebec champion, Orel Thomas.

Andy Brown, competing in the 100 yards' free style race, was second in his heat and finished fifth in the finals.

About 100 swimmers were entered in the meet, coming from Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, New York and other points.

$500 Is Voted For Corvette

At the suggestion of Mayor Hamilton last night the finance committee of the council appropriated $500 to the Citizens' Co-Ordinating Committee for the purpose of buying furnishings to be designated from the city of Peterborough for the corvette which is to carry Peterborough's name into the Canadian Navy.

It is understood that the committee which has undertaken to obtain a fund for equipping the corvette with the special articles which will be the gift of this community, perhaps including the county, will make some appeal to the public for contributions. Some auxiliary organizations will likely make ditty bags, sweaters and so on, and it is intended that the Peterborough ship will be well supplied for the comfort of its crew.

Goes To Brantford

BRANTFORD, July 30—(CP). — Senior supervisor of Y.M.C.A. war services at Gander Lake, Nfld., in recent months, Murray Corbett has received the appointment of physical director at the Brantford Y.M.C.A. Since 1940 he has been directing sport and recreation programs at military camps in the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland.

Kenneth Wilson Wins Radio At Lions Carnival

A grand crowd thronged Riverside Park Thursday evening as the Lions Club carnival got underway with pony rides, games, refreshments and draw prizes. The proceeds from the carnival will be used to finish work on the wading pool now under construction at the Hunter Street bridge alongside the tourist camp, and moneys will also be allocated to the British Children's War Victims' Fund, and welfare work in Peterborough city and county.

Highlight of the carnival from the juvenile viewpoint was the pony rides. This feature was made possible through the generosity and cooperation of Hugh Stewart of Hill Top Farm, Roger Amys, Dr. Arthur Johnston and S. S. Staples of Cavan all of whom loaned ponies to the club. A pony ring formerly owned by Conklin shows was also provided by Mr. Stewart.

Police Inspector James F. Reid made the draw for five of fifteen prizes, and the winners are as follows: Radio, Ken Wilson, Western Clock Company; set of luggage, J. Carr, 467 Weller Street; raincoat, Miss Leota McRae, 575 Patterson Street; portrait, Mrs. C. Hallihan, 266 Perry Street; clothes hamper, L. T. Lillow, 181 River Road.

Five more prizes will be drawn for this evening, and on Saturday night, the last night of the show, the five major prizes will be drawn, including a ton of coal, a canoe and paddles, and cedar chest.

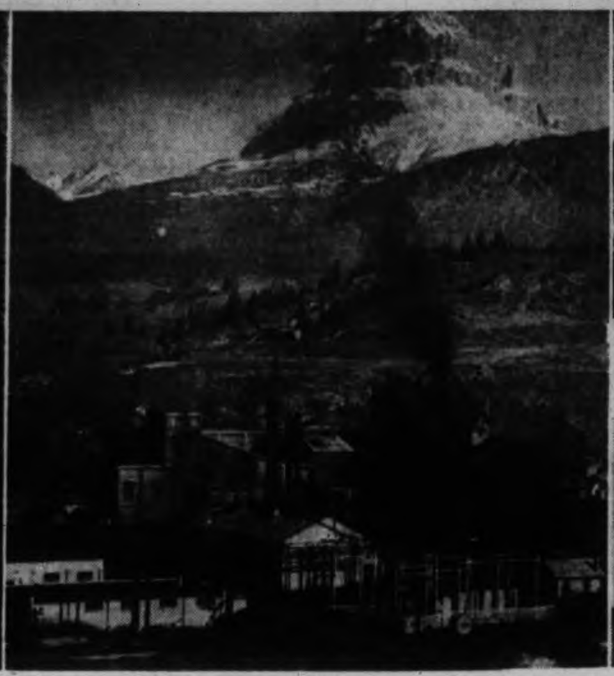
Coal Miners in East and West Wield Pick and Drill to Fuel Munitions Plants

Michael Meissac, left, and Andrew Lloyd, on drill, room-and-pillar mining in Glace Bay. Miners have stepped up per capita production since war. They are now being joined by ex-miners from armed services and non-essential work.



Western miners work with the majestic Rockies as a background. Above, black smoke of coal preparation plants at Coleman, Alberta, rise to the clear sky.

With string and a lump of coal, Bernie Hays sights to test the coal face angle.

Bing Servello of Fernie enjoys a smoke, forbidden underground, on coming up.

Joe Parker, Crow's Nest, symbolizes determination of Canadian miners to back munitions plants and armed services to limit by increasing production.

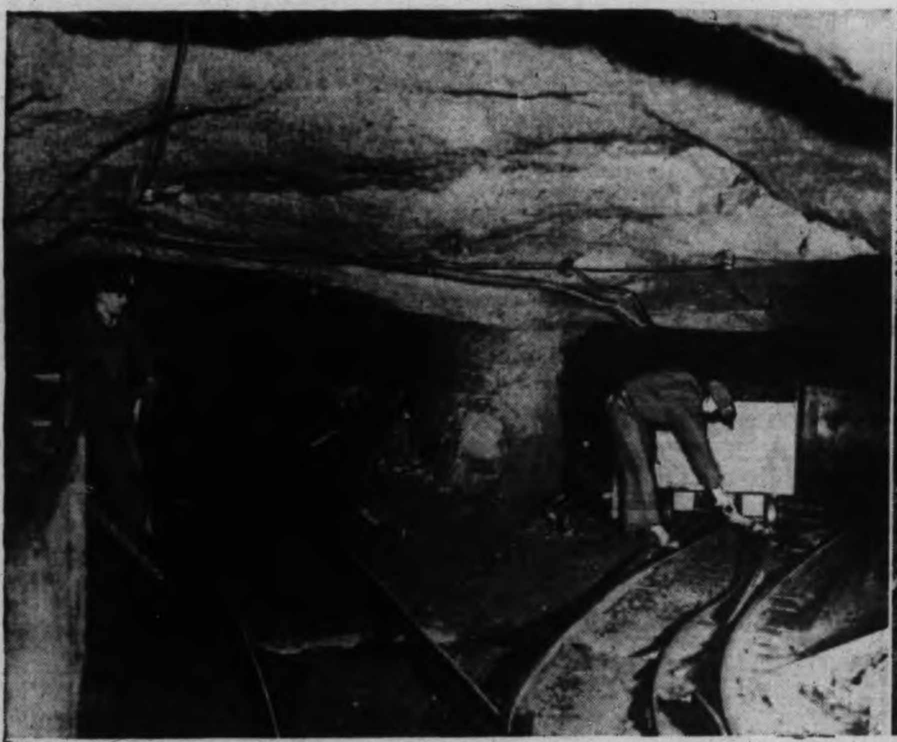
Hard day's work done, miner takes a shower, dons clean clothes before going home.

Jack Manning, skilled miner, to vital work in coal mine. on leave from army, returns

Paul Hlady, quickly drinks tea, then returns to work. Ever-present in his mind is national coal emergency. With fellow miners he works hard to increase output.

Chairman Bosetti conducts a meeting of Blairmore's all-miner school board.

Bill Singleton, veteran of the mines, wears the cave-in rescue apparatus.



Underground men send British Columbia coal to surface. War industries need more fuel. To meet the demand a national coal emergency has been declared. Skilled miners in army, other trades are returning to Canada's coal fields

Rev. J. J. Tompkins chats with Mr. and Mrs. George Clark and son Saunder, before their co-operatively built home, in Tompkinsville, named after priest.

Across the end of a truck loaded with coal for Canadian war industries the miners have chalked "Aid To Russia." Upon their work in coalfields depend the mnuitions factories which are supplying war goods to Canada's allies.

Snowball, a pit pony, is well cared for, loved by miners; shares lunch with Bob Jackson. Miners are making magnificent contribution to national effort.

Coal mining needs skilled men in nearly every job. Miners study for promotions in classes. Above, at Michel, miners prepare to write fire bosses' papers.

Dampness underground sometimes causes rheumatism, other illnesses, which means production lost. So miners take therapy treatment to protect health.

Much patronized by Cape Breton coal miners is the library of St. Francis Xavier University Extension Department. Miners read economics, history, biography.

Two Dieppe Veterans Back In Action

Two veterans of Dieppe, C.S.M. James Murphy (LEFT), who won the Military Medal at Dieppe, and Sgt. John Carroll of Toronto, who was mentioned in despatches for services in the same action, pictured aboard ship as they sailed with Canadian troops for the Sicilian battle theatre.

McCullagh Raps Premier Nixon

George McCullagh, publisher of The Toronto Globe and Mail, last night entered the Ontario election campaign personally; voiced a charge that the Provincial Liberal convention that chose Premier Nixon as Leader was "rigged by the Ottawa machine" and asserted that he himself "was asked to take part in the rigging of that convention.

In the first of two broadcasts over an Ontalo network, Mr. McCullagh called for "a strong Ontario Government which will co-operate in the prosecution of the war, but which will be an unbreakable bulwark against the encroachment of bureaucracy from its stronghold at the Federal capital, both now and after the war." He announced his intention of voting for Mr. George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader.

Mr. McCullagh will deliver another address to-night over the same Ontario network, commencing at 10:30 o'clock.

"Co-operation is one thing but fawning subservience is another," he said. After criticizing Mr. Nixon for having pledged allegiance to Prime Minister Mackenzie King "come what may"—a quotation from a Nixon speech in 1940 and again repeated at his nominating convention a few months ago— the publisher went on to examine "what Mr. Nixon's 'come-what-may' leader has contributed to that high and noble purpose of national unity."

Condemns Plebiscite.

When Canada found herself "faced with the necessity of raising armies to defend her own existence," the "Frankenstein of the prejudiced teachings of these same political leaders for over 20 years reared its ugly head and there was exposed the smouldering disunity which had all along existed, and had never been resolved by the application of true and understandable principles."

This was never more apparent, said Mr. McCullagh, than when Prime Minister King called the manpower plebiscite of April 27, 1942. "The waste of money is as nothing when weighed in the balance against the sharp racial cleavage which was involved by this unstatesmanlike act." He asserted that he, "in common with many others in this country," had never attempted to lay the blame for this state of affairs on the French-Canadian people.

Mr. McCullagh said he was speaking on radio time purchased by the Progressive Conservative Party because under radio regulations in Canada private individuals are denied the use of networks. He said, in announcing his support for Progressive Conservative Leader Drew: "I am committed to no party. . . . Never in any Federal or Provincial election have I voted any but the Liberal ticket."

The label of political partisanship did not interest me. At one time their attitude on the tariff had distinguished the parties. "Long ago tariffs ceased to be an issue as Liberal and Conservative Governments alike make their use an expedience. They will be less than ever a purely domestic issue in the new day of hope for world co-operation."

Eight Ministers Made Sure

Giving thought to such objectives as this was more important than seeking the creation a party monopoly. Referring to the April convention of the Liberal Party in Toronto, he said: "They think you, the public, are so gullible that you wouldn't see what was happening when eight Cabinet Ministers left their desks in Ottawa to come here and make certain that their chosen lieutenant, Harry, was elected to oil this end of the Liberal Party machine."

The publisher asserted that 'civil liberties and the rights of man are controlled by members of an executive body recruited exclusively from that one party." Therefore, it was necessary that the local units of government be composed of strong, independent men.

Mr. McCullagh referred to a group of 107 men who before the war "were sleeping on newspapers in the basement of Trinity Parish Hall in Toronto because neither the Provincial Government . . nor the Federal Government was willing to assume" responsibility for them.

"These same boys are today locked in the comradeship of arms with their British and American allies on the plains of Sicily.

"Is it fair to ask: What faith can we have in the grandiose and eloquent promises of the Federal Government or its subsidiary provincial follower that they are working out practical plans to relieve unemployment after this war?"

He termed the Federal Government's plan to build a wing on Christie Street Military Hospital, Toronto, rather than erect a new hospital, "cold - blooded indifference."

Japan's Leaders Warn More Ships Needed

NEW YORK, July 30—(AP)—The Tokyo radio told the Japanese people today it was "absolutely essential" that Japan concentrate on shipbuilding if she hoped to capitalize on the rich resources of conquered areas, the United States Office for War Information reported.

Lack of shipping "determined the fate of Germany in the first World War," the broadcast warned, pointing out that lack of transport facilities prevents the shipping of products from Java, Borneo, Burma and other occupied areas to Japan.

France Has Drought

BERNE, July 30 (AP)—A Paris dispatch in Le Petit Dauphinois quoted Minister of Agriculture and Food Bonnafus yesterday as saying a drought was spreading throughout France and in the south was reaching "disastrous" proportions.

B. Young men who have reached their 16th birthday and have not yet reached their 19th birthday, that is to say, men who are 16, 17 or 18 years of age.

• • • •

Men affected are required to register, either personally if possible, or by letter, with the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office..

Any employer or any employee in doubt as to his status in reference to these Orders, is urged to make enquiry at the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Employees included in the Orders will not be moved if now in high priority work, but nevertheless they must register if covered by the Orders.

Any employer or employee who has failed to comply with any of the provisions of these Orders, should immediately contact the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Compliance is obligatory under the law, and penalties are provided for failure to comply.

DOBBIN'S COBBLER

RUSH of new business for blacksmiths like Fred Fiegel lately. "Been telling 'em for years to get a horse," chuckles Fred. "Maybe they'll believe me now." Nothing old-fashioned about Fred's breakfast, though. Kellogg's Corn Flakes is his favourite. "Taste mighty good," he says. "And they only take 30 seconds to get ready; leave no pots and pans for my wife to wash up after, either." You'll like Kellogg's Corn Flakes. Get some tomorrow. Two convenient sizes.

Quality counts most— the steady growth of 'Salada' sales in Canada over half-a-century, speaks for itself.

VICTORY RECIPES

By LAURA C. PEPPER
Chief Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture

"She is fit to be my wife, as the fork is to the knife" runs the old song. Nancy's fitness for the matrimonial state seems to have been based largely upon her ability to bake a cherry pie with great dispatch, "quick as a cat can wink an eye", according to her swain. Billy was evidently particularly susceptible to cherry pie, — but what man isn't?

Canadian cherries are on the markets once again, though they are not as plentiful this year for a hard winter and heavy frosts have reduced the crop. In a pie, a sauce and a salad, the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture presents cherries; in recipes especially adapted for wartime cooking.

Cherry Cream Pie

2 cups pitted, sweet cherries
½ cup water
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Pinch salt
2 tablespoons cold water
¼ cup sugar (additional)
1/3 cup flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
½ cup cold milk
1½ cups hot milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
Baked pie shell

Cook cherries with ½ cup water 10 minutes. Blend sugar, cornstarch, add salt and mix with cold water. Add a little hot cherry juice to mixture and add to cherries, cook 10 minutes longer. Cool.

Mix flour, additional sugar and salt; combine with cold milk. Add hot milk and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly, for 10 minutes. Beat egg, combine with a little of the hot mixture, return to double boiler and cook three minutes longer. Remove from heat add butter and flavouring. Spread cooled cherries in the bottom of the baked pie shell and cover with cream filling. Cool and serve.

If desired, the cream filling may be placed in the pie shell first and the cherries poured over the top.

Cherry Cottage Cheese Salad

2½ cups pitted, sweet cherries
¾ cup cottage cheese
Lettuce or watercress
Salad dressing or mayonnaise

Pit and halve cherries. Mix lightly with cottage cheese and serve on shredded lettuce or watercress. Garnish with salad dressing and serve well chilled.

Cottage Cheese

Cottage cheese is easily made at home. Use only freshly soured, clean-flavoured milk. Put the sour milk into the top of a double boiler and heat until it separates into curds and whey, stirring occasionally. The milk will separate when it reaches a temperature between 100 and 110 degrees F. A drop of milk, placed on the inside of the wrist will feel lukewram at this temperature. Place a double layer of cheesecloth in a strainer and strain the milk. When the whey has drained off, wash the curd by pouring cold water over it. Squeeze dry, put the curd in a bowl, mix well with a fork, season with salt and pepper and moisten with a little top milk or cream.

Cherry Sauce

1 cup pitted sweet cherries
1 cup water
¼ cup sugar
Pinch of salt
1 tablespoon cornstarch

Add water to cherries and cook 5 minutes.

Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch, add to cherries and cook 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and add flavouring. Serve hot with plain Cottage Pudding or cold with blanc mange or plain baked custard.

Nurse Returns From Africa After 19 Months

Nurse Elma Coon, formerly of Peterborough, has just returned to Canadian shores after having been stationed near Johannesburg, in the Province of Transvaal, the past 19 months. She was one of the three hundred Canadian nurses who volunteered to go over under the South African Military Service.

Not being allowed to divulge any military secrets, Nurse Coon was obliged to talk about the climate and food, always interesting subjects. She said it really wasn't any warmer where they were than what it is right here in Peterborough, and that they found it very cold in the winter. There seems to be plenty of food with nothing rationed except butter in some parts of Africa. The chefs follow along the English line of cooking.

Their hospital was situated right in the Union and they were therefore safe from the battle zones. They had a few post-war casualties to deal with but mainly the patients came down from the north for malaria and dysentery treatment.

Some of the Canadian nurses who went over with Nurse Coon have now gone up to Egypt for duty but Nurse Coon has returned to Canada to be posted in the near future to another hospital. She is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Chas. H. Elliott and Mr. Elliott at their cottage at Chemong before leaving again for Ottawa.

Friends Have Pyrex Shower

A very enjoyable evening was held at the home of Miss Mary Sullivan, 666 Downie street, on Monday evening, in the form of a pyrex showed for Mrs. Douglas McPherson, the former Margaret Gardiner, whose marriage took place on Wednesday, July 28.

Among those present were: Misses Olga Preston, Emily Liddell, Grace Marshall, Velma Hope, Isabel Delahaye, Agnes Sullivan, Mesdames Jack McLaughlin, Malcolm Cavanagh, Jimmy Thorburn, Willard Reid, Inga Roy, Norman Healey.

Those who sent presents but were unable to be present: Misses Hazel Kearney, Lila Kennedy, Lillian Baird, Kay Edwards, Catherine McTeague, Flora Dunford; Mesdames Stafford Sullivan, R. Kingdon, and Harvie White.

Hess—Crozier

A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Lindsay, on July 29th, when Eileen Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Crozier became the bride of LAC. Errol Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hess, of Peterborough Rev. McQueen officiated.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor-length gown of white sheer, and her finger-tip veil was caught to her head with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of sweet-peas and asters.

Miss Mildred Kemp, niece of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a floor-length frock of turquoise blue. Summer flowers formed a small wreath in her hair and she carried a bouquet of sweet-peas. Donald Hess attended his brother as best man.

Later, LAC. Hess and his bride left on their wedding trip to Toronto and Sturgeon Lake.

Major Dixon Speaks At All Saints'

The regular monthly meeting of the Church Women's Year of All Saints' Anglican Church was held on Thursday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. J. Adams, presiding.

The Bible lesson was read by Miss Isobel Connolly. Mrs. J. Morley sang a delightful solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. W. Glover. Mrs. R. N. Jones reported for the Navy League. Thirteen articles were knit for the month and one ditty bag filled.

In the absence of the rector, Mrs. J. Detcher introduced the speaker, Major A. W. Dixon, of the Salvation Army. He spoke of God as the only real help in time of trouble, taking his text, "The Lord is my keeper," from chapter 13 of St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Founder Of Kinsmen Club To Speak Over Network

Advice has been received today by the executives of the Kinsmen and Kinette Clubs in Peterborough, to the effect that their Founder, Hal Rogers and the National President, Jerry Knechtel, will speak over the C.B.C. network on Saturday, August 7, at 8.00 p.m. E.D.T. direct from the National War Conference that is being held in Windsor at that time.

This announcement was sent in advance in order that the various clubs can circularize their membership. All organizations and those who have helped to make the Milk-for-Britain Fund such a success are asked to listen in to this special broadcast.

Low—McCarthy

Gowned in white marquisette over taffeta, the skirt extending into a slight train, Marlyn Kathryn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. McCarthy, Keene, became the bride of John David Low (C.Q.M.S.), son of Mr. J. Low and the late Mrs. Low of Peterborough.

Tall standards of summer flowers formed an effective setting for the bridal party as the ceremony was performed by Rev. Father J. J. O'Brien in Sacred Heart Church on Wednesday. During the signing of the register Mrs. Claire Connellly sang "On This Day."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a coronet shaped head-dress which was trimmed with lily-of-the-valley, and from this fell her long veil of white net. Her frock had a sweetheart neckline and her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Loretta McCarthy, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor and Miss Patricia Low was the bridesmaid. They wore floor-length chiffon gowns in shell pink and blue, respectively. A halo of flowers in the same tones draped with veiling formed their headdresses. They carried Talisman roses and yellow roses.

Ormond McCarthy, R.C.A.F. attended as best man and the ushers were Cpl. C. Connelly and Pte. Desmond Dolan.

A reception was held at the Mayfair where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of blue sheer with hat to match. She had a corsage of Talisman roses and lily-of-the-valley. Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Toronto and Windsor and for travelling the bride changed to a beige suit with brown accessories, and wore a corsage of Talisman roses. On their return, the young couple will reside in Peterborough.

Finds Diamond Ring

McGREGOR, Ia., July 30—(AP).—A month ago Betty Eichendorf lost a valuable diamond in the muddy Missouri River, then at flood stage. So when the water level dropped to three feet, Herman Kranert went to the spot. With a mud shovel and wire hook, he fished up the ring in 15 minutes.

And help make Ontario fit for heroes to come home to after the war.

You Women Who Suffer From

HOT FLASHES then CHILLY FEELINGS

If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, dizzy, nervous feelings, irregular periods, are blue at times—due to this middle age period in a woman's life—start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. It's one of the most effective medicines you can buy that's made especially for women, to relieve such painful distress.

In fact—taken regularly Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such symptoms. It also is a fine stomach tonic.

Thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported benefits. Lydia Pinkham's Compound has proved some women's happiest days can be during their "40's." Made in Canada. Worth trying!

AFTER The WAR WHAT?

This was his welcome under Conservative and Liberal Governments after the last war -- are we going to trust them again?

The same people who couldn't find a nickle to end unemployment are asking the people of Ontario to put them back in to look after this boy.

The Liberals and Conservatives are now spending wads of money telling us the great things they will do for us next time. Why didn't they do them when they were in power? They each had a chance.

Mr. Elliott later sat as a member of the Government which sent Hepburn's Hussars to Peterborough to smash in the heads of the honest workers who were trying to get a decent living wage from the Captains of Industry, in the Woollens Business, where wage rates were scandalously low, and many of the heads smashed were on the shoulders of returned soldiers. He saw a repeat performance in Western Ontario, and Kirkland Lake and he made no protest.

Mr. Scott was then in political oblivion, a state to which the whole Conservative Party, National and Provincial, is fast returning on the basis of it's past history.

The boys who are now so gallantly defending our democracy overseas were allowed to wander aimlessly over the country on box cars in search of work. Homeless, without money, and living in jungles, while Mr. Elliott's Liberals and Mr. Scott's Conservatives, excused themselves from doing anything about it, by professing to be unable to find the money for anything better than 20c a day road camps, in the wilderness, and $3.50 per week relief budgets.

With such a circus of political entertainment facing a long suffering public, it is not by accident that our common sense people turned to a new party, the C.C.F. They learned that there comes a time when the problems of re-organization, are less painful and hazardous, than the problems of chaos attained through a continued policy of drift.

The Progressive Conservatives pretend to be the friend of Labor, yet they have not one Trade Union Member in their ranks facing election. The Liberals have only one, and he is really an ex-Trade Union Member. Oh no boys! You can fool some of the people all of the time. And all of the people some of the time. But you can't fool all the people all of the time.

WHAT THE C.C.F. WILL DO!

Our boys overseas would like to know that things will be different when they come home — that there will be work for all, the best health services, homes to be proud of, freedom from the fear of want and injustice.

Nobody wants conditions to be the same after the war as they were from 1929 to 1939. But they will be the same if we have the same old parties in power.

The C.C.F. is the Party for the People. Financed by the People, and not afraid to make the necessary changes. The C.C.F. knows what changes are necessary to build a real social security. The old parties won't like it. The monopolies and big business will oppose it. But the C.C.F. will go ahead and do the job.

The war must be won. Ontario's people will co-operate with the Dominion and other provinces in an all-out war effort. A better and more democratic Government in Ontario will help to win the war.

THIS TIME IT'S C.C.F.

The Experts Say . . . .

By The Canadian Press

OTTAWA, July 30—(CP)—The experts come with ideas designed to keep Canada's wartime households running smoothly:

◇ ◇ ◇

SUCCESSFUL CANNING — Now that the canning season is in full swing, Laura Pepper, of the consumer section Agriculture, Department, suggests that housewives be alert to catch the various fruits at the peak of their perfection. For best results, fruit for canning must be fully mature but not over-ripe. Only fruit that is perfectly sound and free from blemish should be canned. Under-ripe fruit will lack flavor, and fruit that is over-ripe will be likely to spoil. "Keep an eagle eye on your local markt," Miss Ppper advises "to be sure to catch eacr fruit at just the right mo-each fruit at just the right mo-

DESIRABLE DRESSING—Dressings can make or mar a salad, and here's a good recipe for a French dressing to perk up such dishes. Put the following ingredients into a jar with a closely fitting cover: One teaspoon sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon dry mustard, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one-half teaspoon chopped onion or one clove of garlic cut in three; one-half cup vegetable oil and one-quarter cup vinegar. Cover the jar and shake well. Let stand in the refrigerator until well seasoned, then remove the garlic. Always shake well before using, and serve cold. Here are some variations of your favorite cooked dressing that will add interest to salads the year around. Amounts suggested are for one cup of salad dressing.

1. Add two tablespoons horseradish. This one goes well with beet salad.

2. For a salad in which cabbage plays a major role, add two tablespoons chopped raisins and six maraschino cherries, chopped.

3. To add zest to a fish or meat salad, vary the cooked dressing by adding to it one finely chopped, hard-cooked egg and one tablespoon chopped sour gherkins.

PICNIC HINTS—Summer time is picnic time, and with so many people holidaying at home this year family picnics are more popular than ever. "A picnic basket is really a glorified lunch box," says Marion Harlow of Nutrition Services, "and some thought should be given to its contents so the meal will supply the foods necessary to round out the day's supply of essential foods."... Three "muts" for the well-planned picnic basket, says Miss Harlow, are a fresh fruit or vegetable, preferably both; some form of protein food, such as meat, fish, eggs, cheese or baked beans, and milk in some form for the children.

COMPARATIVE PRICES — From a Saskatchewan resident, by way of her diary, comes a comparison of prices in vogue in the first and the present Great War. On Aug. 24, 1919, eggs cost 55 cents a dozen and butter 60 cents a pound...Brown sugar retailed for 25 cents in two-pound lots, and white sugar cost $1 for seven pounds. Lard was 40 cents a pound and cheese also 40 cents a pound, while bacon cost 70 cents a pound and a pint of milk eight cents.

SALMON RUN—Provided there is a good run of salmon, housewives this year will have a larger supply available than in 1942, when the entire output went to England. Salmon prices will be lower, and maximum prices have been set for the canned variety, of which, it is hoped, there will be a quantity for domestic consumption.

Star and Flower Ensemble

Saks Fifth Ave.

The gown is gray chiffon, with a wide, shallow neckline, and it is printed with lilac plumes. The neckline is gilt set with a lilac spray set with ruby-colored stones in lilac semblance.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE STAR, of course, is beautiful Faye Emerson who decorates the Warner films in which she acts. The flowers are lilacs which provide the motif for "gem" set gilt necklace and print pattern of the gown fabric.

Other flower (and fruit) motifs used for both fabric and jewelry or button match-mates are the ripe strawberry, the red cherry, the gardenia and the carnation. The ensembling varies, again, and we get a printed cloth of South American flavor with wooden buttons which may be styled like wooden saucers heaped with bright colored fruits, or like cactus plants in pots, or dashing sombreros. Very large plastic buttons take their designs from flowers and fruits.

MAN'S NOTION OF WIFE BEING GOOD MOST COMPLICATED JOB

Husband Must be Kept Vamped, Mothered Like Boy, Supported When Dangers Appear

A young woman who finds that marriage is hard going, instead of the rose-strewn path she expected it to be, asks in desperation: "WHAT is a man's idea of a good wife? WHAT does a woman have to do and be to come up to her husband's expectations and keep him thinking he made a good bargain when he married her, instead of believing he got gyped in the trade?"

Well, being what men consider a good wife is the most complicated job on earth, because it calls for just the plain, ordinary, common or garden variety of woman to be able to double in strings and brass and to perform feats of magic that entitle her to a rating as an A-1 miracle-worker. Which being translated, means that every husband expects his wife to have discovered the Fountain of Perpetual Youth and to remain girlish and glamorous while she does the cooking and washing and baby-tending and penny-pinching, and makes over her old dresses so her worst enemy does not recognize them.

Keep Men Vamped

Of course, husbands are not all alike. They differ from each other as one star differs from another in glory, but there are certain peculiarities common to the species, and probably the most noteworthy of these is that every husband expects his wife to keep him vamped. She must never weary of working her charms. She must never come to the bottom of her bag of tricks. She must keep her allure. She must always remain young and beautiful and gay. She must always smell of Evening in Paris instead of the baby's bottle and cabbage soup and, if she doesn't he feels fully justified in stepping out with a sub-deb with perfume behind her ears and a fresh wave in her hair.

Then, men expect to be little tin gods to their wives. Every man wants his wife to look up reverently to him, to feel that he is superior to her, to reward him as an oracle and the source from which all blessings flow. That is why the beautiful but dumb girl can marry seven times to the college graduate's once. It is why clever men are contended and happy with moron wives who, one would think, would bore them to death. It is why when a wife begins every sentence with "John says" it is a certificate of domestic felicity so gilt-edged that you could draw money on it at the bank.

Men Want Superiority In All But Morality

Men are willing for their wives to be superior to them morally, but in no other way. They consider incense burning a purely feminine occupation. You rarely find a happy home in which the wife has more money, or a better education, or gets a better salary than her husband does.

A man expects his wife to not only be romantically in love with him, but to love him as a friend and comrade. He wants her to be a working partner who will enter into all of his hopes and plans and ambitions, and be willing to toil and sacrifice to help push them on to fruition.

He wants his wife to be a buddy who will fight, back to back with him, in every danger and on whose loyalty he can depend. He wants her to be an adviser on whose judgment he can rely. He wants her to be a playmate. But he expects her to do her work in the dark and to keep her talents hidden in a bushel. She must never have a career of her own, for whenever it becomes publicly known that the gray mare is the better horse that team is headed for divorce court.

Man Wants To Be Mothered

A man expects his wife to treat him as if she were his mother. No matter how old he gets, no matter how much he achieves, nor what power he wields no matter how strong he becomes, nor how ruthlessly he deals with others, he never outgrows his desire to be mothered, nor his need for a woman's breast to weep on when things go wrong with him. It is the eternal little boy in him who never grows up.

While it is true that a man wants his wife to admire him and look up to him, it also true that he wants her to baby him. He wants her to talk follish talk to him and pet him and tell him he is the most boofulest fing in the world. He wants her to show him off, and his expression when she makes him tell his best story, or do his conjuring tricks, or sing his pet song is exactly that of little Johnny when Mother makes him perform for company.

And he wants his wife to do little personal things for him, little services with her own hands, just for the same reason that Tommy wants Mother to butter his bread. And, above all, men expect their wives to treat them when they stray from the straight and narrow path as Mother did when they played hookey from school—to spank them, and forgive them, and kiss them, and forget it.

When husbands demand so much of their wives, is it any wonder that many fail to come up to expectations?

NO AUGUST SALE

this year!

For many years, smart home-makers of this community have looked forward to Cherney Bros.' annual August Furniture Sale as an event remarkable for outstanding furniture values, and exciting new selections. We have always been warned by their enthusiastic response, and have taken a genuine pride in making this occasion a recognized tradition of our store.

But this year we feel we'll just have to skip it . . . It's true our present stock is fairly complete, but merchandising difficulties make it hard to secure replacements, and also we do not feel that it is fitting at this time to promote too large a buying splurge which might deprive some of our customers of the things they really need later on. However those who need Furniture will find a complete selection at prices that are always reasonable at Cherney Bros. Here are

Army Defeats Mimico Team

TORONTO, July 30—Army Bullets defeated Mimico - Brampton Combines, 22-15, in a senior Ontario Lacrosse Association fixture here last night.

The Combines went ahead, 4-3 in the first quarter, and still led, 8-7, at half time. By three-quarter time, the Army had taken a 12-11 lead and they lengthened their margin in the final quarter.

Leading goal-scorers were:

Army: Bun White (8), Ken Dickson (5), Thorpe (4) and Campbell (3).

Combines: Bill Brunskill (6), Bill Mullis (2) and Ross Gimblett (2).

More than 1,000 customers witnessed the high-scoring game, which was marked by exceptionally clean play.

Army: Mortimore, J. Creighton, Bovin, Dickson, Campbell, Ingram, Burrill, Teasdale, Standeven, Thorpe, Jim McMahon, Tom White, Bun White, Plumley and Red Creighton.

Combines: Harrison, Rock, J. Mullis, Hayes, Brunskill, McLean, Graham, Bill Mullis, Masters, Prosser, Isaacs, Gimblett, Arthurs and Hammond.

Officials: Murphy of Mimico and Clark of Hamilton.

LAWN BOWLING

Tonight all bowlers will be out on the greens to play in the mixed tournament, sponsored by our club, in aid of the "Stamp out the U-boat" menace. We repeat, all the money invested in War Savings Stamps during July goes to help this cause.

Our club would like to raise enough money to buy two depth charges. Already some stamps have been sold and if it is a fine evening, we should have a goodly crowd. Remember you are only loaning your money. The games start at 7.30 o'clock. Be on time—and buy all the stamps you can.

It looks as if the ladies sections are supplying the real highlights in our summer schedule. The rinks who play at night have completed their schedule and two teams are deadlocked for first honors.

Mrs. C. Renaud and Miss J. Arnold have each won 10 and lost four and that means there will be a playoff just as soon as the committee sets the date.

Of the ladies who play in the afternoon, it is going to be a real tight finish. As it stands now, Mrs. R. Dyer is leading with Miss L. Allan and Mrs. H. Beatty, tied for second place. They each have one more game to play, so we'll be watching the finish very closely.

After it is all over and settled the group winners will playoff for the Denne trophy.

With regards to Monday, Civic Holiday, we intend holding a mixed tournament. Two games in the afternoon and one in the evening. More details later.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Great Britain administered the first whitewashing to the United States in 24 years of Davis Cup play, eight years ago to-day at Wimbledon. In the final day's play Fred Perry defeated Wilmer Allison and Bunny Austin upset Donald Budge, making the score 5-0.

Airmen Lead

The only Quebec entry in the National Sandlot Baseball tourney at Toronto next week will be the team representing No. 5 Manning Depot, R.C.A.F., Lachine, who are now resting in first place in the Atwater League. The Airmen have three former Detroit Red Wings, Jack Stewart, Syd Abel and Harry Watson.

Curfew Ruling Ends Wrestling

TORONTO, July 30. —The good old curfew ruling ended last night's Queensbury Athletic Club's main bout at Maple Leaf Garden as Earl McCready and Whipper Billy Watson matched grunt and grip for the British Empire title.

Both had several opportunities to score a fall but couldn't cash in. The Whipper had his Avalanche working well at times while McCready's Cradle Roll rocked Watson considerably at intervals. After 51 minutes and 32 seconds of a fairly good bout the curfew law was enacted and the match declared a draw.

Following are the results:

Main Bout.

Earl McCready, 236, drew with Whipper Billy Watson, 218. Curfew ruling ended the bout after 51 minutes, 32 seconds.

Semi-Final.

The Red Shadow, 236, defeated Al Dunlop, 238, with elbow smashes and spread, in 10 minutes, 28 seconds.

Preliminaries.

Toar Morgan, 218, won over Tony Felice, 225. Felice was disqualified.

Pat Flanagan, 208, defeated Joe Maich, 202, with a drop kick in 24 minutes, 28 seconds.

Electrics Defeat Generals 14-13

The Electrics staged a Frank Merriwell at the Bowl last night, coming from behind a three-run deficit to score four runs in the ninth to defeat their rivals the Generals in a good girls' game. There was some snappy fielding done on both sides to knock off some promising rallies.

M. Larmer, the smiling pitcher went the distance for the winners and held the opposition to 10 safe blows and shew as ably helped by some lusty clouting from V. Martin, R. Oakley and E. McKenzie.

Pat Wilson went the distance for the Generals and pitched a good game, allowing 12 hits but her teammates slipped up in the clutches. R. Thomas in left field for generals slammed a homer in the ninth but it wasn't enough to pull out a win.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 30 —(CP)— For years now, field lacrosse has ranked with Tom Thumb golf, silent motion pictures and Mah-Jongg—good while they lasted, but not likely to return. Edouard (Newsy) Lalonde takes issue with this theory. A legendary figure in hockey and lacrosse circles more than two decades ago, Newsy tells Jack (Cornwall Standard-Freeholder) Park field lacrosse can be revived — if sportsmen prepare now to launch the game after the war.

Boxla, in Newsy's eyes, lacks the science of the more ancient sport. "The war will kill box lacrosse if field men are smart." Hockey better watch out, too—power plays are sending the game downhill fast. One of his visions is a post-war senior lacrosse league along lines of the old National Union, embracing Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Cornwall clubs.

Lalonde started his career as a printer at $3 a week and derives his nickname from a connection with the old Cornwall Freeholder, forerunner of the Standard-Freeholder. He visited Park in the latter's office and marvelled at the flow of world news over the teletypes. "You can sit right in the office now and be a reporter," he said.

Not Guilty

Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh tells about the presiding steward who confronted an owner with an electric battery the steward believed had been used illegitimately. Disclaiming ownership, the horseman replied disarmingly: "Mine has a piece of adhesive tape on it."

On the Same Theme

Racing men in Ontario will tell you out of the sides of their mouths that the practice of vanning horses from one track to another while a meet is in progress to ease the strain on stable accommodation may be frowned upon shortly by oil control officials . . . A greyhound tagged Fibber McGee won two races in one day in Windsor, Ont., and duplicated the feat within two weeks.

Incidentally:

Golf balls with sugar cane instead of rubber centres are reported a postwar possibility . . . to sweeten the tee? . . . Theo Dubois, Canadian and North American senior singles champion, sends regrets from Winnipeg that he can't attend the 61st Royal Canadian Henley Regatta now under way at Port Dalhousie, Ont., "not even as a spectator." A tendon in Theo's hand became infected six weeks ago and may keep him out of action six months . . . Buddy Heximer of Niagara Falls, Ont., once sought by Brooklyn Dodgers, rapped a double and two singles for Navy in a recent Halifax senior baseball league game against Shipyards.

It's Important Not to Neglect Writing Letters

WRITE LETTERS!

On goes the stamp on your letter and away it goes, by train, by plane or by boat, perhaps on its way to cheer some lad in the armed forces. There really is no excuse in this modern world for not writing because with all the facilities at hand your mail is actually speeded in delivery.

Write to your friends! Don't get out of contact and be forgotten. Nothing is so refreshing as to receive newsy letters from people and particularly now, with a war on, the men in the army, navy and air force must receive mail from their family and friends. It is the least you can do when they are fighting for you.

When you do write to a soldier make your letters cheery and interesting — don't bring in the troubles of the day because they enlarge and worry him by the time he gets the letter. Keep your petty troubles to yourself—they're not for letters.

Our 32-page booklet is full of all types of letters to help you with your writing. If you're wondering how to write a charming "thank you" note after a week-end visit, read the booklet. Business letters are also included, with more formality, of course.

[illegible] of GOOD LETTER WRITING MADE EASY send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, addres and the name of booklet.

Bonarlaw News

Pte. Morley Stocker of the Veterans Guard returned to Monteith last week after spending a few days with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seabrook and young daughter of St. Catharines are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

On Monday of this week James Barlow and Dan Kennedy who are holidaying near Havelock spent a few hours calling on friends in Bonarlaw.

On Thursday of last week the annual meeting of the Bonarlaw Wisdom Club was held in the general store of Bell and Barlow. Fred D. Peake of Toronto Public schools, a former teacher of S.S. No. 5, Bonarlaw, was asked to assume the chair for election of officers which resulted as follows: President, William Luery; honorary president, F. D. Peake; vice-president, Thos. H. Prest; secretary-treasurer, Arthur H. Reid; reporter, Jos. McComb; justice of peace, Donald Bell; assistant justice of peace, Jesse Barlow; county field scout, George E. "The Authority on Authorities"

MUCH IS OUT OF SIGHT

FACTORS WHICH prove more important than everything else put together are hidden from your view on lots of deals, and would never be guessed by the soundest minds. Some sizable percentage of all made contracts could be beaten only if the defenders went counter to all principles of common sense, or if they were clairvoyant and could read exactly the holdings of their opponents. But the player who followed the most promising course at such a time must not upbraid himself if it proves that some crazy method would have produced better results.

North: ♠ 9 7 3 ♥ K J 8 3 2 ♦ J 9 2 ♣ K 8

West: ♠ Q 5 ♥ 10 7 5 ♦ Q 7 6 4 ♣ A Q 10 7

East: ♠ A K J 10 ♥ A Q 6 ♦ 5 ♣ J 9 6 5 3

South: ♠ 8 6 4 2 ♥ 9 4 ♦ A K 10 8 3 ♣ 4 2

What would you call the worst suit of all to lead against that bidding, if you could not see the hand of the declarer or dummy, or of your partner? A diamond, of course. You would expect that to give the declarer a head start in setting up a couple of small cards in dummy's long suit. The black suits bid also by the opponents were out of the question, and so South picked the 9 of the unbid hearts, pretty sure his partner had a good holding there.

East got the first trick with the Q and finessed a club to North's K. Now, no matter what the defenders did, they could get nothing else but the diamond A and K. Four tricks were taken in clubs, four in spades and two in hearts, for an extra trick.

Just see what would have happened if, as pointed out in the post-mortem, South had made the worst lead in his hand, a small diamond. Regardless of when West took a trick with his diamond Q, it would have to be on the first or second round, or else the defenders would run the whole suit. After that clubs would have to be finessed, whereupon North would win and the rest of the diamonds would be scored, beating the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ Q 3 ♥ A 8 6 4 ♦ 9 2 ♣ J 7 4 3 2

West: ♠ J 9 6 5 4 ♥ K ♦ A J 10 8 5 ♣ A 5

East: ♠ K 2 ♥ Q J 7 2 ♦ K 4 3 ♣ K Q 10

South: ♠ A 10 8 7 ♥ 10 9 5 3 ♦ Q 7 6 ♣ 8 6

What is the right way for East to play this hand at 3-No Trumps after North uses the heart A on the first trick and returns the 4?

Mosquito Group Formed In RCAF Set-up

OTTAWA, July 30 (CP).— The R.C.A.F., announcing officially that one of its squadrons overseas now has been equipped with mosquito fighter-bombers, told to-day in a press release of the shooting down by some of the squadron's pilots of two enemy aircraft, the damaging of three others and the probable destruction of another.

The mosquito unit, only recently equipped with these high-speed aircraft, is engaged in night-fighter operations, under command of Wing Cmdr. Paul Y. Davoud, D.F.C., of Kingston, Ont.

Davoud, who commanded a Canadian night-fighter unit from September, 1941, until early last winter when he went off operations for six months, has as his flight commanders Sqdn. Ldr. Charles C. Moran, of Trenton, Ont., and Sqdn. Ldr. Dick Bonnell (hometown unavailable).

Hit the Jackpot.

Moran hit the jackpot recently on an intruder sortie over France. "South of Paris I could see three aircraft with their navigation lights on, apparently preparing to land," Moran said in to-day's press release. He was firing his guns in action for the first time.

"I swung into their circuit, and their number had been increased to five. I came in too fast on the first one I attacked, a Heinkel 111, and overshot my target, so wheeled around and came in a second time. A short burst hit his starboard engine, and he crashed in flames.

Plane Blows Up

"A few moments later I was on the tail of a Junkers 88. I flew so close I could see the markings on his aircraft. He blew up in mid-air."

A few nights later Bonnell got the range of a Hun over enemy territory, and "had bad luck in not making a kill," said the air force.

Wing Cmdr. Davoud graduated from Royal Military College at Kingston in 1931 and then attended Queen's University, starring on football teams.

His affiliation with the R.C.A.F. dates back to college days when he enrolled for a provisional pilot officer's course during the summer months at Camp Borden, Ont., from 1933 to 1935 he was a member of No. 17 Squadron, and subsequently joined Canadian Airways, flying to all parts of northern Canada.

From July, 1938, until June, 1940, Davoud was supervisor of transport for the Hudson's Bay Company and organized its air transport division. He joined the R.C.A.F. in June, 1940, and flew a bomber overseas in May, 1941.

R.C.M.P. Ship St. Roch Heads Back Through Northeast Passage

The R.C.M.P. ship, St. Roch, which arrived in Lunenberg, N.S., last October after negotiating the Northwest Passage under Staff-Sgt. Henry Larsen, is headed back again under the same captain. The only member of the St. Roch's crew making the new voyage, who was with her when she same through the Northwest Passage before, is Second Engineer Constable J. W. Peters, of Winnipeg, LEFT, shown readying the St. Roch's engine with the ship's new first engineer, 67-year-old Robert Johnson. Johnson, a veteran of the northwest Arctic, gave up a similar job on a mission ship operating out of Fort Resolution, to join Larsen whom he has known since 1923. Among other members of the St. Roch's new crew are Ted Mayo of Newfoundland, LEFT; William Parks of Lunenberg, CENTRE, and Kenneth Lohnes of Lunenberg also—PICTURED ON DECK.

Jap Destroyer Fired By Bomb

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, July 30 (AP).— Allied aircraft and surface units ripped into Japanese shipping in the Southwest Pacific yesterday, setting fire to a destroyer and a transport, scoring near misses on a small freighter and destroying 13 barges.

Heavy bombers, summoned by a reconnaissance plane, dropped explosives squarely on the destroyer and transport off Cape Gloucester, New Britain. Both ships were left burning fiercely.

Heavy bombers, striking Manokwari at the northwestern tip of Dutch New Guinea by daylight, scored damaging near misses on a 2,500-ton freighter.

Aerial battering of the Munda, New Georgia, air base are continued. Forty-seven tons of bombs were dropped on enemy entrenchments and gun positions.

Fifteen enemy fighters attempted to intetrcept a formation of medium bombers raiding a barge on Rein Bay on the north coast of New Britain. Nine fighters, escorting the bombers, engaged the enemy, shot down six Zeros and probably destroyed two more. There was no report of any Allied loss. The bombers destroyed seven barges and two launches and set off violent explosions in fuel dumps near the bay.

Light surface craft intercepted four Japanese barges off Kolombangara Island in the Solomons at night and sank two. Similar craft destroyed four barges off New Guinea and bombers got three more in the same area.

Another aerial activity included raids on the Vila airbase of Kolombangara Island, on Unea Island north of New Britain, on airdromes on Timor and on enemy installations at Larat Island 300 miles north of Darwin.

Italians Sing On Prison Train

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, July 30 (CP)—Whether the Allied invasion had anything to do with it is not known, but it was a jovial lot of German and Italian prisoners that passed through here recently on the way to an internment camp somewhere in Canada.

Many of the 200 were youths who were captured behind the lines before becoming acquainted with the blood and grime of battlefields. They didn't seem to mind captivity, and gave Churchill's "V" for victory sign and upped their thumbs as they passed through nearby communities.

When their train stopped at a nearby railway junction, the prisoners burst into song and kept it up long enough to draw a small audience.

Monopoly Plan Menace Jolliffe Says

TORONTO, July 30 (CP).—E.B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. Leader, said today the monopoly system constitutes the "greatest menace to freedom" in Canada — "and the C.C.F. alone dares to challenge the irresponsible and undemocratic powers of the big monopolies."

"The big monopolies,' aided and abetted by the Liberal party, are in complete control of agriculture," Mr. Jolliffe said in an election campaign address broadcast over a CBC network. "They are responsible for the low prices the farmer receives. They are regimenting and exploiting the farmer today."

The meat-packing "monopoly" had made the "largest profits in its history" last year, Mr. Jolliffe said. Liberal Premier Nixon and his ministers had not attempted, he said, to challenge the power of the monopolies "as they make their millions out of the Ontario farmers."

The C.C.F. would end monopoly exploitation and protect the farmer by bringing processing plants under public or co-operative ownership or control. Marketing boards would be fully represented.

Mr. Jolliffe said there is "no single sign" to indicate that Premier Nixon or Lt.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader, dare to touch "the great monopolies which constitute the invisible government of Ontario."

Ontario Boys Storm Leonforte, Nearby Sicily Cliffs

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH CANADIAN TROOPS IN SICILY, Juy 28.— (Delayed)—(CP Cable.)—Eastern Canada infantry has driven the Germans out of the mountain stronghold of Leonforte, and the battered town is completely in Canadian hands.

In a two-day battle for the town and nearby cliffs, Canadian infantry attacks were finally successful late Tuesday when the last snipers were cornered in a house and fighting simmered out.

(Capture by the Canadians of Leonforte was first announced today (Thursday) by Allied Headquarters in North Africa. A little later the U.S. Acting War Secretary, Robert Patterson, announced in Washington that the Canadians, continuing their strong drive northeast toward the German Mount Etna line, had also taken Agira, about 12 miles east of Leonforte.)

The Germans withdrew to high ground north of the town where it appeared they were going to try to make a determined defensive stand.

As clearer information comes from the front, an Ontario regiment is being lauded for an heroic assault up a cliffside two night ago and a smash into Assoro.

(Assoro is almost at the outskirts of Leonforte. This was the first reference to its capture by Canadian troops.)

Exploits of the Royal Canadian Engineers in rebuilding a blown bridge at night outside Leonforte under direct machine-gun and mortar fire was another highlight of the central front operations.

As the Canadians continue their pressure here against strong opposition, the Americans are pushing ahead to the west with very little opposition.

The Germans seem to be falling back on a general line running from north of Leonforte to the Tyrrhenian coast, but the principal stand and the final battle for Sicily are likely to be further to the northeast, around Mount Etna.

I believe there is the equivalent of 2½ divisions of German troops opposing the 8th Army and the Americans on strong defensive lines.

(Since Munro wrote this dispatch the Americans have moved steadily eastward and to-day occupied Nicosia, 7½ miles north of Leonforte.)

Annual W.M.S. Picnic Has Proceeds Of $23

HAVELOCK, July 30 (ENS). — A splendid crowd attended the annual picnic of the Women's Missionary Society at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Wing at Round Lake on Wednesday afternoon.

Members and their families and the cottagers spent the afternoon in swimming, boating, Chinese checkers and dominoes. A picnic supper was served on the lawn.

A short musical program followed, when Mrs. Wallace Denike of Toronto, sang two favorite hymns "Stranger of Galilee" and "Softly and Tenderly", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke, Miss Kathleen Larmer sang a Kittie Folk Song, accompanied by Miss Laura Wing. The proceeds amounted to over $23.00.

Bombed Trapani Now Ghost Town

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

TRAPANI, Sicily, July 24.—(Delayed)—(AP).— Bombed Trapani is the ghost town of all Sicily.

Only American soldiers and a few remaining residents move through the all but deserted streets of this fourth largest city on the island. In the perimeter of the town there is comparatively little damage, but areas near the port which the Axis used as a supply centre during its abortive North African campaign, are heavily battered.

Allied air bombs made a shambles of the piers and warehouses and spars of sunken ships mark another watery graveyard for the vanishing Axis merchant marine.

Describing how the city fell Pte. Joseph Haymer, of Chicago, said: "The infantry moved in under cover of artillery fire. An hour or two of shelling was all it took. The troops just walked on in after that. The only resistance was litte mortar and artillery fire. The Italians came out in droves to give up. I heard we took 10,000 prisoners in this area.

Outside Trapani the airport adjoining the road to Palermo had been literally smashed apart by Allied raiders who for weeks had made it one of their principa targets.

H.S. Plans Service Honor Roll

OMEMEE, July 30 (ENS).—The following taken from the general register of Omemee High School, is a list of names of ex-pupils known or reported to be serving in the armed forces. It is planned to prepare a roll of honour for the school. As it is wished to make this list complete and accurate in every detail, relatives and friends are invited to make suggestions, or draw attention to omissions and errors. In some cases the second names or initials do not appear in the register; it would be greatly appreciated if these were supplied. Such assistance will be gratefully received by Caroline McQuade, Omemee.

Mayor James Hamilton Says:

"Peterborough's fine record of reducing taxes by almost 25 per cent. in the last 10 years has been made possible largely through the policy of the Liberal Government of assuming the costs of services formerly paid by the City."

Peterborough Got Best of Deal

When Government commenced its policy of one mill subsidy to municipalities Peterborough City was then collecting a Municipal Income Tax which it forfeited. The loss in Municipal Income Tax is estimated at $99,750.00 while Municipal Subsidy Paid by Government up to March 31, 1943 totalled $153,387.90.

$43.00 on Farm Assessed for $5,000

In eight years of Liberal Administration, Peterborough County ratepayers have been saved $731,590.24 or on County bases of 68.8 mills and an annual saving of 8.6 mills or $43.00 annually on a farm assessed for $5,000.

County Ratepayers

You are still paying for King's highways today built by the Conservative Government prior to 1934 but these figures will show you that it was not necessary for your County Council to place a debenture mortgage of $435,770 in principal forgetting all about the interest you would also pay against your farms.

Provincial Bonuses Paid Peterboro Farmers

Hogs, $29,452. Cheese, $58,413. Total $87,865.

Explanation of Financial Benefits to Municipalities

1. MUNICIPAL SUBSIDY
The subsidy was paid to cities, towns, townships and incorporated villages. In the fiscal years ending March 31, 1938, 1939, 1941 and 1942, the subsidy was 1 mill and in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1940, it was 1½ mill.

2. MAINTENANCE OF INDIGENT PATIENTS IN SANATORIA
Prior to July 1, 1938, the expense of hospitalizing indigent patients in sanatoria for consumptives was distributed among the local municipalities, the counties and the provincial government.

The counties paid to sanatoria a statutory grant of $10.50 per patient per week and were entitled to charge one-half of this amount back to the local municipality in which the patient had legal residence. In addition the province paid a per diem grant of 57 cents for such patients.

Organized municipalities not forming part of a county for municipal purposes were required to pay to sanatoria for consumptives $10.50 per patient per week and the province paid to sanatoria per diem grant of 57 cents for such patients. This also applies to municipalities in districts.

The amendments to "The Sanatoria for Consumptives Act" effective since July 1938, transferred the total expense of maintenance of indigent patients in sanatoria for consumptives to the provincial government and thereby effected considerable annual savings to each municipality.

3. TOWNSHIP ROAD SUBSIDY.
In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, the road subsidy paid to townships was changed from 40% to 50%.

4. KING'S HIGHWAYS
Prior to the fiscal year ended March 31, 1936, the municipalities were charged with 20% of the maintenance and construction cost of King's Highways. The province now bears the whole cost of King's Highways.

5. COUNTY ROADS
Assumption of certain county road mileage by King's Highways System.

6. OLD AGE PENSIONS.
In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, the province assumed the municipalities' share (10%) of all Old Age Pensions.

7. PENSIONS FOR THE BLIND
Pensions for the blind were first paid in 1938, and the municipalities, therefore, have never contributed to these pensions. However, the 10%, as in the case of Old Age Pensions, would have been carried by the municipalities had not the provincial government assumed the municipalities' share of the cost.

8. MOTHERS' ALLOWANCES
In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, the province assumed the municipalities' share (50%) of Mothers' Allowances.

TRAINING SCHOOL ACT, 1939, ch. 51, 3 Geo. VI
This new Act changes the rate from a former charge of 75 cents per diem to 50 cents per diem, chargeable to municipalities, effective July, 1939.
The two schools are Ontario Training School for Boys, at Bowmanville and the Ontario Training School for Girls at Galt, now transferred to Cobourg.

Air Offensive Envelops Remscheid

Sgt. W. B. Hamilton Of Peterborough Takes Part In Raid

LONDON, July 31 (CP)—The Allies rolling air offensive shifted to a new target last night when R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers blasted at Remscheid, German steel centre on the edge of the Ruhr.

It was the first raid of the war on Remscheid, which was singled out for last night's heavy asault after Hamburg had been subjected to its seventh attack in a week on Thursday night. Bombers of the Canadian moose squadron flew with the R.A.F. on the raid.

The massive offensive rolled on throughout daylight today with tight-flying formations of Allied bombers being shepherded out over the Channel by droves of fighters.

An almost unbroken rumble of explosions and heavy gunfire reverberated throughout the morning in the Folkestone area. The whole northern French coast appeared to be in a state of eruption.

At the same time R.A.F. and Canadian Mosquitoes and Beaufighters attacked enemy airfields and railway targets in sweeps over France and Holland, the airministry communique disclosed. One Canadian plane was lost.

Fifteen bombers and two fighters, including two Canadian bombers, are missing from the night's attacks.

Remscheid is the centre for the manufacture of machine and precision tools vital to German munitions production.

The specific target of the big bombers' heavy attack was the Alexanderwerk A.G. which covers 75 acres with special shops building machinery for the chemical industry and the manufacture of motor parts and small arms.

There are also 25 smaller factories in the city, mostly engaged in tool making and extensive railway repair shops.

Ontarions who flew in an R.A.F. Stirling squadron included FO. Bill Hamilton of Woodroffe, Sgts. Bruce Winders of Ingersoll and W. B. Hamilton of Peterborough.

Yugoslav Unit Invades Italy

LONDON, July 31 (AP) — The Yugoslav government declared today Gen. Draja Mihailovic's 5th and 8th Brigades of Slovene troops had broken through Italian lines and reached the Undine region of northern Italy.

The announcement said the patriots had begun immediately the recruiting of Slovene inhabitants of the Italian region for active resistance to the Axis.

It said that according to the latest reports the population, "in great numbers" was joining the troops.

Earlier reports had told of fighting between Slovenes on the one hand and Germans and Italians on the other on Italian territory, but no hint of a penetration as far as Udine. Udine is 40 miles northwest of Nazi-occupied Trieste and about the same distance west of the old Italian-Yugoslav border.

At the same time the Yugoslav government announced that patriots, attacking a German-Bulgarian punitive force near the town of Zagecar, wrecked a train, killed a majority of the 500 passengers and took the commanding officer a prisoner.

Hastings Unit Whips Germans

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 22—(Delayed)—(CP).—Nine Canadian regiments are among the units which have been in action in the Canadian force fighting with the British 8th Army in Sicily.

Until now censorship prevented correspondents from using the names of regiments for security reasons. The regiments, however, have been wearing their regimental shoulder flashes bearing the names of the units since the landing in Sicily.

Four of these units made the initial assault on the Pachina Peninsula. On the right side of the beach were the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. On the left were the Seaforth Highlanders and the Princess Pats.

Came In As Reserves.

During the morning of the landing the Loyal Edmontons and the 48th Highlanders came in as reserves to push inland and the two Maritime regiments and the Royal 22nd followed them in. The R.C.R. raced inland to capture Pachino airdrome and smash the Italian defence posts northeast of the town. The other assault battalions had some fighting on the beaches, then advanced inland. The Loyal Edmontons occupied Ispica on the march into central Sicily and the Seaforths and Princess Pats occupied Modica.

The Canadians moved up through Vizzini and the first spirited action came at Gremmichele, between Vizzini and Callagierone, when a German-Italian force of infantry, tanks and guns blasted an advance guard of Hastings and Prince Edward men working with a tank reconnaissance patrol.

The enemy fired on the column and knocked out some bren gun carriers before the Canadian force got going and stormed down and drove the Germans out.

Looking back on the Grammichele fight, it was a notable victory for the Hastings and Prince Edward unit and the sections of other units with them.

Later the 48th occupied Collagirone without a fight and the Edmontons got into their first real battle south of Piazza Armerina which was taken following a fight on the plains and hills near the town.

Put Up a Great Fight

Pushing north, the Carleton and York, the West Nova Scotia and the Royal 22nd Regiments went into their initial action in a battle last Sunday (July 18) before Enna when the infantry attacked following a heavy artillery bar-

Giraud Heads Armed Force De Gaulle Named President

By DANIEL DE LUCE—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALGIERS, July 31—(AP).—Unification of the French armed forces under Gen. Henri Giraud as commander-in-chief was announced today, together with the appointment of Gen. Charles de Gaulle as permanent president of the newly-formed committee of National Defence.

Spurred by the imminent collapse of Italy, the French National Committee of Liberation unified all the fighting forces of the empire under Gen. Giraud and appointed Gen. de Gaulle to head the new Committee of National Defence.

The committee appointed Gen. Paul Le Gentilhomme, veteran De Gaullist military leader, assistant Commissioner of National Defence, leaving the Commissioner himself unnamed for the present.

Gen. Leyer was made chief of the Army General Staff and Brig.-Gen. Pierre Koenig of Bir Hacheim fame became assistant chief.

Rear-Admiral Le Monnier was appointed chief of the Navy Staff, with Rear-Admiral Philippe Marie Auboyneau assistant chief, and Gen. Rene Bouscat remained as chief of staff of the Air Force.

By solving the eight-month-old dispute between Giraud and De Gaulle over the command of French military strength and harmonizing all elements of the empire, the French committee presented a united front to Britain and the United States in seeking recognition among the United Nations.

It was announced Giraud will

Paper Rationing Effective Aug. 1

OTTAWA, July 31 (CP)—Starting Aug. 1, every publication having the style or format of a newspaper, magazine or other periodical will be subject to quota for its supply of print paper under a new order (295) announced today by the Prices Board.

The order does not affect daily newspapers, and a board spokesman expressed belief it would be beneficial to daily newspapers because it brings under control all competitive advertising media in the publication field.

Last December, the board issued an order (223) restricting the use of print paper by newspapers and other periodicals published at intervals of not more than three months. Today's order applies regardless of the number of issues printed (one or more) of the frequency or regularity of issue, thus bringing under control publications not affected by the previous order.

Bitter Hand to Hand Fighting Rages In Mountains Between Canadians, Germans

Capt. Jack Baird Serves In Ack-Ack Battery

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

With The Canadians in Central Sicily, July 28 — (Delayed) — (CP Cable)—A Canadian light anti-aircraft unit commanded by a lieutenant-colonel from a Calgary regiment knocked the tar out of a squadron of 12 Messerschmitts strafing the roads and camps in this sector.

One fighter was hit dead on with a Bofors shell and crashed. Two others went off, trailing smoke, and probably crashed in the mountains, and two more were hit and damaged.

The same regiment was in action on the beaches after the initial landings in Sicily and the unit's total score on the island is nine planes destroyed and about the same number damaged. The unit's score against pill-boxes also is high. Its gunners blasted enemy machine-gun posts with flak shells in the battle for Valguarnera which fell July 19.

Battery commanders of this regiment include Maj. Jack Whitwill, Brantford, Ont.

John Baird of Peterborough, Ont., is adjutant of the regiment.

The regiment was stationed on the south coast of England for a number of months and destroyed about a dozen German hit-and-run raiders there.

Acting Captain John V. Baird, was a broker in Peterborough before receiving an appointment to the Active Army in February, 1941.

A native of Peterborough, where he was born January 17, 1907, Captain Baird received his education at Peterborough schools. He graduated from collegiate in 1924.

He was commissioned in the 4th Field Battery in May, 1940 and went on active service the following February. Proceeding overseas, as a reinforcement officer, Captain Baird was made adjutant of an artillery regiment March 27, 1943.

His wife is Mrs. Lillian Baird, and she resides in this city.

Believe Allies Sparing Italian Fleet

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press War Analyst

Allied planes are over the Italian fleet almost every day. This is no revelation of a military secret, it's just something that is bound to be true. But no bombs are dropped. Why?

Outside of a flurry at La Spezia Italy's important naval bases have gone remarkably scot free recently. Crotone was bombarded and bombed, but not nearby Taranto. Bombers from the Middle East went to Bari July 17, but concentrated on the air field. There may have been something at La Spezia, so near the Messina Strait, that needed attention just before the invasion of Sicily but on the whole Allies appear to have been almost as solicitous for the safety of the Italian navy as was Mussolini.

Could Use Harbors

It may be only that the bombers have had more urgent work to do elsewhere. But there may be another answer.

There has been the suggestion the pendulum in Italy might even swing so far as to bring her into the war on our side.

If Italy is occupied, her shipyards and factories would be available for maintenance and supply of her fleet and, with raw materials from the United Nations she might do a much better job of it than she did for herself.

One expert with whom I discussed the subject disagrees. He says the Italian fleet is too dispersed, making bombing not worthwhile during the other more urgent Mediterranean campaigns of recent months. But several others think the harbors of La Spezia, Bari and Taranto are black with ships, with additional concentrations at Genoa, Venice and even at heavily bombed Naples. They say the ships are not coming out, cannot come out in the face of aerial reconnaissance and superiority, and that they are not holding any more Allied naval strength in the Mediterranean than would be necessary anyway.

Gains Announced At All Points As Drive Starts

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 31.—(AP).— A powerhouse drive of Allied armies crushed more Axis defence salients, Allied Headquarters announced to-day, as British and United States' naval forces drew a tight noose about the north-western tip of Sicily and aircraft laid down a heavy offensive against mainland airdromes.

Both the British 8th Army, which long had been held at a standstill before Catania on the east coast, the Canadian 1st Division in the centre, and the American 7th Army driving in from the west, scored gains, Headquarters announced.

American torpedo patrol boats, announced in action in Sicilian waters for the first time swarmed off the north coast and 50 miles up the coast of the Italian mainland, striking repeatedly at enemy supply vessels, sinking at least three, while British naval detachments shelled the Italian mainland and the Sicilian coast and cruised into the narrowest part of Messina Strait hunting enemy ferries.

Allied aircraft again swept to the vicinity of Rome to plaster an airfield.

The troops in their ground advances exacted heavy casualties among Axis troops. The Canadians at the central hinge also stormed forward, following their capture of Agra after an artillery and air barrage which German veterans said was worse than anything they had experienced in Russia or North Africa.

Spectacular victories were scored by both air and sea forces in the battle to prevent reinforcement of the hardpressed Sicilian garrison.

A medium bomber chased a heavily armed Merseburg - 323 transport far out to sea before destroying it over Cape Coree, near Augusta, Sicily. Windows opened from the big plane, which can carry more than 100 infantrymen, and tommy-guns blazed during the battle, causing the Allied pilot to believe it was filled with troops.

Other Allied planes attacked two groups of nine Junkers-52 transports and damaged at least three in each gorup. The toll taken of these big transports has been high the past week.

Hun Reserves Break Under Red Pressure

Three-Pronged Drive Exerts Pressure On Key Base Of Orel

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 31—(AP). — German reinforcements flown to Russia from Germany less than a day before they were thrown into battle broke before the furious onslaught that brought Red Army forces closer to Orel yesterday, the front line dispatches said today.

At least 4,000 German troops fell before the Russian advance which battered its way for gains up to six miles and possession of 20 more villages in the path of the three-pronged drive slowly strangling the key German base, a Soviet communique said.

The reports said German prisoners taken in the drive declared they had been flown to the front from Stettin the day before yesterday.

Stubborn Resistance.

The Russians said their advance continued in the face of stubborn German resistance which in some cases entailed hand-to-hand fighting.

North of Orel the Russians continued to use cavalry units which succeeded in driving German troops out of several villages, the communique reported. In another sector north of Orel 800 Germans were killed, nine tanks were disabled and four destroyed.

South of Orel, Russian troops were reported to have killed 2,000 Germans, destroyed 16 tanks and captured six others in addition to disabling or capturing a large number of artillery pieces.

Lost No Planes.

In the Belgorod area, eight Soviet fighter planes engaged 23 of the enemy, bringing down four without loss to themselves, the communique added.

In the Donets basin area southwest of Voroshilovgrad the Red Army hurled back a German assault with heavy losses in Nazi manpower and tanks, the bulletin said.

Soviet artillery was said to have smashed 52 blockhouses and dugouts, an ammunition dump on the Leningrad front and Red Army airmen wrecked three German trains and brought down four enemy planes.

In the Barents Sea two German patrol boats were sunk by Red Army aircraft.

Vatican Envoy Ciano Resigns

LONDON, July 31 — (CP). — The Rome Radio said today Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, had resigned as Italian ambassador to the Vatican.

Ciano was accredited to the Holy See last February 7 after six years as Italy's foreign minister, a post which he had lost a few days earlier when Mussolini made a series of cabinet shifts.

Ciano, 39, is the husband of Mussolini's daughter, Edda, who has shared with him the safety of Vatican City quarters the last five months.

Opening of an avenue for a possible pease bid was among the ideas advanced at the time as a possible explanation for his ambassadorial appointment. Another was German antipathy for him.

(Rome newspapers which were permitted to cross the border into Switzerland said both Mussolini and Ciano had been arrested and that they were held at the Palazzo Chigi.)

Hamburg Port Pulverized

All Facilities Disrupted By Recent Raids

STOCKHOLM, July 31 —(AP)— The relentless Allied aerial pounding of Hamburg has left Germany's greatest seaport in a chaotic condition—with its communications virtually paralyzed, eyewitness reports said last night.

The main railway station is gutted and the telephone exchange building has been hit so hard the city's phone system has been crippled.

Other damage reported by these eyewitnesses:

Three submarines in process of completion on the Blohm and Voss wharf were blown to pieces.

A direct hit flooded the Elbe Canal tunnel carrying motor traffic and supplies between the Blohm and Voss yards, the Deutsche Verft plant, and the city proper.

Traffic over the Lombards railway bridge across the Alster has been halted by a bomb hit.

The meteorological headquarters in the St. Paul's district of Hamburg and the administration building of the Hapag Shipping Company have been wrecked by explosives and fire.

A stick of bombs fell across the Steinhoft Quay, wrecking it and putting all installations out of commission.

That Hamburg harbor received a thorough blasting also is indicated by a Swedish announcement that one Swedish merchantman was destroyed and another badly damaged in the port.

Balkans Restless; Await Revolt Signal

Serious Rumblings Also Emanate From Nazi Occupied France

MADRID, July 31 (AP)—Underground forces of occupied Europe and opponents of pro-German Balkan governments, stirred by Mussolini's ouster and the Italian crisis, have grown increasingly restless and some are awaiting orders to erupt against Axis powers, dispatches and reports from widely-separated points indicated today.

An indication Germany views the Balkan situation gravely was seen in reports the Nazis were hastily consolidating their positions in Italy's Trieste doorway to the Balkans, possibly in fear an Allied push there would find ready sympathy from the Balkan peoples.

(A Cairo broadcast said last night Axis troops had fired on Greek patriots protesting German orders assigning Bulgarian troops to Greek garrison points. There were "numerous victims," said the broadcast.

Many Strikes

(Widespread strikes and violent street demonstrations were touched off, the radio report said.

(A Berlin broadcast quoted an Athens dispatch as saying German occupation troops had been removed from many Greek cities because they were needed elsewhere due to "military necessity" and increased Greek guerilla activity.)

Spanish correspondents in Vichy reported the "communist" threat there was growing, according to Vichy authorities.

Inasmuch as Vichy calls any anti-Nazi activity "communistic" these reports were interpreted as referring all underground groups.

One Vichy dispatch reported a clash in Paris Wednesday between 100 "Communists" and French veterans from the German front in Russia. "Police witnessed the attack but did nothing," the dispatch said, adding "there were casualties on both sides." Also reported were continuous attacks by underground groups against occupation authorities throughout French territory.

(From Berne, Switzerland, came reports of serious rumblings in Vichy-dominated France. The Zurich newspaper Weltwoche asserted France's secret army numbers at least 250,000 men, all "obsessed with a burning hatred of the occupying forces of the Vichy regime.")

The Bucharest correspondent of the Phalange newspaper Arriba reported "that which the chancellories cannot settle, will be settled by bayonets—but the war approaches its crisis of liberation."

In the Balkans proper patriot guerilla bands were watching Italian occupational troops, ready to seize any arms they might leave if called home, and Bulgarian partisan bands concluded a formal agreement with the guerilla forces of Gen. Draja Mihailovich, Balkan reports stated. All have been tremendously encouraged by Allied successes in Sicily and raids against the Nazis are continuous, the reports said.

Reports from Berne last night said about 2,500,000 refugees were believed to have left the northern cities of Italy, many of them crowding into the areas between Milan and the Swiss border. It was not made clear whether Allied bombings were feared or whether there were disorders in the cities or fighting between the Germans and Italians.

Lone Officer Faces Tanks

Finds Pistol No Match For Machine-Guns

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 28 (Delayed) (CP Cable) — Battleline jottings from a war correspondent's notebook:—

Capt. Jack Leach of Kingston, Ont., is an anti-tank officer with a western unit, the Princess Patricia's Canadian light infantry. He ran into some enemy tanks but all he had with him was his pistol. He is still cursing his luck for his guns could have blown them to bits.

Leach was at the outskirts of a town when machine-guns blazed down the road at him. He fingered his pistol. Then he got closer and realized suddenly the machine gun fire was coming from three big tanks at a corner. He couldn't do anything about that so he went back to get the guns up, but by that time the tanks had disappeared.

German newspapers get to the Nazis at the front. In one position overrun by the Canadian I picked up some fairly recent copies of Berlin's Voelkischer Beobachter. One was dated July 20, the day the invasion of Sicily started. But there was no mention of the Allied landings. Russian news predominated in the paper.

FAR REACHING CHANGES IN ITALY-SICILY EXPECTED OVER SUNDAY

British Cabinet Ordered To Stand By

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 31—(AP)—Great Britain, the United States and Soviet Russia are acting in close harmony in dealing with the Italian situation it was learned to-day, and it can be presumed that any armistice terms laid down for Italy would carry the approval of all three powers.

This manifestation of Allied unity became known as Prime Minister Winston Churchill ordered all British cabinet members and heads of the fighting services to stand by over the week-end for any possible developments in connection with the Italian crisis.

Other Allied governments were also being kept informed of developments. Foreign Minister Anthony Eden summoned their representatives into conference shortly after the two early morning sessions yesterday of the British war cabinet.

As Good As Done.

It was pointed out that the three powers—Great Britain, the United States and Russia—are pledged to achieve unconditional surrender and the specific terms of any capitulation would be laid down with full regard for the military requirements of the Allies. These, presumably, would include a joint statement as to the best methods of using Italy's surrender to strike at the major Axis power—Germany.

The early cabinet meeting created a wave of excitement in London and there was a feeling that big news was about to break—either a sudden capitulation by Italy or a possible new invasion blow.

This feeling was bolstered by a Vatican City report broadcast by Radio Algiers that Luigi Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State, had spent yesterday in almost continuous conversation with diplomats of countries accredited to the Holy See.

The general view in London was that Italy was as good as knocked out of the war already, and one London newspaper, the Daily Mir-

One Man Army

By ROSS MUNRO
C.P. War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS IN CENTRAL SICILY, July 28—(Delayed)—(CP Cable). —Here's a story about a young Montreal lieutenant, Ed O'Toole, who went into Agira while the battle was raging to establish liaison with infantry groups in the town. He ran into four German machine-gun posts and launched a one-man attack against them immediately. Throwing a grenade into one post he silenced it. He tommy-gunned another and then withdrew with one prisoner.

CAMPBELLFORD

Prizes Given For Cheese At Fall Fair

CAMPBELLFORD, July 31 (ENS) —Both buyers and salesmen who attended the local cheese board are going to put up prize money designed to attract entries in the cheese exhibit at the Campbellford fall fair.

This was announced following the meeting on Thursday when a motion coming from the buyers offered $15 in special prize money to the Fair Board. To be eligible for entry in the contest the cheese must be from a factory which boards at Campbellford. The cheese board itself also announced they would contribute $15 in prizes for cheese this being the same as was offered a year ago.

Though there has long been a regulation on the Board that all cheese should be sold subject to Campbellford weights and grades and be paid for with cheques payable at par, the complaint that some factories were still being forced to pay exchange was made again. They urged that action be taken against the offending companies whose buyers assured them they would again take the matter up with their head office.

Another move to have meetings cut down to one a month was made but again failed to rally the support of salesmen. A. J. Meyers made the suggestion that buyers take the same factory each week for the remainder of the season and that board meetings be held once a month as they are in Belleville and Kingston. Salesmen did not approve the plan. A slight box shortage was indicated as being the reason for holding up shipments of some cheese but it was described as only a temporary condition.

Compares CCF To Nazi Party

ST. THOMAS, July 31 (CP) — Former Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn in an address here last night compared the C.C.F. party with the German National Socialist party and declared the objective of the C.C.F. is to "set up a totalitarian state." Mr. Hepburn is campaigning in the Ontario election as an Independent Liberal in Elgin riding.

"You can't have a totalitarian state with British people populating this country," Mr. Hepburn said. "If you want regimentation in Canada, vote for the C.C.F.—have National Socialism carried out."

Referring briefly to the Progressive Conservative party led by Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, he said the only two constructive plans in Col. Drew's 22-point program were proposed lowering of the Hydro rate and tax on real properties.

Bitter Struggle For Munda Grows In Scope

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, July 31—(AP)—Tanks and flamethrowers were hurled into the battle for Munda yesterday to burn the Japanese out of their rock caves and foxholes and batter down their pillboxes.

Behind these dread weapons, Allied troops crushed forward a few yards more. Extent of their gains was not announced.

It was the first reported use of flamethrowers in the month-old fight for the enemy's important central Solomons airbase. Use of tanks had been attempted before but the rugged jungle terrain stopped them.

While the armored units were blazing ahead southeast of Munda, other Allied forces north of the airdrome battered back a Japanese counter-attack. United States Navy torpedo and divebombers, covered by fighters, struck heavily at coastal positions west of the airdrome where the Japanese still cling to beachheads.

Air Might Grows

Strong formations of bombers pounded enemy gun positions around Bairoko Harbor 10 miles north of Munda.

New evidence of the growing Allied aerial might was contained in today's communique. Heavy bombers, escorted by powerful force of fighters, attacked Ballale airdrome in the northern Solomons, causing huge fires.

The crippling attack against Japanese shipping continued. At least 11 barges attempting to run troops and supplies to New Guinea were destroyed and many others were damaged or destroyed.

Sharp fighting continued in the area between Mubo and Salamaua, New Guinea, but its progress was not detailed.

Knox Reports

The growing might of Allied arms in the Pacific is being readied for a series of great offensive thrusts against Japan as soon as the present preparatory strategy has set the stage.

This was the understanding here today following an indication by United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox that the present "Island-to-Base" strategy probably will be scrapped in the "not-too-distant future."

Italians Reject Peace Proposal

By WILLIAM B. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ANKARA, Turkey, July 30—(Delayed)—(AP).—A neutral source in contact with both the Axis and the Allies said today Italians had not accepted Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's surrender terms because Germany has threatened revenge.

This source, who cannot further be identified, said the threat was delivered in talks between the Italian Ambassador, Raffaele Guariglia, and the German Ambassador, Fritz von Papen, just before the Italian left by plane to become Foreign Minister in the Badoglio Cabinet.

Von Papen tempered the threat with the promise that if the Italian Cabinet resisted public pressure for capitulation and continued to fight, Germany would take Italy's badly-battered position into consideration in the disposition of troops, even to the point of revising the whole defence plan for Axis-held Europe, it was reported.

8th Army Moves Americans Drive On Coast

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 31—(AP). — Both the British 8th Army and the American 7th Army have made good progress on the north and east sectors of the Sicilian front, Allied Headquarters announced today as Allied naval forces swept Italian coastal waters and Allied aircraft laid down a heavy offensive against Italy's mainland airdrome.

Very heavy casualties were inflicted by the British and American troops, the communique said.

The two armies captured more than 1,000 new prisoners in the northern sector.

The unconditional surrender of the islands of Favignana, Levanzo and Marettimo was reported.

The three little islands form a triangle off the west coast of Sicily, the most westerly being Marettimo, 25 miles from Allied-occupied Trapani.

The announcement also said the Canadians continued their advance over the rugged highlands of Sicily in bitter hand-to-hand fighting. Latest town they have captured was Agira, which Ross Munro, Canadian Press war correspondent, said fell at 3.15 p.m. Wednesday, July 28.

300 Nazis Killed.

More than 300 Germans were captured, he added, and some 300 killed in combat.

The Canadians were only 10 miles south of the highway town of Triona. From their position they could execute a flanking movement against that town.

Bombers returned to the suburbs of Rome to pulverize the Practica Di Mare airport 11 miles south of the capital, and other aircraft, returning to the mainland for another of their sledgehammer blows, attacked Grottaglie airport near Taranto on the Italian heel.

Fighters in a savage fight over Sardinia shot to pieces a formation of German and Italian fighters, destroying 21 out of about 35. The Axis air force reeled under the lopsided score of 26 Axis planes lost to one Allied plane missing for the day.

Some Royal Navy and American warships sweeping Italian coastal waters in defiance of enemy shore guns have sunk one merchantman and have probably sunk one E-boat and three heavily armed lighters, it was officially announced to-day.

Allied cruisers and destroyers, meanwhile, joined with aircraft in destroying rail communications in Southern Italy, bombarding important railway bridges near Locri under the toe of the Italian boot Wednesday night.

Torpedo boats sank a large enemy marchantman being towed by a tug and machine-gunned the tug in the Gulf of Patti on the north coast of Sicily on the night of July 26 in a burst of renewed Allied naval activity.

On the same night, torpedo boats attacked heavily-armed enemy lighters near the Island of Stromboli, North of Sicily, probably sinking two and damaging others.

In the early hours of July 29 American P-T boats operating off Cape Orlando on the North coast of Sicily engaged three heavily armed enemy lighters and probably sank one.

On the night of July 29-30 a small detachment of P-T boats working in the Gulf of Eufemia on the Italian peninsula north of Cape Vaticano engaged greatly superior forces of armed fighters and four E-boats. One E-boat was probably destroyed.

CAMPBELLFORD

Charge Peterboro Man With Reckless Driving

CAMPBELLFORD, July 31 (ENS) —Two local youths, one a member of the armed forces, were assessed fines for being drunk in a public place by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Friday afternoon.

Pte. Robert Montgomery with the Irish Regiment in Toronto pleaded guilty to the charge through his counsel J. F. R. Douglas. Chief Constable William Wellman of Hastings who laid the charge in Hastings on July 24 said he would be satisfied if the minimum fine were imposed. The other accused was Clarence Stephens, 20, of Campbellford, who also pleaded guilty. Both were assessed $10 and $8.75 costs.

Elwood Riel of 103 Rubidge street, Peterborough, was charged by Provincial Constable C. G. Hayes with driving without due care and attention. The constable testified the charge had been laid on July 16 after the accused had turned his car over on No. 30 highway when he failed to negotiate a corner. Riel pleaded guilty and contributed $5 and $2.50 costs.

Army Cash Bonus Out

WASHINGTON, July 31 — (AP) —Government sponsorship of a "dynamic" expansionary economy" in the United States to provide full employment when peace comes coupled with plans for "orderly demobilization of the Armed Forces and War Industry Workers— but no lump-sum bonus—was urged in a report yesterday by a 12-member presidenital committee.

Man's first authenticated ascent into air occurred in a balloon flight in Paris in 1783.

A Crowded Life

GANANOQUE, July 31 —(CP).—What next, young man, what next?—that's what Paul Ewing, Jr.'s family would like to know. The eight-year-old Kingston lad, summering here, has had quite a summer, falling in an unused well, being stung seriously by a nest of hornets who resented his curiosity, having been rescued from drowning and run into by a car. At present he is being treated for a severe case of poison ivy.

Tim Coughlan Dies Friday Funeral Monday

HASTINGS, July 31.—(ENS). — The funeral of Timothy Coughlin, druggist here for years, will take place Monday at 9 a.m. from his residence to the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, and thence to the parish cemetery.

He was born here sixty-two years ago, son of the late John Coughlan and his wife, Margaret Doherty, a pioneer family of the district. He attended the Separate school here and Norwood High school. For a time he taught school prior to attending the Ontario College of Pharmacy, graduating in 1909.

Mr. Coughlan opened a drug store here in 1911. He took an active interest in all the affairs of Hastings, especially in municipal administration and sports.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Olive O'Shea, his son, John F. of St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, LAC. Paul of the R.C.A.F., Timothy, Jr. of St. Michael's College and Emmett at home, and three daughters, Helen and Margaret Jean of Toronto and Olive at home; also by his sisters, Rev. Mother St. George, Quebec; Sister Mary Carmita, O.S.F., Boston, Mass., Mrs. Loretta Black, Campbellford; Mrs. Vester Lamey, Blairmore, Alta., Gertrude of Hastings and one brother, John B. of Calgary.

rage. Those three units distinguished themselves in this action.

On the right flank were the Royal Canadian, the Hastings and Prince Edward and the 48th Highlanders regiments and these units pushed on toward Valguarnera which was occupied by the 48th. The Seaforth Highlanders, the Princess Pats and the Loyal Edmonton regiments then went north along the road to Leonforte while the Ontario units went for Assoro. Tanks followed up the assault waves.

The R.C.R.'s carried out mopping up operations north of Valguerna on the road to Leonforte as Western Canada infantry attacked Leonforte and an Eastern Ontario regiment — the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment — stormed the cliffs of Assoro. The Hastings and Prince Edward regiment was cut off on the Assoro peak when their transport was ambushed on the mountain road and it was R.C.R. companies, led by Lithgow and Hodson which lugged supplies and ammunition up the cliffs to the beleaguered unit. A covering party, armed to the teeth, protected the supply running troops.

As the forward Canadian units captured Leonforte on July 22 and the attack was teed up, the R.C. R's moved into the line to make their frist thrust eastward. On the afternoon of July 24 behind a strong artillery barrage the regiment advanced along a paved road skirted by orchards, fir trees and rock fields.

This attack by the R.C.R's was the first of two assaults to soften up the Germans in this region.

Nixon Favors Stabilizing Hog Markets

OSHAWA, July 31. — A "great deal" more regulation of hog prices at the abattoirs was favored here last night by Premier Harry C. Nixon, who said that he saw no reason why hog prices should fluctuate from week to week when there was a ceiling price and such wide demand for the product.

The Premier spoke in the interests of Carroll Anderson, Liberal candidate in Ontario riding. W. E. N. Sinclair, former Liberal Leader in Ontario, and a representative for the riding in the Legislature for many years, made one of his rare appearances on a political platform. W. H. Moore, M.P., also spoke. James Heffering, president of the riding association, who lost out in the nomination contest by a narrow margin, was chairman.

Mr. Nixon said the pledge made by Opposition Leader George Drew to take over the stockyards meant nothing to the farmers, and he added: "Probably the owners of the stockyards would pay the Government to take them off their hands. If he had said he proposed to take over the abbatoirs, that would have been a different matter. But I am inclined to think that is a Federal affair.

"I am of the opinion, however, that there should be a great deal more regulation of cattle prices which fluctuate from week to week," continued the Premier. "It is entirely beyond my understanding why there should be such wide changes in price. I believe it should be investigated and brought under regulation."

Mr. Nixon denied that the convention which chose him Leader of the Liberal Party was a fixed one. It was a convention free from any pressure, he declared.

"I notice in the address of Mr. McCullagh over the air that he still said it was a fixed convention," said Mr. Nixon.

"Either he said too much, or too little, and I hope he says more to-night and tells us what was going on behind the scenes, for I know nothing about it, and neither does any one else as far as I can learn."

In this connection Mr. Heffering said that he was certain there was no fixing or rigging, as charged. Rising after Mr. Nixon concluded his address, Mr. Heffering said he had gone through 35 ridings in the interests of Mr. Conant prior to the convention and the only fixing he found "was that every one wanted Mr. Nixon."

Mr. Nixon dealt with the system of proxy voting, the financial record of the Government, and the accomplishments in the way of social and health advances. He derided the 22-point program of the Progressive Conservative Party asserting:

"After Aug. 4 Mr. Drew can drive his points into a plank and sit on them like the fakirs do in India."

He warned that as far as the C.C.F. was concerned, the electors should avoid the risk of finding themselves saddled with an untrained, unexperienced Government.

"They are offering you only a small dose of what they believe," he said.

OBITUARY

DANIEL HENRY MACONOMY

Daniel Henry Maconomy of 195 Park street north died Friday at his residence after a long illness.

He was born in Scotland, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Maconomy, and came to Peterborough from Hamilton, Scotland, in 1912. Employed at the Canadian General Electric for many years, Mr. Maconomy was a veteran of the World War, serving overseas with the 21st Battalion from 1914 to 1919. He was also a member of All Saints' Anglican church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, formerly Lily Geraldine Crafts, two daughters, Miss Jessie Maconomy and Mrs. R. (Jean) Hamilton, both of Peterborough; and one son, Malcolm of St. Catharines. A brother, James of Benton Harbor, Mich., also survives.

The funeral will be held on Monday from the late residence to All Saints' Anglican church for service at 3.30 p.m. Canon J. D. Patterson will officiate. Interment is to be at Little Lake cemetery.

preside over the committee when military affairs are discussed while de Gaulle will occupy the chair when civilian or political affairs are taken up.

The permanent military committee composed of Giraud and de Gaulle and their respective chiefs of staff was abolished and it will be replaced by the office of war minister.

The French military crisis was officially broken by today's committee action on a compromise plan submitted yesterday by de Gaulle.

Actual questions of the fusion of the Fighting Fench army and the North African forces of Gen. Giraud will be under the office of war minister who will be responsible to the new committee of national defence headed by de Gaulle.

The actual command and direction of this unified military power will be in Giraud's hands as commander-in-chief.

A re-shuffling of officers in the French High Command now is under way and the names of possibly one or two chiefs of staff in the land, sea and air forces of the Empire may be announced soon.

Agreement between the two leaders would go a long way toward achieving unity of the two French forces.

Previously Giraud and de Gualle acted as "co-presidents of the the French Committee, while each was chief of his own armed forces.

CAMPBELLFORD

Douglas Milne Said Missing

CAMPBELLFORD, July 31 (ENS) —Another member of the R.C.A.F. from this district has now been officially reported as missing. It was announced from Ottawa Friday that Flying Officer Douglas Stewart Milne failed to return following the raid on Krefeld, Germany, June 21.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Milne of Menie, six miles east of here, were also advised privately from Ottawa of this fact several weeks ago. He was a native of Seymour township but at the time of his enlistment with the R.C.A.F. had been for three years employed by the International Nickle Company at Sudbury. He attended Burnbrae public school and later came to Campbellford High School.

On enlistment he went from the Manning Pool at Toronto to Trenton, the Eglinton Hunt Club and finally to Fingal, where he received his Air Gunner's wings and was commissioned as a Pilot Officer. He went overseas in August, 1942, and shortly afterwards was commissioned a Flying Officer.

In his last letter written home the night before the raid from which he failed to return he told his parents of having received some parcels they had sent him. Flying Officer Milne was in the same squadron as Everett Maycock of Warkworth, who also attended High School here. During the raid over Krefeld he was aboard a Wellington bomber.

People Being Misled Jolliffe Says

TORONTO, July 31 (CP).—E.B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, last night charged Liberal and Progressive Conservative spokesmen with deliberate misinterpretation of the C.C.F. platform in the present political campaign. He was addressing a political rally in York South, where he has been nominated as a candidate for the Ontario election Aug. 4.

He said that opposing politicians had attempted to mislead voters by attributing to the C.C.F. "things we've never proposed" and said that the Liberal party "is using forged election propaganda" because it has "no answer to our 15-point program."

He said that the present Liberal government "can't even conduct an advance poll properly," and that a poll which he said we conducted recently for soldiers stationed at Exhibition Park Toronto was "outside the law" and the vote recorded there "will necessarily be nullified."

Although Major Alex Lewis, chief election officer for Ontario, had "pleaded innocent" and said that no complaint had been laid concerning such a poll, Mr. Joliffe said, "a complaint was laid yesterday and Major Lewis did investigate it."

(Major Lewis was quoted earlier Thursday, referring to charges made at Hamilton Wednesday night by Mr. Joliffe that soldiers were asked to sign "so-called" ballot on which they marked party preferences, as saying "anyone who says soldiers have been asked to sign ballots indicating their party preference must be mistaken.")

Discussing the Progressive Conservative pledge to maintain British Democratic traditions embodied in the party platform, Mr. Joliffe said that Lt.-Col. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader in Ontario, had not protested when Cochrane South had remained unrepresented in the Provincial Legislature for several years, although representation of all the people was a democratic right for which "our forefathers have died."

Appoint Committee

The Liberal administration, he said, had "solved the problem" in Cochrane South by appointing "a committee of five Liberals to administer the patronage in that riding."

He said reluctance of the Hepburn administration to call by-elections in Ontario was because in five out of six recent Dominion and Provincial by-elections across Canada, the C.C.F. had won.

From the same platform, M. J. Coldwell, national C.C.F. leader said "the Liberals and Conservatives have combined on the most scurrilous campaign even they can devise."

He cited a Liberal pamphlet entitled "chaos in New Zealand—a warning for Ontario," which he said was a "libel on the name of a country that has made the largest per capital sacrifice of any member of the British commonwealth in the present war."

Discussing various features of New Zealand social legislation introduced by the labor government there, he said "I invite the same kind of chaos in the Dominion of aCnada."

Plagues Scourge Pharaoh Till Israelites Migrate

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 1 is Exodus 5-12, the Golden Text being Psalm 50:15, "Call upon Me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify Me.")

MOSES and Aaron, brothers and sons of Levi, were chosen by the Lord to lead their people out of Egypt into Canaan, the land "flowing with milk and honey," which had been promised them.

These two went to Pharaoh and begged that they be allowed to lead the Israelites into the desert for three days that they might worship their Lord and offer sacrifices to Him. Pharoah's answer was: "Who is the Lord that I should obey His voice to let Israel go?" He not only would not let them go, but declared he would see that the straw that had heretofore been given them to make bricks was taken away, and they were made to get their own straw. More than that, if they did not make the same number of bricks as before they were to be brutally beaten. They were idle, he insisted.

The leaders of the Israelites went to Moses and Aaron and told them about the straw and beatings, and insisted their interference might mean death to their people.

Moses Pleads for His People

Moses went to the Lord and pleaded for his people, and the Lord told him, "Now shalt thou see what I will do to Pharaoh: for with a strong hand shall he let them go, and with a strong hand shall he drive them out of his land."

When Moses, thus encouraged, appeared again before Pharaoh, with Aaron, to prove that he indeed spoke with authority, Aaron threw his rod on the ground and Pharaoh's magicians did likewise, so the miracle did not so much impress Pharaoh, even though Aaron's serpent swallowed the others. He still would not let the people go.

The third time the two leaders went to Pharaoh and threatened to turn the waters of the Nile into blood if he did not let them go. He refused, and so it came about that the water everywhere was changed to blood and there was none to drink. The fish in the river died, and the river smelled terrible. Pharoah's magicians also did this, and so he still refused. After seven days the water returned to its natural state.

The next plague with which the Lord afflicted the Egyptians was frogs. They were sent to swarm over and into everything. The magicians performed this miracle, too, but Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron and asked that they plead with the Lord to remove the frogs and he would let the Israelites go. When the Lord, at Moses' request, removed the frogs, Pharaoh's heart was hardened and he paid no attention to them.

The Plague of Flies

The Lord then told Moses to get up very early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh as he went to the water, and tell Him if he did not let the Hebrews go He would bring a plague of flies, which He did when Pharaoh refused. There were no flies in Goshen, however, where the Jews had their homes. This time Pharaoh said he would let them sacrifice to their Lord right there in Egypt, but Moses and Aaron said if they did the people would be stoned by the Egyptians, so refused to do so.

Then followed the murrain, which killed cattle, horses and camels, boils which afflicted men. Pharaoh's heart was still hardened, although he knew the Israelites were spared these plagues. The plague of hail came next, hail and fire which "ran along the ground" and killed man, beast, and growing things. Still Pharaoh would not yield, and the next plague was a swarm of locusts, which devoured every living thing the hail had left. Pharaoh was shaken and confessed that he sinned, but as soon as the plague was withdrawn he again refused.

A thick darkness then fell on the land for three days except in the houses of the Jews. Pharaoh told them they could go to sacrifice but could not take their cattle with them, and Moses refused this. Pharaoh told Moses he never wanted to see him again, and Moses answered, "Thou hast spoken well, I will see thy face no more."

The last and worst of all the plagues was the death of the first-born of every Egyptian, from the Pharaoh's son to the child of the least of the peasants. The Jews were commanded to kill a lamb in every house, take its blood and sprinkle the posts and lintels of their homes, so the angel of death would pass them over. This deliverance is memorialized every year to this very day.

Calling Moses and Aaron by night, Pharaoh ordered them all to go forth, and with them all their possessions. So commenced the great pilgrimage of the Israelites to their promised land.

Discuss Church of Today

BETHANY, July 31 (ENS)—The regular meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the Bethany United Church was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. W. Harding. The meeting opened with all repeating in unison the watchword. It was decided to have Mrs. Porteous send for usual Christmas card assortment to be sold as a means of raising some extra money for the Society.

Watch Tower Heralds responded as follows: Mrs. Jackson, Trinidad; Mrs. Porteous, China and Mrs. Waddell, Orientals. A letter was read from the stewardship secretary.

Prayers for fellow Christians in enemy countries and for the church and her mission to all mankind were read in unison.

Stories from the courageous churches in Europe today were part of the program.

The Aristocrats of Heaven

REV. E. R. JAMES

I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne. Above it stood the seraphim. Each one had six wings: with twain he covered his face: with twain he covered his feet and with twain he did fly.

Isai. 6:1.

No word picture in the Old Testament has a greater fascination for children. Your imagination was filled with the mystery and you wondered what was its hidden meaning. "With twain he covered his face; with twain he covered his face and with twain he did fly."

The young statesman Isaiah had a vision when he worshipped in the Temple. This led to his call to the prophetic office.

The word seraphim means "the burning one" and is found no where else in Holy Scripture. "There is no ice in heaven" comments a famous Baptist minister. The symbolism of wings teaches important and practical lessons for Bible students of every generation.

WITH TWAIN HE COVERED HIS FACE. As the highest of created beings he stands in the very Presence of the Almighty. Yet he knows the gulf between him and God. The veiling of his face is an act of reverence.

What is your mental image of God? Have you put away childish ideas. You thoughts of God will sooner or later leave a mark upon your face. "As a man thinketh in his heart so he is." As you practice realizing the Presence of God in the quietness of your room the spirit of reverence and deep humility will grow and bring forth one of the most precious fruits of communion with God. It will effect your very utterance of the Name of God and His Christ. Gradually you will get to know more and more what God is like. As you ponder upon the four portraits of Christ in the Gospels you will arrive at a clearer idea of God. This will result in deeper reverence. In very truth you will cover your face.

WITH TWAIN HE COVERED HIS FEET. Your feet imply activity and motion. The man who has lost his feet is limited in his movements The seraph covered his feet so that his activities might not be seen or heard. The wings screened his feet but they are not hid from the eyes of the Almighty. The seraph knows how utterly unworthy he is. He cannot draw any attention to the movements of his feet. One of the marks of the Messiah, the Christ, as revealed by Isaiah, helps us to understand this action of the seraph. "His Voice shall not be heard in the streets."

They are a rebuke to the advertising age we live in. It is a lesson for church workers, both lay and clerical. Are you hurt and annoyed when no mention has been made of your work. The seraph covered his feet as a sign of the lowliness of his work in the sight of God. He is but a messenger of God. Are you satisfied to go about your work in the church silently, quietly; without noise or advertising? This is the qualification for high service in the Kingdom of God. All the saints, the noblest of the men and women of God have done their work quietly. They did not expect recognition. They had no desire to be advertised. They followed the example of the seraph. "With twain he covered his feet."

WITH TWAIN DID HE FLY. The third pair of wings are employed for action only. The first and second pair have been used for preparation, for service. What a moving truth. How it rebukes our selfish activities in God's service. Flying is an emblem of joyous motion. That is why so many of our best young men are "air minded," their hearts are filled with the joy of motion. Only two wings are used for flight, not the other four. At the word of God he spreads his two wings and departs. The uppermost thought in the mind of the seraph is service.

When you, like the seraph, fall low before His footstool in deep reverence and adoration and are satisfied to serve Him quietly, noiselessly then sometimes you are surprised at the love and affection you have aroused by your little work for the Lord Christ.

Men have looked into your face and have seen something of God. Men feel that God dwells in your heart. They recognize your enthusiasm and the burning zeal for God and His Christ. You have received the wider revelation that God became man in Christ Jesus Our Lord. He will dwell in your heart and reveal Himself to your fellows. Your light will shine because it comes from Him who cries: "I am the light of the world."

HIS SERVANTS SHALL SEE HIS FACE AND HIS NAME SHALL BE IN THEIR FOREHEADS.

God Delivers His People — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 5-12.

When Aaron and Moses went to Pharaoh the first time and asked him to let the children of Israel go, he refused, and said he would make life harder for them.

Henceforth the Israelites were given no more straw with which to make bricks, but were told to get it themselves, and if they failed they were to be beaten.

The officers of the Hebrews came then to Moses and Aaron and told them of their hardships, complaining that since they went to Pharaoh life had become harder.

Then Moses went to the Lord and told Him of the Israelites' troubles, and the Lord promised to make the Pharaoh let them go. (Golden Text—Psalm 50:15)

The Duty Of a Citizen

It is your duty to cast your vote next Wednesday unless serious illness or some equally pressing reason prevents you. A survey of the history of this century shows that the great body of citizens have tended to become more and more neglectful of the duties which citizenship involves; we are as eager as ever to accept the rights and privileges of citizenship, but we are loathe to shoulder the burdens. Unless we conquer this tendency we shall have lost our democracy before this century is completed.

In Mein Kampf Hitler has expressed his contempt for the weaknesses of the democracies, and he has pointed out that the franchise which a democratic country gives to every citizen is used with discretion and responsibility by a minority of the population, is used capriciously and cynically by many others, and is not used at all by the remainder; this, thinks Hitler, is one good reason why democracies should disappear from the face of the earth. They have given a precious gift to people who have not the good sense and the gratitude to employ it properly. Any sensible democrat will recognize the half-truth of the German dictator's opinion. Democracy began as a system for ruling cities in ancient Greece and Rome, where it was possible to herd all the citizens together in a public square and compel them to give an opinion on public questions; citizens who were not present, and who had no excuse, were heavily fined. Our modern democracies are large countries, and the question of whether he shall vote or not is left to the conscience of the individual citizen; all too often the individual citizen seems to have no political conscience, and may even be proud of the fact.

This war should teach us a sharp lesson in the necessity for keeping our democratic privileges and duties in good working order. The Vice President of the United States has called this the Century of the Common Man, and if he is right the Common Man has started his century off badly with the two most destructive wars in all history. The causes of the First Great War are still in dispute; but at least one cause of the war in which we are now engaged was the lethargy and political indifference of the great bulk of Common Men in the democracies in the twenty years between 1919 and 1939. The Common Man chose himself some very indifferent leadership in those years, and watched those leaders make mistake after mistake with ox-eyed indifference. It is high time that the Common Man woke up, educated himself politically, and accepted the full burden of responsibility which democracy places upon him.

The citizens of this Province can make a beginning on Wednesday next. Let every man repeat that portion of The Oath of A Free Man which Stephen Daye set down in 1639:

I do solemnly bind myself in the sight of God that when I shall be called to give my voice touching any such matter of this state in which freemen are to deal, I will give my vote and suffrage as I shall judge in my own conscience may best conduce and tend to the public weal of the body, without any respect of persons, or favour of any man.

The vote is the citizens' voice in choosing his rulers and representatives. A man who cannot be bothered to use that voice is not a citizen, but a parasite—a louse on the body politic — and should not share the privileges of responsible citizens. If, after this election, it should prove that an unusually large number of people have failed to cast their votes, this paper will suggest strongly that we adopt the Australian system in Canada, and fine any man who fails to vote without a good excuse.

Neutrals At The Peace Table

Lord Halifax, in a recent speech, warned neutral countries that they must not expect to have the same voice at the peace conference as those countries which have been doing the fighting. This, of course, is simply common sense. But several papers, and some millions of newspaper readers, want to know why the neutrals should have a place at a peace conference at all?

The answer is simply that they may have something of value to contribute to the discussion, and we shall need all the valuable suggestions at the peace table that we can possibly attract to it. Just what Sweden, as a neutral, would have to say which would be of general benefit we cannot imagine, but Switzerland should not be left out. Since the beginning of the war Switzerland has been one of our best sources of news, and has been the centre from which the International Red Cross carries on its humane work. Switzerland has a ringside seat, and as spectators sometimes see more than players, the Swiss may be able to give us valuable tips as to how to check the tendency toward future wars.

Turkey is a neutral now, but may be a belligerent by the end of the war. Turkey would like to have the Dodecanese Islands, which Italy now owns and which are a direct threat to Turkish soil. The realistic Turkish statesmen know that at peace conferences islands are only given out for value received, and when the time comes they may be ready to pay the price. But we cannot excite ourselves over the desires of a country which enters the war when the outcome is obvious and when there are pickings to be had. As for Spain, we cannot imagine a representative of the Franco regime enjoying either popularity or influence.

To confine the peace conference to belligerents only would be unjust to Switzerland, which has suffered in many ways from the fighting, for presumably the South American countries, which are technical belligerents only, will expect to be fully represented.

No, we shall have to admit many representatives to the peace conference whose reasons for being there are not of the best, but there can be no doubt that the belligerents will make it clear that they will decide all matters of first-rate importance. Indeed, there may be two conferences—a general one and a smaller one for those who have done the fighting. The big decisions would certainly be made by the smaller group.

Reunion In Dublin

Recently a wag in the British House of Commons rose to enquire it it were true that Mussolini had fled to Dublin, in order to enjoy the protection of a neutral state. Now although it was meant as a joke the possibility is by no means remote. Indeed, after the war not only Mussolini, but Hitler, Tojo and Franco might all turn up on the intransigently neutral Emerald Isle, and then we should have a situation unequalled in farcical potentialities.

The idea is one to inflame the imagination of a dramatist. Bernard Shaw is the man for this job, obviously, or Sean O'Casey, if G.B.S. is too busy making movies. Let's give the play a start! Up with the curtain, and we see a beautiful view of Sackville Street; in comes Mussolini, from the left, whistling The Groves of Blarney, while Hitler comes on at the right, munching a potato; they meet, and start in recognition.

MUSSO: The saints presarve us! Sure Adolf darlint, it's never you!

HITLER: And who else should it be! Barney, me jewel, you're a sight to delight the dead! And where have ye been, acushla, since the bad, bitter days of July, 1943?

MUSSO: I've been layin' low in this blessed spot, seekin' to drown me sorras in Guiness.

(Enter Franco and Tojo)

HITLER: Me darlin' bhoys! May ould friends be never forgot! Have either of yez the price of a pint? Me throat's dry with joy at the sight of yez.

TOJO: Indade I have that. Let's all slip into a snug and take a wet to celebrate this happy moment. Somebody lend me the loan of a hanky to dry Barneys' tears.

FRANCO: Bedad, and if this isn't like the good old days before the end of the Throuble!

TOJO: It is that. Ochone! I'll niver forget that Peace Conference, with that cross old Churchill sittin' at the head of the table with a gob on him like a hangman.

MUSSO: And Roosevelt lookin' through and through yez with a gimlet eye, bad scran to him!

FRANCO: Whist bhoys, it's the polis comin'!

(They hastily begin to converse in Erse, a strictly neutral tongue).

And Bernard Shaw can carry on from there. He will be sure to see the possibilities in the idea, and will be able to illustrate, better than we can, the softening effect of the Irish climate upon desperate men. The name of the play, of course, will have to be Journey's End.

A New Book About Australia

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ALTHOUGH Australia is much in the public eye at present few people on this continent seem to know much about it; when the average citizen has said that there are kangaroos in Australia, and a labour government, he has usually exhausted his information. In a world which we are assured is growing smaller, and in an Anglo-Saxony which we are instructed to draw closer together, this limited knowledge of a great British Dominion will not quite do. That is why Arnold L. Haskell has written a little book of 120 pages, called "The Australians," which will serve as an introduction to Australia for those who do not wish to read a full-dress history of the continent. Mr. Haskell is known chiefly for his excellent works on the ballet, and it was while travelling with the Russian Ballet that he first went to Australia, for Australians, like Canadians, are very fond of ballet. He became engrossed in the new country, and gathered material for a book which he called "Waltzing Matilda," taking the title from a popular Australian song written many years ago by Banjo Patterson; this was recognized as perhaps the best popular book on Australia to have been written. "The Australians" is a briefer study, but it is excellent, and I recommend it to you highly.

MR. HASKELL points out that, although 12,000 miles and 150 years of separate history divide Australia from Great Britain, the Australians still speak of the old country as "home," and that is a sort of loyalty which cannot be bought. But the Australians are in no sense colonial in their attitude toward the Motherland. Like Canada, Australia is youthful and uncertain in matters of art and culture, but politically mature. And yet this filial dominion had its origin as a convict settlement, where brutality was as great as it has ever been between men of the same race. The British were not interested in Australia as a possible colony for many years; they wanted a dumping ground for their felons. But from this unpropitious and somewhat accidental beginning sprang a magnificent colony, which today is more British than Britain, boasting a stock which is 97 per cent pure British. It must also be said that less than one per cent of present-day Australians are of convict ancestry.

IT IS not the task of a review to follow Mr. Haskell through all the vagaries of Australian history; those who want to do that should buy his book. He has done a splendid job in compressing the complexities of 150 years of governmental advancement into a small compass. But there is one observation in his book which should make Canadians think. He says: "Australia is the country of the future, both psychologically and geographically; she is the link between England and America." Now that is a position which we had rather thought was ours, and it may be good for us to examine the reasons why Mr. Haskell thinks as he does. We may choose to recall Sir Thomas Beecham's irascible coment when in Sydney that Australia had never contributed anything to the world of culture and would never do so unless it mended its ways—though in this respect also Canada can claim no superiority to the southern continent. But at a time when we seem threatened with losing our esential Britishness of stock and outlook, we should do well to examine closely the record of the most British country in the world. Reading "The Australians" should provide us with perspective, which, in our large country, we badly need. The book is published by Macmillans.

THE same publishers have also sent me an excellent pamphlet called "Malta Invicta," which is the story of the heroic resistance of the island of Malta, during the period when the Luftwaffe was doing its best to blast it out of the Mediterranean. The pamphlet is by that well-known writer on sea subjects who uses the pen-name of Bartimeus. In all the long and proud history of Malta there has been no more glowing period than that in which the whole population defied the worst that a brutal enemy could do. Certainly the most affecting portion of this brief appreciation is that which the author devotes to the Maltese children. "The roar of the batteries and the bursting of bombs upset them no more than the bellowing of a cow does a farm-bred child. In all the weeks I was in Malta I never saw a child cry," he writes. This story of a valiant island is well worth having for your library.

AND if you are a keen follower of policies, the same publishers have brought out "Petain-Laval, The Conspiracy," which has been translated by Michael Sadleir and has a foreword by Viscount Cecil of Chelwood. This astounding pamphlet shows the means by which Petain and Laval seized power in their country when it was brought low by military defeat, Petain because of his vanity and spiteful spirit of reaction, and Laval because of his ruthless greed for power, at whatever cost. It is a horrifying and pitiful story, but it is necessary to any true appreciation of the French situation.

Unconsidered Trifles

"Chesty is one of the oddest men I ever saw."
"How so?"
"Why, when a fellow borrows a quarter and doesn't pay it back, Chesty finally admits that it is the quarter he cares about, and not the principle of the thing."

John was the son of parents who were sufficiently popular to receive more invitations than they could conveniently accept. In the course of a general knowledge lesson, the master said, "Can any boy tell me the meaning of the letters, R.S.V.P.?"

John's hand shot up.

"Well?" said the master.

"It means," explained John, "Rush in, shake hands, and vanish pleasantly."

Harking back to the days when quite a number of tramps rode the railway trains, a woman who used to live near the water tank recalls one unkempt individual who grew talkative while sitting on the back porch eating a lunch she had given him.

"I don't suppose," she remarked, "that you know what good honest work is."

"No, lady, I don't," he said, as he finished eating and stood up. "What good is it?"

POLAR BEAR'S BIG BROTHER!

Votes and Seats

(WINDSOR STAR)

WHEN the Gallup Poll showed that the Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and Co-operative Commonwealth Federation were running neck and neck in total votes, it started many an argument.

The poll declared that 35 per cent of the total people polled were for the Progressive Conservatives, 33 per cent for the Liberals and 32 per cent for the C.C.F. That is spreading it just about as evenly as possible.

However, percentage of the total vote, even supposing the Gallup Poll is an accurate indication, does not mean that the 90 seats in the Legislature will be divided evenly with 31 Conservatives, 30 Liberals and 29 C.C.F. There is a difference between the total vote and the number of seats won.

Take the 1937 general election in Ontario as an example. There were 1,565,442 votes polled in the 90 seats.

The Liberals, including Liberal-Progressives and Independent Liberals, polled 814,134 votes and took 66 seats.

The Conservatives polled 627,880 votes and took only 23 seats.

The United Farmers of Ontario and other farm candidates polled 21,971 votes for one seat.

The C.C.F. polled 82,849 votes and won no seats.

Independents polled 3,097 votes and won no seats.

Other groups polled slightly more than half the total vote and took more than two-thirds of the seats.

This result can happen when one party will poll heavily in a few ridings and not poll at all well in many ridings. It is the party which spreads a heavy vote through all ridings that comes through with the seats in the Legislature.

Sicily, Flower of the Mediterranean

SICILY is the rarest flower of the great midland sea. Built up on the North in a series of beetling cliffs, the island slopes gently down through mountain chains and undulating plains to the golden Southern shore. An enormous triangle it is, spiny with lofty peaks—Aetna towers more than ten thousand feet in the air—spangled with flowering meads and dells where Nature loads the air with fragrance; pierced with infernal caverns, whence choking workers extract a large part of the world's sulphur from the palaces of the former gods of the nether world; and fringed about on every side with the lace-like foam of opal waves. It is rich in beauty and desolation, rich in song and story, rich in architecture, splendid and varied.

To understand the beauty and charm of Sicily, however, it is essential to know something of the island's picturesque and vivid story. We Americans are rarely familiar with it....

The most usual mistake made regarding Sicily is that it is a little island, vaguely located in imagination somewhere near Italy and peopled by Italians....Sicily is near Italy — two miles away, in fact—and it is full of Italians, in the sense that they are Italian subjects. But by heredity, by instinct, by everything that pertains to racial culture and development, they are far from being Italians yet. The explanation is a simple one. By consulting the map you see that the triangle — with an area of some ten thousand square miles—is not only in the centre of the Mediterranean from East to West, but that it is also a great stepping stone between Europe and Africa. In ancient days, when all the civilized world bordered the Mediterranean, the geographical position of Sicily gave the island an especial political character and importance....

Tradition—as usual—peoples the land first with gods, both beneficent and malign, and then with giants to whom Homer refers in the Odyssey: Laestrygones, Cyclops, Lotophagi. After these "poetic monsters" came the Sikans, Sikels and Slymians, genuine peoples, who may be called the prehistoric natives as distinguished from the historic foreigners. Of the three the Sikels, undoubtedly blood-brothers to the pioneers of Rome and Tuscany, are the most interesting; and a legend has it that they drifted on rafts from the Italian mainland across the channel now called the Strait of Messina, about 1100 B.C. They were permanent and important enough to give the island the name Sikelia, which is still current in our modified form, Sicily....

Every great race that dwells about the Mediterranean at some time has had a part in Sicily's story, and each race in its turn has left an indelible imprint upon language and customs, upon architecture and people. Here one sees a pure Greek face of classic beauty; there a Saracen gazes calmly upon us out of features which could come only from the burning desert and the infinite starry night in the open; and yonder, a Roman, proud and silent, bends to toil the Romans of old never knew. On many a hill rises the matchless, mellow ruin of a Greek temple, lovely as anything Greece itself can show; and in the cities the architectonic genius and spirit of the races blend in structures dignified and massive, or light and airy almost to the point of being fantastic.

This is Sicily today, the home of all beauty, the abiding place of a people as picturesque in character as they are in face and costume.—From "Vistas in Sicily," by Arthur Stanley Riggs, 1925. (New York: McBride.)

Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, July 31 (CP)—Canada's civil service got an indirect pat on the back the other day from the United States—but probably the United States didn't know it.

The pat came through a little story from Washington which numbered the American civil service at the merest trifle over 3,000,000 men and women. On the basis of population that works out at something like one federal government employee for every 45 persons in the country.

The latest available figures on Canada's civil service—as of last March 1—put the total at 12,737. There has been some increase in the last five months but even so the Dominion wouldn't have many more than one civil servant to each 100 of population.

The lads over at the navy are still talking about a recent occurrence on one of His Majesty's minesweepers operating off the east coast.

An "urgent" signal came down to the ship from the shore base proclaiming the birth of a daughter to the minesweeper's skipper. Within two minutes a soft-drink bottle containing condensed milk at the appropriate temperature was produced at the wardroom by the ship's company.

The bottle and the milk are, of course, understandable. What worries the boys is: "How come a baby's nipple on one of His Majesty's Canadian ships?"

Air Minister Power, Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, chief of air staff, and Air Vice-Marshal Robert Leckie, air member for training, visited a training station at Kingston, Ont., the other day, and one of our scouts tells us they got into an argument over the identification of aircraft.

They glued their eyes to the peep-holes to look at images of planes flashed on a screen.

"Ah," said Maj. Power as one flashed on, "it's a Stranraer."

"No," said Air Marshal Breadner, "it's a Catalina."

"Well," said Air Vice-Marshal Leckie, "it looks like a Hudson to me."

But it doesn't prove inefficiency in high places. They were looking at separate screens—and they were all right.

When the prices board, one of the key administrations in the government's economic control system, runs into priority trouble it ought to be news. And that's what's happened.

A new office building is being put up for the board, one of a number of temporary structures in the capital. The foundations are all in, and the tunnels for heating and water systems.

But the job doesn't carry high enough priority to get some much needed materials. The contractors say they're sure they don't know when it will be ready for occupancy.

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

JULY 31

1913 Judge Hardy of Brantford extols the beauty of the lower Otonabee after a boat trip down the river, says no place in Ontario can match it and that Peterborough people don't appreciate it.

Launch owned by Mr. Baker goes out of control on the river near Crawford's Grove and runs wild ramming a canoe, tossing three ladies into the river. All are rescued.

A Bible Message

And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him. And he went into the Pharisee's house, and sat down to meat. And, behold, a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment, and stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying, This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him: for she is a sinner. And Jesus answering said unto him, Simon, I have somewhat to say unto thee. And he saith, Master, say on.

There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty. And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will love him most?

Simon answered and said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged. And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head....

Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little. And he said unto her, Thy sins are forgiven. (Luke 7: 36-44, 47, 48.)

The Classic Stage In Modern Terms

Radio at its best is an instrument which can handle ambitious themes and serve any depth or flight in a natural manner. It lends itself to an absolute purity of style in time and space. But it has its limitations: we cannot see the actor or the action: these have to be described to the ear. On the other hand, the stage in its modern turbidity has lost design in themes of a local and temporal character. Virtues inherited from the Greeks have well nigh disappeared. Their stage was comparatively bare and entirely subject to the lines of the play and the actors. An actor was encouraged to range the broadcast domain, his audience keenly responsive to the adventure. There was no playing down: the work represented the best the race could achieve through the artist. Happily, there are signs in our own day to warrant the belief that a classic stage in modern terms is about to be developed through author and audience alike. There are only a few steps so far, but they seem fairly certain. Given the creative and the receptive imagination, joined together by the ideal actor, and we shall have a theatre to which we are entitled as mature human beings.—From "The Planets," A Modern Allegory by Alfred Kreymborg. Ration Permit Required For Used Tires

OTTAWA, July 31 (CP).—Effective midnight tonight, used tires and tubes may be purchased only with a tire ration permit similar to that required for new tires, Munitions Minister Howe announced today in a new rationing order designed to conserve dwindling stocks of unused tires as well as those now on the road.

Under a previous order, used tires and tubes could be bought merely by filling out a certificate of essentiality.

The new order, modelled closely on the order in effect since May 15, 1942, sets up three classes of eligible tire buyers and rules out all other vehicle owners as ineligible to purchase any usable tire or retreading service. The classes are "A," "B," and "C."

The order does these things:

1. It revises the lists of eligible vehicles. For instance, it raises the rating of certain dentists, optometrists and rural school teachers, and allows tire-buying privileges to farmers who own a truck, prospectors for base metals and oil, owners of moving vans, chain store supervisors, rural auctioneers, proprietors of truck delivering newspapers to dealers, and certain others.

2. It allows, for the first time since rationing went into effect, the retreading of tires for vehicles in class "C," including farmers, diplomats, rural undertakers, commercial travellers and others.

3. It re-defines the term "authorized dealer" and thus prevents anyone from selling tires or tubes if he did not sell at least 75 per cent. of his purchases of tires and tubes to the public in the year ended October 31, 1941.

4. It compels every authorized dealer to retain turn-in tires for 30 days to allow for possible government inspection; thus a dealer will be prevented from selling tires to a customer whose tires are still usable.

5. It provides that, except by permit or by legal sales between dealers and manufacturers, or by sale, loan or exchange of the vehicle itself, no person may buy or sell, borrow or lend, give away or receive as a gift, mortgage, barter, or in any way dispose of a usable tire or tube, and it thus prohibits any two or more owners from bulking their tires to equip one vehicle.

Issued by Rubber Controller Alan H. Williamson, and concurred in by Chairman Donald Gordon of the Prices Board, the new order rescinds all previous tire orders and rulings and establises a revised schedule of ceiling prices on used tires.

For instance, the most popular passenger tire, the 6.00 x 16, if less than 50 per cent. worn and in usable condition, now may be sold for not more than $10.80. The maximum price on the same tire worn more than 50 per cent., but not smooth, now is $7.20; or if smooth or regrooved, $4.30.

For purposes of the order, a used tire is one which has been driven from 1,000 miles or more.

Creamery Trucks Cut Operations

MEAFORD, Ont., July 31.—(CP).—L. S. Thurston of Meaford, secretary of the Ontario Creamery Association, said to-day creamery trucks in Western Ontario are to be restricted in operations on and after Aug. 16.

Only one truck will be allowed to collect cream in a specified district. Zones laid down by the Prices Board last December apply everywhere in Canada.

Mr. Thurston said some western provinces already are operating under the Prices Board ruling but this is the first large-scale zoning to be made operative in Ontario.

DON'T BANKRUPT ONTARIO!

Clarion Call from the Premier to the Electors:

ON Wednesday, August 4th, you are given the opportunity of deciding at the Polls which of the three Parties now appealing for your support is to have control of the Provincial Government.

Since the dissolution of the Legislature on June 30th, I have travelled the Province from east to west and north to south. From my intimate contacts with thousands of our people, I am convinced beyond doubt that the Liberal Government will be sustained.

At the same time I feel it my bounden duty to sound a note of warning to the electors, and it is for this reason I am addressing this letter to you.

The decision that will be made on Wednesday next, August 4th, may be fraught with more serious consequences than any similar verdict made by the electors of this Province for half a century or more.

The platform so suddenly broadcast one evening recently by the Leader of the Conservatives contains 22 planks; that published by the C.C.F. Organization has 15 planks. These two programs have apparently so much in common that the respective leaders are still quarrelling as to who is the owner and who is the thief. I will make no attempt to referee that fight, but I have no hesitation in saying that they have in common certain proposals which if ever enacted into legislation would not merely jeopardize the magnificent financial and social structure so efficiently built up in Ontario during the present decade, but would inevitably bring despair, ruin and utter bankruptcy to this Province.

I fully realize that I am characterizing these proposals in strong words, but I make no apology for using them. This language is fully justified.

Just to mention one of Col. Drew's proposals, viz., that in which he promises the removal of educational taxes on real estate by "at least 50%" without making the slightest provision for the $20,000,000 or more thus made necessary. Was there ever such an utterly fantastic piece of bunkum placed before the electors of any democratic body! It can truly be characterized as "a rabbit from a hat". At least $100,000,000 would be required to finance the whole list of bribes spread by Col. Drew before the electors; and it is difficult to believe that Col. Drew could be so inconsistent after having himself introduced a resolution in the Legislature two years ago, to reduce Provincial expenditures by $25,000,000.

It is in no sense an extravagant statement to say that Colonel Drew's entire program, if enacted, would bankrupt the Province of Ontario.

And this at a time when we, both as individuals and as a government, are under solemn obligation to refrain from increasing taxation and from diverting any money from the supreme object of winning the war! Every spare dollar must go into Victory Bonds, or War Savings Certificates.

More threatening, if possible, than even the Drew proposals are some of the schemes outlined by the C.C.F. organization. The fifteen points covered in the present document, vicious and dangerous as are some of these proposed experiments, have carefully omitted a few of the wildest ventures being sponsored by the parent C.C.F. body.

If their language means anything it must involve the national ownership of all farms, mines, fisheries and factories of this country. I find it hard to believe that the solid, thoughtful people of Ontario are prepared to hand over the ownership and management of our great heritage into the hands of a group of men wholly without experience in public affairs and led by a 33-year-old lawyer, who has never been in Parliament. Yet this is part of the decision to be made at the polls on Wednesday next.

The record of the Government during the past nine years has been placed before you in straightforward, unmistakable terms, and neither of our opponents has seen fit to challenge that record at any point. During these nine years not a suggestion of scandal has been heard. The social legislation has been sane and progressive. The financial administration has called forth the admiration of every governing body in the Dominion of Canada. We are proud of the record and we appeal with confidence for a renewal of the trust you have placed in our hands.

I appeal to the common sense of the Ontario people to weigh very carefully the consequences of placing power in the hands of parties who are prepared to lead the Province into extravagant and adventurous experiments, especially, I repeat, at a time when every effort and every dollar should be devoted to the cause for which we are fighting.

On this very serious occasion therefore my pledge to the electors is that if this Government is returned to power on August 4th, we will continue as in the past to give sane, sound and progressive administration.

Yours faithfully,

Harry C. Nixon.

WESTCLOX GIRLS DEFEAT THE AIRCRAFTS IN GOOD TIGHT CONTEST

STORY ON COLUMN 2

Al Foreman Gets Fit His Own Way For R.C.A.F.

Making sure that he was at peak physical condition for his air crew medical examination, Leading Aircraftman Al Foreman, of Montreal, retired undefeated lightweight champion of the British Empire, is shown RIGHT, ABOVE, punching the big bag at Rockcliffe prior to remustering from R.C.A.F. photographer to air gunner. It's his ambition to be a tail gunner in a Lancaster bomber. Oshawa Team Here Saturday

Genelecs and Oshawa Colts will play an exhibition game at Riverside Park tonight commencing at 7:00 o'clock. These teams met last Saturday in Oshawa and the Colts shut the Electrics boys out 7-0. The Oshawa squad is made up mainly of the players who won the provincial championship and have a good squad.

Tonight's battle will give the fans a chance to compare the quality of ball in the Motor City and here. The Oshawa team will likely represent that city in the Ontario playdowns.

Girls' Playoffs Start Tuesday

Westclox and Aircraft will start the playoffs for the senior section of the girls' league next Tuesday and fans know what to expect when these two squads tangle. Every game during the regular schedule was hard-fought and close, not more than a couple of runs separating them.

The Clockmakers have two pitchers ready for Tuesday's game, Isobel Bullock and Marg Watson, while the Aircraft will likely pin their hopes on Norma Strickland.

With no game in the men's league booked for that night a bumper crowd should be out for the start of the playoffs.

Battery Meet Genelecs

4th Field Battery will tangle with Genelecs Wednesday night in a sudden-death game for first place in the Men's League. Genelecs polished off the Soldiers and the Battery drew the bye for the series to decide top position in the loop.

Ron Akers turned in the iron man act when he pitched two games on successive nights, tieing the first and winning the second by a one-run margin. Last night's fixture was one of the best of the season, smart fielding and good pitching by both clubs.

The officials of the men's and girls' league decided not to conflict this coming week with playoff dates, giving the fans a chance to see both loops during the playdowns. The following week the girls have no playoffs games, the Aircraft team being on holidays. The men's league will play every night that week.

Big Earl McCready who wrestles John Katan at the Summer Gardens Monday night, will be given a chance at the world's title next Friday night in Toronto.

The National Wrestling Association has ordered Wild Bill Longson to meet McCready or Whipper Watson next week and McCready has been chosen as opponent.

With a chance at the world title McCready will not be able to take any chances with Killer Katan who would like nothing better than to spoil Earl's bid for the world title.

The surrounding card finds Pat Flanagan against the famous House-painter Hogan and Joe Maich tangling with Bunny Dunlop.

Callura Gives Ryan Thrashing

MOBILE, Ala., July 31.—(AP). — Jackie Callura of Hamilton, recognized by the National Boxing Association as world's featherweight champion, knocked out Frankie Ryan, Portland, Ore., fighter, in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round fight here last night.

The champion led the fight from the start and it was obvious that any time. Callura wanted to end things, all he had to do was start punching. He started in the fourth and that's where it ended.

Ryan tried hard to make a scrap of it, and actually outpunched the king in the second heat, but Callura's class stood out in all of the other sessions and he won handily.

Westclox Girls Defeat Aircrafts

The Westclox girls defeated the Aircrafts 7 to 4 in a good tight ball game at the bowl on Friday night. Marg. Watson went the full game for the Clockmakers and kept the ten hits well scattered. Although she got off to a bad start in the first two innings by walking four she held the Aircrafts down for the rest of the game, and came through in the pinches when they threatened in the fifth and ninth innings.

Marg. Selkirk went the first seven innings for the Aircrafters, holding them down to four runs scored mostly on poor support in the field. Weakening in the eighth she was pulled for Irma Strickland who immediately was touched for two hits and a walk which scored three of the runs. She then held the winners down and they failed to get a runner on.

The game opened with an easy home run for the Westclox when Aggie Anderson hit one down the third base line. Bullock walked and scored on Armstrong's hit to give the Westclox a two run lead. Aircrafts came back with one run in the first but the Westclox added one more in the second when Aggie Anderson, up for the second time, tripled, scoring Miss Castle. Aircrafts failed to score again until the fifth when they got their third run. They threatened in the ninth when De Carlo first up singled and Perdue tripled, but both Strickland and Selkirk lifted out flies.

The Westclox got their third run in the fifth when the Aircrafters did some sloppy infield work, and scored three in the eighth on two hits and three walks.

GENELECS NOSE OUT WIN IN SPARKLING TUSSLE AGAINST SOLDIERS

6 to 5 Decision Is Salted Away In Ninth Inning

In one of the best games of the year Genelecs nosed out the Training Centre 6 to 5 in the last half of the ninth innings with two out. Cliff Cadd tripled home Playford who had received the only walk Johnny Walker gave up.

Genelecs now meet the 4th Battery for first place next Wednesday in a sudden-death game and the right to met the Switchgear in the semi-finals and the losers will meet Soldiers.

The fielding features were supplied by Parsons, Giardino, Dalton and Tucker. The hitting honors were divided by Dalton with two doubles and a single, Akers and Holmes with three singles, and Cadd with a triple and single.

Soldiers started of with a run in the first when Dalton hit a double to left and scored on a bad throw by McNabb. Genelecs tied it up in their half on hits by Holmes and Mowry.

Both teams scored a run in the third. Dalton singled and scored when McIlveen hit to left and the catcher dropped a perfect throw from right field. Akers singled, advanced on a fielder's choice and scored on an error.

In the sixth Genelecs went one up when Hawks doubled and Giardino drove him home.

Herrick started off the top half of the seventh with a single and was sacrificed by Sandulak. Walker grounded out. Dalton got his third hit and McIlveen doubled to right field on a hard smash that got away from Holmes and they all scored on a bad throw home.

The Genelecs came back with two in the eighth to sew it up on successive hits by Cadd, Giardino, Akers and an infield out.

In the ninth Hawks threw out Sandulak and Walker was out when his bunt hit him. Dalton singled but McIlveen was thrown out by Giardino.

Genelecs won out in their half. Mowry flied to left. Playford walked and Hawks was robbed of a sure hit when Tommy Parsons cut over in left centre to take his bid for a hit on the best play of the game. Cadd then came through with a long triple to win the game.

Toronto Team Edges Newark 5-4

(By The Associated Press)

Harry Davis, whose forte during his many years in professional baseball has been fancy fielding, lashed out a double with the bases loaded last night to drive in two runs and give Toronto a 5-4 decision over Newark in the opening game of the crucial International League series.

While the loop's heavyweights were content with a single game, the remaining clubs tangled in doubleheaders.

Rochester showed its resentment over Baltimore's charges that Pepper Martin had made a travesty of baseball in Thursday's second game by defeating the Orioles twice, 6-1, and 8-2. Montreal scored two in the 10th frame of the nightcap to gain a split with Syracuse. Royals dropped the first 1-0, and then came back, 4-2.

Jersey City grabbed the first game of its bargain attraction with Buffalo, 4-3, and the two nines were halted at the end of the 10th in the second by the dimout regulations with the score tied at seven each. The deadlock will be played off this afternoon.

Davis, who currently is hitting .270 got his only hit of the night when it counted most.

Successive home runs by Frank Coleman and Jim Ripple kept Toronto in the ball game until Davis came along with his clout.

Close List Early For Lawn Bowling

TORONTO, July 31—(CP)—Officials of the Provincial Lawn Bowling tournament said today that while Aug. 4 is the last day for entries it may be necessary to close the list before that date because of the response.

Already 103 entries have been received and the maximum number has been set at 112.

Among the latest to file entries are: A. A. Langford and James Smith, both of London, Ont., James Little, Kingston, Ont., L. Wood, Ottawa, and H. McLaren and H. Paul of Detroit.

Of the total entry to date, 43 rinks are from outside Toronto, including 13 from United States points. Twenty-four Toronto clubs are represented.

Chicago Cubs Are Threatening Second Place

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Virtually unnoticed, Chicago Cubs have moved into the thick of contention for first division honors in the National League and to-day have an excellent chance of beating out Pittsburg, Brooklyn and Cincinnati for second place.

The Bruins have won 21 of their last 30 games and jumped from last to fifth place, only 2½ games out of the first division.

They beat Brooklyn for the third straight time yesterday, 12-3, as Hi Bithorn chalked up his 13th victory of the season and Outfielder Bill Nicholson took over the major leagues leadership in runs batted in and homers. Nicholson swatted his 15th round-tripper in the third for what proved to be the winning run.

The first pace Cardinals dropped an 11-inning game to the Phillies, 3-2, when Pinch-hitter Jimmy Wasdell singled home Buster Adams. Big Mort Cooper suffered his sixth defeat. He has won 15.

Yanks Down Cleveland.

In the American League New York Yankees made it three out of four and 21 victories in their last 31 games by again beating Cleveland, 5-4. Although belted for two homers, by Jeff Heath, Ernie Bonham yielded only six hits in winning his 10th of the campaign.

Early Wynn stopped a three-game Washington losing streak by hurling a five-hitter against Chicago White Sox to win, 4-1, while Dick Siebert singled home Johnny Welaj in the 11th inning to give Philadelphia Athletics a 3-2 victory over St. Louis Browns. Bobo Newsom started for the Browns, but was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Elmer Riddle hung up his 14th win in pitching Cincinnati to a three-hit 2-0 shutout over Boston Braves in the first game of a twin bill, but Red Barrett duplicated his performance in the nightcap for a 3-0 Boston triumph and a split.

New York Giants blasted over seven runs in the second inning against the Pirates and added five more in the third, but still had to call on relief pitcher Ace Adams in beating Pittsburg, 13-7.

Detroit lost the first game of a double-header to Boston Red Sox, 4-2, and was on the verge of losing the second when, with two out and none on in the ninth, Pitcher Hank Oana started a four-run uprising that led to a 5-2 Tiger victory.

YOU ARE URGED TO VOTE FOR

CAPT. HAROLD R. SCOTT

Progressive Conservative Candidate In Peterborough

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATES IN ONTARIO

24 FARMERS, 30 PROFESSIONALS, 36 BUSINESS AND LABOUR MEN

From all aspects the list of 90 Progressive Conservative candidates is truly remarkable and outstanding.

That nearly one half of them have worn or are wearing the King's uniform may well be a record unsurpassed in the history of political campaigns. In the following list, however, we see them classified as farmers, business and labour or professional men.

Farmers	24
Business and labour	36
Professions	30
	90

Not less remarkable is the balanced representation of all ranks of society and human effort.

Analysis of the candidates' careers justifies this extraordinary observation: If the Progressive Conservative Party made an absolutely clean sweep of the election, winning every seat in the Legislature, every aspect of Ontario life would be well and truly represented.

Each of the candidates has made a success of his own life and work.

George Drew, Leader of the Party, states that never before in the history of Ontario has such an outstanding group offered themselves for public service.

German U-Boat Downs US Blimp

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP).—United States navy blimp was lost at sea recently, the navy department reported today, after being damaged in an extraordinary fight with a surfaced enemy submarine. It was the first American airship ever reported so destroyed.

Only one man of the crew, which ordinarily numbers seven enlisted men and four officer-pilots, was lost.

What eventually happened to the submarine the navy did not say, although if American craft were close enough to rescue the men from the airship they probably were close enough to attack the submarine.

PeachCropDown 67 Per Cent

OTTAWA, July 31—(CP). — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics report that the first estimates of the 1943 tree fruit and grape crops indicate a "big drop" in total production from last season.

"Although the apple crop in Nova Scotia is 23 per cent, larger than a year ago, reductions ranging from 2 per cent. in New Brunswick to 29 per cent. in British Columbia bring the Canadian total to 3,951,000 barrels, compared with 4,330,900 barrels in 1942," said the bureau.

The pear crop also is "substantially smaller," estimated at 475,200 bushels compared with 752,900 bushels. The decline occurred in all three producing provinces: Nova Scotia, Ontario and British Columbia.

Outlook for the plum and prune crop is the "brightest of any of the fruits" and is only slightly off from last year at 355,800 bushels. The 1942 crop was estimated at 365,500 bushels.

Peach production this season shows a drop of 67 per cent. and is estimated at 647,900 bushels, compared with 1,939,200 bushels in 1942. The reduction occurred in both Ontario and British Columbia where declines of 68 per cent. and 59 per cent. respectively are indicated.

Apricots, produced commercially only in British Columbia, are off substantially at 15,700 bushels, compared with 81,300 bushels last season.

The cherry output is also much below that of a year ago. Estimated at 189,600 bushels, the crop is 46 per cent. smaller than the 1942 harvest of 348,500 bushels.

Although outlook for the grape crops is 22 per cent. below the record harvest of 1942, the current estimate of 58,357,000 pounds is 32 per cent. larger than the five-year average 1936-40 of 44,319,300 pounds.

Officer Claims 3 Fires Started

LINDSAY, July 31—Louis Hadwin, 17, adopted son of L. V. Hadwin, Toronto, appeared in Magistrate E. A. Gee's court Friday charged with arson in connection with three fires at the Onondaga Boys' Camp at Bob Lake, near Minden.

The youth was remanded for a week on the solicitation of his foster father, in order that an examination may be held.

According to information the accused, who was arrested by Provincial Constable Hendren, of Minden, is alleged to have set fire to an automobile when the interior was gutted, as well as having set fire to the little theatre on one occasion and the curtains of the theatre on another occasion. It is estimated that the damage amounted to over $700.

Huns Revive Russian Bogey

LONDON, July 31—(CP)—German propagandists, apparently anxious lest Mussolini's fall has resulted in growing agitation in the Balkans against Axis alliances, has revived the line that an Allied victory will result in Soviet control of the continent.

The Berlin radio quoted Propaganda Minister Goebbels as saying in his latest article in Das Reich that "the decisive question for Europe is German or Soviet."

He assailed the Britons and Americans for attempting to destory "the political and economic unity" of Europe.

The Moscow radio said today that Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania, was planning cabinet changes to bring in opposition party members.

It also said that the appointment of Jeno von Ghyczy as Hungarian foreign minister created a sensation in Hungary and that he had been visited by prominent opponents of collaboration with Germany who had urged him to make a declaration opposing the pro-German policy of Premier Nocolas Kallay's government.

In response to questions at a press conference the Navy Chief agreed that Allied strategy soon might call for major stabs at vital strong points in Japan's Island Empire system. Such points could include the naval base of Truk in the South Pacific, enemy air and naval bases in the Philippines and various defence outposts in the Islands north of Japan, with the fall of which the very heart of the enemy would be exposed to assault and destruction.

Knox made it clear the purposes of the current island-hopping campaigns are to furnish jumping-off places from which crippling attacks can be made.

ror, carried a banner headine saying, "Italy may be out of the war to-morrow."

As British public anger mounted over Premier Badoglio's delay in replying to the Allied peace demands, the possibility was raised he might be induced to step down in favor of someone willing to sue for peace on the basis of terms outlined by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in his message to the Italian people Wednesday. This, it was said, would provide an out for Italy in the event Badoglio had made any "pledges"—as Radio Rome has hinted—to Germany since the downfall of Mussolini last Sunday.

Use Plain Words

"It is time that plain words were addressed to Marshal Badoglio," asserted Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express. "If it is his desire to make peace with the Allies he should hasten to accept the offer of honorable but unconditional capitulation. By delay, by equivocation, by shilly-shallying, he will gain nothing."

A top-off that Britain was expecting an imminent turn in events was given the House of Commons yesterday when Foreign Secretary Eden said the war cabinet had decided against a war debate at present. Mr. Eden added, however:

"Should there be some marked change in the situation—and week-ends do sometimes produce changes in situations in Europe—we would, of course, reconsider our attitude."

Meanwhile, other Italian border dispatches to Berne, Switzerland, reported that tension in Central Italy was mounting as the result of a warning issued by the commander of the Italian 5th Army that there was a possibility of an Allied invasion of Latiu, Tuscany and Umbria. The alert of July 15, declaring a state of emergency in these provinces in the event of an Allied landing, is still in force, he said in a proclamation. Two new classes have also been called to the colors by the Badoglio government, the dispatches said.

Nazis Take Over 5 Submarines

By CHARLES E. FOLTZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

MADRID, July 31 (AP).— New fighting between German and Italian troops in Northern Italy and establishment by the Germans of a guard over five Italian submarines they found at Fiume were reported in massages to Madrid today.

Nazi crews were said to be en route to take over the submarines for use against any Allied landings on the Dalmatian coast.

A methodical Nazi military occupation of the Istrian Peninsula and the whole Udine region from the Gulf of Trieste to the Austrian border was outlined in advices direct from Rome.

The lack of reaction by the Rome Radio to the Nazi movement into Fiume, Trieste and other Italian points yesterday was reported due to the German argument that so long as Italy remains in the war it was merely peaceful co-operation "between allies."

Balkan reports received at this neutral capital said Dalmation guerillas in Italy's service, adversely regarding the Nazi occupation of the land bridge atop the Adriatic, had opened negoiations with Italian divisions in Northern Dalmatia to leave their arms with them upon withdrawal.

It appeared the Germans might be bent on occupying all the territory north of the Po River which they consider necessary to their defence plans.

First reports of the fighting indicated sporadic resistance was being offered by some Italian troops, who apparently shared the people's conviction that peace with the Allies is not far off.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

AIRMAN MISSING

Sgt. John Kenneth Wood, R.C.A.F., is reported missing after air operations overseas. His father is F. J. Wood of Sterling.

DIET ACCESSORIES

The gardeners' market was bulging with vegetables this morning heaps of carrots, beets, onions, and all the rest of the good things including cauliflowers.

ACTOR BUYS HOUSE.

Captain Young, Warner Bros.' film star who impersonates President Roosevelt on the screen and who appeared recently in "Yankee Doodle Dandy," has bought the Pearce residence in Norwood.

LARGE INCREASE

The bank clearings for the month of July shew a figure considerably in excess of that for July 1942. During this month the bank clearings were $3,999,548 and those of a year ago were $3,432,615.

A SOLDIER'S HOBBY.

A beautiful flower garden that is causing considerable comment is the one that Staff Sgt. A. A. Akerman at the No. 32 Basic Training Centre Military Hospital, assisted by the staff, has cultivated as his pet hobby. It is quite large and boasts a hedge of red cedar. Just inside the hedge he has arranged four small round beds and used petunias and white and blue alyssiums as a border. In the centre are blooming African marigolds and red salvia and flanking the hospital are delphiniums, phlox and gaillardia and as a border for this bed he has blue lobelia and white and purple alyssium. There are also a number of annuals such as zinnias, snapdragons, salphiisglosia and petunias. In all, it is a sight worth seeing.

FIVE-DAY SENTENCE

Magistrate Gee this morning sentenced Albert Woodcock to five days in jail for theft of a wrist watch from Campbell and Best's store, the period to begin July 29. That provided for the release of Woodcock on the holiday.

GETS NEW SHIRT

Ejected last night from the De Luxe restaurant, John D. Simpson and Herbert McDonald returned to continue the disturbance they had begun. In the second stage Jim Hum's shirt was torn and the two men were fined in police court this morning, Simpson $9, including $3 for a new shirt, and McDonald $5.

FIRE REPORT.

A false alarm was turned in on Friday at 1:15 p.m. from Box 7 at the corner of Dalhousie and George Streets. This is the second such alarm the fire department has answered this week from that particular box, and the third false alarm during the week. At 1 p.m. a fire was reported in the rear of the home of Kenneth Brook, 301 Louis Street, caused by children who set fire to a heap of rubbish. No damage was incurred.

WARNING TO PARENTS.

Parents are warned to make their children understand that when swimming at Inverlea Beach, they should not try to swim towards the pillars of the bridge, in fact, if they are not strong swimmers, they should stay close to shore. Alonso Coughin, the guard at Inverea, has advised that the level of the water fluctuates and the current is tricky. In one day recently, he pulled out four children who were having difficulty. Several other narrow escapes from drowning have been reported at this point.

BLUE SAILORS ABOUT

Somebody should tell the 'blue sailors' to 'pipe down' a bit or they are likely to attract the attention of the harvesters of the Board of Works, the sickle and scythe men, and get their heads cut off. The blue sailors are the bloom of the wild chicory which grows on some of the city streets. They are a beautiful color, and seemingly they are not noticed until they come into flower, and then the Parsons' crew are sent out to liquidate the sailors, and there's nothing you can do about it because after all they are only a weed with a touch of class.

Report Huckleberries Cheaper At Market

Huckleberries on the market this morning sold at 30 cents a quart or $3 for a large basket apparently of eleven pounds content.

Butter was 40 cents. Chickens were 35 and 37 cents with a supply for the holiday week-end that looked larger than usual. Eggs sold at 37 to 45 cents. Raspberries were 35 cents a quart box or 20 cents for pints. Norman Moncrief said that next week will probably see the last of the crop.

Potatoes were plentiful on the market today and were priced at 45 to 55 cents a peck or $2.25 up to $2.50 a bag. Home grown tomatoes were selling at 2 pounds for 25 cents.

Aquarium Show To Give Aid To War Victims

An event that will be entirely new to this city will take place in the market hall on Wednesday, August 11, at which time the Peterborough Aquarium Society in uniting with the Eastern Ontario Gladiolus Society to stage an exhibition and show which should prove very interesting indeed, with the entire net proceeds coming to the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund.

As secretary of the fund, the writer was given a preview of what might be expected in the showing of aquariums at the residence of C N Bacon, president of the Aquarium Society, which proved to be intensely interesting and about which one could write much more than can appear just now.

One's attention is immediately attracted to the variety of tropical fish by name of Pterophyllum Scalare or Angel Fish (it looks far removed from what one would expect with a John Henry of that kind) being shaped almost like a triangle, with fins much larger than its tail and has two long spikes sticking out in front, typical of an old man whiskers of by-gone days (with apologies to said old men), and originates in the Amazon Basin.

Marine Freaks

Then from India there are the Barbus Sonchonius, the Clown Barb and the species called Gourami, a fish which is an air breather, the male species makes a net of air bubbles in which the female lays the spawn, over which the male then stands guard even against his own mate, allowing none to come near or endanger the life of the offspring.

From Mexcio there is the Moon Fish and the Black Mollunisia, whose habitant is the brackish water in the Gulf of Mexico, and other varieties include the Red Helleri, sword fish (the sword grows out of the tail), which is also to be found in other different colors.

A community tank was also shown containing a variety of all types of tropical fish, wherein the necessity for changing water was obviated through the tropical plant life which supplied the necessary oxygen for the water.

Another feature of interest was the Corydoras Aeneus or scavenger fish, which takes care of food falling to the bottom of the tank, and the Red Rumshorn Snail and Mystery Snail who purify the water and eat all the dead plant life and surplus food, and are very partial to a piece of lettuce leaf on which they thrive extensively.

Summing up, the tickets of admission are worth a view of this alone, without the added features of the Gladiolus Show in which everyone is free to enter without charge, and the five good prizes which have been donated by the Peterborough Fuel and Transfer Co. Ltd., the Brinton-Peterborough Co. Ltd., Cripps Studio, T. F. Doughty and H. S. Routley China Shop, which will be drawn for on the night of the event itself by His Worship Mayor Hamilton. These tickets may be procured at 25 cents each or five for $1 from any member of either socities or at the Examiner Office, the N. T. Routley Store at Park and Brock, the Peterborough Pet Stock Store, N. S. Routley, China Store, and Welch's Barber Shop.

Penny Boxes Help

Two collections were made, both of which proved above the average with the one at the Silvermoon Grill being made up to $5 by Henry Young, its proprietor, and the box at the Utilities Office yielded $4.30 when collected on Friday morning.

Two very little fellows, Ronnie Willis and Harold Boomer made a contribution of twenty-six cents, which probably would feel like a million to ones of such young age, and like the widow of old who gave her mite and was credited with giving more than all the rest, because it was her all, these young boys deserve a full meed of praise.

Fighting In Sicily

Capt. Samuel G. Mackness, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mackness, 223 Princess Street, who has been serving with the Royal Canadian Regiment for the past 12 years, is in Sicily and his regiment helped open the way to Leonforte where the Canadians had a stiff battle. He has been overseas since 1939.

Weary Barbers Make History; Take Holidays

Believe it or not, Jack Smith and Harold Freeman, proprietors of the barber shop on Simcoe street, are going to shut up shop on Aug. 8 and take a week's vacation.

So what? you say. What's all the racket about? People are going off on vacations every day, and everybody gets at least two weeks' holidays each year.

Ah, but not Smith and Freeman, or the barber profession generally. This is different.

Since they opened their barber shop nearly 24 years ago Mr. Smith and Mr. Freeman have not closed their doors once except in case of illness or on city holidays. Morning, afternoon and evening you could count on finding them there, ready to shave your beard or cut your hair.

The very notion of their shutting down and going on a real vacation was so unusual that they thought it the better part of wisdom to consult their regular customers and get their reactions. All customers canvassed expressed hearty agreement and placed their blessings on the project.

So it's settled and the shop will close down. To make the most of their time they will most likely spend a day here and a day there and a little while up in the lake district.

They're getting away from it all, from the tiresome job of standing on their feet all day and listening sympathetically to the woes of different customers. They will be able to sit down, relax and let themselves go.

Other barbers in the city have taken note of this precedent-shattering decision, and it is said that some of them, too, may follow the example set by Mr. Smith and Mr. Freeman.

Increase Noted In Grain Crop

Estimates of the local grain crop have advanced to fifteen per cent higher than they were a month ago, according to the observations of R. M. Pierson of Co-Op Services and to the reports that funnel through its mill.

"Some timely rains helped materially," Mr. Pierson said, "but I feel we are going to need a great deal of western grain in the district. Farmers have begun buying again, and are taking advantage of the government's $1.80 a ton bonus."

Comments indicate a heavy seeding of fall wheat and may be of interest that potash for fertilizer has been limited to 72 per cent of the usual quantity. However, there is an abundance of nitrogen and sulphuric acid.

Opinons following the grain crop suggest gloomily that milk will be scarce next winter and a lot of hogs killed because of insufficient feed. It is for that reason farmers have been urged for months by Frank Patterson to put in their grain orders early. Many have done so, and after a decline in buying farmers have come into the market again.

Hands Across The Sea

LONDON, July 31—(CP)—It all started when Mrs. Mabel Fells, London public school teacher, invited an Australian airman, train nearby, to give her class a firsthand account of life "down under." He suggested the class coincided with a Grade VII class in a certain Australian school. Now Mrs. Fells' pupils are busy exchanging letters with their Aussie counterparts.

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 31, 1918—Fierce hand to hand fighting by Americans in surrounding Seringes and positions to the south-east with strong artillery action on the whole front; 26 enemy planes downed by the British. Von Eichhorn, German military dictator, assasinated at Kiev.

AUGUST 1, 1918 — British and French advanced north of Ourcq, reaching Cramoiselle and Cramaille, and occupying Clerges and Meuniere Wood. Officially stated German losses July 15 to July 31 totalled 33,400 prisoners.

August 2, 1918— French troops captured Soissons and Ville-en-Tardenois; Germans in full retreat in the salient south of the Aisne, and enemy line from Hartennes to Soissones completely rolled up. British and French naval and military units landed at Archangel.

Poultry Flocks Show Increase

Flocks of hens have increased in the Peterborough area faster and in larger volume than in any other section of the province in the last few years.

Nearly all the farmers and others who used to keep one hundred hens have now up to three hundred, and the chicken population in this district is high.

For that reason it is expected that the Peterborough section itself will be largely represented at the district poultry meeting here on August 18. The program for this all day event, designed to help poultry keepers to produce better chickens and eggs, was reviewed at a meeting last night

A demonstration of the killing and grading of live fowl will be a practical feature of the afternoon. E. D. Bonnyman of Ottawa, will take charge of this instructional display.

Coughs Up Nickel

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 31—(AP)—Mrs. Stella Nowicki called the fire department when her two-year-old son, William Paul, swallowed a nickel. Then for good measure she grabbed her son by the heels, turned him upside down and shook. The nickel clattered on the floor before firemen arrived.

Farmer Wins Bicycle At Lions Carnival

D. Logan, a farmer living on R.R. 3 solved the transportation problem by purchasing two Lions Club Carnival draw tickets for 25c, and his investment took material form as he was named winner of the bicycle on Friday evening.

His Honor Judge Sheldon S. Smoke made the draw and Stanley Darling, immediate past president presided and thanked the huge crowd for the fine cooperation already given the club during the two nights. The Carnival continues tonight when the five major prizes will be drawn for as follows: Peterborough canoe and paddles, ton of coal, mantel clock, set of silverware, and a set of dishes.

Other prize winners on Friday evening, were C. M. Osborne, 716 Stormont street, won the cedar chest; Joe Watson, 257 Dalhousie street won the split bamboo casting rod, valued at $25.00; M. Lawrence, 492 George street, north, won the wrist watch, and the satin bedspread went to Louis Yeotes.

The pony rides are extremely popular and the customers, deprived for the most part of winning canned goods, have no complaint with the eggs and cheese, eggs and bacon, fresh vegetables, and the four pound chickens which are being used as prizes in the wheel booths. Last night's run on the refreshment booth set new records, and if good weather prevails for Saturday night, the Lions should be able to mark up the finest carnival in the history of the club.

Kirby Promises 10 Point Plan

TORONTO, July 31 (CP)— Hon. Harold Kirby, Ontario Health Minister, said last night in a radio address over a Toronto station (CFRB) he will do "everything in my power" to promote a 10-point health program if elected in Wednesday's provincial election.

He said the 10 points are:—

1. A general health educational program; 2. A campaign of tuberculosis prevention; 3. Special health and dental attention for children; 4. An "even more intensified fight" against venereal disease, including stricter enforcement of new legislation, wider measures for treatment and a comprehensive plan of education for prevent; 5. Continuance of the fight against communicable diseases, coupled with efforts to attain "new low records of sickness and death from preventable disease." 6. Provincial support in health insurance "if and when" introduced by the Federal government; 7. Extension of Ontario's mental hospital program after the war; 8. Utilization of the services of "our best physicians and chemists" in an effort to find a cure for cancer; 9. Development of health services in industrial plants; 10. Continuance of the infant and maternal care program in "cities and towns and rural areas alike."

Crowds Demand Bulgarian Peace

NEW YORK, July 31 (CP)—The BBC reported today that unrest is mounting in Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, where "the reinforced Gestapo no longer has the situation under control." The broadcast, recorded here by CBS, said demonstrating crowds had beaten the leader of the Bulgarian Fascist movement.

The Bulgarian parliament was the scene of a violent debate last night, the broadcast said, with deputies attacking the "dictatorial policy" of the Philoff regime and demanding peace.

It continued:

"Sofia is at a state of panic, and a revolution is expected from day to day....Sofia streets are filled with a feverish crowd and slogans are pasted on all walls, exhorting Bulgarians to follow Italy's example."

Italy Is Shelled

NEW YORK, July 31 (CP)—The BBC said in an overseas broadcast today that correspondents in Sicily reported British cruisers and destroyers shelled the Italian mainland yesterday without opposition.

The broadcast added:

"Their objective was a stretch of railway skirting the shore south of Crotone along which are some bridges."

It was the third time that British warships have shelled the Italian mainland.

Smothered To Death

SAN FRANSICO, July 31 — (AP).—Buried in the collapse of a backyard cave while playing, Stephen Floyd George ,Jr., 13, known to radio audiences for his roles of "Roy Manners" and "Little Lord Fauntleroy" in the Hawthorne House program series, was smothered to death.

Returned

Field Marshal Smuts whose coalition government received a clear majority in the South African general election when counting votes began, indicating a landslide in favor of the man who has kept South Africa in the war with the Empire.

SEVEN BIG REASONS WHY ALEX. ELLIOTT SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED

NO. 1
Saved Peterborough $1,152,977.14

Through Municipal Subsidities of one mill, which directly went to reduce your tax rate; through the assuming of costs of Provincial Highways which in Peterborough alone amounted to $448,430.30; through assuming the municipalities share of 50 per cent of cost of Mothers' Allowances, saving Peterborough $207,209.00; through the assuming of the municipalities' share of old age pensions, amounting to $111,156; through the maintainance of indigent patients in sanatoria, amounting to $109,929. through assuming the entire cost of the Pensions for the Blind; through increasing township and county road subsidities and more than doubling grants made to rural schools.

No. 2
Aid To The Farmer

Ontario farmers have been paid more than $7,000,000. in cheese and hog bonuses, of which Peterborough farmers received $87,865.00; a bonus of two cents a pound has been paid on wool, added to which is a further two cent bonus paid by the Federal Government; interest rate on government farm loans was reduced from five to four percent; as an aid to marketing farm products, and to ensuring better prices, The Farm Products Control Act was passed, providing collective bargaining in the sale of farm products; coloured gasoline for use in farm tractors has been made tax free; a subsidy is paid, to cover freight charges, on all Western grain coming to Ontario, so that farmers can buy it free of freight costs; hydro rural services have been doubled, and rural hydro lines bonused to the extent of $10,400,000.

No. 3
Rights Of Labor

The Collective Bargaining Act, passed by the Liberal Government, is recognized as the finest legislation of its type in America, and has been hailed by the American Federation of Labor "as a highly favorable Act, meriting the support of Labor Unions"; workers' wages have been protected by not permitting garnishee proceedings before judgment; Ontario was the first Canadian Province to appoint a staff of conciliation officers, and to mediate between employer and employee in industrial disputes, which work has proved highly successful; Industrial Standards Act was passed, making provision for negotiation of wages and hours of labor, this has resulted in an increase in wage levels, in many of Ontario's most important industries.

No. 4
Public Health

Conservative and C.C.F. speakers have cast a slur on the mothers and youth of this province. One would think that our mothers could not bare physically fit children and the youth were an anaemic lot, but statistics show of a group of 50,000 young men taken at random and examined for military service only 13 per cent were in category E which is below physical requirements for military service. The death rate from tuberculosis, in 1942, was the lowest of any province in Canada and showed a decrease of 24.5 per cent in five years; travelling chest clinics offer free service to every citizen of the Province; cancer foundation has been established with an initial fund of $500,000; medical and dental inspections in schools provided for; five million dollars more per year is being spent, than ten years ago in the conservation of health of the citizens of Ontario.

No. 5
Financial Record

At the outbreak of war, the Liberal Administration promised, that there would be no new taxes imposed during the war—Liberal Promises are always kept — the government has had surpluses of ordinary revenue over expenditure in every year since 1936, with the exception of 1940, when there was heavy unforseen war expenditures; the ordinary surplus was over $16,000,000 in 1943, the greatest in Ontario's history; no borrowing has been necessary since the outbreak of war; the Government subscribed $5,000,000 from its sinking fund to the Fourth Victory Loan; 36 municipalities were in default in 1934 now all are restablished.

No. 6
Our Candidate

Alex Elliott our candidate wanted to serve this riding and has served it well, so well, that not one word of criticism has been offered by C.C.F. or Conservatives; he had highway 28 to Bancroft completed; he secured a fish hatchery for this county; he sponsored a private bill which now permits city trust surpluses to be used to reduce tax rates, this has meant a saving of $59,893.10 to Peterborough City ratepayers; he obtained annual grants to construct and maintain roads into new mining sites; he secured grants, for barely passable roads, in Galway, Cavendish, Chandos and Methuen; HE HAS NEITHER FAILED YOU IN PEACE OR WAR. DO NOT FAIL HIM NOW.

No. 7
He Can Speak For Boys In Services

Alex Elliott is with the boys overseas, and while he may miss one session of the Legislature, what better spokesman could they have when they return? He knows their problems and the fears that beset them, he knows what they are hoping for and what kind of a world they wish to see when the war is over. What finer gift can the citizens of Peterborough give the boys and girls when they return, than to say, we have not forgotten you in your absence, we have given our confidence to one of you, — you have a powerful voice in the Legislature in one of your own number, Alex Elliott.

Here Are 7 More Good Reasons Why
ALEX. ELLIOTT
The Liberal Candidate In Peterborough MUST Be Re-elected

1. Because the Liberal party is the only one which has a plan prepared for post-war effort and this plan for Peterborough district is already completed.

2. Because Mothers' Allowances and Old Age Pensions have been increased.

Orlando Given 4-Year Term Fined $2,000 Too

DETROIT, July 31. — (AP)— James V. Orlando, Detroit Red Wing hockey player, was convicted by a Federal Court jury late yesterday of violating the Selective Service Act, and was sentenced to four years in prison and fined $2,000.

Judge Edward J. Moinet pronounced sentence immediately after the jury of nine women and three men reported it had found the star defenseman, whose home is at Montreal, guilty on two counts of the indictment against him. Orlando was sentenced to four years on each count, but the sentences will run concurrently.

The jury deliberated less than three hours.

John R. Watkins, Orlando's attorney, indicated he would appeal the conviction, and Orlando's bond of $2,000 was continued pending a hearing Monday.

The two counts on which the 27-year-old athlete was convicted had to do with submission to his draft board of false letters from Montreal engineering firms, alleging that he had been employed by them as a machinist or mechanic in the years 1934-38.

A 2-B draft deferment had been granted the hooke star as an essential worker at the Lincoln Tool and Die Company, a Detroit war plant.

Orlando pleaded that his employers—not he—submitted the letters to his draft board, but that he sought and obtained them only to be used as references in obtaining his job at the Lincoln plant. Representatives of the Canadian firms testified that they could find no record that the hockey player ever had been employed there.

The jury found him not guilty on another count of the indictment, charging failure to notify his draft board of a transfer from machine work to office work at the Lincoln comany.

Orlando, who held the war-plant job in addition to his hockey duties, had been with the Red Wings for six years. Known throughout the league as a "bad man" of the ice because of his rugged, aggressive play) he spent a total of 109 minutes in the penalty box during the 1942-43 season.

American Teams Threaten Argos

PORT DALHOUSIE, July 31. — (CP)—Canadian and United States oarsmen today went into the last day of the 61st annual regatta of the Royal Canadian Henley with Toronto Argos' championship crown perched rather precariously.

After two days of rowing and sculling Argos led the pack with 27 points but they were closely followed by Ecorse, Mich., entrants with 25 and Hamilton Leanders with 20. Buffalo West Wide oarsmen still were in contention with 18.

Eight point-scoring events are scheduled for today with the senior singles and the senior eight-oared races featuring the closing program of Henley's annual three-day meet. Theo Dubois of Ottawa will not be here to defend his singles crown while the Ecorse Sweep oarsmen are favored to repeat their last year's victory in the meet's major big boat race.

The Ecorse boatmen, coached by the veteran Jim Rice, got into championship contention through three victories yesterday. Eighteen-year-old Harvey Kromrei took the junior singles in a row-over when opposition failed to appear at the starting line and then with his younger brother, Ervin, won the junior doubles.

Ecorse's big victory of the day came late in the afternoon when Russell Reynolds won the Association singles by less than a length from Al Walker of the Belleville, N.J., Nereids. Both were in a state of collapse at the finish.

A veteran sweep oarsman, Claude Saunders from Hamilton, finished third.

Hamilton's other points came from victories in the junior eights and the 145-pound junior eights, five of the Mountain City boys taking places in both winning boatloads.

Argos, on top at the conclusion of Thursday's events with 11 points, added 16 yesterday through victories in the junior 145-pound fours and the junior fours.

TORONTO, July 31 (CP)—Strong men wept and sports editors loosed a collective sigh at word that Miss Bobbie Rosenfeld of the Toronto Globe and Mail would act as umpire at the National Baseball Congress in Toronto. Appropriately, the most tender words of sympathy came from H. A. Cole of the Guelph Mercury, who says he had worked as "one of the blind men in blue" himself.

Cole pictures the reaction of the team at bat after a close decision in its favor: "We can . . . conjure up the picture of the team arising in a body from its dugout, clapping its collective hands and yelling, 'Goody, goody, goody.'"

But it's going to be tough, Cole says, for the other team to suppress its emotions without risking Freudian complications. He can't imagine a "tobacco-chewing infielder" trampling the toes of the feminine ump, then "bursting out with a series of inquiries as to the state of (a) her eyesight (b) her ancestry (c) her knowledge of the game and (d) her honesty."

Halcyon Days

Memories came crowding back in Winnipeg when it was learned Eddie Herr had died in St. Louis at 71. Herr managed the Maroons of that city in 1907-8 and Maurice (Winnipeg Free Press) Smith says the Northern Copper Country League club was one of the greatest baseball teams which ever represented Winnipeg in professional ball. In 1907 Maroons won 70 and lost 27 in competition against Calumet and Houghton, Mich., and Duluth, Minn. The punch-line is that Maroons won every series, setting what Francis C. Richter of the old sporting life publication of Philadelphia characterized as a world record for organized baseball. "As far as is known in this office the record still exists to this day," says Smith.

Thoroughbreds Don't Cry

Racing had too strong a hold on Johnny Williams and the Hamilton, Ont., sportsman has returned to the game as a trainer after 16 years. Johnny was tossed from Troutlet in the Clarendon Plate at Thorncliffe in 1926, suffering injuries which caused his retirement from the saddle. Along came Frank Horn to pilot Troutlet to victory and again in 1927 in the rich King's Plate. But Johnny feels more than compensated for that misfortune by the thrill he derived from riding his first winner, Joy Smoke, in a maiden race. Joy Smoke clicked at better than 5-1 and Johnny bought a home in Hamilton with his slice of the "melon."

Here and There in Sport

The training of youths for sport should begin now because the present generation is at war. This was the message which Paavo Nurmi, record-breaking runner of a decade ago, sent to the United States from Helsinki, Finland, with a tribute for Gundar Haegg of Sweden whom he described as the best all-round runner of the present era.

Nurmi, however, declared that the greatest runner of all time was the Englishman, W. G. George, whose record of 4:12.6 stood for half a century. The Finnish Olympic winner was confident some runner would reach the four-minute goal for the distance but added that Americans could not reach this mark during college competition because of training methods which did not include hill-and-dale running to toughen themselves. The long-distance runner did not reach his peak until he was 25 to 27 years old, he added. Nurmi advocated an organized program for youth training.
